Tour Of Cambodia By Haig

SAN CLEMENTE (UPI) — President Nixon Saturday ordered one of his top military-political troubleshooters, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., to visit S,utheast Asia for a first-hand assessment of the deteriorating situation in Cambodia.

Haig's trip was announced less than a week after Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu had warned of "appropriately vigorous reactions" if the Communists continued to violate the Jan. 28 cease-fire agreement in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

The White House press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said Haig would leave later Saturday after a meeting with Nixon and his national security advisor, Henry A. Kissinger, at the Western White House in San Clemente.

In the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, military sources said that U.S. Air Force cargo planes had begun airlifting ammunition and other war materials into Cambodia. A Communist blockade has closed off all normal supply routes.

Haig, now Army vice chief of staff, was Kissinger's deputy during the first four years of the Nixon administration. This trip will be his 12th to the war zone. He last visited the area Jan. 14-21, just before the cease-fire agreement was signed.

Ziegler said Haig's purpose was to assess the military and political situation throughout Southeast Asia. But it appeared that his meeting in Phnom Penh with Cambodian Prsident Lon Nol would be the most important stop.

Ziegler said Haig will first visit Bangkok, Thailand, then Vietiene, Phnom Penh and Saigon. He will return to Washington next Thursday.

Ziegler said Haig's trip "should not suggest that the United States is anticipating the reintroduction of forces" into Southeast Asia,

Asked if he could rule out any possible return of American troops to Indochina, Ziegler responded that the United States has "no intention, no plans and no desires to reintroduce

Two Peace Mission Helicopters Missing

Fate Of U.S. Crews, Passengers Unknown

SAIGON (UPI) — Two helicopters carrying about 16 members of the Vietnam peacekeeping forces, a delegation of Communists and American crewmen disappeared over Communist-held territory in South Vietnam today and have been listed as missing, International Commission for Control and Supervision sources said. The fate of the passengers and crew was not known.

The helicopters were ferrying members of the International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS) to Lao Bao, a Communist controlled village on the South Vietnamese Laotian border which had been designated by the Communists as a port of entry for replacement of war materials.

One of the helicopters were believed to have been shot down.

"I am hit; I am going down," a crewman radioed in English.

It was the last communication with either of the two helicopters, the source said. It was believed the second helicopter may have gone to the aid of the other.

A Communist source said earlier the crew and passengers of one helicopter were "rescued." But this source gave no details and made no mention of the fate of those aboard the other helicopter.

It was the first reported shooting down of an ICCS helicopter.

Sources close to the ICCS said the two helicopters took off from Phu Bai, just south of Hue, early Saturday bound for Lao Bao, about 31 miles to the northwest. Because of its listing as one of three ports of entry by the Communists, the ICCS was to station a team there to monitor the incoming supplies.

Lao Bao is just south of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and only about six miles west of Khe Sanh, a former American Marine base now occupied by the Communists. The team en route there was to check on construction of facilities to house the ICCS observers.

The sources said the helicopters carried represenatives

Meat Boycott Will End Tonight; A Pledge Made

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The national boycott on meat officially ends at midnight, but many consumer groups indicated they will continue at least a partial boycott throughout the month even though there has been no general drop in retail prices.

Boycott leaders said they would meet in Washington Wednesday to decide whether to continue the protest.

Boycott groups from Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine met in Woburn, Mass., Friday and formed a coalition to continue the meat protest with reduced purchases of meat the remainder of April, and another full-scale boycott the first week of May. In Louisville, Ky., Mrs. Patty Twyman of "Fight Inflation Together" said her group would keep the boycott going next week and added, "We'll see who can hold out the longest.

In calling together boycott leaders for the Wednesday meeting in Washington, Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., said the housewives' rebellion "has been incredibly successful in terms of numbers participating" but has not succeeded in its objective to roll back prices.

A food store group in Wisconsin announced yesterday that it would lower meat prices next week. James E. Godfrey, chairman of Godfrey Co., which operates Sentry Food Stores, said "practically all our meat items will be sold for less than the ceiling prices." However, he did not specify how much lower prices would be or how long they would remain in effect.

In Dublin, Calif., an executive of Lucky Stores—which includes 400 supermarkets and the nation's seventh largest retailer — said his company would not order beef next week if packers raised wholesale prices to reflect this week's rise in livestock prices.

A spokesman for the Atlanta-based Colonial Stores predicted "a lot of gimmicks" in the next few weeks to entice housewives to buy meat. He said the stores' sales were off about 40 per cent, but said retail prices would remain high until wholesale prices drop.

Sharp increases in chicken prices were reported by two New England firms Friday, the Jim Dandy fried chicken stands and the Food Mart Inc. supermarkets.

In Quincy, Ill., 60 farmers went on a meat-buying spree in support of meat prices as they stand, and bought $7,000 worth of meat.

Because yesterday is a light trading day on livestock markets, there were not enough cattle shipments to establish a price trend for beef-on-the-hoof. However, hog receipts were up substantially from a week ago and prices were uneven, but mostly steady to 50 cents lower.

Envoys Said Big Nixon Contributors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three U.S. ambassadors were reported today to have swelled President Nixon's reelection campaign chest with sizable contributions.

The Washington Star-News said its report was based on bank records which were sealed by a federal judge Friday after being made available briefly to a reporter for the newspaper.

The Star-News said the records of contributions from about two dozen Nixon committees showed that Philadelphia publisher Walter Annenberg, ambassador to Great Britain, gave $250,000; ambassador to Switzerland Shelby Davis, a New York investment broker, gave $50,000 or more; and Washington parking executive Kingdon Gould Jr., formerly ambassador to Luxembourg and now believed in line for the Netherlands embassy, had given about $30,000.

SPIRALING RENT COSTS

More And More Singles Are Taking The Homeowner Route

By FLORENCE MOUCKLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

You are single — so you probably rent an apartment to live in. Yet more and more single people across the United States are not renting these days —they are buying.

Faced with spiraling apartment rents, runaway consumer prices, and a larger tax bite than married people, thousands of single people are plunking down money on houses and condominiums.

"I found myself in a rent bracket where it was cheaper to buy a condominium," says Bostonian Sandy Mulhern, a public-relations professional in her early 30s. "After 10 years of paying rent and nothing to show for it, I decided to build equity in something."

This is the typical attitude of many young "singles" who have decided to buy. Their primary reasons are economic. They say that besides equity, they are looking for an income-tax break, and a good investment that also helps fight inflation

And some, to whom a house sounds too formidable, are going for a condominium.

A single, professional woman in her late 30s who owns a two-bedroom duplex at Glover Landing condominium, a complex of one, two, and three-story units in the seacoast town of Marblehead, Mass., ticks off her reasons for buying rather than renting:

"It's a tax saving. I felt I couldn't live in a nice place unless I bought something. Paying rent was just wasting my money. I wanted to make a good investment — something that had a good resale value. And I bought a condominium because I wasn't sure I wanted to take the responsibility of maintaining the grounds."

The disadvantages: "I have to see to repairs inside the apartment myself, including the appliances."

Figures are few and far between. But according to the 1970 United States census figures the number of one-person homeowners has grown from 2.9 million in 1960 to 4.8 million in 1970.

And Jackson Goss, president of the Investors Mortgate Insurance Co., who has compiled figures from thrift institutions, mortgage bankers, and other lenders, expects that figure to go to "five million-plus in 1973."

Of the two million new and existing homes sold in the United States in 1972, some 2 per cent or 40,000 were bought by singles (unmarried, divorced, or widowed). Seventy-two per cent of the one-person home buyers today are under the age of 30.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. has testified under oath that Martha Mitchell frequently asked him to run security checks at her apartment after she received a telephoned death threat.

McCord, in a pretrial deposition given earlier this week and released yesterday, said his duties also involved escorting the daughter of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell to school because of fears she might be harmed.

McCord's sworn deposition was given in connection with a $6.4 million civil damage suit Democratic party officials filed against President Nixon's reelection campaign, McCord and the six other men convicted of burglarizing and bugging the

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A privately financed report on a widely used food additive claimed today that bacon may be "the most dangerous food in the supermarket" in terms of cancer-causing potential.

The allegation was made by the Center for Science in the Public Interest in a 55-page study of sodium nitrite, a preservative used for hot dogs, hams, fish and a long list of other products in addition to bacon.

The Agriculture Department and the Food and Drug Administration have had the nitrite question under review for some time. Their position is that evidence against the chemical so far does not outweigh the good that it does in preventing growth of bacteria in meat.

The Center is a non-profit organization staffed primarily by scientists who are paid through foundation money and income from sales of various reports published by the center.

The study on sodium nitrite, written by Michael F. Jacobson, who has a PhD in biology, urged the government to ban use of the additive in food.

"Eating a hot dog or strip of bacon now and then will not guarantee cancer," Jacobson said. "However, food made without nitrite is certainly safer than that made with nitrite. I recommend that people stop eating cured meats, particularly bacon, until the threat of nitrosamines is eliminated."

Jacobson said nitrosamines — a combination of nitrites and amines formed sometimes after meat is cured or when it is cooked —are "among the most potent cancer-causing agents yet discovered."

Nitrites are used to preserve color in meat. The sodium part of the formula is salt, a traditional preservative. Amines, an ammonia derivative, occur naturally in foods, beverages and drugs.

The chemical reaction of nitrite and an amine, to produce a nitrosamine, could occur either in a food containing both or in the stomach if both nitrites and amines are eaten at the same time.

Jacobson said one FDA study found that in four different brands of bacon "up to 106 parts per billion of another cancer-causing nitrosamine was discovered. Twice that amount was found in the bacon drippings. The toxic chemical must have formed when the bacon was fried, because uncooked bacon was free of it."

Concentrations of nitrosamines were not nearly so high in other foods as in bacon, he said.

"Fifty-two samples of canned ham and weiners also did not contain nitrosamines," he said. "Thus the worst offender and probably the most dangerous food in the supermarket is bacan."

Sexual Overtones In Triple Slaying

By LARRY MOWELL

The three members of the Schallock family found riddled by shotgun blasts outside their Mill Valley home last month were the victims of misguided homosexual jealousy, the Independent-Journal learned yesterday.

Furthermore, a source close to the murder investigation said, Brent William Bedayan, the former lifeguard charged with the triple slaying, was behaving so strangely two days before the killings that his psychiatrist obtained a court order to force him to undergo further treatment.

Bedayan, 22, apparently thought 19-year-old Daniel Schallock was involved sexually with his younger brother and told his San Rafael psychiatrist, Dr. Joseph P. Gutstadt, in December that he intended to kill Schallock, according to the source.

Reached late this morning, Dr. Gustadt called the report of Bedayan's fixation "inaccurate" and said "the truth will come out at the trial.

"Much of what has already been printed contains a great deal of misinformation," he said. "The publicity has been damaging to everybody concerned.

A report of Bedayan's intention to kill young Schallock is contained in a warrant used to search the accused man's residence, a document on file in Marin Superior Court.

The I-J was informed there was no truth to Bedayan's belief of young Schallock's sexual involvement with Bedayan's brother.

Bedayan's sessions with Gustadt in December — which focused in part on what were described as Bedayan's homosexual hangups — failed to change the young man's feelings, the source said.

Bedayan is said by authorities to have gone to the Schallock home at 217 Summit Avenue March 16, shot Daniel and his parents, Melvin, 61, and Ruth, 56, and set fire to their wood-and-stucco residence. Daniel Schallock, a rock musician, was found nude with a shotgun wound in the groin.

Following the shootings, Gutstadt and Bedayan's father, Torcom, are said to have informed police of the threats and Bedayan was arrested the next day at his home. Police, who found 22 shotgun shells at the Schallock home, discovered a receipt in Bedayan's car indicating he bought shells March 13, it also was learned yesterday.

Bedayan's behavior on the day he reportedly bought the ammunition prompted his mother to contact Gutstadt, according to the source, and the psychiatrist asked court help because he did not think Bedayan would appear voluntarily.

However, Bedayan contacted the doctor March 15, the source said, and the two set a meeting for March 16, the day of the shootings. Bedayan did not keep the appointment.

Mill Valley Police Chief William Walsh has declined to speculate on a motive other than to say Bedayan and young Schallock had "a falling out of some type" that "had been brewing for some time."

Authorities and attorneys have been ordered not to comment on evidence in the case on the theory that pretrial publicity could lead to the trial being moved to another county.

However, reports before the gag rule was imposed indicated the soft-spoken Bedayan had been a friend of young Schallock at one time, but that Bedayan's psychiatric problems had led to his confinement during December at the Community Mental Health Center. He reportedly continued treatment as an outpatient after his release.

Held in marin County Jail without bail, Bedayan is to appear in superior court April 16 for a bail hearing and to plead to a murder indictment returned by the Marin County Grand Jury on March 28.

Jacobson said nitrosamines — a combination of nitrites and amines formed sometimes after meat is cured or when it is cooked —are "among the most potent cancer-causing agents yet discovered."

Nitrites are used to preserve color in meat. The sodium part of the formula is salt, a traditional preservative. Amines, an ammonia derivative, occur naturally in foods, beverages and drugs.

The chemical reaction of nitrite and an amine, to produce a nitrosamine, could occur either in a food containing both or in the stomach if both nitrites and amines are eaten at the same time.

Jacobson said one FDA study found that in four different brands of bacon "up to 106 parts per billion of another cancer-causing nitrosamine was discovered. Twice that amount was found in the bacon drippings. The toxic chemical must have formed when the bacon was fried, because uncooked bacon was free of it."

Concentrations of nitrosamines were not nearly so high in other foods as in bacon, he said.

"Fifty-two samples of canned ham and weiners also did not contain nitrosamines," he said. "Thus the worst offender and probably the most dangerous food in the supermarket is bacan."

U.S. Plane Reported Downed In Cambodia

HONOLULU (UPI) — A U.S. Air Force observation aircraft has been shot down in Cambodia and its pilot killed, the U.S. Pacific Command said today.

The OV10 observation aircraft carried only the pilot when it was shot down Friday in the central portion of the country, said a command spokesman.

Returning POWs Doubt Their Toughness Now

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Psychological pressure and physical torture used by the North Vietnamese broke the will of a large number of prisoners of war, according to statements by former POWs.

The revelations came in a series of talks and news conferences yesterday during which some POWs revealed their surprise at discovering they were not as tough under duress as they had imagined.

In Biloxi, Miss., Brig. Gen. John P. Flynn, the highest ranking officer captured by the North Vietnamese said that "if they asked me to shoot my mother, I probably would have done it."

Air Force Maj. Jay Hess, said at Hill AFB in Utah that while the military code of conduct requires POWs to give only their name, rank and serial number "I think 95 per cent—or even more—of the prisoners gave more than that."

Flynn, who was a colonel when his fighter jet was shot down in 1967 said "The thing that hurt me personally was that after they had tortured me and gotten me to answer a tough question, I came to the realization that I was not as strong as I thought I was.

"Up to this point I had a great deal of confidence in the toughness of John Peter Flynn, and suddenly, I was at the hands of the...(North Vietnamese) and they were making me do what they wanted me to do."

Flynn said the North Vietnamese were "consumate masters at establishing situations which indicate that some men are cooperating..."

A number of former POWs were bitter about colleagues who gave information and at least one indicated he would take some action.

At Fitzsimmons General Hospital in Denver four returnees spoke about two American prisoners of war who collaborated with prison officials. They said the two divulged information that resulted in one man being tortured and a second being thrown into solitary confinement for eight months.

BRIG. GEN. FLYNN
At hands of captors

Army Capt. Richard Anshus, 25, Minneapolis, said he would bring court-martial charges against the men whom he refused to name.

Army CWO Phillip Prather, who appeared at the same news conference with Anshus said he did not break although the North Vietnamese refused him anasthesia while operating on his right leg hoping the pain would make him divulge military secrets.

Prather, of Lamar, Colo., said he was interrogated during surgery. "I was told if I gave them the military information they desired, I would go to the hospital and receive proper care."

He said he refused to give in despite the pain and nine days after his interrogation began he was switched to a Hanoi hospital where surgeons operated, using anasthesia, and saved his leg.

At Scott AFB in Illinois, Capt. William Byrns of Warrenton, Mo., who broadcast a peace message endorsing Sen. George McGovern's presidential bid on Hanoi Radio, told a news conference he said what the North Vietnamese wanted him to say.

"They wanted us to endorse an antiwar idea but they watered it down as much as possible," said Byrns, who was beaten just after his capture but not after he read the peace message.

Mississippi River Continues Rampage

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Workers stepped up sandbagging and evacuation efforts today with more rain predicted for delta areas where the flooding Mississippi River threatened cities it once helped to build.

The crest of the river, a long, flat swirl of muddy water, rushed past Memphis yesterday. The city itself is protected by its high bluffs but the water inundated thousands of acres of northwest Tennessee farmland.

National Guardsmen and Civil Defense workers toiled through the night evacuating residents and sandbagging in Mississippi and Louisiana.

In New Orleans, sandbags were hastily stacked up to protect the French Quarter.

Around Vicksburg, Miss., boats and National Guard trucks droned in the darkness hauling sandbags in and people out.

Flash flood watches were in effect in Mississippi, where officials warned that another 3,000 families may have to flee their homes. More than 5,000 Mississippi homes already have been damaged by the rampaging river.

More than 350,000 acres of northwest Tennessee farmland were underwater in the Memphis area, and 500 families still were unable to return to their homes. The river was receding around Memphis but officials kept a wary eye toward the skies.

Fresh torrents of rain around New Orleans brought new forecasts of higher cresting that would trigger emergency measures. Officials revised their estimates three times, finally saying the river would crest at 18.6 feet in New Orleans April 13. This would be 1.6 feet above flood stage and would cause the Corps of Engineers to open spillways which have not had to be used in 23 years.

About 1,000 persons have been evacuated in Louisiana, most of them northeast of New Orleans along the Atchafalaya River, the Mississippi's main tributary in Louisiana.

One to three inches of new rain were expected in the Mississippi Delta today and officials stepped up sandbagging and evacuation, especially in the lowlands around Vicksburg.

Twenty-seven Mississippi counties have been declared disaster areas and 11 Mississippi deaths have been attributed to the flooding which began in the middle of March.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Smothers Victory

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Tom and Dick Smothers, the popular brother comedy team whose television show was canceled in 1969 when they ran afoul of the network, won a $776,000 judgment against CBS yesterday.

The entertainers had sought $10 million in the breach of contract suit arising from the "Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour." CBS filed a cross complaint demanding $1 million.

After five days of deliberations, the jury rejected the CBS action and awarded the damages to Tom and Dick Smothers.

Health Watchdog

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. William I. Bauer, 48, a Greeley, Colo., internist, today was named director of a new federal agency to monitor the quality of medical care given to needy Medicaid and elderly Medicare patients in hospitals and other institutions.

Congress, contending that such care has not been monitored adequately, set up a review system.

Bauer was named to the $36,000-a-year post as head of the Office of Professional Standards Review in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Newsman Shield

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — The Illinois House passed and sent to the Senate yesterday a bill that would allow newsmen to keep their sources confidential.

The bill applies only to protection of sources and could not be used when a reporter witnessed a crime or an accident, said its sponsor, Rep. John C. Hirschfeld, R-Champaign.

It passed by four votes, and is the first such measure to pass either chamber of the General Assembly.

Pioneer On Target

PASADENA (UPI) — America's Pioneer 11 space probe, streaking toward Jupiter in the second day of its 620-million mile journey, was on target and sending back information today.

The 570-pound Pioneer 11, second of two probes to the largest planet in the solar system, was launched almost flawlessly by an Atlas Centaur rocket from Cape Kennedy Thursday night.

Plea Over Land

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Egypt, Jordan and Syria asked U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim today to take action to prevent Israeli nationals from buying property in occupied Arab territory.

Ambassadors A. Esmat Abdel Meguid of Egypt, Sherif Abdul Hamid Sharaf of Jordan and Haissim Kelani of Syria scheduled a meeting with Waldheim today to press the issue but preceded the meeting with a joint letter that was released today.

The letter asked Waldheim to aid in heading off land purchases reported under consideration by the Israeli cabinet.

Podgorny In Finland

HELSINKI (UPI) — Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny ended a five-day official visit to Finland today and flew back to Moscow.

Podgorny, who arrived here to attend ceremonies marking the 25th anniversary of the Finnish-Russian treaty of friendship and cooperation, met three times with Finnish President Urho Kekkonen and discussed world affairs and relations between the two countries.

Progress Is Reported In A Government For Laos

VIENTIANE (UPI) — Agreement has been reached on the distribution of ministries in the coalition government provided in the Laos cease-fire agreement, a newspaper published by Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma reported yesterday.

According to the report in the Say Kang (Neutral Road) newspaper, agreement was worked out in continuing private talks between Communist Pathet Lao and government negotiators for a 23-member cabinet in which Souvanna's government would retain the key ministeries of defense, interior and finance.

Say Kang, published by Souvanna and his interior minister, Pheng Phongsavan, said the Pathet Lao would get the foreign affairs and information portfolios. It said the two factions would control five ministries each in the new government, according to the provisions of the peace agreement.

Two additional ministeries, justice and post and telephone and telegraph, would be regarded as non-political and awarded to persons not aligned with either side, the Say Kang report said.

No official confirmation of the report was available and Pathet Lao officials declined comment.

Under terms of the agreement signed Feb. 21, the provisional coalition government was to have been formed by March 23. The deadline passed with no ranking Pathet Lao negotiators present in Vientiane, prompting widespread feeling the Communists were delaying at the direction of the North Vietnamese.

Premier Resigns

ANKARA (UPI) — Premier Fereit Melen handed in his government's resignation to new President Fahri Koruturk today, clearing the way for Koruturk to appoint his own cabinet.

Susan Hayward Is Treated For Illness

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actress Susan Hayward is "responding well to treatment" for an undisclosed illness for which she was hospitalized March 26, a spokesman said today.

He said Miss Hayward was first admitted to Cedars of Lebanon Hospital but transferred to another hospital Friday because a flood of flowers and calls to the switchboard created too much publicity.

Seaman Acquitted

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A black crewman from the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk was acquitted yesterday of assault and riot charges in connection with disturbances aboard the vessel last October.

Airman Appren. Pernell Robinson, 21, of Chicago, is the second black to be acquitted in the 21 cases handled so far.

After School Jobs Will Be Viewed

After school jobs for high school students will be discussed at the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at LaTercera School.

Kathy Buccholz, a student at Casa Grande Junior-Senior High School, will discuss the school's employment service. Members will also hear program plans of the Petaluma Concert Association and schedule a date for a candidates night for the June 12 Petaluma election.

Moscone Will Open A Tax-Paid Office

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco, a candidate for the 1974 Democratic nomination for governor, will open a new office in Los Angeles soon at taxpayers' expense, it was reported yesterday.

The Senate Democratic floor leader was granted the office, an administrative assistant and a secretary on a 3-2 party-line vote by the Senate Rules Committee at a closed-door meeting several weeks ago.

It was the first time the floor leader ever had been permitted an office outside his own district.

However, the speaker of the Assembly has had an office in San Francisco and Los Angeles and recently opened a third in San Diego. Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, is also a potential candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

The Rules Committee also granted authority to Senate Republican floor leader Fred Marler of Redding and Senate President pro tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego, to open Los Angeles offices. Marler has refused the offer and Mills said he hasn't decided.

In an interview with the San Jose Mercury, John Jervis, Moscone's administrative assistant in the Capitol, insisted Moscone did not want the Los Angeles office for political purposes.

"Our telephone bill to Los Angeles has been very high and there are people who want to see George in Southern California as a spokesman for Senate Democrats," he said. "It's very inconvenient for them to come up here."

"And it's taking mail three days to arrive from Southern California and another three days to get back," he said, "and George wants to answer his mail faster than that."

Jervis estimated that half of the senator's mail originates in Los Angeles. "I think a lot is generated by George traveling down there, frankly," Jervis said, noting Moscone's schedule of campaign appearances.

"If George weren't running for governor," he conceded, "he wouldn't be spending nearly as much time in Southern California and so there would be a different evaluation of our needs down there."

Heaviest Drinkers: 21-29 Age Bracket

It's time to drop our stereotypes of the alcoholic as a skid row bum in his 40s and realize that the heaviest drinkers are men between 21 and 29, a researcher in alcohol abuse said today.

Don Cahalan, who teaches behaviorial sciences in the University of California's School of Public Health in Berkeley, said the drinking problem among younger people was one of the main facts brought to light through surveys he has made.

Cahalan was one of several speakers at a community workshop on alcohol abuse held today at the College of Marin, sponsored by the Alcohol Information Committee, Marin Association for Mental Health and Marin Community Mental Health Services.

He said his research also has shown that men of lower economic status have more social, health and economic injuries because of drinking. But he thinks that is probably because they have less money to keep themselves out of trouble.

"The poor guy always gets it in the neck," the speaker said.

Cahalan said he found that "many people change their drinking behavior over the year, either by quitting or drinking less."

Most people who overcome alcoholic problems, he said, are of higher socio-economic status.

Cahalan also warned against "destructive competition" for financial support among groups which treat alcohlics because of federal cutbacks of funds or social problems.

The workshop included law enforcement, medical, social service and educational people who were to discuss such topics as ways of dealing with alcoholic abuse in schools, the courts and through medicine and family and social service counseling.

Robber In Tiburon Exits Empty-Handed In A Fall

Police said the man entered the home on Mountain View Road shortly after noon on the guise of using a telephone to locate a friend. Once inside, the man choked the woman occupant and told her he wanted money. Police refused to identify the victim.

The woman told police she led the man in the direction of her purse and then ran toward the front door. Police said the man became confused in the multilevel house, lost his balance in the chase and fell through the plate glass window.

Police said traces of blood were found in the area, but it is not known how badly the robber was cut. A search by Tiburon and Mill Valley police, a bloodhound and a California Highway Patrol helicopter failed to find the man.

He was described as 25 to 30 years old, white, five feet, 11 inches tall, 180 pounds with shoulder length brown hair and a beard. He wore bluejeans and a blue denim shirt.

Man Given A Year In County Jail

Danny Ray Pyles, 24, of Novato, has been sentenced to a suspended term in prison for his part in the robbery of a 79-year-old invalid in San Rafael last year.

In lieu of prison, Pyles was ordered by Judge Henry J. Broderick of Marin Superior Court to serve one year in the Marin County Jail and stay out of trouble during five years of supervised probation.

Pyles was convicted last month by a jury in Broderick's court. The jurors determined he was one of the four men who robbed Ralph D. Hoy of $300 last June 28.

The four visited Hoy, a television repairman, on the pretext of having a set fixed, but instead held a toy pistol to his head, took his cash and knocked him from his wheelchair.

Police traced the car to a San Anselmo address where they arrested Pyles; Paul Brent Caldwell, 25, of Sonoma, and a 13-year-old boy on July 12. Pyles's brother, Leonard, 20, of Pittsburg, was arrested Sept. 10, but fled to the East Coast to avoid prosecution on the robbery charge.

Caldwell stood trial alone and was acquitted.

Pyles also fled, but was captured in Maryland in a car he stole from a San Rafael rental agency. He admitted the car theft and will be sentenced Monday to a term concurrent with the robbery sentence under a plea bargain with Judge David Menary Jr.

from each of the four ICCS nations— Canada, Indonesia, Hungary and Poland—as well as Viet Cong and American crew members.

Capt. Phuong Nam, a press officer for the Viet Cong, said the Canadian and Indonesian delegations told the Communists earlier today that two ICCS aircraft were "lost" enroute to Lao Bao. He said he did not have any other details. But he was checking with his high command.

ICCS teams now are flown by Americans crews under a contract with Air America. They were previously flown by American Army pilots until the last men went home one week ago.

Meanwhile, U.S. Air Force C130 Hercules transport planes have begun airlifting ammunition and war supplies to beseiged government troops defending Phnom Penh and major government strongholds in the outlying provinces, military sources in Cambodia said today.

Walking Tour Only; Other Activities Out

Tomorrow's walking tour of the Schoonmaker property in Sausalito will not include the right to picnic, swim, drink or eat on the property, Ted Schoonmaker, president of the A. G. Schoonmaker Co., said today.

He has invited interested persons to view the property, site of a proposed multimillion-dollar development, along with sketches and plans for the project from noon to 5 p.m.

Schoonmaker said he was forced to issue the statement against picknicking and the like after a leaflet inviting people to a "public beach party" on the land tomorrow was circulated around the community. The leaflet urged people to bring blankets, foods, drink and musical instruments.

He said he did not know who distributed the flyers.

Session Set On Center Plans

The Corte Madera Planning Commission will review proposed changes in the Hahn shopping center plans during its meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in town hall.

The town council has scheduled a full-scale April 16 hearing on changes a citizens' committee and others propose for the controversial plan. The planning commission thus need not hold a full-scale hearing on the changes, Town Mgr. Ronald A. Bartels advised the commission in a memo Wednesday.

Crash Near Sears Point Kills One

An El Cerrito woman was killed and two persons were injured last night in a two-car crash at Highways 37 and 121 near Sears Point Raceway in Sonoma County.

Hazel Olson, 66, was dead on arrival at Sonoma Valley Hospital following the smash-up, which occurred at 9:10 p.m.

The California Highway Patrol said an auto driven by Lloyd P. Darley, 62, of Richmond, crossed Highway 37 into the path of an eastbound auto operated by Nancy Ann Miller, 27, of Dublin.

The Darley car, hit broadside, went off the road, across a ditch and came to rest on the shoulder against a fence, officers said.

The dead woman was a passenger in the Darley auto. Another passenger, Ruth Sikes, 64, of Richmond, was reported in fair condition today at the hospital with fractures of the arm, ribs and pelvis. Darley was reported in good condition with a collapsed lung.

Council In Novato Has Big Slate

The Novato City Council has a busy schedule next week, with three meetings scheduled in the first two days.

Councilmen will continue review of the Novato General Plan map at 8 p.m. Monday at the community house.

At 7:30 a.m. Tuesday the council will meet in a a joint breakfast session with the Novato Sanitary District board at the Alvarado Inn to discuss coordination between the two agencies.

Councilmen then will hold a hearing at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Novato Community House on rezoning 32 acres of the Hanna Ranch, at the future Rowland Boulevard interchange along Highway 101, from industrial to commercial.

The Hann estate views the commercial zoning as the financial key to development of a golf course, motel-convention center, motor coach park and industrial park on the ranch east of Highway 101, south of Novato Creek.

knowledged the quarter-million contribution. Mrs. Ruth L. Farkas, who will succeed Gould in Luxembourg, also has confirmed that she contributed $300,000, mostly after the November election.

The records were sealed after being obtained under subpoena in a suit brought by consumer advocate Ralph Nader. Nader is trying to roll back the milk price floor which he claimed was raised by the administration as the result of political contributions, allowing milk producers to put up their prices.

Hopefuls List Their Events

Candidates in Marin school board races April 17 have announced newly scheduled campaign coffees and public appearances.

They are:

TAMALPAIS UNION HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT — Candidate Elaine Brockbank, 10:30 a.m. Monday, Dr. John McGee home, 54 Winship Avenue, San Anselmo, and 8 p.m. Thursday at the David Freedheim home, 51 Crecienta Lane, Sausalito.

BUY

partnership although only one person's name may appear on the deed, Goss reports, and the majority of these singles buy town houses.

The majority of one-person homeowners buy in metropolitan centers. The heaviest concentration is along the upper East Coast, middle Atlantic states, the entire West Coast, and in rapidly growing cities led by Denver, Phoenix, Orlando, Dallas and Atlanta.

Sam Smullin of the Data Realty Corp. of Brookline, Mass., says that "there is a trend toward singles buying apartments and houses — no question about it. The demand is there from single, young professional people of about 30 to 35."

Single women are also finding it a great deal easier to finance a house than it used to be. "We couldn't get a mortgage 10 years ago," says one woman executive in the publishing field, who joined with a woman friend to try to buy a house.

Finally, she says, they prevailed upon a friend who was the vice-president of a bank in the town where they wanted to purchase the house to get their financing. "Banks, at that time," says this executive, "wouldn't take on single girls."

This woman has no regrets about her decision.

"Now our house has doubled in value, she says. "It's a hedge against inflation. Rent checks are for the birds —what have you got after paying out all that money?" The only factor women must weigh carefully, she says, is whether they want to take on the maintenance and upkeep of a house. But for these two women it was not a problem.

"I don't mind mowing lawns, and I learned how to fix a faucet. These things are not that big a deal," she says. "And we get neighborhood kids to help with outside jobs. In these suburban towns you can get almost anything done if you are willing to pay for it."

And a home means, she continued, "that you can have the place to yourself, you can entertain. . ."

Many men, too, like the lifestyle of living in a house.

Brent Kleihauer, a single man in his early 30s, says he likes working in his yard on weekends and enjoys the friendliness of the people in his neighborhood. He intends to take part in community affairs, and there is the economic advantage.

"I looked at an apartment — a brand new one out on a country road in a new development," he says. "It would have been nice — a balcony in the back facing the woods. But the rent would not have been any lower than my monthly mortgage payments for the house."

Arlene Ippilito, a real-estate agent, says that single people are much more sophisticated now about buying houses for investment.

"I've even sold land to single people for investment. One girl in her 20's wrote out a check just like that."

Young women buying houses and especially condominiums also want "to feel safe, they want protection." In a condominium, she says, the owners "have a say in how the property is run."

For some people there are definite advantages in renting houses and apartments.

For those who want to be able to pick up and move, don't want the responsibility of fixing and maintaining a house or apartment, don't want to tie up a major part of their savings, or like to experiment with different jobs, then homeowning is not the solution.

But if these are not considerations, experts say that buying a sound house or apartment in a location that is not in transition can have these advantages:

Homeowners can reduce heir taxable income since they can claim deductions on the interest they pay on their mortgages and on real estate taxes.

OBITUARIES

Ruth G. Petersen Dies At 77

She was born and reared in Marshall and spent most of her adult life in Petaluma. Mrs. Petersen lived at 15 Post Street.

She was the wife of Ebbie Petersen, who died in 1966. Mrs. Petersen had worked for various poultry producers in the Petaluma area.

She is survived by two daughters, Edna Mae Silva and Dolores Antongnin; two sons, Kenneth Petersen and Clarence Petersen; two sisters, Martha Cowan and Jane Jacobsen; all of Petaluma; two brothers, Harry McDonald of Novato and Jack McDonald of Petaluma; 11 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be held Monday at 11 a.m. at the Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma. Burial will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park. Contributions may be made to the Bay Area Chapter of the Leukemia Society of America, 323 Geary Street, San Francisco, or to any charity.

WILLIAM SOUZA

Mass of Resurrection for William E. Souza, father of Fairfax City Councilman Robert R. Souza, will be celebrated at 9 a.m. Monday at Holy Angels Church in Daly City.

Souza, a native of Sacramento who grew up in San Francisco, died Thursday at a Daly City hospital after an illness of two months. He was 79.

Souza was an avid baseball fan and played with the Twin Peaks Native Sons Parlor team in San Francisco that won the state semi-professional championship in 1912.

About 1915, he went into partnership with radio sportscaster Ernie Smith and formed the Ernie Smith News Co. in San Francisco. He later left the firm to operate his own business, but returned in 1933 and was a periodical truck driver until retiring in 1961.

Souza was the father of 13 children by his first wife, Delpine, who died in 1952. His second wife, Georgia, died last December.

He was a member of the Oldtimers Baseball Association of San Francisco, the San Mateo Elks Lodge and was a retired member of Periodical Drivers Union Local 91.

In addition to Robert Souza, a member of the Fairfax Town Council for the past nine years, he is survived by six other sons, Clarence of Napa, George, William D. and John of San Francisco, Norman and Raymond of Colma; three daughters, Isabel Malianni and Anita O'Toole, both of Daly City, and Frances Newsom of San Francisco; a brother, Jack Souza of Clarkesburg, Sacramento County; 22 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 7 p.m. tomorrow at Duggan's Serra Mortuary in Daly City. Entombment will be at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park. The family requests memorial donations to the American Cancer Society.

GEORGE DIPPLE

Memorial service for George A. Dipple, 58, of San Rafael, will be held Monday at 7 p.m. in Montgomery Chapel at San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo.

Dipple died Thursday at a San Francisco hospital after collapsing on Columbus Avenue. He was commercial art director for the Maxwell Arnold Agency, San Francisco.

Dipple was a native of Pennsylvania and moved to California as a youngster. He and his wife, Betty, had lived in Marin county since 1949.

Dipple was a member of the San Francisco Art Directors Club.

He is also survived by a son, Jeff Dipple; a daughter, Janene Dipple, both of San Rafael; and a granddaughter.

Inurnment will be private. The family prefers contributions to the Heart Fund or San Francisco Theological Seminary.

META JOHNSON

Private funeral for Meta Marie Johnson, 75, of San Rafael, will be held Tuesday at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Mrs. Johnson died Wednesday at a local hospital after a short illness. She was born in Denmark and moved to New York as a young woman.

Mrs. Johnson moved to California in 1930 and to San Rafael in September of 1971. She had worked as a housekeeper.

She is survived by a son, Nils Nielsen of Long Island.

RICCO ROFFI

Rosary will be recited for Ricco Roffi of San Anselmo at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael, not in San Anselmo as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Roffi also is survived by a daughter, Barbara Ottinger of Simi, Venutra County.

MRS. CHAPPELL

Funeral for Luella D. Cappell, 76, of Novato, a former police matron in Las Vegas, will be held next week in Dover, Ohio, her hometown.

Mrs. Cappell, who has lived periodically during the last 11 years with her daughter, Mary Lou Stevenson, at 2577 Center Road, died Thursday at a local convalescent hospital after a one-month illness.

Mrs. Cappell, widow of Harvey Roy Cappell, also worked as a housemother at a Scottsdale, Ariz., school.

Surviving, besides her daughter, are a son, Joe E. Cappell of Dover; a brother, Charles Buss of Dover, five grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Burial will be in Dover.

JEAN C. BLACK

Memorial service for Jean C. Black of San Anselmo will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

Mrs. Black, 56, of 138 Woodland Avenue, died Thursday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Marin, she was a graduate of Katharine Branson School in Ross and received a bachelor's and master's degrees in French from the University of California at Berkeley.

She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

Surviving are her husband, Douglas C. Black; three sons, Peter C. Black of Massachusetts, Alan C. Black and Christopher M. Black, both of San Anselmo; a sister, Helen Davis of Santa Rosa, and two brothers, Howard Cunningham of Oregon and Gordon Cunningham of San Jose.

Burial will be private. The family requests memorial gifts to the American Cancer Society.

Session Set On Center Plans

The Corte Madera Planning Commission will review proposed changes in the Hahn shopping center plans during its meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in town hall.

The town council has scheduled a full-scale April 16 hearing on changes a citizens' committee and others propose for the controversial plan. The planning commission thus need not hold a full-scale hearing on the changes, Town Mgr. Ronald A. Bartels advised the commission in a memo Wednesday.

Crash Near Sears Point Kills One

An El Cerrito woman was killed and two persons were injured last night in a two-car crash at Highways 37 and 121 near Sears Point Raceway in Sonoma County.

Hazel Olson, 66, was dead on arrival at Sonoma Valley Hospital following the smash-up, which occurred at 9:10 p.m.

The California Highway Patrol said an auto driven by Lloyd P. Darley, 62, of Richmond, crossed Highway 37 into the path of an eastbound auto operated by Nancy Ann Miller, 27, of Dublin.

The Darley car, hit broadside, went off the road, across a ditch and came to rest on the shoulder against a fence, officers said.

The dead woman was a passenger in the Darley auto. Another passenger, Ruth Sikes, 64, of Richmond, was reported in fair condition today at the hospital with fractures of the arm, ribs and pelvis. Darley was reported in good condition with a collapsed lung.

Council In Novato Has Big Slate

The Novato City Council has a busy schedule next week, with three meetings scheduled in the first two days.

Councilmen will continue review of the Novato General Plan map at 8 p.m. Monday at the community house.

At 7:30 a.m. Tuesday the council will meet in a a joint breakfast session with the Novato Sanitary District board at the Alvarado Inn to discuss coordination between the two agencies.

Councilmen then will hold a hearing at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Novato Community House on rezoning 32 acres of the Hanna Ranch, at the future Rowland Boulevard interchange along Highway 101, from industrial to commercial.

The Hann estate views the commercial zoning as the financial key to development of a golf course, motel-convention center, motor coach park and industrial park on the ranch east of Highway 101, south of Novato Creek.

knowledged the quarter-million contribution. Mrs. Ruth L. Farkas, who will succeed Gould in Luxembourg, also has confirmed that she contributed $300,000, mostly after the November election.

The records were sealed after being obtained under subpoena in a suit brought by consumer advocate Ralph Nader. Nader is trying to roll back the milk price floor which he claimed was raised by the administration as the result of political contributions, allowing milk producers to put up their prices.

Hopefuls List Their Events

Candidates in Marin school board races April 17 have announced newly scheduled campaign coffees and public appearances.

They are:

TAMALPAIS UNION HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT — Candidate Elaine Brockbank, 10:30 a.m. Monday, Dr. John McGee home, 54 Winship Avenue, San Anselmo, and 8 p.m. Thursday at the David Freedheim home, 51 Crecienta Lane, Sausalito.

BUY

partnership although only one person's name may appear on the deed, Goss reports, and the majority of these singles buy town houses.

The majority of one-person homeowners buy in metropolitan centers. The heaviest concentration is along the upper East Coast, middle Atlantic states, the entire West Coast, and in rapidly growing cities led by Denver, Phoenix, Orlando, Dallas and Atlanta.

Sam Smullin of the Data Realty Corp. of Brookline, Mass., says that "there is a trend toward singles buying apartments and houses — no question about it. The demand is there from single, young professional people of about 30 to 35."

Single women are also finding it a great deal easier to finance a house than it used to be. "We couldn't get a mortgage 10 years ago," says one woman executive in the publishing field, who joined with a woman friend to try to buy a house.

Finally, she says, they prevailed upon a friend who was the vice-president of a bank in the town where they wanted to purchase the house to get their financing. "Banks, at that time," says this executive, "wouldn't take on single girls."

This woman has no regrets about her decision.

"Now our house has doubled in value, she says. "It's a hedge against inflation. Rent checks are for the birds —what have you got after paying out all that money?" The only factor women must weigh carefully, she says, is whether they want to take on the maintenance and upkeep of a house. But for these two women it was not a problem.

"I don't mind mowing lawns, and I learned how to fix a faucet. These things are not that big a deal," she says. "And we get neighborhood kids to help with outside jobs. In these suburban towns you can get almost anything done if you are willing to pay for it."

And a home means, she continued, "that you can have the place to yourself, you can entertain. . ."

Many men, too, like the lifestyle of living in a house.

Brent Kleihauer, a single man in his early 30s, says he likes working in his yard on weekends and enjoys the friendliness of the people in his neighborhood. He intends to take part in community affairs, and there is the economic advantage.

"I looked at an apartment — a brand new one out on a country road in a new development," he says. "It would have been nice — a balcony in the back facing the woods. But the rent would not have been any lower than my monthly mortgage payments for the house."

Arlene Ippilito, a real-estate agent, says that single people are much more sophisticated now about buying houses for investment.

"I've even sold land to single people for investment. One girl in her 20's wrote out a check just like that."

Young women buying houses and especially condominiums also want "to feel safe, they want protection." In a condominium, she says, the owners "have a say in how the property is run."

For some people there are definite advantages in renting houses and apartments.

For those who want to be able to pick up and move, don't want the responsibility of fixing and maintaining a house or apartment, don't want to tie up a major part of their savings, or like to experiment with different jobs, then homeowning is not the solution.

But if these are not considerations, experts say that buying a sound house or apartment in a location that is not in transition can have these advantages:

Homeowners can reduce heir taxable income since they can claim deductions on the interest they pay on their mortgages and on real estate taxes.

The 145-page statement contrasted sharply with remarks made by Mrs. Mitchell last weekend. She told UPI it was a "Goddamn lie" that her husband and McCord had been good friends. She also said she had known McCord only as a passing acquaintance.

Mitchell has said under oath he only met McCord once.

In the lengthy deposition, which was ordered released by U.S. District judge Charles R. Richey, McCord also said he was hired as security coordinator for Nixon's re-election campaign committee with the apparent approval of White House counsel John W. Dean III.

OBITUARIES

Ruth G. Petersen Dies At 77

She was born and reared in Marshall and spent most of her adult life in Petaluma. Mrs. Petersen lived at 15 Post Street.

She was the wife of Ebbie Petersen, who died in 1966. Mrs. Petersen had worked for various poultry producers in the Petaluma area.

She is survived by two daughters, Edna Mae Silva and Dolores Antongnin; two sons, Kenneth Petersen and Clarence Petersen; two sisters, Martha Cowan and Jane Jacobsen; all of Petaluma; two brothers, Harry McDonald of Novato and Jack McDonald of Petaluma; 11 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be held Monday at 11 a.m. at the Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma. Burial will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park. Contributions may be made to the Bay Area Chapter of the Leukemia Society of America, 323 Geary Street, San Francisco, or to any charity.

WILLIAM SOUZA

Mass of Resurrection for William E. Souza, father of Fairfax City Councilman Robert R. Souza, will be celebrated at 9 a.m. Monday at Holy Angels Church in Daly City.

Souza, a native of Sacramento who grew up in San Francisco, died Thursday at a Daly City hospital after an illness of two months. He was 79.

Souza was an avid baseball fan and played with the Twin Peaks Native Sons Parlor team in San Francisco that won the state semi-professional championship in 1912.

About 1915, he went into partnership with radio sportscaster Ernie Smith and formed the Ernie Smith News Co. in San Francisco. He later left the firm to operate his own business, but returned in 1933 and was a periodical truck driver until retiring in 1961.

Souza was the father of 13 children by his first wife, Delpine, who died in 1952. His second wife, Georgia, died last December.

He was a member of the Oldtimers Baseball Association of San Francisco, the San Mateo Elks Lodge and was a retired member of Periodical Drivers Union Local 91.

In addition to Robert Souza, a member of the Fairfax Town Council for the past nine years, he is survived by six other sons, Clarence of Napa, George, William D. and John of San Francisco, Norman and Raymond of Colma; three daughters, Isabel Malianni and Anita O'Toole, both of Daly City, and Frances Newsom of San Francisco; a brother, Jack Souza of Clarkesburg, Sacramento County; 22 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 7 p.m. tomorrow at Duggan's Serra Mortuary in Daly City. Entombment will be at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park. The family requests memorial donations to the American Cancer Society.

GEORGE DIPPLE

Memorial service for George A. Dipple, 58, of San Rafael, will be held Monday at 7 p.m. in Montgomery Chapel at San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo.

Dipple died Thursday at a San Francisco hospital after collapsing on Columbus Avenue. He was commercial art director for the Maxwell Arnold Agency, San Francisco.

Dipple was a native of Pennsylvania and moved to California as a youngster. He and his wife, Betty, had lived in Marin county since 1949.

Dipple was a member of the San Francisco Art Directors Club.

He is also survived by a son, Jeff Dipple; a daughter, Janene Dipple, both of San Rafael; and a granddaughter.

Inurnment will be private. The family prefers contributions to the Heart Fund or San Francisco Theological Seminary.

META JOHNSON

Private funeral for Meta Marie Johnson, 75, of San Rafael, will be held Tuesday at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Mrs. Johnson died Wednesday at a local hospital after a short illness. She was born in Denmark and moved to New York as a young woman.

Mrs. Johnson moved to California in 1930 and to San Rafael in September of 1971. She had worked as a housekeeper.

She is survived by a son, Nils Nielsen of Long Island.

RICCO ROFFI

Rosary will be recited for Ricco Roffi of San Anselmo at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael, not in San Anselmo as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Roffi also is survived by a daughter, Barbara Ottinger of Simi, Venutra County.

MRS. CHAPPELL

Funeral for Luella D. Cappell, 76, of Novato, a former police matron in Las Vegas, will be held next week in Dover, Ohio, her hometown.

Mrs. Cappell, who has lived periodically during the last 11 years with her daughter, Mary Lou Stevenson, at 2577 Center Road, died Thursday at a local convalescent hospital after a one-month illness.

Mrs. Cappell, widow of Harvey Roy Cappell, also worked as a housemother at a Scottsdale, Ariz., school.

Surviving, besides her daughter, are a son, Joe E. Cappell of Dover; a brother, Charles Buss of Dover, five grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Burial will be in Dover.

JEAN C. BLACK

Memorial service for Jean C. Black of San Anselmo will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

Mrs. Black, 56, of 138 Woodland Avenue, died Thursday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Marin, she was a graduate of Katharine Branson School in Ross and received a bachelor's and master's degrees in French from the University of California at Berkeley.

She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

Surviving are her husband, Douglas C. Black; three sons, Peter C. Black of Massachusetts, Alan C. Black and Christopher M. Black, both of San Anselmo; a sister, Helen Davis of Santa Rosa, and two brothers, Howard Cunningham of Oregon and Gordon Cunningham of San Jose.

Burial will be private. The family requests memorial gifts to the American Cancer Society.

Russian River Water Bond Set

The North Marin Water District will hold a $4.1 million bond election June 12 to finance a new pipeline for delivery of Russian River water.

Directors, facing a problem of water delivery in peak summer use periods, set the election date Tuesday night.

Voting will be in the Novato service area of the district, which is from Hamilton Air Force Base to San Antonio Creek and from the Petaluma River to Stafford Lake.

Directors decided financing should be by general obligation bonds. Although requiring a two-thirds favorable vote, directors decided, general obligation bonds would be $329,000 cheaper than financing with revenue bonds, which require a simple majority, Mgr. John Nelson said.

Bond repayment wouldn't require any increase in the district tax rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, but a moderate increase in water rates and a significant increase in connection fees may be required, he said. "We should have firm figures in about 30 days," added Nelson.

The $4.1 million, together with $1.3 million in existing bond funds, would finance the district's share of a new pipeline from Cotati to the Russian River, a replacement for an existing line that has created a bottleneck in the delivery of water.

Joining in the project would be the cities of Petaluma, Cotati, Rohnert Park, Santa Rosa, Sonoma, Forestville and the Valley of the Moon County Water District. Total cost has been estimated at $22 million.

West Marin areas served by the district were excluded from the bond election since the proposed new line wouldn't benefit that sector, Nelson said.

With water delivery problems expected to become more critical with increasing development in the Novato area, the directors also adopted Tuesday night a priority system for processing applications for water service.

The system "is based on the assumption that there isn't enough water to go around," Nelson said. "The aim of the system is to put available water in the hands of people who need it soonest."

Directors also set June 12 for a $70,000 general obligation bond measure in the Olema area to finance improvements of the water system serving the community and the Point Reyes National Seashore.

Nelson estimated the improvements would cost about $150,000, with federal funds expected to cover about 57 per cent of the costs.

Directors also approved plans for a sewage treatment plant at the Harold Genazzi Ranch south of Point Reyes Station to serve Coast Guard housing after determining it wouldn't have any adverse effect on the environment. Approval of a disposal site was postponed until further study is completed, Nelson said.

The board authorized Cooper-Clark and Associates of Novato to make a predesign geologic study at the Genazzi site at a cost of $13,500. Director William W. Wright, an employee of the firm, didn't participate in the discussion or vote on the study.

The board approved main extension agreements to Ignacio Industrial Park and to a boat storage facility at Deer Island "for fire service only," Nelson reported.

New Plan In Heroin War Urged

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A San Francisco Superior Court judge has urged that heroin should be dispensed to registered addicts from government centers to free the rest of society from "the horrendously hideous effects" of narcotics.

Judge Francis McCarty said yesterday that large scale heroin maintenance would eliminate vast profits in illicit drug trafficking and make burglaries, robberies and muggings by addicts unnecessary.

"The 99 per cent of us who are drug free are the victims of our own narcotic laws," the judge said in remarks prepared for a Barristers Club luncheon.

"We pay for the futile attempts to control the flow of heroin and to punish the unfortunate addicts. We are the victims of the crimes which must be committed to feed a habit."

Judge McCarty cited official figures which he said showed an estimated 559,000 addicts in the U.S. spend about $6.2 billion a year, making heroin the top consumer import and placing sales among the top 10 of the country's industrial corporations.

"The criminal approach to the problem has failed to solve it and has led to corruption in many law enforcement agencies—federal, state and local," he said.

"The arrest and prosecution of narcotic users for possession and related crimes —robbery, burglary, etc. —has completely overburdened our jails and courts and has led to the collapse of our criminal judicial system in many parts of the country" though not in California.

McCarty said that heroin maintenance clinics set up by the government along the same lines as those operating in Britain would eliminate profits in trafficking and make associated crimes unnecessary. It would, he said, unclog the criminal courts.

"It would be wise for the federal government to forthwith initiate large-scale experiments with heroin maintenance throughout the nation," he said.

"I am confident such experiments would lead to permanent establishment of government operated clinics to dispense heroin to registered addicts.

"When that happens it will free us all from the horrendously hideous effects of the pretty poppy."

Symposium On Strokes Is Thursday

A stroke prevention symposium for physicians and other professional medical persons will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday in the Tamalpais retirement center, 501 Via Casitas, Larkspur.

The program, sponsored by the Marin Medical Society, Marin Heart Assocation, county health department and California Regional Medical Programs, will be limited to 200 registrants and is eligible for credit in continuing education, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Reservations should be made throughthe Marin Medical Society, 4460 Redwood Highway, San Rafael.

Policy On Roads Due Discussion

The newly-formed Muir Beach Property Owners Association will discuss problems with roads and water pipes in the community when it meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the home of president Clavin Garrison, Shoreline Highway and Franks Valley Road.

Residents are concerned about the rough and pitted condition of Sunset and Pacific ways, caused, they say, when pipe was laid on the street.

Also to be discussed are complaints that water and sewer pipes in the community are lying side by side in many areas and thus could create health problems.

Methods for cleaning up the entrance to the Muir Beach State Park and undergrounding on power poles also will be considered at the session.

Performers For Series Announced

Performances by a Metropolitan Opera Company contralto, a pianist and the San Francisco Ballet have been scheduled for the Marin Music Chest's summer series at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Opening the season on June 17 will be contralto Lili Chookasian. A concert featuring Christoph Eschenbach is scheduled for July 22, with the series ending Sept. 9 with a performance by the ballet company.

All concerts will start at 2:30 p.m.

Florence Lesoine, president of the Music Chest, said it has been necessary to raise subscription prices this year because of increased artists fees. Further information may be obtained by calling the Marin Music Chest office in San Rafael.

Russian River Water Bond Set

The North Marin Water District will hold a $4.1 million bond election June 12 to finance a new pipeline for delivery of Russian River water.

Directors, facing a problem of water delivery in peak summer use periods, set the election date Tuesday night.

Voting will be in the Novato service area of the district, which is from Hamilton Air Force Base to San Antonio Creek and from the Petaluma River to Stafford Lake.

Directors decided financing should be by general obligation bonds. Although requiring a two-thirds favorable vote, directors decided, general obligation bonds would be $329,000 cheaper than financing with revenue bonds, which require a simple majority, Mgr. John Nelson said.

Bond repayment wouldn't require any increase in the district tax rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, but a moderate increase in water rates and a significant increase in connection fees may be required, he said. "We should have firm figures in about 30 days," added Nelson.

The $4.1 million, together with $1.3 million in existing bond funds, would finance the district's share of a new pipeline from Cotati to the Russian River, a replacement for an existing line that has created a bottleneck in the delivery of water.

Joining in the project would be the cities of Petaluma, Cotati, Rohnert Park, Santa Rosa, Sonoma, Forestville and the Valley of the Moon County Water District. Total cost has been estimated at $22 million.

West Marin areas served by the district were excluded from the bond election since the proposed new line wouldn't benefit that sector, Nelson said.

With water delivery problems expected to become more critical with increasing development in the Novato area, the directors also adopted Tuesday night a priority system for processing applications for water service.

The system "is based on the assumption that there isn't enough water to go around," Nelson said. "The aim of the system is to put available water in the hands of people who need it soonest."

Directors also set June 12 for a $70,000 general obligation bond measure in the Olema area to finance improvements of the water system serving the community and the Point Reyes National Seashore.

Nelson estimated the improvements would cost about $150,000, with federal funds expected to cover about 57 per cent of the costs.

Directors also approved plans for a sewage treatment plant at the Harold Genazzi Ranch south of Point Reyes Station to serve Coast Guard housing after determining it wouldn't have any adverse effect on the environment. Approval of a disposal site was postponed until further study is completed, Nelson said.

The board authorized Cooper-Clark and Associates of Novato to make a predesign geologic study at the Genazzi site at a cost of $13,500. Director William W. Wright, an employee of the firm, didn't participate in the discussion or vote on the study.

The board approved main extension agreements to Ignacio Industrial Park and to a boat storage facility at Deer Island "for fire service only," Nelson reported.

New Plan In Heroin War Urged

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A San Francisco Superior Court judge has urged that heroin should be dispensed to registered addicts from government centers to free the rest of society from "the horrendously hideous effects" of narcotics.

Judge Francis McCarty said yesterday that large scale heroin maintenance would eliminate vast profits in illicit drug trafficking and make burglaries, robberies and muggings by addicts unnecessary.

"The 99 per cent of us who are drug free are the victims of our own narcotic laws," the judge said in remarks prepared for a Barristers Club luncheon.

"We pay for the futile attempts to control the flow of heroin and to punish the unfortunate addicts. We are the victims of the crimes which must be committed to feed a habit."

Judge McCarty cited official figures which he said showed an estimated 559,000 addicts in the U.S. spend about $6.2 billion a year, making heroin the top consumer import and placing sales among the top 10 of the country's industrial corporations.

"The criminal approach to the problem has failed to solve it and has led to corruption in many law enforcement agencies—federal, state and local," he said.

"The arrest and prosecution of narcotic users for possession and related crimes —robbery, burglary, etc. —has completely overburdened our jails and courts and has led to the collapse of our criminal judicial system in many parts of the country" though not in California.

McCarty said that heroin maintenance clinics set up by the government along the same lines as those operating in Britain would eliminate profits in trafficking and make associated crimes unnecessary. It would, he said, unclog the criminal courts.

"It would be wise for the federal government to forthwith initiate large-scale experiments with heroin maintenance throughout the nation," he said.

"I am confident such experiments would lead to permanent establishment of government operated clinics to dispense heroin to registered addicts.

"When that happens it will free us all from the horrendously hideous effects of the pretty poppy."

Symposium On Strokes Is Thursday

A stroke prevention symposium for physicians and other professional medical persons will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday in the Tamalpais retirement center, 501 Via Casitas, Larkspur.

The program, sponsored by the Marin Medical Society, Marin Heart Assocation, county health department and California Regional Medical Programs, will be limited to 200 registrants and is eligible for credit in continuing education, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Reservations should be made throughthe Marin Medical Society, 4460 Redwood Highway, San Rafael.

Policy On Roads Due Discussion

The newly-formed Muir Beach Property Owners Association will discuss problems with roads and water pipes in the community when it meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the home of president Clavin Garrison, Shoreline Highway and Franks Valley Road.

Residents are concerned about the rough and pitted condition of Sunset and Pacific ways, caused, they say, when pipe was laid on the street.

Also to be discussed are complaints that water and sewer pipes in the community are lying side by side in many areas and thus could create health problems.

Methods for cleaning up the entrance to the Muir Beach State Park and undergrounding on power poles also will be considered at the session.

Performers For Series Announced

Performances by a Metropolitan Opera Company contralto, a pianist and the San Francisco Ballet have been scheduled for the Marin Music Chest's summer series at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Opening the season on June 17 will be contralto Lili Chookasian. A concert featuring Christoph Eschenbach is scheduled for July 22, with the series ending Sept. 9 with a performance by the ballet company.

All concerts will start at 2:30 p.m.

Florence Lesoine, president of the Music Chest, said it has been necessary to raise subscription prices this year because of increased artists fees. Further information may be obtained by calling the Marin Music Chest office in San Rafael.

A Photo Exhibit

The Studio Gallery, Bolinas, will display photographs by Shedrick Williames, April 22 through June 8, from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

Tribunal Will Not Hear Metzger Plea

The State Supreme Court will not hear an appeal by a Sausalito attorney seeking to suppress drugs seized in his home in a 1970 raid, according to a notice received by Marin Superior Court yesterday.

The Supreme Court's decision, opposed by Justices Matthew O. Tobriner and Stanley Mosk, left intact a ruling by the State Court of Appeal in San Francisco against attorney Michael H. Metzger.

No written opinion accompanies such court decisions.

Attorneys for Metzger appealed after retired Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court ruled last August that a search warrant for Metzger's home was properly issued even though a narcotics agent obtained it on the basis of misinformation from an informant.

Metzger's appeal said narcotics agents were so eager to arrest Metzger they committed perjury to obtain a warrant.

Metzger, a former federal prosecutor who turned defense attorney in drug cases, claims he was a target because he embarrassed high-ranking drug agents by trying to prove they lied in court testimony.

Metzger was arrested Dec. 6, 1970, after an intensive search of his home and charged with having LSD, cocaine, marijuana and hashish in a hidden safe.

The attorney is charged with felony possession of the drugs and a tear gas weapon found in another part of the house.

A trial date may be set in Marin Superior Court Monday.

Novato Supporters Of Flood Bond Set Rally

The Novato Flood Control Bond Committee will hold a rally at Gerner Park, along Novato Creek, at 7 p.m. Friday to culminate its campaign for passage of the $4.5 million flood control bond measure April 17.

The Novato High School Medley Group, directed by John H. Enders, will perform, slides of floods and creeks will be shown, children will be given balloons and everyone will receive hot dogs and soft drinks, said Jerry Groves, committee cochairman.

Prizes will be awarded to winners in the committee's poster contest. Lola Lane, Josephine Oberding and Ella McElroy of the North Bay Artists are judges.

Entires for the contest for children from kindergarten through sixth grade must be submitted at the Novato Library by 9 p.m. Wednesday, Mrs. Groves said.

Four Picked For Special School

Four members of the Philippine Air Force selected to attend U.S. Air Force Base, the Air Force said.

Maj. Aquiliano S. Barnales is in supply management training at the 4661ST Materiel Squadron. Sgt. Angel R. Castillo, S/Sgt. Rafael M. Pancito Jr. and Sgt. Nasaldoman J. Agdon are training as administrative specialists at the consolidated base personnel office.

Controls On Reagan Jet Are Sought

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — To assure the state's flashy new executive jet "isn't abused," a Republican senator has urged the Legislature to tightly control its use by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Sen. Howard Way of Exeter said the limitations would prohibit Reagan from flying outside California in the 400-mile-an-hour jet and force his office to make public the purpose of every flight and the names of passengers.

California taxpayers spent $52,926 to fly Reagan and his aides around the state during the jet's initial three months of operation. The sum included $2,520 to fly the governor to a dinner honoring Frank Sinatra and more than $10,000 for flights to Reagan's Pacific Palisades home.

All other state agencies and officials have totalled $14,861 worth of flying during the same three-month span.

Edwin Gray, the governor's press secretary, said the Reagan administration has "administrative concerns and security reasons" for refusing to disclose the purpose of specific trips.

He declined comment on Way's proposal.

Way, chairman of a Senate finance subcommittee, asked legislative aides to draft amendments to Reagan's proposed state budget imposing the controls. The amendments would have to be adopted by the entire legislature.

Way and Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, also questioned why Reagan ordered the new jet when six years ago the governor vehemently criticized former Gov. Edmund G. Brown's use of a private state plane.

Trials Set For Three At Quentin

Jury trials were set yesterday for three of the five San Quentin inmates indicted last month on felony counts resulting from prison crimes.

After accepting innocent pleas, Superior Court Judge David Menary Jr. set the trial of Phillip Vendil Kirk, 28, for the week of May 14 and that of Jimmy E. Speights, 27, and Arthur C. Cacera, 23, for the week of June 18.

Kirk's trial on an escape charge is expected to last three days. The June trial of Speights and Cacera on charges of having narcotics paraphernalia is scheduled for five days.

Two other inmates also indicted by the Marin County Jury March 21 are scheduled to enter pleas Friday. The grand jury charges against the five were the first sought by Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales in about 15 months.

Bales said he tried not prosecuting less serious cases that would not result in any additional prison time, but changed the policy when prison officials complained of an increase in escapes.

Kirk is said to have left the prison ranch outside the walls Feb. 13 only to be captured five days later.

Speights and Cacera were seized in the prison gymnasium Feb. 10, according to Bales.

To Host POWs

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. and Mrs. Ronald Reagan will host another of their "welcome home" dinners for returned POWs on Tuesday, with the governor also set to sign a bill exempting their prison-time earnings from state tax.

$3,000 Of Circus Profit To Charity

Nearly $3,500 profit was taken in at circus performances last month sponsored by the County of Marin Association of Firemen, president Michael E. Vonada said yesterday.

He said members of the association, who are employees of the Marin County Fire Department, plan to keep $490 for expenses and give $3,000 to three charities.

The Marin County Heart Association will be given $1,000 toward purchase of three training mannekins for use in teaching cardio-pulmonary resuscitation to lay and professional groups.

Another $1,000 will be donated to the Marin Aid to Retarded Children for use in vocation training programs. St. Francis Hospital's burn center in San Francisco also will receive $1,000 toward purchase of a portable heart monitor.

Vonada pointed out that the "facilities at the center are available to anyone in Marin County who is critically burned and requires intensive burn treatment."

Vonada also said that the circus was sponsored by the employees of the county fire department only. Confusion over the name of their association, he said, made it appear to some people that all fire departments in the county were involved.

He also apologized for the shortage of seats at some performances, and said three additional performances at the association's expense were held to take care of overflow.

PG&E Sets Trench Work In Novato

The Novato Public Works Department reported yesterday that Pacific Gas and Electric Co. crews will be working along Tamalpais Avenue between Novato Boulevard and Center Road starting Monday and drivers should be cautious.

Crews will be doing trench work for a new gas line and traffic will be slowed and possibly narrowed to one-way at times. The job will last about six weeks and work hours will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Duke Of Argyll Dies In England

EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI) — The Duke of Argyll, whose divorce and subsequent marriage to an American woman caused a sensation 10 years ago, died today in an Edinburgh nursing home. He was 69.

The duke, Ian Douglas Campbell, was the 11th duke and chief of the Clan Campbell and hereditary master of the queen's household in Scotland.

He married the former Mrs. Matilde Coster Mortimer, daughter of Stanley Mortimer of New York, six weeks after divorcing his third wife, Mrs. Margaret Sweeney, on the grounds of adultery.

In the divorce case, which made headlines around the world, a judge ruled the duke's elegant wife committed adultery with four men, including an American and a member of the German aristocracy.

The duke earlier this year had a stroke in France and was flown to Edinburgh General Hospital. On Monday, he was transferred to the Royal Scottish Nursing Home.

The United States Mint system has coined money for more than 10 foreign countries.

Joske Hits Plans For Agencies

A proposal to consolidate the county parks and recreation department with two other agencies came under fire yesterday as "a step backwards" that could cripple park development.

Parks Director Pierre W. Joske said he will ask county supervisors Tuesday to abandon the proposed reorganization, developed by County Administrator John F. Barrows and his staff.

Barrows recommended Wednesday that the departments of planning, public works and parks and recreation be consolidated in one new department of planning and public facilities. The new department would be headed by Public Works Director Ray W. Foreaker Jr.

"I believe it to be a mistake to propose distributing out presently unified functions into the various divisions of a large department . . ." Joske wrote in a letter to supervisors.

"It is my sincere belief that the proposed consolidation would be a step back to the period of 1963 to 1965 when this department was a division of the planning department with grounds maintenance responsibilities delegated to the public works department."

Joske said the decision to create a parks and recreation department at that time was to give the county parks program "direction and impetus."

Under the county administrator's proposed reorganization, Joske, as well as Planning Director Werner von Gundell, would be relegated to third level supervisory positions in the new department.

Joske would remain as general manager of the new regional park director and chief staff assistant to the county parks and recreation commission.

Housing Project Plans Will Be Tied To Reports

Master plans for two large housing developments — which were to be considered by the Novato Planning Commission at 8 p.m. Monday at the community house are to be deferred pending environmental impact reports.

To be continued are a master plan for 45 townhouses and tennis court at the crossroads project, Highway 101 and South Novato Boulevard, and a master plan by Continemal Development Co. for 38 townhouses west of Highway 101, north of the crossroads development.

Commissioners will consider an amendment to the zoning ordinance to create a flood plain zone to control development in areas where flood waters pass, generally in the area that flooded along South Novato Boulevard this winter.

Two Marin Students Win Science Awards

Investigations into the effect of pollution on crabs and the measurement of stress with polarized light have paid off for two Marin students, winners of first prizes in the 20th annual Bay Area Science Fair.

Awarded $25 savings bonds and trophies were Alex A. Davis, 16, a junior at San Rafael High School, and Richard C. Zulch, 12, a seventh grader at Ross School.

Davis's project, entitled "Adaptations of Hemigrapsus Oregon ensis to a Polluted Environment," involved studying how well a common Marin shore crab survives in polluted water.

Davis, assisted by fellow student Larry Stadtner, took crabs from Tomales Bay and put them in polluted water from the San Rafael Canal. His finding, after 48 hours: either the crabs are very hardy or the water is not so dirty, because they thrived. They even ate a meal of boiled eggs, he said.

Science teacher Larry Lack advised Davis in the project.

Richard's project measured the stress in a sheet of stretched polyethylene plastic by means of polarized light. The light, passed through a polarizing filter, broke into colors when it encountered stress lines, he said.

Similar experiments are used in industry, Richard said, to make sure manufactured objects are strong enough to avoid breaking in use. Clear plastic models are made of solid objects so that the polarized light can pass through, he said.

Richard's adviser was teacher Michael Manganiello.

Winner of a third prize ribbon in the biological science category was Dawn A. Speck, 15, a sophomore at San Rafael High. Her project measured the effect of various acids on how far sea anemones project a poisonous fluid from their tentacles.

The Marin winners were among 500 competitors in the science fair. The winners were announced last night at ceremonies at the California Academy of Sciences in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park.

The fair is open to the public until 10 p.m. today and 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. tomorrow through Wednesday.

Two grand prize winners will represent the Bay Area at the International Science Fair in San Diego in May. Henry Lin of El Cerrito High won for his project on tissue regeneration, and Michael Deering of Crestmoor High, San Bruno, for his research into the fourth dimension.

Mulryan To Talk

Incumbent Lawrence E. Mulryan, making his first bid for a full term on the San Rafael City Council, will speak at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Joyce Clark home, 41 Miraflores Avenue, and at 8 p.m. Friday at the Clarice Kraemer home, 109 Oakmont Avenue.

Woman Hurt In Hit-Run Crash

A 20-year-old Penngrove woman was injured when she was struck by a hit-and-run driver while walking on Old Adobe Road near Old Redwood Highway at 5:40 p.m. yesterday.

Carol Ann Parker, 225 Penngrove Avenue, was reported in satisfactory condition with internal injuries at Hillcrest Hospital.

The California Highway Patrol said Miss Parker was walking westbound on the north side of the street when a car struck her from the rear and tossed her 58 feet on the dirt shoulder. No description of the car was given.

Intravenous Fluid, Third Death Link

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An intravenous fluid already suspected of causing the deaths of two hospital patients in Milwaukee has been associated with yet a third death.

Doctors at the Washington Hospital Center reported Friday that a suburban Maryland woman died in February, three days after the solution was administered following what should have been a routine ear operation.

The solution was made by Cutter Laboratories Inc. Cutter solutions were already associated with two deaths in Milwaukee and the company earlier this week began recalling all bottled intravenous fluid made at its Chatanooga, Tenn., plant prior to March 14. Involved are 93 different varieties and more than two million bottles.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) said its preliminary investigation indicated an improper sterilizing process at the Chatanooga plant was to blame. All production has been halted there and solution bottled after March 14 has been put under quarantine.

Dr. James A. Curtin, chairman of the Washington Hospital Center's department of medicine, said Mrs. Harry J. Eby, 57, of Greenbelt, Md., underwent a relatively low-risk operation to correct hearing loss in her right ear on Feb. 15. After the operation, he said, she got "one liter of the type of fluid that has been implicated in the Milwaukee cases."

The next day she developed symptoms of blood poisoning and two days later was dead, despite what Curtin said were "heroic efforts by intensive care personnel."

Curtin said he had no reason to suspect the intravenous solution was at fault until he read the next month that two Milwaukee patients had died of blood poisoning after being given a dextrose solution from Cutter. He said tests identified the poison which killed Mrs. Eby as one of the three involved in the Milwaukee deaths. A third non-fatal case was also reported in Milwaukee.

Curtin said no other similar cases have been reported at his hospital. He said the dextrose fluid was administered to Mrs. Eby as a standard postoperative step to replenish fluid loss, and from outward appearances looked normal when it was given to her.

Oil Trees Aren't Somebody's Dream

The oil palm, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, produces the highest oil yied of any crop—ranging to 2,880 pounds per year per acre. An acre of castor beans can give up to 2,000 pounds of oil.

The Jobless Rate Is Up

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's unemployment rate rose from 5.3 to 5.4 per cent in March compared to a nationwide rate of 5.00 for the month, the state Department of Human Resources reported Friday.

However, department Director Dwight Geduldig said the number of Californians holding jobs during the period increased by more than 75,000. He said 8.39 million persons were employed in March, compared with 8.31 million in February and 8.15 million a year ago.

The number of unemployed was 525,000, a decline of 27,000 for the month, Geduldig said. But the drop was 13,000 less than anticipated, pushing the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate up .1 per cent.

Geduldig said employment gains were registered in every major industry.

THROUGH ALA-TEEN

Teen-Agers Cope With Tippling Parents

By BARBARA HOSMER

How should the teen-ager of an alcoholic parent react in a family in which the non-alcoholic spouse tends to "feed" off of the situation?

That's a fairly common problem for children in families with alcoholism, explained the co-sponsor of Ala-Teen in Marin, known to members of the group as Jean. Quite often the child will withdraw, show emotional problems and carry the burden of guilt him or herself, she said.

The daughter of an alcoholic and the former wife of an alcoholic, Jean can identify closely with the problems and roles in such a situation.

For the teen-agers who come to Ala-Teen at 7 p.m. each Monday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael, Jean helps to guide, "not lecture", the youngsters into realizing that they can detach themselves emotionally from their parents' problem.

"WE TRY to teach them to understand alcoholism as a disease, and that their parents are not willfully doing what they do," she said.

As Jean describes the non-alcoholic in the alcoholic family, the spouse and sometimes the children play the game of being persecutor and helper at various times.

"The teen-ager does not have to play the game or protect the alcoholic or non-alcoholic parent. We try to get them to recognize that it's a game and that they don't have to be a part of it," she explained.

Don't pick up the martyrdom or guilt feelings. Otherwise you tend to pick up the whole bag of garbage," she said.

The basic idea is to help the youngster develop identity and maturity, Jean says of the Ala-Teen group. The teen-agers talk mainly among themselves at the meetings, first considering anyone's urgent problem that week. Each time a selected chairman chooses a topic such as self-pity, acceptance, criticism or tolerance to be discussed by the group.

The meetings are scheduled the same time and place as Al-Anon, which many of their parents attend, so transportation is not a problem.

Most of the seven or eight youngsters who come are girls, Jean said, "because boys tend to turn outward and just take off" from an alcoholic home at that age. They are supposed to be teen-agers, but some come at age 11 or so, Jean said.

"Some can discuss it quite well and they stay on, but others come once or twice and are bored or feel they don't need it," she said of the weekly discussions.

SHE AND the other co-sponsor believe that Ala-Teen provides a place where the youngsters feel safe, can maintain anonymity, and talk about their common problems. They find they have a mutual bond and warmth develops among them. Most have one alcohlic parent, but some have both.

Usually it takes a few months of going to meetings before a youngster feels safe enough to express the real feelings about the parents, Jean said of her three years' work with children of alcoholic parents.

She said that some of the youngsters of alcoholic homes tend to show symptoms of the family stress through poor school grades, drug use, illnesses and upsets. And some parents of youngsters who have been involved with the Ala-Teen discussions have told her that the children's grades have picked up or their health improved because of their ability to get beyond the home problems with a better awareness of their individuality and detachment from the alcoholism situation.

ALA-TEEN youngsters also have some social activities together such as swimming, dinners, going to the beach and ice skating.

Ala-Teen groups hold their convention in the early fall when for two days groups of the teen-agers can share experience and insights in a series of discussion groups,

"The National Council on Alcoholism refers some youngsters to Ala-Teen and other agencies are becoming more aware of the program," Jean stated. Al-Anon speakers who speak at schools mention it and posters help to spread the information, but mostly youngsters hear of the program from word-of-mouth or through parents who attend Al-Anon, she said.

Price Controls Said Too Little, Too Late

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bess Myerson says it is "better for the consumer to roar than mumble." But she wishes the roar had started earlier.

She is fully supportive of the current meat boycotts around the nation, but after four years as commissioner of New York's Department of Consumer Affairs she finds the boycotts only a partial answer to a growing national problem.

Freezing wholesale and retail prices of beef, pork and lamb when they were at record highs was not enough, she said of President Nixon's action last week. There should be a total rollback on all food prices and an "honest system of controls, which is the real answer," she said.

THE DRAMA of the boycotts was enough "to turn the President around, but it (his action) was too little and too late," she said.

But the consumer has a basic duty beyond boycotts to save on family food and other bills. "I find it discouraging to see that not all the people are keeping a report card," she said. "So many consumers just don't carry their awareness with them to the marketplace."

During a special interview on her final day in office last Friday, the commissioner agreed to an extent with the comment of Mrs. Cedrick M. Smith Jr., of the executive committee of the American National Cowbelles, women's auxiliary of the National Cattlemen's Association.

Mrs. Smith, a rancher's wife, had said of our budgeting—"We housewives — me included—are damned lazy people today— excuse my English."

"I think lazy is too simple a term, though," said Miss Myerson. "We (consumers) know to plan menus, to make our lists and stick to them, not to shop on an empty stomach, to avoid impulse buying.

"BUT THE men in the marketplace cater to impulse buying...."

Bess Myerson created the consumer affairs department for the nation's largest city. It is the city's smallest department—around 325 employes plus 100 or so volunteers, many of them fulltime, and a budget under $4 million annually.

Yet it has managed to handle about 200,000 complaints a year and to push through masses of consumer protection legislation. Now, Miss Myerson turns the department over to Betty Furness, who served as President Johnson's consumer adviser and later held a similar post in the Governor Rockefeller administration.

It's with pride that she talks of what her staff has done although it's a job "no one can ever finish."

HER STEERAGE made the department a pilot, or resource, for consumer activisim in such far-off places as Australia, New Zealand, Holland, Iraq, Germany.

It also helped to shape Bess Myerson from the woman who won national attention first as a Miss America (1945), stayed there with television shows, and enhanced her to the point that she's now being urged to run for major political office.

But for the moment, she said, she's going to get some rest and start on a handbook of information geared basically to the consumer.

She hasn't ruled out political office—she called running for the house or senate "appealing concepts."

Whatever route Bess Myerson takes, it will be some form of public service. She feels strongly in what she can contribute and also says, "I have to work. I've worked since I was 12 (teaching piano). Work creates a a healthy balance to my life."

Grape Festival chairman

Sunny Hills Council Picks New Leader

The Guilds Governing Council of Sunny Hills has selected Mrs. Robert S. Phillips of Lucas Valley as chairman for the 1973 Grape Festival.

Sharon Phillips served as entertainment chairman for the festival last year, and is a five year member of the Lucas Valley Guild. For the guild she has been vice president, fund raising chairman and publicity chairman.

Mrs. Phillips and her husband, who is a partner in an insurance brokerage firm, have three children, Scott, 11, Noelle, 7, and Courtenay, 4. They have lived in Marin for nine years.

Sharon Phillips enjoys golf, bridge and skiing and she is currently in Europe tracing material for a family history she is writing.

The Grape Festival will be held Oct. 6 at the fair grounds at the Marin Civic Center in San Rafael, with all proceeds to benefit the Sunny Hills residential treatment center for emotionally disturbed children in San Anselmo.

Saint-Laurent Offering No Big Surprises In Left Bank Shop

By ALISON LERRICK

The fall and winter Rive Gauche collection is simply as pretty as clothes can be. Rive Gauche means Left Bank, and Saint-Laurent's boutique, called Rive Gauche, is on the left bank of the Seine.

Saint-Laurent was the first to put women in pants. And now, even though skirts are back with a vengeance, he hasn't changed his mind.

HIS PANTS are straight, wide and cuffed in tweed or gray flannel. They come with those famous long, belted jackets, often in suede, or a long Eskimo parka with a drawstring waist and fur-trimmed hood. You can also have it for gala occasions in black satin.

Otherwise, it's the pleated tweed skirt at the knee with a printed, silk shirt that ties in a bow at the neck and a long, knitted cardigan. The Rive Gauche sweaters are cabled, striped, mottled or nubbly in the same shades as the tweeds.

The colors, in fact, are the most beautiful part of the collection and much more cheerful than the serious 1950s shades most designers are fond of. Saint-Laurent mixes green, rust and mustard, gray-blue and royal, plum and mauve or burgundy and coral.

THEY ALSO go on the crocheted cap with a huge braided wool border that hides every single hair.

While you can still find a few bulky polo coats at the Rive Gauche, the better idea is a long circular cape in the same color as your suit.

Money Plays Big Issue In Breakup Of Marriages

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Countless problems contribute to the breakup of a marriage. But the real issues — according to a financial counselor — are often obscured by the shadow of one problem; money worries.

"Money woes far too frequently play a part of it," said William A. Reasoner, president of Waddell and Reed, Inc., a Kansas City-based firm which manages mutual funds nationwide.

He pointed to statistics predicting 1.5 million persons will become divorced this year and another 1.5 million will begin legal action towards divorce. The figures, he said, are four times the divorce rate 10 years ago.

"The sad part about these statistics is that many could have been alleviated, had the husband and wife given more thought to money management and sought proper counseling on how to avoid financial pitfalls," Reasoner said.

"Financial problems are often the hidden factors in marital dissolution. They just serve to camouflage the real reasons for dissent, to cloud important issues. Too many married couples simply are not equipped to cope with money problems."

The financial adviser said his points about seeking money management were not entirely self-serving.

Ironically enough, he said, divorce is much more expensive than seeking financial advice.

"For young families, the sudden economic toll of divorce can be catastrophic," Reasoner asserted. "For older, more established families, the effect can be traumatic.

"Alimony and child support can devour one-half of a man's income and financial worth. And let us not forget the woman —stretching the alimony dollar can be difficult for her. So everyone stands to suffer."

His advice.

Before seeing the divorce lawyers, try to straighten out your budget problems. It could save both your marriage and your money.

THROUGH ALA-TEEN

Teen-Agers Cope With Tippling Parents

By BARBARA HOSMER

How should the teen-ager of an alcoholic parent react in a family in which the non-alcoholic spouse tends to "feed" off of the situation?

That's a fairly common problem for children in families with alcoholism, explained the co-sponsor of Ala-Teen in Marin, known to members of the group as Jean. Quite often the child will withdraw, show emotional problems and carry the burden of guilt him or herself, she said.

The daughter of an alcoholic and the former wife of an alcoholic, Jean can identify closely with the problems and roles in such a situation.

For the teen-agers who come to Ala-Teen at 7 p.m. each Monday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael, Jean helps to guide, "not lecture", the youngsters into realizing that they can detach themselves emotionally from their parents' problem.

"WE TRY to teach them to understand alcoholism as a disease, and that their parents are not willfully doing what they do," she said.

As Jean describes the non-alcoholic in the alcoholic family, the spouse and sometimes the children play the game of being persecutor and helper at various times.

"The teen-ager does not have to play the game or protect the alcoholic or non-alcoholic parent. We try to get them to recognize that it's a game and that they don't have to be a part of it," she explained.

Don't pick up the martyrdom or guilt feelings. Otherwise you tend to pick up the whole bag of garbage," she said.

The basic idea is to help the youngster develop identity and maturity, Jean says of the Ala-Teen group. The teen-agers talk mainly among themselves at the meetings, first considering anyone's urgent problem that week. Each time a selected chairman chooses a topic such as self-pity, acceptance, criticism or tolerance to be discussed by the group.

The meetings are scheduled the same time and place as Al-Anon, which many of their parents attend, so transportation is not a problem.

Most of the seven or eight youngsters who come are girls, Jean said, "because boys tend to turn outward and just take off" from an alcoholic home at that age. They are supposed to be teen-agers, but some come at age 11 or so, Jean said.

"Some can discuss it quite well and they stay on, but others come once or twice and are bored or feel they don't need it," she said of the weekly discussions.

SHE AND the other co-sponsor believe that Ala-Teen provides a place where the youngsters feel safe, can maintain anonymity, and talk about their common problems. They find they have a mutual bond and warmth develops among them. Most have one alcohlic parent, but some have both.

Usually it takes a few months of going to meetings before a youngster feels safe enough to express the real feelings about the parents, Jean said of her three years' work with children of alcoholic parents.

She said that some of the youngsters of alcoholic homes tend to show symptoms of the family stress through poor school grades, drug use, illnesses and upsets. And some parents of youngsters who have been involved with the Ala-Teen discussions have told her that the children's grades have picked up or their health improved because of their ability to get beyond the home problems with a better awareness of their individuality and detachment from the alcoholism situation.

ALA-TEEN youngsters also have some social activities together such as swimming, dinners, going to the beach and ice skating.

Ala-Teen groups hold their convention in the early fall when for two days groups of the teen-agers can share experience and insights in a series of discussion groups,

"The National Council on Alcoholism refers some youngsters to Ala-Teen and other agencies are becoming more aware of the program," Jean stated. Al-Anon speakers who speak at schools mention it and posters help to spread the information, but mostly youngsters hear of the program from word-of-mouth or through parents who attend Al-Anon, she said.

Price Controls Said Too Little, Too Late

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bess Myerson says it is "better for the consumer to roar than mumble." But she wishes the roar had started earlier.

She is fully supportive of the current meat boycotts around the nation, but after four years as commissioner of New York's Department of Consumer Affairs she finds the boycotts only a partial answer to a growing national problem.

Freezing wholesale and retail prices of beef, pork and lamb when they were at record highs was not enough, she said of President Nixon's action last week. There should be a total rollback on all food prices and an "honest system of controls, which is the real answer," she said.

THE DRAMA of the boycotts was enough "to turn the President around, but it (his action) was too little and too late," she said.

But the consumer has a basic duty beyond boycotts to save on family food and other bills. "I find it discouraging to see that not all the people are keeping a report card," she said. "So many consumers just don't carry their awareness with them to the marketplace."

During a special interview on her final day in office last Friday, the commissioner agreed to an extent with the comment of Mrs. Cedrick M. Smith Jr., of the executive committee of the American National Cowbelles, women's auxiliary of the National Cattlemen's Association.

Mrs. Smith, a rancher's wife, had said of our budgeting—"We housewives — me included—are damned lazy people today— excuse my English."

"I think lazy is too simple a term, though," said Miss Myerson. "We (consumers) know to plan menus, to make our lists and stick to them, not to shop on an empty stomach, to avoid impulse buying.

"BUT THE men in the marketplace cater to impulse buying...."

Bess Myerson created the consumer affairs department for the nation's largest city. It is the city's smallest department—around 325 employes plus 100 or so volunteers, many of them fulltime, and a budget under $4 million annually.

Yet it has managed to handle about 200,000 complaints a year and to push through masses of consumer protection legislation. Now, Miss Myerson turns the department over to Betty Furness, who served as President Johnson's consumer adviser and later held a similar post in the Governor Rockefeller administration.

It's with pride that she talks of what her staff has done although it's a job "no one can ever finish."

HER STEERAGE made the department a pilot, or resource, for consumer activisim in such far-off places as Australia, New Zealand, Holland, Iraq, Germany.

But for the moment, she said, she's going to get some rest and start on a handbook of information geared basically to the consumer.

She hasn't ruled out political office—she called running for the house or senate "appealing concepts."

Whatever route Bess Myerson takes, it will be some form of public service. She feels strongly in what she can contribute and also says, "I have to work. I've worked since I was 12 (teaching piano). Work creates a a healthy balance to my life."

15-Year-Old Financial 'Whiz' Wants To Play Stock Market

DEAR RAP:

I consider myself an above average 15-year-old who is interested in the stock market. I analyze, study and arrive at fine predictions.

My parents have permitted me to make minor trades thus far, but "it takes money to make money."

My last prediction turned $2,700 into a net of almost $4,100 in two weeks, but it was just a prediction — no money involved.

Since I know what I'm doing, shouldn't my parents permit me to gamble? — E.F.

DEAR E.:

Put Wide Stretch Trim To Use

By EUNICE FARMER
Distributed by the Register and Tribune Syndicate

DEAR EUNICE,

When you look for ideas from ready-to-wear, why is it almost impossible to find the same look or trims when you make your own clothes? I've seen decorative grosgrain ribbon that stretches in place of the conventional plain waistband on jackets and skirts. I haven't found this at our fabric shops. Please help!

NANCY R.

DEAR NANCY,

In the early stages of design, pattern companies had problems tracking down the wide, stretchy ribbing that baseball jackets and certain sweaters needed. Now the patterns themselves are available and so is the ribbing.

Practice on a full-gathered skirt, then adapt to other patterns. This decorative elasticized ribbon should be available in most stores by the time you read this column. For a belt, skirt, or pant waistband, purchase four inches less than your waist measurement. For cuffs, pocket trims or straps, purchase the exact measurement.

Step 2. After stitching and pressing all garment seams except where garment will open, mark garment waist seamline with a row of basting stitches. (Raw seams can be bound or overcast). Divide garment waist-line into four equal parts and mark with pins.

Step 3. Overlap 5/8 inches of stretch trim and fabric with the right side of both facing up. Match pin marks on garment to pin marks on trim and pin together. (If garment has a great deal of fullness, divide garment and trim into eight equal parts). The edge of the trim should run along the marked seamline.

Step 4. As you stitch, stretch the trim to meet the fabric. Sew one segment at a time between pins, leaving the presser foot and needle down as you stitch the next segment.

Step 5. Stitch seam closed and press open. The ends of the trim may be tacked down or bound with seam binding for a clean finish. If waistband is meant to open (such as a jacket front), turn ends of trim to wrong side and close with hooks and eyes, or a buckle.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Richard Paulus, Muscatine, Iowa, is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following sewing suggestion:

"For the gals who make shirts for the men in their lives, here's the way I solved the problem of the proper stays to insert under the collars. I discovered I could cut the stays from the plastic cover of a margarine tub. I've laundered the shirts with the stays left in and even put in the dryer. They come out perfect and really keep the shirts tailored and neat."

DEAR EUNICE,

I would like to achieve the same professional look in making shirts that I see in the ready-made garments. The collars seem so firm, you can't even feel the interfacing. The same holds true with the front band and the cuffs. Isn't there something we home sewers can use that will work?

MRS. C.W.

DEAR MRS. C.W.,

We have done quite a bit of experimenting on this same subject and have had very good luck in two of our methods. These were tested on the conventional shirt patterns, like men's shirts, a collar stand. These methods seem to work well on lightweight shirting fabrics rather than heavier wools.

The first method is to use lightweight press-on interfacing. Press it to the collar facing, front band, and cuffs. It is much less bulky if you cut it slightly smaller than the seam allowance. In this way, it will still be where you need it but will not be included when stitching the seams. If you do include it in the seams, you will find the edges are very difficult to press flat.

The second method, and one that is very new is to use the fusible webbing. Apply it to your collar, cuffs, and front bands just as you would any lightweight interfacing. After you have done your machine stitching, clipping and trimming of seams and turned it to the right side, you can press it firmly (according to the directions on your fusible webbing). The pressing will create a bonding between both layers of fabric. I am sure this is done very often professionally.

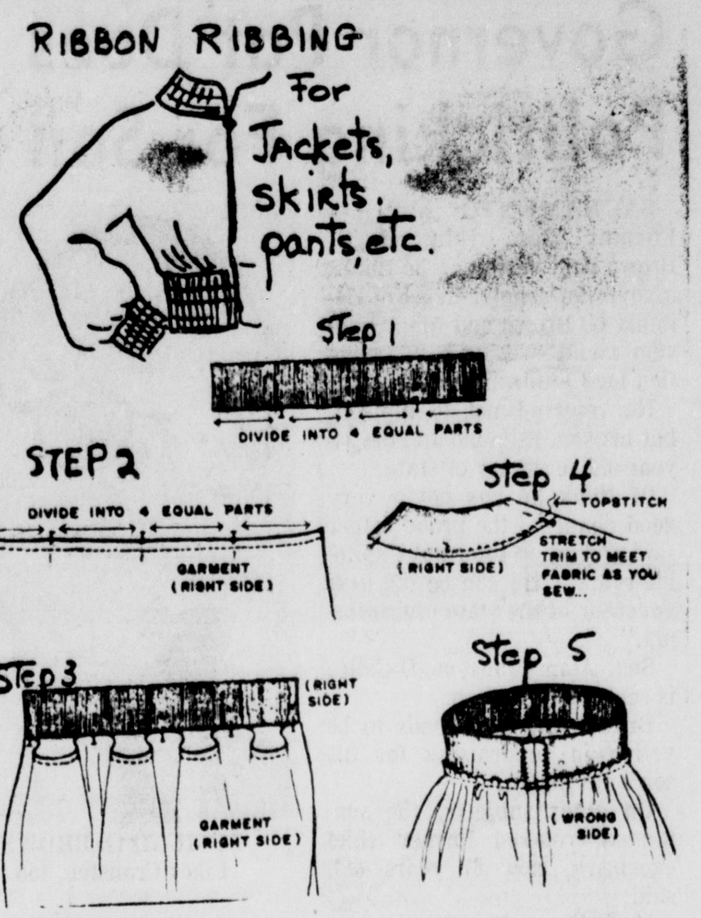
You can also use the webbing that is applied to paper for easier handling. You press the paper which bonds the webbing to one layer of your fabric, continue to construct your garment. When it is completed, press again and it will bond the two layers together.

DEAR EUNICE,

I was examining some ready-made blouses and I could swear they are made out of lining fabric. Could this be possible?

Yes, it could be very possible. Some lining fabrics are 100 per cent polyester, lightweight, and inexpensive. There is no reason that I can think of that you couldn't use this fabric for almost any kind of blouse. Remember, if you are intending to wash synthetic garments, be sure the interfacing you use is also washable.

The lap board is a nifty gadget and a great sewing aid. It fits around your lap for an instant table for hand sewing. For your instructions on making the lap board, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Eunice Farmer in care of this newspaper.



Loosen Up Before Exercise Program

Sit with feet crossed, body relaxed. Rest arms and hands loosely, let head hang. Circle head slowly to right and up as you stretch spine by lifting rib cage. Continue to stretch torso as you raise head until it is in a line with the spine. Swing head to left, then down to hang as at start. Relax body, then repeat.

Governor Pat Does Politicking For Son

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Former Gov. Edmund G. Brown said yesterday he thinks a governor-senator ticket of Edmund G. Brown and Alan Cranston would sweep the 1974 election for California Democrats.

He referred not to himself, but his son, Edmund Jr., the 34-year-old secretary of state.

"I think he has got a very good chance," the proud father said during an informal Capitol interview. "He can be the next governor of the state of California."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., is seeking reelection.

Brown said he intends to be active in fundraising for his son's campaign.

On other subjects, the suntanned, relaxed former chief executive, now 67 years old, said:

He believes Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan is using his tax control petition drive to build a campaign for president in 1976. Brown, who was ousted from office by Reagan in 1966, added he thinks Reagan "has a good shot" at the GOP nomination.

Former Texas Gov. John Connally would have a better chance at the presidency in 1976 if he remained a Democrat rather than switching parties and becoming a Republican.

He thinks President Nixon, whom Brown defeated for governor in 1962, will be most remembered for his establishment of ties with Communist China.

Brown Jr. is considered by some political observers as the frontrunner among the five potential Democratic candidates to succeed Reagan, who plans to step down next year.

"I think a ticket of Alan Cranston and Edmund Brown would sweep the state," Brown said. Then he added with a smile: "If his father would stay out of it and not embarrass him."

Brown said Reagan is wrong to take his tax control plan to the people without first holding full hearings on the measure.

"This is politics of the most dishonest kind," Brown said.

He called Reagan's strategy "a very transparent ploy that he wants to use in his campaign for the presidency."

Governor Opens Drive On Tax Plan

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It's not every day you find the governor of California smiling on your doorstep.

Yet there he was yesterday, Gov. Ronald Reagan, pen and petition in hand as he stepped smartly down Galloway Street in suburban Pacific Palisades, pausing at each home to kick off a campaign to get his new tax plan on the November ballot.

He must get some 800,000 signatures by June and 520,000 to qualify for the election.

California's tall and tan chief politico, clad in a warm green-checked suit, strode down the walk of more than a dozen tidy, middle income homes, catching quite a few housewives in housecoats and morning chores.

"Hi, I'm Ronald Reagan," the governor would say, flashing a broad grin, then launching into a brief but animated discussion of his "revolutionary, new" state tax reduction plan of which the Democratic legislature has all but turned thumbs down.

The governor, standing on the lawn of one home, told some two dozen newsmen that his house-to-house initiative campaign was a first for a California governor and meant to give taxpayers the chance to bypass the legislature and decide on the proposal themselves.

Gov. Reagan submitted the proposed constitutional tax amendment to the legislature last month, but leaders in both state houses made it clear they have no intention of letting the people vote on the issue.

The statewide petition drive, which begins next week by citizens, could be halted abruptly, Reagan said, if the legislature decides to let the special election take place Nov. 6.

The governor himself lives nearby in an expensive, ranchs-style home in this wealthy coastal community and an aide said Galloway Street was chosen for Reagan's walk because it was "typical." The homes were chosen for their Middle America look.

Mrs. Virginia Ferguson, a registered Democrat, was the first to meet the governor. Clad in sandals and a flowered top, she agreed with Reagan that something had to be done about high taxes.

Autistic Child Project Is Set

Novato Jaycees will start selling trash can liners Monday in a campaign to raise funds for the Marin Society for Autistic Children and other community projects, according to chairman Donald G. Benstine.

Recenue will help develop a new center for training and treatment of autistic children, Benstine said. Telephone and door-to-door solicitation will be used, he said. The campaign will continue through June.

DeMolays In Novato Set Installation

Jeffery Conover, 15, a student at Sinaloa Junior High School in Novato, will be installed as master councilor of the Novato Chapter, Order of DeMolay, at 7:30 p.m. today at Druid's Hall.

Conover, son of senior M/Sgt. and Mrs. J. D. Conover of 52 Stasia Drive, will be the youngest master councilor ever to serve the Novato chapter.

Christopher Wright will be installed as senior deacon; Marshall Allen, junior deacon; Allen Benner, scribe-treasurer; Daniel Crammer, chaplain; Michael Foster, marshal; Carl Hagberg, senior steward.

Also, Byron Shave, junior steward; John Lee, Standard Bearer; Scott Hayes, first preceptor; Paul Gramlich, second preceptor; Michael Lakos, third preceptor; David Voorhees, fourth preceptor; Steven Short, fifth preceptor; Byron Shaver, sixth preceptor, and Michael Dacquisto, seventh preceptor.

Installing officers will be Allen Benelli, Steven Doolittle, Victor Adams, Michael Hendrickson, Wallace Campbell and Christopher Pilkington.

Kathryn Sheraw and Lauren Elkin III will be hosts. After the installation, a dance will be held with music by "Temptest."

First Names Of Hopefuls Left Out

An editing error in an article appearing in yesterday's Independent-Journal resulted in deletion of the first names of two candidates for the San Rafael City Council.

The candidates, described in a list of council contenders as Mulryan and Tinkler, are incumbent councilman Lawrence E. Mulryan and Leo Tinkler, a San Rafael real estate broker.

Governor Pat Does Politicking For Son

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Former Gov. Edmund G. Brown said yesterday he thinks a governor-senator ticket of Edmund G. Brown and Alan Cranston would sweep the 1974 election for California Democrats.

He referred not to himself, but his son, Edmund Jr., the 34-year-old secretary of state.

"I think he has got a very good chance," the proud father said during an informal Capitol interview. "He can be the next governor of the state of California."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., is seeking reelection.

Brown said he intends to be active in fundraising for his son's campaign.

On other subjects, the suntanned, relaxed former chief executive, now 67 years old, said:

EDMUND G. BROWN
Likes Cranston, too

He believes Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan is using his tax control petition drive to build a campaign for president in 1976. Brown, who was ousted from office by Reagan in 1966, added he thinks Reagan "has a good shot" at the GOP nomination.

Former Texas Gov. John Connally would have a better chance at the presidency in 1976 if he remained a Democrat rather than switching parties and becoming a Republican.

He thinks President Nixon, whom Brown defeated for governor in 1962, will be most remembered for his establishment of ties with Communist China.

Brown Jr. is considered by some political observers as the frontrunner among the five potential Democratic candidates to succeed Reagan, who plans to step down next year.

"I think a ticket of Alan Cranston and Edmund Brown would sweep the state," Brown said. Then he added with a smile: "If his father would stay out of it and not embarrass him."

Brown said Reagan is wrong to take his tax control plan to the people without first holding full hearings on the measure.

"This is politics of the most dishonest kind," Brown said.

He called Reagan's strategy "a very transparent ploy that he wants to use in his campaign for the presidency."

School Board Hopefuls Slate Series Of Events

Candidates in Marin School board races April 17 have announced newly scheduled coffees and public appearances.

They are:

KENTFIELD SCHOOL DISTRICT — Candidate Gloria Riccardi, 10:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Victor Donati home, 101 La Cuesta, Greenbrae; 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Peter Dunn home, 208 Laurel Grove Avenue, Kentfield; 1 p.m. Wednesday at the Peter Brajkovich home, 139 Via La Cumbre, Greenbrae, and 1 p.m. Thursday at the Edward Bingham home, 29 Bretano Way, Greenbrae.

Governor Opens Drive On Tax Plan

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It's not every day you find the governor of California smiling on your doorstep.

Yet there he was yesterday, Gov. Ronald Reagan, pen and petition in hand as he stepped smartly down Galloway Street in suburban Pacific Palisades, pausing at each home to kick off a campaign to get his new tax plan on the November ballot.

He must get some 800,000 signatures by June and 520,000 to qualify for the election.

California's tall and tan chief politico, clad in a warm green-checked suit, strode down the walk of more than a dozen tidy, middle income homes, catching quite a few housewives in housecoats and morning chores.

"Hi, I'm Ronald Reagan," the governor would say, flashing a broad grin, then launching into a brief but animated discussion of his "revolutionary, new" state tax reduction plan of which the Democratic legislature has all but turned thumbs down.

Gov. Reagan submitted the proposed constitutional tax amendment to the legislature last month, but leaders in both state houses made it clear they have no intention of letting the people vote on the issue.

The statewide petition drive, which begins next week by citizens, could be halted abruptly, Reagan said, if the legislature decides to let the special election take place Nov. 6.

The governor himself lives nearby in an expensive, ranchstyle home in this wealthy coastal community and an aide said Galloway Street was chosen for Reagan's walk because it was "typical." The homes were chosen for their Middle America look.

San Rafael - Large family kitchen. 2 bdrms. and formal diningroom (can be third bdrm.) Delightful Lanai with BBQ off of large private patio. Exclusive.
Call 453-2230

DEAR AUNT MAUDE
We found it! The neatest 3 bdrm. 2 ba. home! There's a formal dining area, large kitchen (all-electric) with comfy family room. Best of all, I can have my own big, separate sewing room . . . unless Bob uses it for his office. And of course, it could be your room when you visit. The kids will love it too . . . real near to playground and school. I'M SO EXCITED can't wait to get in . . . BUT . . . dear Auntie, we're a bit short on the down-payment. It won't take much, could you help? You won't be sorry . . . wait 'till you see it. Lots of house for $41,950.

IMPOUNDS & EXTRAS EXPLAINED.

Through this series of Ads, the member offices of the Marin County Board of Realtors want you to know as much as possible about buying or selling your home.

When you buy a home, there may be charges known as "Impounds & Extras". Since some mortgage loans require taxes and insurance be paid monthly, a trust fund, or "Impound" account is set up by the lender for the payment of these funds. Other payments through an Impound account might include pro-rated taxes between buyer and seller; pr-rated fire insurance premiums; pro-rated rents or bonds.

Extras include such things as a credit report, Notary and recording Fee, Loan Fee, Appraisal report, tax service, ALTA Inspection Fee.

When buying a home, you'll find it to your advantage to work through a member of the Marin County Board of Realtors. And when selling your home, be sure to place it on Multiple Listing. You'll have more than 1,000 salesmen working for you. The member offices of the Marin County Board of Realtors. Your Real Estate Professionals.

IMPOUNDS & EXTRAS EXPLAINED.

Through this series of Ads, the member offices of the Marin County Board of Realtors want you to know as much as possible about buying or selling your home.

When you buy a home, there may be charges known as "Impounds & Extras". Since some mortgage loans require taxes and insurance be paid monthly, a trust fund, or "Impound" account is set up by the lender for the payment of these funds. Other payments through an Impound account might include pro-rated taxes between buyer and seller; pr-rated fire insurance premiums; pro-rated rents or bonds.

Extras include such things as a credit report, Notary and recording Fee, Loan Fee, Appraisal report, tax service, ALTA Inspection Fee.

When buying a home, you'll find it to your advantage to work through a member of the Marin County Board of Realtors. And when selling your home, be sure to place it on Multiple Listing. You'll have more than 1,000 salesmen working for you. The member offices of the Marin County Board of Realtors. Your Real Estate Professionals.

Old Jets Are Being Retired

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) — The Royal New Zealand Air Force is retiring the last of its 21-year-old Vampire jet fighters.

The Vampires comprised the country's first jet squadron in 1951 and were the mainstay of the Air Force strike force until Canberra light bombers were introduced in 1959.

Vampires remained in an operations role until the Air Force acquired Skyhawks in 1970. They will be completely phased out on arrival of new Strikemaster jet training aircraft.

Atlanta First Named Terminus

ATLANTA (UPI) — The first name for the present city of Atlanta was Terminus because it was at the end of a rail line.

In 1843 the name was changed to Marthasville, in honor of Martha Lumpkin, daughter of a former governor. In 1845 the name was changed to Atlanta, a coined word which was believed to be the feminine version of Atlantic.

Old Jets Are Being Retired

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) — The Royal New Zealand Air Force is retiring the last of its 21-year-old Vampire jet fighters.

The Vampires comprised the country's first jet squadron in 1951 and were the mainstay of the Air Force strike force until Canberra light bombers were introduced in 1959.

Vampires remained in an operations role until the Air Force acquired Skyhawks in 1970. They will be completely phased out on arrival of new Strikemaster jet training aircraft.

Atlanta First Named Terminus

ATLANTA (UPI) — The first name for the present city of Atlanta was Terminus because it was at the end of a rail line.

In 1843 the name was changed to Marthasville, in honor of Martha Lumpkin, daughter of a former governor. In 1845 the name was changed to Atlanta, a coined word which was believed to be the feminine version of Atlantic.

Youth Enters A Plea To Drug Charges

A 19-year-old Novato resident has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to felony counts of possessing marijuana and restricted drugs.

Preliminary hearing for William Joseph Harrington was set for April 24.

Mill Valley police, who saw suspected pot in his car March 14, obtained a warrant to search the auto and arrested him the next day.

Tests revealed the white tablets to be methamphetamine, but the red tablets apparently were not an illegal substance, according to deputy Dist. Atty. Edward Torrico.

Cotati Council's Session Canceled

The Cotati City Council meeting scheduled for Monday has been canceled, according to City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen.

The council had been scheduled to interview an applicant for the new position of city engineer-public works director, but the application was withdrawn yesterday.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Saturday, April 7, the 97th day of 1973 with 268 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Jupiter, Venus, Mars and Mercury. The evening star is Saturn.

Allen Pinkerton, first chief of the U.S. Secret Service, was born April 7, 1819.

On this day in history:

In 1927, the first successful demonstration of long distance television was made between Washington and New York City.

In 1943, American and British troops linked up in Tunisia during the North African campaign of World War II.

In 1947, millions of Americans were without telephone service as a nationwide strike began. It lasted 23 days.

In 1968, federal troops were ordered out in Baltimore to put down racial rioting.

A thought for the day: British poet George Chapman said, "They're only truly great who are truly good."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, clean air.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Phony Insurance Claims Revealed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Nearly two-thirds of the insurance policies claimed by the scandal-ridden Equity Funding Life Insurance Co. were phony —no one really had bought them—a preliminary audit by the California Department of Insurance showed Friday.

The department, which has been auditing the giant firm since a possible multimillion dollar fraud was uncovered, announced Friday that the Los Angeles company carried 97,111 insurance policies on its books when the department seized Equity's assets and records last weekend.

Of the policies, 56,091 were phony and 34,796 were in force, the department said.

Thursday, the corporate parent, Equity Funding Corp. of America, declared bankruptcy. The California Insurance Department has been awarded conservator powers over Equity Funding Life Insurance Co. and Equity Funding Corp., the parent's bookkeeping subsidiary.

The heart of the purported scandal is the charge that the insurance company invented customers, fabricating policy holders who never existed. The alleged bogus policies, which made the company appear far more prosperous than it was, sold to other insurance companies—at least 15 of them—for millions of dollars, investigators say.

In another development Friday, it was revealed that the downfall of Equity apparently was touched off by a telephone call a month ago to a New York insurance expert.

Raymond L. Dirks, a vice president of Delafield, Childs & Co. in New York, said he received the call from Ronald H. Secrist, then employed by another insurance company in Atlanta.

Dirks said Secrist told him he had worked both for Equity Funding and a subsidiary in New Jersey and suspected that as much as one third of its business was "faked."

After checking the story out, Dirks said he took his informationo before Equity Funding's outside auditors, Seidman & Seidman, who turned it over to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The Los Angeles Times said Friday that Dirks told the newspaper that he himself is being investigated by the SEC and the New York Stock Exchange for possible violation of insider trading rules and laws involving the leak.

The Times said Dirks admitted that he told some of his clients first about the alleged fraud, prompting them to unload their Equity Funding stock, which led to the SEC investigation.

But Dirks, who said he considers himself the "Ralph Nader of Wall Street defended his actions on grounds that the institutions which are his clients "were not insiders, because insider information is where the company disclosed something to one individual or broker which it is not disclosing to the public.

Richard M. Bishop, an NYSE senior vice president, said in a Times interview, "I think he (Dirks) should have told us sooner (about Equity). That is a very serious thing."

As a result, Dirks will be called before a group of Big Board stock watch investigators Monday when a deposition will be taken and he will be asked to "get a lot more specific" on how he filled in his clients, Bishop said.

Rules and law set forth by the SEC make it the responsibility of persons in the securities industry to inform the SEC of significant events which may have an impact on stock trad-

Wounded Knee Peace Talks Are Postponed

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (UPI) — A 24-hour postponement of talks in Washington between American Indian Movement (AIM) leaders and government officials was expected to result in the continued occupation of Wounded Knee.

Militant Indians had been expected to lay down their arms and end their 38-day takeover after AIM officials met with Washington officials this morning, but last night Washington officials said "some minor details" had caused a 24-hour postponement of that meeting.

The talks, pushed back until tomorrow morning, had been one of the terms of the agreement signed Thursday in which militants said they would abandon Wounded Knee and submit to arrest on any warrants against them.

There was no word early today from militant Indians at Wounded Knee as to how the postponement would affect the scheduled surrender. Government officials in the area also had no comment.

However, Russell Means, an AIM leader who submitted to arrest after the agreement so he could negotiate with Washington officials, said Friday the occupation would continue "until the government shows it is sincere."

Speaking at an impromptu news conference at Dulles International Airport after arriving in Washington Friday before the talks were postponed, Means said, "The federal government has duped the press and the world again. The conflict at Wounded Knee is not over and will not be over until the federal government shows it is sincere."

Under terms of the agreement, Means, Chief Bad Cobb and medicine man Crow Dog were to meet with Leonard Garment, a special assistant to President Nixon. Then Means was to telephone followers in Wounded Knee to surrender their weapons and submit to arrest on any warrants lodged against them.

However, even before the announcement came that talks had been postponed, government officials near Wounded Knee were pessimistic over the outcome of the surrender.

Kent Frizzell, assistant attorney general who has been the government's chief negotiator at Wounded Knee, said a handful of dissidents—some four to 10 men—might resist.

Frizzell said the agreement had called only for the handing over of "illegal" weapons such as automatic rifles and pistols without permits, and that shooting might erupt at the surrender hour.

Reports circulated in Pine Ridge, the reservation headquarters town, that either opposition by hard core militants or followers of Oglala Sioux Tribal Chairman Dick Wilson might mar the promised end of the occupation.

Angel Is Found Guilty In Death

MARTINEZ, Calif. (UPI) — Hell's Angel William J. Moran was found guilty Thursday of strangling a Georgia motorcyclist during a drug and alcohol party the outlaw gang held in their El Sobrante clubhouse.

Moran 40, was convicted of killing Charles Baker, 30, but was acquitted of the death of the victim's buddy, Thomas Shull, 24.

Prosecution witnesses said Moran used his hands, then a belt and finally a rope before he finally succeeded in strangling Baker.

Hearing Will Resume Monday On Project

The Marin County Planning Commission, meeting Monday at 9 a.m. at Civic Center, will resume its hearing on the environmental impact of the controversial San Pedro reserve townhouse project.

Backers of the project, which calls for 1,100 units on 257 acres overlooking Santa Venetia, are expected to propose modifications and request approval for only 450 units.

The commission also will discuss a proposed specific plan for the Indian Valley area near Novato. The plan proposes to preserve the rural atmosphere of the area.

Subdivision Ban To Be Studied

The Fairfax City Council will consider a proposal for a moratorium on subdivisions, multiple dwellings and ridge and creek development when it meets at 8 p.m. Monday in the Fairfax Women's Club.

The ban, proposed by Councilman Frank J. Egger, would prevent such development pending recommendations from the city's general plan review committee.

The council also will consider plans to improve Deer Park School and hear a report on storm damage.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Iron In Body Has Very Rapid Turnover Due To Blood Cells

The body contains between two and five grams (1-15 to 1-6 ounce) of iron. However, the amount varies with body weight and the hemoglobin (iron) level in the blood. About 30 per cent of this is storage iron. A large portion of the remainder is in the form of hemoglobin in red blood cells. Hemoblogin carries oxygen from the lungs to the tissues and carbon dioxide in return.

In males, the total amount of iron is greater mainly because more is stored and the hemoglobin is higher. The recommended daily allowance for men is 10 mg. (18 mg. for women).

IRON IN THE body has a very rapid turnover because every second some three million red blood cells die and break up. The hemoglobin is released and returns to bone marrow where it is reformed into fresh hemoglobin within new cells. This is how the body conserves its iron supply.

The amount of iron in the body is regulated by control of absorption. It is increased in the healthy individual when the blood hemoglobin is lower than normal and if iron stores are low. Diet also is important, because the amount of iron absorbed from food differs with different foodstuffs. For example, from 15 to 20 per cent of the iron is absorbed from diets containing large amounts of animal protein; only 5 to 10 per cent is absorbed from diets composed of vegetable foods.

THE MOST common form of anemia is due to iron deficiency. This occurs whenever blood iron loss exceeds dietary iron intake. Bleeding is one cause especially among women during the childbearing years. Less absorption ensues after age 65.

Iron deficiency also occurs during infancy due to an inadequate diet and small iron stores at birth. A newborn has only one-quarter gram of iron. This doubles by the end of the first year and doubles again by age 2. Since milk contains very little iron, solid foods must be started early to avoid anemia. But iron deficiency due to an inadequate diet still is common before the age of 3. After age 3, iron deficiency is unusual in children.

SKIN DRYNESS

REPLY

Vitamin deficiencies, allergy, too little thyroid production, and heredity are among the possibilities. The youngster may be bathed too frequently or the apartment may lack humidity. There is some evidence that a limited amount of fat in the diet contributes to dryness of the skin. I assume he does not have ichthyosis, a condition in which the skin is extremely dry and scaly.

STRIPPING VEINGS

W.R.B. writes: Will stripping of varicose veins be successful if the injection method has been used previously?

REPLY

Yes, assuming that the injections failed to eliminate the vein. We realize that the veins must be open if stripping is to be successful. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on varicosities.

Youth Enters A Plea To Drug Charges

A 19-year-old Novato resident has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to felony counts of possessing marijuana and restricted drugs.

Preliminary hearing for William Joseph Harrington was set for April 24.

Mill Valley police, who saw suspected pot in his car March 14, obtained a warrant to search the auto and arrested him the next day.

Tests revealed the white tablets to be methamphetamine, but the red tablets apparently were not an illegal substance, according to deputy Dist. Atty. Edward Torrico.

Cotati Council's Session Canceled

The Cotati City Council meeting scheduled for Monday has been canceled, according to City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen.

The council had been scheduled to interview an applicant for the new position of city engineer-public works director, but the application was withdrawn yesterday.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Saturday, April 7, the 97th day of 1973 with 268 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Jupiter, Venus, Mars and Mercury. The evening star is Saturn.

Allen Pinkerton, first chief of the U.S. Secret Service, was born April 7, 1819.

On this day in history:

In 1927, the first successful demonstration of long distance television was made between Washington and New York City.

In 1943, American and British troops linked up in Tunisia during the North African campaign of World War II.

In 1947, millions of Americans were without telephone service as a nationwide strike began. It lasted 23 days.

In 1968, federal troops were ordered out in Baltimore to put down racial rioting.

A thought for the day: British poet George Chapman said, "They're only truly great who are truly good."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, clean air.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Phony Insurance Claims Revealed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Nearly two-thirds of the insurance policies claimed by the scandal-ridden Equity Funding Life Insurance Co. were phony —no one really had bought them—a preliminary audit by the California Department of Insurance showed Friday.

The department, which has been auditing the giant firm since a possible multimillion dollar fraud was uncovered, announced Friday that the Los Angeles company carried 97,111 insurance policies on its books when the department seized Equity's assets and records last weekend.

Of the policies, 56,091 were phony and 34,796 were in force, the department said.

Thursday, the corporate parent, Equity Funding Corp. of America, declared bankruptcy. The California Insurance Department has been awarded conservator powers over Equity Funding Life Insurance Co. and Equity Funding Corp., the parent's bookkeeping subsidiary.

The heart of the purported scandal is the charge that the insurance company invented customers, fabricating policy holders who never existed. The alleged bogus policies, which made the company appear far more prosperous than it was, sold to other insurance companies—at least 15 of them—for millions of dollars, investigators say.

In another development Friday, it was revealed that the downfall of Equity apparently was touched off by a telephone call a month ago to a New York insurance expert.

Raymond L. Dirks, a vice president of Delafield, Childs & Co. in New York, said he received the call from Ronald H. Secrist, then employed by another insurance company in Atlanta.

Dirks said Secrist told him he had worked both for Equity Funding and a subsidiary in New Jersey and suspected that as much as one third of its business was "faked."

After checking the story out, Dirks said he took his informationo before Equity Funding's outside auditors, Seidman & Seidman, who turned it over to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The Los Angeles Times said Friday that Dirks told the newspaper that he himself is being investigated by the SEC and the New York Stock Exchange for possible violation of insider trading rules and laws involving the leak.

The Times said Dirks admitted that he told some of his clients first about the alleged fraud, prompting them to unload their Equity Funding stock, which led to the SEC investigation.

But Dirks, who said he considers himself the "Ralph Nader of Wall Street defended his actions on grounds that the institutions which are his clients "were not insiders, because insider information is where the company disclosed something to one individual or broker which it is not disclosing to the public.

Richard M. Bishop, an NYSE senior vice president, said in a Times interview, "I think he (Dirks) should have told us sooner (about Equity). That is a very serious thing."

As a result, Dirks will be called before a group of Big Board stock watch investigators Monday when a deposition will be taken and he will be asked to "get a lot more specific" on how he filled in his clients, Bishop said.

Rules and law set forth by the SEC make it the responsibility of persons in the securities industry to inform the SEC of significant events which may have an impact on stock trad-

Wounded Knee Peace Talks Are Postponed

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (UPI) — A 24-hour postponement of talks in Washington between American Indian Movement (AIM) leaders and government officials was expected to result in the continued occupation of Wounded Knee.

Militant Indians had been expected to lay down their arms and end their 38-day takeover after AIM officials met with Washington officials this morning, but last night Washington officials said "some minor details" had caused a 24- hour postponement of that meeting.

The talks, pushed back until tomorrow morning, had been one of the terms of the agreement signed Thursday in which militants said they would abandon Wounded Knee and submit to arrest on any warrants against them.

There was no word early today from militant Indians at Wounded Knee as to how the postponement would affect the scheduled surrender. Government officials in the area also had no comment.

However, Russell Means, an AIM leader who submitted to arrest after the agreement so he could negotiate with Washington officials, said Friday the occupation would continue "until the government shows it is sincere."

Speaking at an impromptu news conference at Dulles International Airport after arriving in Washington Friday before the talks were postponed, Means said, "The federal government has duped the press and the world again. The conflict at Wounded Knee is not over and will not be over until the federal government shows it is sincere."

Under terms of the agreement, Means, Chief Bad Cobb and medicine man Crow Dog were to meet with Leonard Garment, a special assistant to President Nixon. Then Means was to telephone followers in Wounded Knee to surrender their weapons and submit to arrest on any warrants against them.

However, even before the announcement came that talks had been postponed, government officials near Wounded Knee were pessimistic over the outcome of the surrender.

Kent Frizzell, assistant attorney general who has been the government's chief negotiator at Wounded Knee, said a handful of dissidents—some four to 10 men—might resist.

Frizzell said the agreement had called only for the handing over of "illegal" weapons such as automatic rifles and pistols without permits, and that shooting might erupt at the surrender hour.

Reports circulated in Pine Ridge, the reservation headquarters town, that either opposition by hard core militants or followers of Oglala Sioux Tribal Chairman Dick Wilson might mar the promised end of the occupation.

Hearing Will Resume Monday On Project

The Marin County Planning Commission, meeting Monday at 9 a.m. at Civic Center, will resume its hearing on the environmental impact of the controversial San Pedro reserve townhouse project.

Backers of the project, which calls for 1,100 units on 257 acres overlooking Santa Venetia, are expected to propose modifications and request approval for only 450 units.

The commission also will discuss a proposed specific plan for the Indian Valley area near Novato. The plan proposes to preserve the rural atmosphere of the area.

Angel Is Found Guilty In Death

MARTINEZ, Calif. (UPI) — Hell's Angel William J. Moran was found guilty Thursday of strangling a Georgia motorcyclist during a drug and alcohol party the outlaw gang held in their El Sobrante clubhouse.

Moran 40, was convicted of killing Charles Baker, 30, but was acquitted of the death of the victim's buddy, Thomas Shull, 24.

Prosecution witnesses said Moran used his hands, then a belt and finally a rope before he finally succeeded in strangling Baker.

Shull apparently died of a drug overdose at the party and both victims were buried in graves at a Mendocino County ranch owned by a former motorcycle gang member.

Subdivision Ban To Be Studied

The Fairfax City Council will consider a proposal for a moratorium on subdivisions, multiple dwellings and ridge and creek development when it meets at 8 p.m. Monday in the Fairfax Women's Club.

The ban, proposed by Councilman Frank J. Egger, would prevent such development pending recommendations from the city's general plan review committee.

The council also will consider plans to improve Deer Park School and hear a report on storm damage.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Iron In Body Has Very Rapid Turnover Due To Blood Cells

The body contains between two and five grams (1-15 to 1-6 ounce) of iron. However, the amount varies with body weight and the hemoglobin (iron) level in the blood. About 30 per cent of this is storage iron. A large portion of the remainder is in the form of hemoglobin in red blood cells. Hemoblogin carries oxygen from the lungs to the tissues and carbon dioxide in return.

In males, the total amount of iron is greater mainly because more is stored and the hemoglobin is higher. The recommended daily allowance for men is 10 mg. (18 mg. for women).

IRON IN THE body has a very rapid turnover because every second some three million red blood cells die and break up. The hemoglobin is released and returns to bone marrow where it is reformed into fresh hemoglobin within new cells. This is how the body conserves its iron supply.

The amount of iron in the body is regulated by control of absorption. It is increased in the healthy individual when the blood hemoglobin is lower than normal and if iron stores are low. Diet also is important, because the amount of iron absorbed from food differs with different foodstuffs. For example, from 15 to 20 per cent of the iron is absorbed from diets containing large amounts of animal protein; only 5 to 10 per cent is absorbed from diets composed of vegetable foods.

THE MOST common form of anemia is due to iron deficiency. This occurs whenever blood iron loss exceeds dietary iron intake. Bleeding is one cause especially among women during the childbearing years. Less absorption ensues after age 65.

Iron deficiency also occurs during infancy due to an inadequate diet and small iron stores at birth. A newborn has only one-quarter gram of iron. This doubles by the end of the first year and doubles again by age 2. Since milk contains very little iron, solid foods must be started early to avoid anemia. But iron deficiency due to an inadequate diet still is common before the age of 3. After age 3, iron deficiency is unusual in children.

SKIN DRYNESS

REPLY

Vitamin deficiencies, allergy, too little thyroid production, and heredity are among the possibilities. The youngster may be bathed too frequently or the apartment may lack humidity. There is some evidence that a limited amount of fat in the diet contributes to dryness of the skin. I assume he does not have ichthyosis, a condition in which the skin is extremely dry and scaly.

STRIPPING VEINGS

W.R.B. writes: Will stripping of varicose veins be successful if the injection method has been used previously?

REPLY

Yes, assuming that the injections failed to eliminate the vein. We realize that the veins must be open if stripping is to be successful. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on varicosities.

Swim Crown To Backhaus

Butterfly Victory For Marinite In AAU Meet

I-J Special Report

CINCINNATI — Robin Backhaus woke up this morning as a national champion, but had little chance to enjoy his triumph with another important race scheduled late today.

Backhaus yesterday became the first Marin Aquatic Club swimmer ever to win a national title when he swam the 200-yard butterfly in 1:49.55 in the National Amateur Athletic Union Short Course Men's and Women's Swimming Championships here.

The 18-year-old senior from San Rafael High School, who moved from Redlands to join coach Don Swartz' Marin A.C., also moved into the lead in the individual point standings with 49 to 48 for Steve Furniss of the University of Southern California and 45 for the unattached John Naber of Menlo Park.

Backhaus was scheduled to swim today in the 1,650-yard freestyle along with teammate Rick DeMont, former world record holder in the similar 1,500-meter free who ironically is still bidding for his first victory in the Nationals.

Naber also swims the 1,650, so Backhuas can hope to fend him off directly in his bid for the point title, but Furniss is entered in the 200 individual medley, in which he is the American record holder. If Furniss wins, Backhaus must win the 1,650 for the point title, which means he would have to beat DeMont.

"Robin changed his tactics a little bit and caught everybody off guard," said Swartz of yesterday's race. Backhaus swam the first 100 yards in 52.36, some two seconds faster than normal, and had enough left at the end to outlast Gary Hall of Indiana University by about a foot. Hall, who beat Backhaus for the silver medal in the Munich Olympics last fall, was timed in 1:49.8

Backhaus' time in the preliminaries was 1:59.49.

Six other Marinites swam yesterday, with Keith Strange finishing 14th in the 200 breaststroke in 2:12.02 after swimming 2:11.86, five seconds under his previous best time, in the prelims. Jeff Miller did 2:16.1 (a personal best), Warren Lager 2:16.6 and Spencer Eldred 2:18.3 in that race. All swam unattached.

Sue Secondo swam 2:33.7 in the women's 200 breast and Art Morrill did a personal best of 55.0 in the 100 back. Neither placed.

USC was swimming away with the men's team championship with 494 points to 173 for the Santa Clara Swim Club. Marin A.C. was eighth at 64.

In other races, Lynn Colella of the University of Washington bettered her own American record in the 200 breast with a 2:20.549 clocking, and Shane Gould of Australia and Santa Clara won the 200 fly in an American record 2:02.72.

Other winners included Rick Colella, Lynn's brother, in the men's 200 breast, Linda Simpson of Los Angeles in the women's 100 breast in 58.507, and Naber in the men's 100 back in 51:36.

Other Marinites scheduled to swim today include Jo Hislop in the women's 100 free, Maura Campion in the women's 200 IM, and Morrill in the men's 200 IM.

San Rafael Nine Outlasts Drake

In a baseball game which contained everything from high heroics to absurdity, San Rafael High School outlasted Drake yesterday afternoon in a 15-14 slugfest which was finally decided on a bases-loaded walk.

The Bulldogs' John Sims drew the free pass with two out in the bottom of the seventh inning of the Marin County Athletic League game at Albert Field. It scored Lance Loughlin, the first of four San Rafael players to walk that inning.

Nine pitchers from the two teams combined to give up 28 bases on balls and 23 hits during the three-hour, 15-minute marathon. Two of the hits were epic blows — a grand-slam homer by Drake's Don Asay in the first inning, and a two-run shot by San Rafael's Dave Steele in the second, both to left field.

By the middle of the fourth inning — the halfway point of the game — the score was 14-11 in favor of Drake, but the Pirates were kept from further scoring by San Rafael reliever Mike Farris.

San Rafael picked up three runs in the sixth on a two-run single by Craig Saunders and — yes — a bases-loaded walk to Kevin Loughlin.

Redwood Shuts Out Novato In Baseball

Redwood High School scored four unearned runs in the first inning and pitcher Ed Andersen kept visiting Novato at bay the rest of the game yesterday as the Giants captured a 5-0 baseball victory.

The triumph kept the defending champions (4-0) in sole possession of first place in the Marin County Athletic League, while Novato (2-2) rests in fifth place with Terra Linda.

With two out in the first, Mark LaTorre hit an infield single and Matt Gondak a towering fly into the blinding sun which went for a double. A throwing error on Ross Secor's grounder scored them, and Daryl Edralin followed with a walk.

Secor eventually scored on a fielder's choice which failed to retire anybody, and Edralin tallied on a rundown which resulted in the third out.

Andersen was touched for 10 hits, four by Novato's Jeff Rubino.

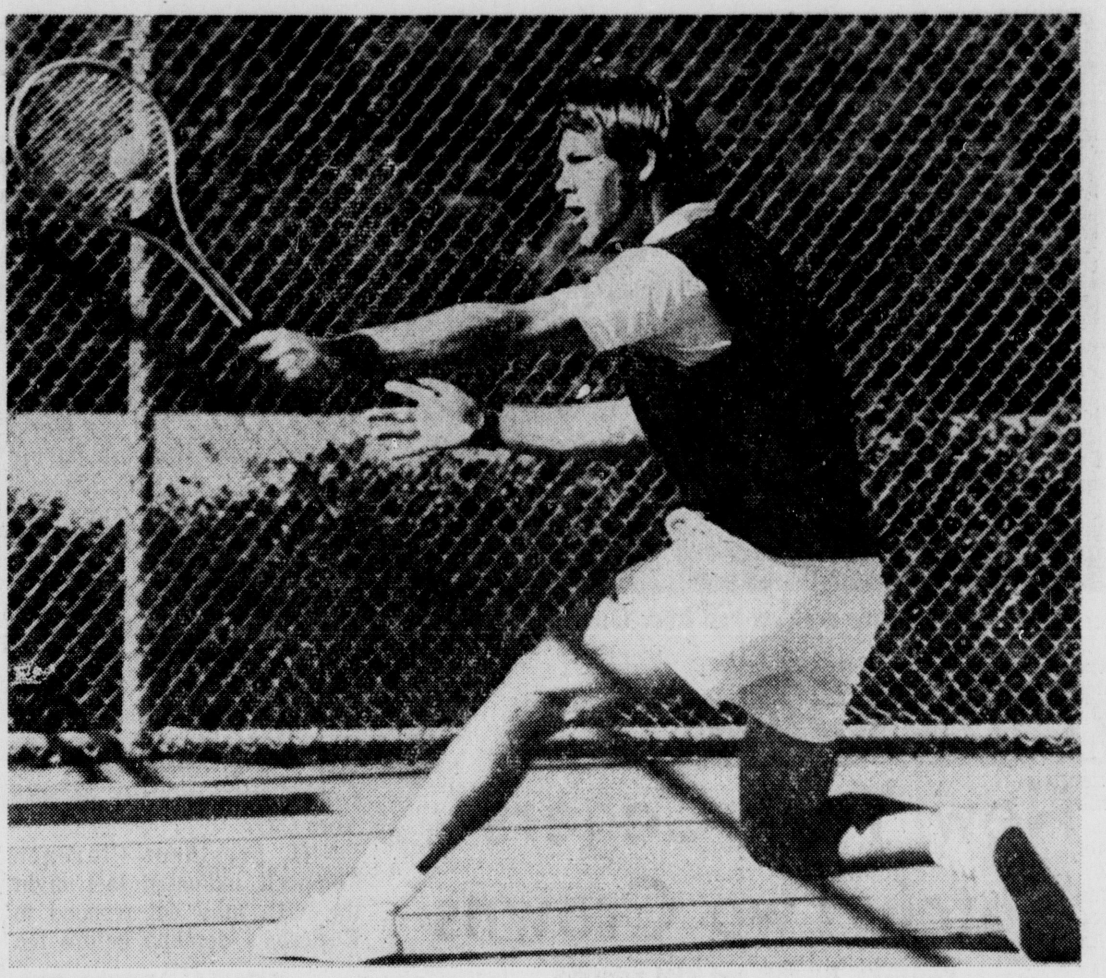
3 Local Masters Swimmers On Team

Two Terra Lindans and one former Petaluma product are on the recently selected first National Masters All-American swimming team.

The Marinites are Jane McCollister, women's 50-54 age category, and Lyle Collet, men's 60-64. The erstwhile Petaluma product is Gail Roper, women's 40-44. They are among the 19 men and 18 women honored from this Amateur Athletic Union program.

3 Petalumans Win

Three Petaluma riders — Larry Norrison, Ron Sarver and Reggie Jackson — won their races last night in a program of motorcycle racing run at the Sonoma-Marin Fairgounds in Petaluma before about 750 fans.



STROKE — College of Marin's No. 1 tennis player, Mark Rodnick, returned a shot by John Hursh of Redwood City's Canada College yesterday in a Camino Norte Conference match in Kentfield. Hursh beat Rodnick, 6-0, 6-1, and Canada topped the Tars, 8-1.

San Marin Nears 1st Track Title

San Marin High School (4-0) is within reach of its first Marin County Athletic League track championship after beating Tamalpais, 79-57, in yesterday's crucial meet at Tam.

In other league encounters yesterday, Redwood barely got by upset minded San Rafael, 68-64, Terra Linda dumped Marin Catholic, 94-41; and Novato whipped Drake, 81-54.

San Marin bopped previously unbeaten Tam (3-1) behind the performances of Terry Kom, who won three events, and Gary Lathrop, winner of two, including the league's best time in the mile at 4:28.6.

Four other of the MCAL's top duel meet performances were bested, or tied, in the Mustangs' victory, including Indians' Shannon Bynum's time of 10.3 in the 100 yard dash and Kim Combs' 52.0 in the 440. San Marin's Larry Butti's 41-5½ in the triple jump, and Tam's Fred Adams time of 15.6, which tied Greg Campbell of San Rafael for the top 120 high hurdle mark, were other marks of note.

Redwood had a tough time with San Rafael. Led by a triple win by Campbell and a double by Jim Grigg, the Bulldogs (1-3) came close to the biggest track upset of the year. Ed Phelps was a double winner for Redwood.

Terra Linda had it easier against winless Marin Catholic (0-4). A double win by Trojan Harry Bolton was enough to offset Marin's Rick Cervisi, who won both sprints.

Novato (1-3) climbed out of the cellar with its win over Drake (1-3). Mike Rennier was a triple winner for Novato, while hurdler Tony Grey won two for the Pirates.

Marin Tars Are Beaten By Canada

College of Marin's tennis team fell to the awesome power of Canada College of Redwood City yesterday, 8-1, in a Camino Norte Conference match on the losers' court.

Marin lost for the second time in seven conference starts to one of the state's top junior college teams. The Colts from Redwood City lead the CNC with a 7-0 record.

After losing all the singles matches, the only bright spot of the day for Marin was a doubles victory by Mark Rodnick and Bill Kinser. Rodnick and Kinser remain undefeated in doubles competition this year.

Canada 8, Marin 1

Singles — John Hursh (C) d. Mark Rodnick, 6-0, 6-1; Randy Marks (C) d. Bill Kinser, 7-6, 6-1; Tim McNeil (C) d. Terry Timmons, 6-3, 6-2; Bill Spiker (C) d. Greg Kalemba, 6-7; 6-1, 6-3; Mike Herman (C) d. Dave Murata, 6-1, 6-2; Andy Thurm (C) d. Dave Toole, 6-1, 6-2.

Doubles — Kinser-Rodnick (M) d. Hursh-Marks, 3-6, 6-3, 7-6; McNeil-Herman (C) d. Timmons-Kalemba, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4; Thurm-Spiker (C) d. Murata-Toole, 6-1, 6-1.

DECISION CHANGED — Sonoma State College basketball coach and athletic director Bill Trumbo, (above) who resigned Thursday to accept the head coaching job at Chapman College, has reconsidered and will stay at Sonoma, according to Dr. Doug Earl, chairman of the Physical Education Department. Dr. Earl said he did not know what changed Trumbo's decision.

San Marin Victorious

Four Terra Linda High School batters combined for 11 hits and eight runs batted in yesterday as the Trojans scored nine runs in the first two innings and went on to trounce host San Marin, 11-4, in a Marin County Athletic League baseball game. Steve Withers, Jon Loberg and Greg Watroba had three hits apiece and Greg Chapman two for Terra Linda, while Loberg and Chapman drove in three runs each and Watroba two.

Warriors Seek End Of Bucks' Mastery

Round 4 Of NBA Series In Oakland

OAKLAND (UPI) — What are the Golden State Warriors going to do to stop Milwaukee?

Nate Thurmond is playing at his best and pretty well neutralizing the mighty Kareem Abdul-Jappar in the pivot, but Milwaukee has still beaten the Warriors twice with ease while Golden State managed one two-point win in return in the National Basketball Association playoff series.

If the Bucks can continue their mastery of the Warriors here tonight at 8 o'clock, they'll go to Milwaukee for game number five with a 3-1 lead.

In Thursday's 20-point Milwaukee win, Oscar Robertson flashed his form of old as he hit 13 of 17 shots for 34 points and added his usual superlative passing and floor generalship for an awesome performance.

"I never saw Oscar play better," said Abdul-Jabbar afterwards.

Thursday's game degenerated into a brawl in the late going after Bobby Dandridge blindsided Jim Barnett, knocking him out briefly. Moments later, Rick Barry and Dandridge were in a wrestling match and Warriors coach Al Attles ran onto the floor to get a hammerlock on Dandridge.

He said afterwards that he saw others were holding Barry and he wanted to keep Dandridge from contining it.

"I've noticed that if you can stop the main participants from fighting, it usually won't spread to the other players. If the main fight goes on, everybody starts swinging," said Attles.

"Above all, I wanted to stop it before anybody came out of the stands to join in," he said. "That's when somebody can really get hurt."

Attles and Barry both shrugged off the brawl after the contest, calling it just a brief flare-up.

A'S DROP OPENER

Designated Hitter Rule Big Success In Oakland

OAKLAND (UPI) — If you want to use the Oakland A's-Minnesota Twins opener as an example, the American League's new designated hitter rule is a smashing success.

Tony Oliva, hobbled by a gimpy knee, couldn't play but the Twins used him as their designated hitter Friday night, and all he did was drive in three runs with a homer and single, walk once and advance a runner a fourth time. His homer, coming in the first inning, was baseball's first for a DH.

It also staked Bert Blyleven, celebrating his 22nd birthday, to a 3-0 lead and the Twins righthander went on from there to gain the 8-3 victory.

The A's, defending World Champs, reached Blyleven for 10 hits and two walks but he stopped them when he had to while going the distance for his initial victory of the new season. He led the Twins last year with 17 victories.

Bill North, the A's designated hitter, didn't do badly either. He reached on an error and had two singles in five at-bats.

Oliva said it felt a little funny not running out to the field. He has been out of fielding action almost three weeks now because of his knee.

"It's a good rule," he laughed in talking about the DH. "It gave me a chance to play. Too bad they didn't put it in earlier. It would have helped guys like Mickey Mantle."

"Not playing in the field made me feel strong everytime I came up there," said North. "But I had to take practice swings in the runway and walk around to stay loose. Yes, it was strange just batting and not playing in the field. Off this performance, I'm happy about the new rule."

Larry Hisle, once a budding star with the Phillies but a minor leaguer in 1972, celebrated his return to the majors with a homer, double and two singles and Jim Holt added a homer as the Twins raked 21-game winner Jim Hunter and two reliecrs for 13 hits. Hisle also had a stolen base and scored three times.

The Twins jumped Hunter for nine hits and six runs inside the first four innings and it was no contest from there.

The A's were behind 6-0 when they finally cracked Blyleven in the fourth for all their runs. A single by Reggie Jackson, a double by Sal Bando, a two-base error by Bobby Darwin on a single by Billy Conigliaro and another single by Ray Fosse produced the Oakland runs.

A crowd of 38,207 turned out for the opener, the A's second biggest opening day crowd in six years in Oakland.

The Twins and A's meet in an afternoon contest today with John Odom pitching the Oakland and Jim Kaat for the Twins.

IN AUGUSTA

3rd Round Of Masters Stopped By Rain; Four Tied For Lead

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — The third round of the Masters Championship was only 27 minutes old today when officials conceded it was raining too hard to play golf and postponed the round until Sunday.

Despite a heavy rain which began about dawn, the round began as scheduled at 10:08 A.M. (EST) when Bobby Nichols, playing alone, teed off. Play was suspended at 10:35 and postponed at 11:50.

It marked the first time in a decade that a Masters round had to be postponed. Unlike regular PGA tournaments, the Masters will not try to double up with 36 holes Sunday but will hold its final round Monday, weather permitting.

The Weather Bureau predicted rain here would continue "until about 8 A.M. Dunay morning" and conditions would improve after that.

Bobby Nichols, who earned today's first starting time by shooting seven-over-par 151, 10 strokes off the lead, in the first two rounds, teed off alone at 10:08 a.m. EST and Al Geiberger and Jerry Heard, a couple of other 151 shooters, followed him eight minutes later.

Gay Brewer, who was not scheduled to tee off until 1:52 p.m., made six birdies in a 10-hole stretch Friday to tie for the lead with Tommy Aaron, Bob Dickson and J.C. Snead.

Another 23 —including Jack Nicklaus who had three bogeys and a double bogey in a row — were within five strokes going into the third round play.

Only a handful of spectators, 150 at most, were on hand to watch Nichols tee off. The rain was coming down hard and some of the other golfers watched from the clubhouse in disbelief that the Masters officials would attempt play in that type of weather.

Brewer's 6-under-par 66 was an eyeopener, but the real stunner Friday was Nicklaus' 77.

Nicklaus led the second round for three holes, then came a cropper on three straight three-putt greens; a duffer-like showing he capped by struggling in the trees on the very next hole for a very unNicklaus-like 5-over-par for the four holes.

While Nicklaus, who came here favored to win his fifth Masters championship, was saying things to his putter, Brewer was chipping with the same skill he displayed while winning this tournament six years ago.

Trailing first-round leader Aaron by seven strokes at the start of the second round, Brewer was still five back after seven holes after offsetting an early eagle with a couple of bogeys, but his game heated up at No. 8 — and stayed hot.

Thanks to his razor-sharp approach shots, the 41-year-old Brewer had four birdie putts of six feet or less and he was on the green in 2 on two other par 5s.

Swim Crown To Backhaus

Butterfly Victory For Marinite In AAU Meet

I-J Special Report

CINCINNATI — Robin Backhaus woke up this morning as a national champion, but had little chance to enjoy his triumph with another important race scheduled late today.

Backhaus yesterday became the first Marin Aquatic Club swimmer ever to win a national title when he swam the 200-yard butterfly in 1:49.55 in the National Amateur Athletic Union Short Course Men's and Women's Swimming Championships here.

The 18-year-old senior from San Rafael High School, who moved from Redlands to join coach Don Swartz' Marin A.C., also moved into the lead in the individual point standings with 49 to 48 for Steve Furniss of the University of Southern California and 45 for the unattached John Naber of Menlo Park.

Backhaus was scheduled to swim today in the 1,650-yard freestyle along with teammate Rick DeMont, former world record holder in the similar 1,500-meter free who ironically is still bidding for his first victory in the Nationals.

Naber also swims the 1,650, so Backhuas can hope to fend him off directly in his bid for the point title, but Furniss is entered in the 200 individual medley, in which he is the American record holder. If Furniss wins, Backhaus must win the 1,650 for the point title, which means he would have to beat DeMont.

"Robin changed his tactics a little bit and caught everybody off guard," said Swartz of yesterday's race. Backhaus swam the first 100 yards in 52.36, some two seconds faster than normal, and had enough left at the end to outlast Gary Hall of Indiana University by about a foot. Hall, who beat Backhaus for the silver medal in the Munich Olympics last fall, was timed in 1:49.8

Backhaus' time in the preliminaries was 1:59.49.

Six other Marinites swam yesterday, with Keith Strange finishing 14th in the 200 breaststroke in 2:12.02 after swimming 2:11.86, five seconds under his previous best time, in the prelims. Jeff Miller did 2:16.1 (a personal best), Warren Lager 2:16.6 and Spencer Eldred 2:18.3 in that race. All swam unattached.

Sue Secondo swam 2:33.7 in the women's 200 breast and Art Morrill did a personal best of 55.0 in the 100 back. Neither placed.

USC was swimming away with the men's team championship with 494 points to 173 for the Santa Clara Swim Club. Marin A.C. was eighth at 64.

In other races, Lynn Colella of the University of Washington bettered her own American record in the 200 breast with a 2:20.549 clocking, and Shane Gould of Australia and Santa Clara won the 200 fly in an American record 2:02.72.

Other winners included Rick Colella, Lynn's brother, in the men's 200 breast, Linda Simpson of Los Angeles in the women's 100 breast in 58.507, and Naber in the men's 100 back in 51:36.

Other Marinites scheduled to swim today include Jo Hislop in the women's 100 free, Maura Campion in the women's 200 IM, and Morrill in the men's 200 IM.

San Rafael Nine Outlasts Drake

In a baseball game which contained everything from high heroics to absurdity, San Rafael High School outlasted Drake yesterday afternoon in a 15-14 slugfest which was finally decided on a bases-loaded walk.

The Bulldogs' John Sims drew the free pass with two out in the bottom of the seventh inning of the Marin County Athletic League game at Albert Field. It scored Lance Loughlin, the first of four San Rafael players to walk that inning.

Nine pitchers from the two teams combined to give up 28 bases on balls and 23 hits during the three-hour, 15-minute marathon. Two of the hits were epic blows — a grand-slam homer by Drake's Don Asay in the first inning, and a two-run shot by San Rafael's Dave Steele in the second, both to left field.

By the middle of the fourth inning — the halfway point of the game — the score was 14-11 in favor of Drake, but the Pirates were kept from further scoring by San Rafael reliever Mike Farris.

San Rafael picked up three runs in the sixth on a two-run single by Craig Saunders and — yes — a bases-loaded walk to Kevin Loughlin.

Redwood Shuts Out Novato In Baseball

Redwood High School scored four unearned runs in the first inning and pitcher Ed Andersen kept visiting Novato at bay the rest of the game yesterday as the Giants captured a 5-0 baseball victory.

The triumph kept the defending champions (4-0) in sole possession of first place in the Marin County Athletic League, while Novato (2-2) rests in fifth place with Terra Linda.

With two out in the first, Mark LaTorre hit an infield single and Matt Gondak a towering fly into the blinding sun which went for a double. A throwing error on Ross Secor's grounder scored them, and Daryl Edralin followed with a walk.

Secor eventually scored on a fielder's choice which failed to retire anybody, and Edralin tallied on a rundown which resulted in the third out.

Andersen was touched for 10 hits, four by Novato's Jeff Rubino.

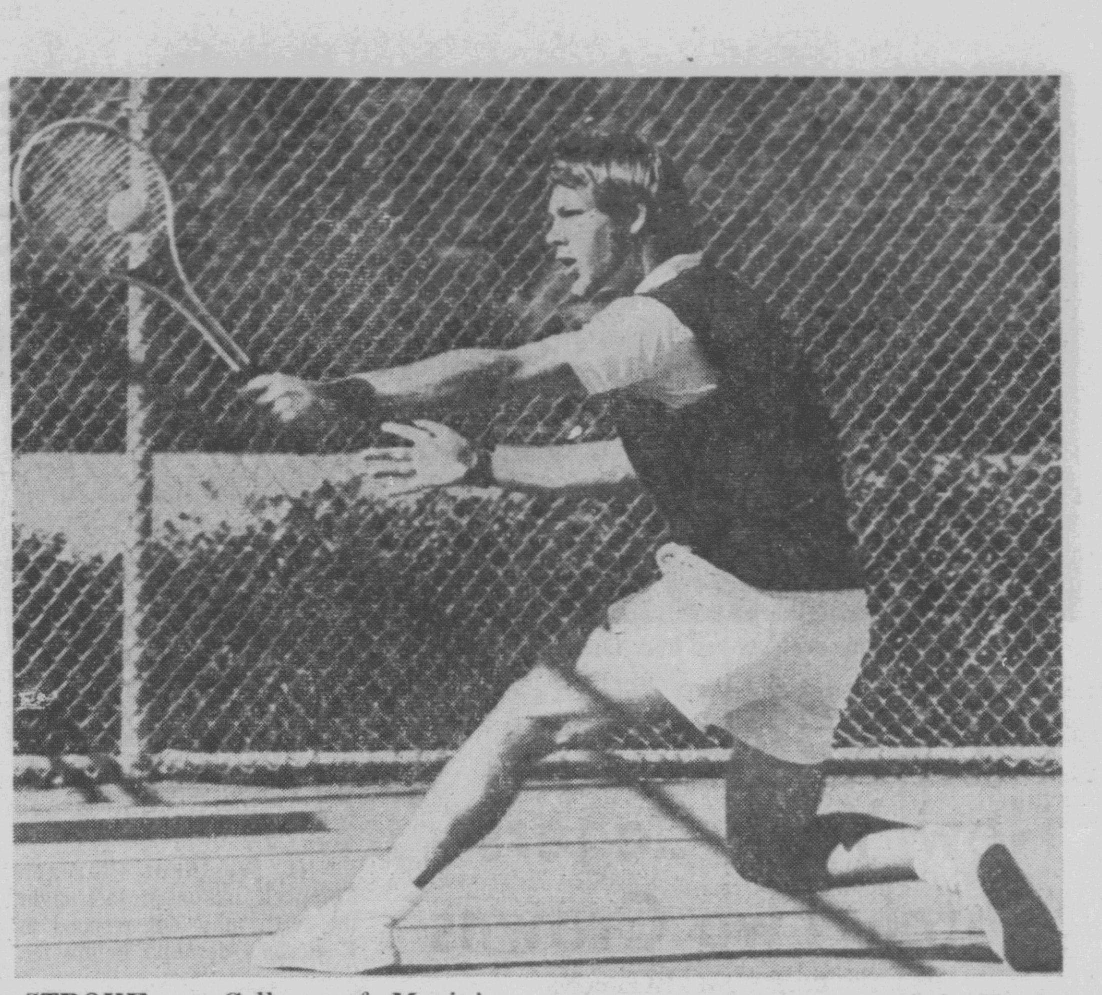
3 Local Masters Swimmers On Team

Two Terra Lindans and one former Petaluma product are on the recently selected first National Masters All-American swimming team.

The Marinites are Jane McCollister, women's 50-54 age category, and Lyle Collet, men's 60-64. The erstwhile Petaluma product is Gail Roper, women's 40-44. They are among the 19 men and 18 women honored from this Amateur Athletic Union program.

3 Petalumans Win

Three Petaluma riders — Larry Norrison, Ron Sarver and Reggie Jackson — won their races last night in a program of motorcycle racing run at the Sonoma-Marin Fairgounds in Petaluma before about 750 fans.



STROKE — College of Marin's No. 1 tennis player, Mark Rodnick, returned a shot by John Hursh of Redwood City's Canada College yesterday in a Camino Norte Conference match in Kentfield. Hursh beat Rodnick, 6-0, 6-1, and Canada topped the Tars, 8-1.

San Marin Nears 1st Track Title

San Marin High School (4-0) is within reach of its first Marin County Athletic League track championship after beating Tamalpais, 79-57, in yesterday's crucial meet at Tam.

In other league encounters yesterday, Redwood barely got by upset minded San Rafael, 68-64, Terra Linda dumped Marin Catholic, 94-41; and Novato whipped Drake, 81-54.

San Marin bopped previously unbeaten Tam (3-1) behind the performances of Terry Kom, who won three events, and Gary Lathrop, winner of two, including the league's best time in the mile at 4:28.6.

Four other of the MCAL's top duel meet performances were bested, or tied, in the Mustangs' victory, including Indians' Shannon Bynum's time of 10.3 in the 100 yard dash and Kim Combs' 52.0 in the 440. San Marin's Larry Butti's 41-5½ in the triple jump, and Tam's Fred Adams time of 15.6, which tied Greg Campbell of San Rafael for the top 120 high hurdle mark, were other marks of note.

Redwood had a tough time with San Rafael. Led by a triple win by Campbell and a double by Jim Grigg, the Bulldogs (1-3) came close to the biggest track upset of the year. Ed Phelps was a double winner for Redwood.

Terra Linda had it easier against winless Marin Catholic (0-4). A double win by Trojan Harry Bolton was enough to offset Marin's Rick Cervisi, who won both sprints.

Novato (1-3) climbed out of the cellar with its win over Drake (1-3). Mike Rennier was a triple winner for Novato, while hurdler Tony Grey won two for the Pirates.

Marin Tars Are Beaten By Canada

College of Marin's tennis team fell to the awesome power of Canada College of Redwood City yesterday, 8-1, in a Camino Norte Conference match on the losers' court.

Marin lost for the second time in seven conference starts to one of the state's top junior college teams. The Colts from Redwood City lead the CNC with a 7-0 record.

After losing all the singles matches, the only bright spot of the day for Marin was a doubles victory by Mark Rodnick and Bill Kinser. Rodnick and Kinser remain undefeated in doubles competition this year.

Canada 8, Marin 1

DECISION CHANGED — Sonoma State College basketball coach and athletic director Bill Trumbo, (above) who resigned Thursday to accept the head coaching job at Chapman College, has reconsidered and will stay at Sonoma, according to Dr. Doug Earl, chairman of the Physical Education Department. Dr. Earl said he did not know what changed Trumbo's decision.

San Marin Victorious

Four Terra Linda High School batters combined for 11 hits and eight runs batted in yesterday as the Trojans scored nine runs in the first two innings and went on to trounce host San Marin, 11-4, in a Marin County Athletic League baseball game. Steve Withers, Jon Loberg and Greg Watroba had three hits apiece and Greg Chapman two for Terra Linda, while Loberg and Chapman drove in three runs each and Watroba two.

Warriors Seek End Of Bucks' Mastery

Round 4 Of NBA Series In Oakland

OAKLAND (UPI) — What are the Golden State Warriors going to do to stop Milwaukee?

Nate Thurmond is playing at his best and pretty well neutralizing the mighty Kareem Abdul-Jappar in the pivot, but Milwaukee has still beaten the Warriors twice with ease while Golden State managed one two-point win in return in the National Basketball Association playoff series.

If the Bucks can continue their mastery of the Warriors here tonight at 8 o'clock, they'll go to Milwaukee for game number five with a 3-1 lead.

In Thursday's 20-point Milwaukee win, Oscar Robertson flashed his form of old as he hit 13 of 17 shots for 34 points and added his usual superlative passing and floor generalship for an awesome performance.

"I never saw Oscar play better," said Abdul-Jabbar afterwards.

Thursday's game degenerated into a brawl in the late going after Bobby Dandridge blindsided Jim Barnett, knocking him out briefly. Moments later, Rick Barry and Dandridge were in a wrestling match and Warriors coach Al Attles ran onto the floor to get a hammerlock on Dandridge.

He said afterwards that he saw others were holding Barry and he wanted to keep Dandridge from contining it.

"I've noticed that if you can stop the main participants from fighting, it usually won't spread to the other players. If the main fight goes on, everybody starts swinging," said Attles.

"Above all, I wanted to stop it before anybody came out of the stands to join in," he said. "That's when somebody can really get hurt."

Attles and Barry both shrugged off the brawl after the contest, calling it just a brief flare-up.

A'S DROP OPENER

Designated Hitter Rule Big Success In Oakland

OAKLAND (UPI) — If you want to use the Oakland A's-Minnesota Twins opener as an example, the American League's new designated hitter rule is a smashing success.

Tony Oliva, hobbled by a gimpy knee, couldn't play but the Twins used him as their designated hitter Friday night, and all he did was drive in three runs with a homer and single, walk once and advance a runner a fourth time. His homer, coming in the first inning, was baseball's first for a DH.

It also staked Bert Blyleven, celebrating his 22nd birthday, to a 3-0 lead and the Twins righthander went on from there to gain the 8-3 victory.

The A's, defending World Champs, reached Blyleven for 10 hits and two walks but he stopped them when he had to while going the distance for his initial victory of the new season. He led the Twins last year with 17 victories.

Bill North, the A's designated hitter, didn't do badly either. He reached on an error and had two singles in five at-bats.

Oliva said it felt a little funny not running out to the field. He has been out of fielding action almost three weeks now because of his knee.

"It's a good rule," he laughed in talking about the DH. "It gave me a chance to play. Too bad they didn't put it in earlier. It would have helped guys like Mickey Mantle."

"Not playing in the field made me feel strong everytime I came up there," said North. "But I had to take practice swings in the runway and walk around to stay loose. Yes, it was strange just batting and not playing in the field. Off this performance, I'm happy about the new rule."

Larry Hisle, once a budding star with the Phillies but a minor leaguer in 1972, celebrated his return to the majors with a homer, double and two singles and Jim Holt added a homer as the Twins raked 21-game winner Jim Hunter and two relieers for 13 hits. Hisle also had a stolen base and scored three times.

The Twins jumped Hunter for nine hits and six runs inside the first four innings and it was no contest from there.

The A's were behind 6-0 when they finally cracked Blyleven in the fourth for all their runs. A single by Reggie Jackson, a double by Sal Bando, a two-base error by Bobby Darwin on a single by Billy Conigliaro and another single by Ray Fosse produced the Oakland runs.

A crowd of 38,207 turned out for the opener, the A's second biggest opening day crowd in six years in Oakland.

The Twins and A's meet in an afternoon contest today with John Odom pitching the Oakland and Jim Kaat for the Twins.

3rd Round Of Masters Stopped By Rain; Four Tied For Lead

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — The third round of the Masters Championship was only 27 minutes old today when officials conceded it was raining too hard to play golf and postponed the round until Sunday.

Despite a heavy rain which began about dawn, the round began as scheduled at 10:08 A.M. (EST) when Bobby Nichols, playing alone, teed off. Play was suspended at 10:35 and postponed at 11:50.

It marked the first time in a decade that a Masters round had to be postponed. Unlike regular PGA tournaments, the Masters will not try to double up with 36 holes Sunday but will hold its final round Monday, weather permitting.

The Weather Bureau predicted rain here would continue "until about 8 A.M. Dunay morning" and conditions would improve after that.

Bobby Nichols, who earned today's first starting time by shooting seven-over-par 151, 10 strokes off the lead, in the first two rounds, teed off alone at 10:08 a.m. EST and Al Geiberger and Jerry Heard, a couple of other 151 shooters, followed him eight minutes later.

Gay Brewer, who was not scheduled to tee off until 1:52 p.m., made six birdies in a 10-hole stretch Friday to tie for the lead with Tommy Aaron, Bob Dickson and J.C. Snead.

Another 23 —including Jack Nicklaus who had three bogeys and a double bogey in a row — were within five strokes going into the third round play.

Only a handful of spectators, 150 at most, were on hand to watch Nichols tee off. The rain was coming down hard and some of the other golfers watched from the clubhouse in disbelief that the Masters officials would attempt play in that type of weather.

Brewer's 6-under-par 66 was an eyeopener, but the real stunner Friday was Nicklaus' 77.

Nicklaus led the second round for three holes, then came a cropper on three straight three-putt greens; a duffer-like showing he capped by struggling in the trees on the very next hole for a very unNicklaus-like 5-over-par for the four holes.

While Nicklaus, who came here favored to win his fifth Masters championship, was saying things to his putter, Brewer was chipping with the same skill he displayed while winning this tournament six years ago.

Trailing first-round leader Aaron by seven strokes at the start of the second round, Brewer was still five back after seven holes after offsetting an early eagle with a couple of bogeys, but his game heated up at No. 8 — and stayed hot.

Thanks to his razor-sharp approach shots, the 41-year-old Brewer had four birdie putts of six feet or less and he was on the green in 2 on two other par 5s.

BOWLING NOTES

Fran Wayman In Hall Of Fame

FRAN WAYMAN
Honored bowler

A San Rafael resident is the latest addition to the Marin County Women's Bowling Association Hall of Fame.

Frances Wayman, a veteran Marin County kegler, was inducted earlier this week.

Mrs. Wayman, the sergeant at arms for the San Francisco Women's Bowling Association from 1949 to 1960, is a charter member of the MCWBA. She was among a group of Marinites who established the organization.

Until then, the San Francisco organization extended to Novato. Marin bowlers, led by organizer Julie Smith, formed their own group. President Ann Arnott and secretary Doris Sooy have 2,600 members to work with in a group that extends from Sausalito to Novato.

Mrs. Wayman was the first of the Marin aggregation to be named to the Hall. She moved to Marin in 1942 after learning to bowl in New York. She subsequently served as secretary for the California Women's Bowling Association from 1951-58.

A TOUGH SHOT. Dee Brough of Petaluma picked up a noteworthy spare last Friday night at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael. She notched the "Big Four" — the 4-6-7-10 in the Eagles League.

TOP SCORE. Gary Newman bowled a 708 series at Country Club last Friday night in the North Bay Classic. In recoridng the county's top league score of the week, Newman had games of 203, 268, and 237.

Redwood Swimmers Remain Undefeated

Redwood High School (8-0) continued its unbeaten streak in Marin County Athletic League swim competition yesterday by pounding San Marin, 83-4, at Novato High School.

In other meets yesterday, second place Terra Linda whipped Tamalpais, 59-36, while San Rafael beat Novato, 62-32. Drake drew a bye.

Redwood kept its undefeated record intact behind double wins by Brian Silcox and Matt Lager. San Marin is in seventh place in MCAL standings with a 1-8 record.

Dick Atwood and Paul Moe were double winners for Tam (3-4), but it wasn't enough against the 8-2 Trojans. Atwood set a school record in the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 58.6. Bill Power won two for Terra Linda.

San Rafael (8-3) got two victories each from Jeff Kamler and Scott Hislop to beat Novato. The Hornets are 4-6.

Redwood's home meet against Tamalpais March 30, called off due to the funeral that day of the late Giant swimmer Andrew Rice Stone, will be held Monday at 3:30 p.m., Redwood coach Rusty McManus said yesterday.

Salmina A Babe Ruth Director

Ed Salmina of Novato has been appointed District 9 director for Northern California Babe Ruth baseball.

Salmina, serving his second two-year term as president of the Novato Babe Ruth League, was appointed by Jerry Tresca, Northern California State Babe Ruth director at a recent district meeting in Novato.

The new director succeeds John E. Hover Sr. of Fulton who had to step down from the position because of ill health. Salmina had been assistant director since Hover was appointed in 1971.

District 9 covers the 10 Babe Ruth leagues in Marin and Sonoma counties.

Gloria Perryman of Novato will continue to serve as district secretary. She is also secretary for the Novato league.

The league presidents selected Santa Rosa and Sonoma as the host leagues for the district all-star tournaments which will be held in July. Santa Rosa will stage the tournament for 13-year-olds and Sonoma, the tournament for 15-year-olds.

New York Cagers Notch Two Crowns

By DAVE BRASE and TIM SIMONS

The basketball team is the City College of New York and tonight is their big night.

CCNY, coached by Nat Holman, has come a long way this year. They were not even seeded in the NIT, yet, they swept through that tournament and beat powerful Bradley in the finals.

Tonight, in a packed Madison Square Garden, they are in the finals of the NCAA tournament and their foe is that same Bradley team.

Bradley is led by two All-Americans, Gene Melchiorre and Paul Unruh. Play begins and both teams are playing well. Bradley is using a zone defense. After a see-saw first half, CCNY leads 39-32.

In the second half Bradley switches to a man for man press, but with one minute to go CCNY still has the lead.

Melchiorre, the smallest man on the floor, drives the lane and cans one for Bradley.

Seconds later, Melchiorre intercepts a pass and drives for two more points. Bradley has closed the gap to 69-68.

Tomales, St. Vincent Win Baseball Games

Tomales High School came up with two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning yesterday to beat visiting Calistoga, 2-1, in a North Central League II baseball game.

The win kept the Braves' league mark unblemished at 2-0 to remain in a first place tie with St. Vincent of Petaluma, which belted Point Arena, 11-4 yeaterday.

In other Southern Sonoma baseball action yesterday, Petaluma High suffered its first North Bay League loss, 7-4, to host Napa to drop to 2-1.

Tomales was down 1-0 going into the seventh inning. John Ball led off the frame with a single, stole second, advanced to third when the Calistoga catcher dropped the called third strike on Brian Horick. Ball, scored the tying on Mike Camp's squeeze bunt. Camp then swiped second base and scored the winning run on John Petroni's single.

Marin Track Team Wins First Meet

College of Marin won its first Camino Norte Conference track and field meet of the year yesterday, defeating visiting College of Alameda, 84-42, as Bruce Little, Tom Malvino and Greg Biber won three events apiece.

Little captured the shot put and discus, Malvino the high jump and long jump and Biber the 120 high hurdles and triple jump in addition to running on the victorious mile relay team.

Another good performance for the Tars (1-4) was Joe Kinn's half-mile victory in 1:55.5.

North Peralta College, also scheduled to participate, did not show, according to Marin coach Tony Bailey.

Pro Hockey Merger Talks Hit Snag; Spadia Tabbed

Combined AP & UPI

MONTREAL — The National Hockey League and the World Hockey Association are talking merger, and the NHL Players' Association wants such talk halted in a week or it will take the matter to court.

Alan Eagleson, association executive director, said yesterday he has given the two leagues seven days to give him written assurance there will be no further talks of merger or he will file a complaint in the federal district court in New York City.

NHL president Clarence Campbell indicated last night the NHL may not respond to Eagleson's demand before the deadline is reached. "The time provided is quite unreasonable," Campbell said.

Baseball

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Houston Astros pitcher Larry Dierker was identified by the Florida Highway Patrol yesterday as the driver in a car-pedestrian accident that killed an 18-year-old Brevard County Community College student from New York.

Basketball

DURHAM, N.C. — Sam Jones, former star for the Boston Celtics, will return July 1 to become head basketball coach at North Carolina Central University where he still holds the career scoring mark from his collegiate days.

Jones, now head coach and athletic director of Federal City College in Washington, D.C., was hired yesterday to succeed Harry Edmonds.

Football

LINCOLN, Neb. — Johnny Rodgers won't be making one of those fabulous kickoff returns or breaking loose for the long gainer that made him the Heisman Trophy winner last year when Monday rolls around. He'll be going to jail.

Rodgers' attorney David C. Pierson said yesterday an appeal to a sentence of 30 days for driving on a suspended license had been withdrawn, and his client will start serving the sentence Monday.

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Dan Rooney, described by commissioner Pete Rozelle as, "one of the brightest young executives in the National Football League," will play a major role in the league's future.

Rooney, the 40-year-old general manager of the Pittsburgh Steelers, yesterday was named to head the NFL's four-man expansion committee by Rozelle as the league wound up its week-long annual spring meeting.

Rooney, whose father, Art, founded the Steelers, will be joined on the Expansion Committee by Gerald Phipps, Chairman of the Board of the Denver Broncos; Lou Spadia, president of the San Francisco 49ers and Tex Schramm, general manager of the Dallas Cowboys.

Tennis

MUNICH — Cliff Richey, San Angelo, Tex., yesterday topped Australia's Rod Laver 6-1, 7-6 and advanced the semifinals of the World Championship Tennis Group A tournament. Sausalito's Bob Lutz lost, 6-1, 6-1, to Stan Smith yesterday.

Softball Results

It was an evening of big innings last night at Albert Field in San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball league play, as Escrow scored five runs in the second and again in the fifth to demolish Lazie Lee, 15-1; Marin Supply rallied from an 8-0 deficit but lost to Kentucky Fried Chicken, 11-10; and MacArthur's scored four runs in the sixth to edge Hobbit's Habit, 10-9, despite Hobbit's five in the final frame.

Rancho Cotate Swimmers Lose

Swimming without freestyle specialist Mike Dawson, Rancho Cotate High School of Rohnert Park dropped a 50-44 Sonoma County League meet to host Sonoma yesterday.

Sam Wenger and Chris Nissen tried to take up some of the slack for Dawson, winning two events each. Wenger took the 100-yard butterfly and the 400-yard freestyle, and Nissen won the 200-yard individual medley and the 100-yard breaststroke.

In other Southern Sonoma swimming action yesterday, Petaluma High was dunked by visiting Montgomery of Santa Rosa, 82-10, in a North Bay League meet.

Sonoma State '9' Receives Worst Loss By Hayward

Sonoma State College suffered its worst baseball defeat of the year yesterday, falling 15-2 to visiting Far Western Conference for Hayward State.

The loss evened Sonoma's league mark to 2-2 and their overall season record to 10-10.

The Cossacks were barely outhit by the Pioneers, 12-11, but they made seven errors, and four Sonoma pitchers gave up 20 walks. "We just played poorly, that's all," Sonoma coach Tom Glover said after the game.

BOWLING NOTES

Fran Wayman In Hall Of Fame

A San Rafael resident is the latest addition to the Marin County Women's Bowling Association Hall of Fame.

Frances Wayman, a veteran Marin County kegler, was inducted earlier this week.

Mrs. Wayman, the sergeant at arms for the San Francisco Women's Bowling Association from 1949 to 1960, is a charter member of the MCWBA. She was among a group of Marinites who established the organization.

Until then, the San Francisco organization extended to Novato. Marin bowlers, led by organizer Julie Smith, formed their own group. President Ann Arnott and secretary Doris Sooy have 2,600 members to work with in a group that extends from Sausalito to Novato.

Mrs. Wayman was the first of the Marin aggregation to be named to the Hall. She moved to Marin in 1942 after learning to bowl in New York. She subsequently served as secretary for the California Women's Bowling Association from 1951-58.

A TOUGH SHOT. Dee Brough of Petaluma picked up a noteworthy spare last Friday night at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael. She notched the "Big Four" — the 4-6-7-10 in the Eagles League.

Redwood Swimmers Remain Undefeated

Redwood High School (8-0) continued its unbeaten streak in Marin County Athletic League swim competition yesterday by pounding San Marin, 83-4, at Novato High School.

In other meets yesterday, second place Terra Linda whipped Tamalpais, 59-36, while San Rafael beat Novato, 62-32. Drake drew a bye.

Redwood kept its undefeated record intact behind double wins by Brian Silcox and Matt Lager. San Marin is in seventh place in MCAL standings with a 1-8 record.

Dick Atwood and Paul Moe were double winners for Tam (3-4), but it wasn't enough against the 8-2 Trojans. Atwood set a school record in the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 58.6. Bill Power won two for Terra Linda.

San Rafael (8-3) got two victories each from Jeff Kamler and Scott Hislop to beat Novato. The Hornets are 4-6.

Redwood's home meet against Tamalpais March 30, called off due to the funeral that day of the late Giant swimmer Andrew Rice Stone, will be held Monday at 3:30 p.m., Redwood coach Rusty McManus said yesterday.

Salmina A Babe Ruth Director

Salmina, serving his second two-year term as president of the Novato Babe Ruth League, was appointed by Jerry Tresca, Northern California State Babe Ruth director at a recent district meeting in Novato.

The new director succeeds John E. Hover Sr. of Fulton who had to step down from the position because of ill health. Salmina had been assistant director since Hover was appointed in 1971.

District 9 covers the 10 Babe Ruth leagues in Marin and Sonoma counties.

Gloria Perryman of Novato will continue to serve as district secretary. She is also secretary for the Novato league.

The league presidents selected Santa Rosa and Sonoma as the host leagues for the district all-star tournaments which will be held in July. Santa Rosa will stage the tournament for 13-year-olds and Sonoma, the tournament for 15-year-olds.

New York Cagers Notch Two Crowns

By DAVE BRASE and TIM SIMONS

CCNY, coached by Nat Holman, has come a long way this year. They were not even seeded in the NIT, yet, they swept through that tournament and beat powerful Bradley in the finals.

Tonight, in a packed Madison Square Garden, they are in the finals of the NCAA tournament and their foe is that same Bradley team.

Bradley is led by two All-Americans, Gene Melchiorre and Paul Unruh. Play begins and both teams are playing well. Bradley is using a zone defense. After a see-saw first half, CCNY leads 39-32.

In the second half Bradley switches to a man for man press, but with one minute to go CCNY still has the lead.

Melchiorre, the smallest man on the floor, drives the lane and cans one for Bradley.

Seconds later, Melchiorre intercepts a pass and drives for two more points. Bradley has closed the gap to 69-68.

Tomales, St. Vincent Win Baseball Games

Tomales High School came up with two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning yesterday to beat visiting Calistoga, 2-1, in a North Central League II baseball game.

The win kept the Braves' league mark unblemished at 2-0 to remain in a first place tie with St. Vincent of Petaluma, which belted Point Arena, 11-4 yeaterday.

In other Southern Sonoma baseball action yesterday, Petaluma High suffered its first North Bay League loss, 7-4, to host Napa to drop to 2-1.

Tomales was down 1-0 going into the seventh inning. John Ball led off the frame with a single, stole second, advanced to third when the Calistoga catcher dropped the called third strike on Brian Horick. Ball, scored the tying on Mike Camp's squeeze bunt. Camp then swiped second base and scored the winning run on John Petroni's single.

Marin Track Team Wins First Meet

College of Marin won its first Camino Norte Conference track and field meet of the year yesterday, defeating visiting College of Alameda, 84-42, as Bruce Little, Tom Malvino and Greg Biber won three events apiece.

Little captured the shot put and discus, Malvino the high jump and long jump and Biber the 120 high hurdles and triple jump in addition to running on the victorious mile relay team.

Another good performance for the Tars (1-4) was Joe Kinn's half-mile victory in 1:55.5.

North Peralta College, also scheduled to participate, did not show, according to Marin coach Tony Bailey.

Marin 84, Alameda 42

Pro Hockey Merger Talks Hit Snag; Spadia Tabbed

Combined AP & UPI

MONTREAL — The National Hockey League and the World Hockey Association are talking merger, and the NHL Players' Association wants such talk halted in a week or it will take the matter to court.

Alan Eagleson, association executive director, said yesterday he has given the two leagues seven days to give him written assurance there will be no further talks of merger or he will file a complaint in the federal district court in New York City.

NHL president Clarence Campbell indicated last night the NHL may not respond to Eagleson's demand before the deadline is reached. "The time provided is quite unreasonable," Campbell said.

Baseball

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Houston Astros pitcher Larry Dierker was identified by the Florida Highway Patrol yesterday as the driver in a car-pedestrian accident that killed an 18-year-old Brevard County Community College student from New York.

Basketball

DURHAM, N.C. — Sam Jones, former star for the Boston Celtics, will return July 1 to become head basketball coach at North Carolina Central University where he still holds the career scoring mark from his collegiate days.

Jones, now head coach and athletic director of Federal City College in Washington, D.C., was hired yesterday to succeed Harry Edmonds.

Football

LINCOLN, Neb. — Johnny Rodgers won't be making one of those fabulous kickoff returns or breaking loose for the long gainer that made him the Heisman Trophy winner last year when Monday rolls around. He'll be going to jail.

Rodgers' attorney David C. Pierson said yesterday an appeal to a sentence of 30 days for driving on a suspended license had been withdrawn, and his client will start serving the sentence Monday.

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Dan Rooney, described by commissioner Pete Rozelle as, "one of the brightest young executives in the National Football League," will play a major role in the league's future.

Rooney, the 40-year-old general manager of the Pittsburgh Steelers, yesterday was named to head the NFL's four-man expansion committee by Rozelle as the league wound up its week-long annual spring meeting.

Rooney, whose father, Art, founded the Steelers, will be joined on the Expansion Committee by Gerald Phipps, Chairman of the Board of the Denver Broncos; Lou Spadia, president of the San Francisco 49ers and Tex Schramm, general manager of the Dallas Cowboys.

Tennis

MUNICH — Cliff Richey, San Angelo, Tex., yesterday topped Australia's Rod Laver 6-1, 7-6 and advanced the semifinals of the World Championship Tennis Group A tournament. Sausalito's Bob Lutz lost, 6-1, 6-1, to Stan Smith yesterday.

Softball Results

It was an evening of big innings last night at Albert Field in San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball league play, as Escrow scored five runs in the second and again in the fifth to demolish Lazie Lee, 15-1; Marin Supply rallied from an 8-0 deficit but lost to Kentucky Fried Chicken, 11-10; and MacArthur's scored four runs in the sixth to edge Hobbit's Habit, 10-9, despite Hobbit's five in the final frame.

Rancho Cotate Swimmers Lose

Swimming without freestyle specialist Mike Dawson, Rancho Cotate High School of Rohnert Park dropped a 50-44 Sonoma County League meet to host Sonoma yesterday.

Sam Wenger and Chris Nissen tried to take up some of the slack for Dawson, winning two events each. Wenger took the 100-yard butterfly and the 400-yard freestyle, and Nissen won the 200-yard individual medley and the 100-yard breaststroke.

In other Southern Sonoma swimming action yesterday, Petaluma High was dunked by visiting Montgomery of Santa Rosa, 82-10, in a North Bay League meet.

Sonoma 50, Rancho Cotate 44

200 medley relay — Rancho Cotate (Mills, Nissen, Harp, Wenger); 200 free — Harp (RC), 2:13.2; 200 IM — Nissen (RC), 2:20.6; 50 free — Mathieu (S), 24.4; diving — Tibbits (S), 191.25; 100 fly — Wenger (RC), 1:11.1; 100 free — Mathieu (S), 56.0; 400 free — Wenger (RC), 4:55.0; 100 back — Mills (RC), 1:13.5; 100 breast — Nissen (RC), 1:09.6; 400 free relay — Sonoma (Youngdahl, Severence, Mathieu, McGinty).

Sonoma State '9' Receives Worst Loss By Hayward

Sonoma State College suffered its worst baseball defeat of the year yesterday, falling 15-2 to visiting Far Western Conference for Hayward State.

The loss evened Sonoma's league mark to 2-2 and their overall season record to 10-10.

The Cossacks were barely outhit by the Pioneers, 12-11, but they made seven errors, and four Sonoma pitchers gave up 20 walks. "We just played poorly, that's all," Sonoma coach Tom Glover said after the game.

San Anselmo Officials Given Sweeping View Of Open Space

San Anselmo city leaders received a birds-eye view of city open space lands yesterday as an Army helicopter airlifted them over the community at 70 miles per hour.

Though several dozen residents called local police to complain of noise created by the low-flying chopper, city officials agreed the aerial survey was well worthwhile.

Airlifted over the city in three flights on the seven-seat, Sixth Army Flight Detachment craft were city councilmen, planning commissioners and city staff. The flights, courtesy of the Army, were aimed at getting a first-hand view of 226 acres of open space lands under consideration for acquisition if the city's $500,000 open space bond issue passes April 17.

Most spectacular, the high-flying officials said, is the way in which San Rafael looms as a "miniature Los Angeles" and Terra Linda appears "boxed in by development," in comparison with San Anselmo, which appears as a massive park from a high-altitude perspective.

Also startling were the number of horses grazing on many of the open lands, the patchwork quilt of housing and parks, and crystal-blue swimming pools that pock many backyards in neighborhoods adjacent to the city's network of open space lands.

City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell, who gave a running commentary of the scenario below, cited the need for a city horse ordinance as several dozen of the beasts were seen grazing on lands near Sorich Park.

Leitzell spoke to passengers through headphones in the chopper, which swooped and dipped over Indian Rock, the Oakland-Alderney area, Hawthorne Hills, the Rosenthal Tract, Red Hill and the Scenic Summit area.

"The whole city looks like a park. We've got to preserve it," declared an amazed parks director Gary S. Howell after one of the flights. "We're not doing as bad as you think when you look at those other areas," agreed planning commissioner John Levo Jr.

Hearing Set In Burglary Case

A preliminary hearing for John Joseph Mueller, 19, of Novato, on a felony burglary charge was scheduled yesterday for April 19.

Mueller was arrested Tuesday hitchhiking in Novato on a warrant obtained by San Rafael police. He was linked through fingerprints on a bottle of Scotch to the burglary of a San Rafael home.

Police said two men broke into the home of Robert Emmett Eby of 232 Bungalow Avenue March 22, but were frightened off by a neighbor. A second man is being sought.

Funds Should Be Shared, Aide Says

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — Funds earmarked for the school lunch program by the 1972 Kentucky General Assembly should be shared by parochial schools, says the state attorney general's office.

"It seems . . . that if the counties may provide free transportation to parochial schools, the state may provide a contribution to the school lunch program of parochial schools," the opinion read. "We think that an appropriation out of the general revenue of the states would be of the same genre as an appropriation out of the general revenue of the county," said assistant Attorney General Carl Miller.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Heavy Drop Is Felt On Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices fell heavily this week on the New York Stock Exchange amid evidence of worsening inflation and what investors consider inadequate measures by the Nixon administration to curb it.

The market managed to hammer out its only gain Friday. Prices were easing toward the close, however, and most analysts described the action as a typical bounce following a lengthy decline.

The Dow Jones average of 30 blue-chip industrial stocks lost 19.94 to 931.07. The widely followed indicator Thursday neared its low for the year of 922.71, where it closed on March 23, but found support once more near the 920 level and bounced back.

"The 920 level is probably only a temporary support plateau," one broker said. "In a market like this, 880 cannot be ruled out."

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index dropped 2.24 to 109.28. The indicator reached its low for the year of 108.52 Thursday. The NYSE index declined 1.35 to 58.23. Declines outpaced gainers, 1,326 to 405, among the 1,955 issues crossing the tape.

Turnover totaled only 62,073,806 shares, compared with last week's 78,104,750, and with 98,813,620 shares a year earlier. Trading was at its lightest of the year Monday, when 10,650,000 shares changed hands. Most analysts figure the light trading indicates lack of confidence by investors, both in the stock market and in the economy.

The House Banking Committee came up with two potentially encouraging proposals. One called for a rollback of prices to May, 1972 levels and a modified version later opted for a rollback to Jan. 10, 1973, the day before President Nixon announced Phase III. Each time Treasury Secretary George Shultz scotched the moves, saying they were certain to meet with a presidential veto.

Fotomat Reports Breakeven Results

LA JOLLA (BW) — Fotomat Corp. has reported breakeven results from operations and a net income of $2,078,000 (31 cents per share) on total revenues of $45,581,000 for the year ended Jan. 31.

This compares to an operational loss of $3,282,000 (60 cents per share) and a total loss of $3,712,000 (67 cents per share) on revenues of $34,501,000 for the previous year.

Will you teach him to tie?

There are fatherless boys here in Marin that need someone to look up. They need to learn to fish and sail and, well, just do the things with you that you'll be doing anyway. Take a boy with you to fish that stream in Yosemite or just wash the car. Be a hero to some guy who needs one. Call the Big Brothers of Marin County at 453-8897. You'll get it back with interest. Be a hero and call today.

There are fatherless boys here in Marin that need someone to look up. They need to learn to fish and sail and, well, just do the things with you that you'll be doing anyway. Take a boy with you to fish that stream in Yosemite or just wash the car. Be a hero to some guy who needs one. Call the Big Brothers of Marin County at 453-8897. You'll get it back with interest. Be a hero and call today.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Mixed-up quotes! Yes, they did say these things, but answer "Yes" or "No" as to whether they're attributed to the right persons.

1. DAVID FROST is that bright, talkative Englishman, who seems to be forever quizzing celebrities about their private lives on television. Put 34 candles on his cake today! It all began with his birth at Tenterden, Kent, and his skill as a soccer player nearly turned him into a professional. But he won a state scholarship, electing to go to Cambridge University instead. Would he be likely to say: (A) "He who is tired of London is tired of life"?

2. RAVI SHANKAR, 53 today, probably is more responsible for introducing Indian music to the United States than anyone else. He learned to play his native instruments from Ustad Allaudin Kahn, who taught him all the ragas. It takes 10 to 15 years to learn this music, which is not written down. Would he be likely to say: (B) "... All through the years we'll spend together, sharing the tears and the stormy weather"?

3. WALTER WINCHELL (1897-1972) probably was America's best known journalist in the 1930's and 40's. This New Yorker went from selling newspapers on streetcorners at 8 to doing it at a typewriter a few years later. More than 800 newspapers published his daily column at its height. On his network radio show, would he be likely to say: (C) "Good evening, Mr. and Mrs. American and all the ships at sea. Let's go to press"?

4. BILLIE HOLIDAY (1915-1959) was a Baltimore girl who sang the blues to fame and fortune. She was discovered in Harlem night clubs, made her first recording with Benny Goodman in 1933. Stardom soon followed with numbers like "Strange Fruit" and "Any Old Time." Would she be likely to say: (D) "That's marvelous! fantastic! terrific!"?

ANSWERS: 1 - No (See D); 2 - No (See A); 3 - Yes; 4 - No (See B).

WINNING BRIDGE

Expert Tries Hard To Avoid That Fatally Easy Finesse

Most people learn how to finesse early in their bridge careers and never recover from the lesson. The expert often goes to a great deal of trouble to avoid taking a finesse.

OPENING LEAD-D-6

West opended the six of diamonds, East put up the ten and South won with the queen. South could count six other tricks in top cards: three clubs, two hearts and one spade.

Two additional tricks were needed for the contract.

FIRST PLAN

Declarer's first thought was to take the spade finesse. Two additional spade tricks could be won if West held the king of spades.

Declarer's second thought saved him: If West had the king of spades, the finesse would work at any time. There was no need to hurry.

EXTRA TRICKS POSSIBLE

It was possible, although unlikely, that South could develop one extra trick in hearts and one extra trick in clubs. If so, he would not have to risk the spade finesse.

South tried the hearts first, laying down the ace and then the king of that suit. Fortunately for him, the queen dropped. This set up dummy's jack.

Declarer next cashed the three top clubs, ending in his own hand. If the suit failed to break favorably, he would be in position to try the spade finesse. As it happened, the clubs did break 3-3, and dummy's last low club was good.

LUCKY BREAK

These lucky breaks make it unnecessary for declarer to take the spade finesse. He made game with one spade, three hearts, one diamond and four clubs.

The spade finesse would have been fatal. East would have taken the king of spades and would have returned a diamond. Then West would have defeated the contract with four diamond tricks.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids notrump, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 9 8 6
♥ - Q 10
♦ - A K 7 6 2
♣ - 10 8 3.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Big 3 no-trump. Since partner has 16 to 18 points for his bid, and you have 9 points, you know that the combined count is 25 to 27 points. This ought to be enough for game at no-trump, but it is unlikely to be enough for game in diamonds.

Expert Tries Hard To Avoid That Fatally Easy Finesse

Most people learn how to finesse early in their bridge careers and never recover from the lesson. The expert often goes to a great deal of trouble to avoid taking a finesse.

Opening lead — ♢ 6

OPENING LEAD-D-6

West opended the six of diamonds, East put up the ten and South won with the queen. South could count six other tricks in top cards: three clubs, two hearts and one spade.

Two additional tricks were needed for the contract.

FIRST PLAN

Declarer's first thought was to take the spade finesse. Two additional spade tricks could be won if West held the king of spades.

Declarer's second thought saved him: If West had the king of spades, the finesse would work at any time. There was no need to hurry.

EXTRA TRICKS POSSIBLE

It was possible, although unlikely, that South could develop one extra trick in hearts and one extra trick in clubs. If so, he would not have to risk the spade finesse.

South tried the hearts first, laying down the ace and then the king of that suit. Fortunately for him, the queen dropped. This set up dummy's jack.

Declarer next cashed the three top clubs, ending in his own hand. If the suit failed to break favorably, he would be in position to try the spade finesse. As it happened, the clubs did break 3-3, and dummy's last low club was good.

LUCKY BREAK

These lucky breaks make it unnecessary for declarer to take the spade finesse. He made game with one spade, three hearts, one diamond and four clubs.

The spade finesse would have been fatal. East would have taken the king of spades and would have returned a diamond. Then West would have defeated the contract with four diamond tricks.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids no-trump, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 9 8 6
♥ - Q 10
♦ - A K 7 6 2
♣ - 10 8 3.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Big 3 no-trump. Since partner has 16 to 18 points for his bid, and you have 9 points, you know that the combined count is 25 to 27 points. This ought to be enough for game at no-trump, but it is unlikely to be enough for game in diamonds.

Orchestra Piccola's Dream Comes True

Rinaldi Group To Play At Festival In Italy

By PAUL LIBERATORE

The news came over the telephone one night at the San Rafael home of Hugo Rinaldi, director of the Orchestra Piccola, Marin's youth chamber ensemble. On the line was Rita Sperry, mother of one of the orchestra members.

"Hugo," she said, "are you sitting down?"

"Oh, no don't tell me," was the only reply he could muster.

But she did tell him. The Orchestra Piccola, barely two years old and made up of 27 Marin County youngsters 14 through 18 years old, had been invited to one of the most prestigious events in classical music, the Festival of Two Worlds in Spoleto, Italy, this summer.

"I wanted to take the kids to Italy," Rinaldi said. "So why not try for the best, the Festival of Two Worlds?"

The campaign to be accepted had begun months earlier when Rinaldi sent a tape of the orchestra to Harvey Lichtenstein, the U.S. director of the festival.

Weeks passed and he heard nothing. Then Mrs. Sperry, in New York on business, volunteered to telephone Lichtenstein to find out what had happened. She called and called, only to find when she finally reached him that he had lost the tape.

"Don't be deflated," she told Rinaldi on her return, "but he said the festival wouldn't hire a youth group anyway."

Stubbornly, the 50-year-old orchestra director sent a new set of tapes, his persistence was rewarded by Orchestra Piccola being the first amateur group ever to be invited to the festival.

"The nice thing about it is that there were no politics involved," Rinaldi said. "We were picked from our recordings."

For the 17-year-old concertmaster of the orchestra, Dan Smiley of Mill Valley, the Spoleto trip will be his second to Europe this year. He won the string classification of the Young Musicians Awards, his prize being six days in Paris in May.

"Paris in the spring. . ." he said wistfully. "I still can't believe it."

Smiley, a senior at Tamalpais High School, has been playing the violin for nine years and currently is studying under Stuart Canin, concertmaster of the San Francisco Symphony. His mother, Yuriko, is a music supervisor at San Domenico School in Sleepy Hollow and his 15-year-old sister, Mariko, also is a member of the orchestra.

"Dan is rare," said Rinaldi. "Never have I had a more musical concertmaster."

"I am looking forward to the contact with the people," Smiley said. "In Spoleto, we will be living with Italian families. And that is what music is supposed to do, bring people from different countries together."

He has been accepted at the Juilliard School of Music in New York and, in addition to his preparations for his two European trips, is getting ready for his first term there this fall.

He said the orchestra owes a lot to Rinaldi because it was he "who insisted on the quality to get us to Spoleto."

The road to Spoleto for 17-year-old Lue Ann Fischer began when, as a child, she stared wide-eyed at a performance of the San Francisco Children's Opera and decided "that's what I want to be."

At 7 she became a member of the opera company, later taking up the violin, which she plays in the Orchestra Piccola.

"Music has been very serious in my life," she said. "I put intense energy into it."

A resident of Marin City, Miss Fischer is a senior at San Domenico School and plans to continue her study of voice and violin when she begins college in the fall, probably at Stanford.

Both Miss Fischer and Smiley expressed pride in the Orchestra Piccola, which is a select group of the Marin Youth Orchestra, founded by Rinaldi 19 years ago, and spoke about its "nonverbal communication" through music and the comraderie of its members.

The final concert at Spoleto will be Miss Fischer's and Smiley's last with the ensemble.

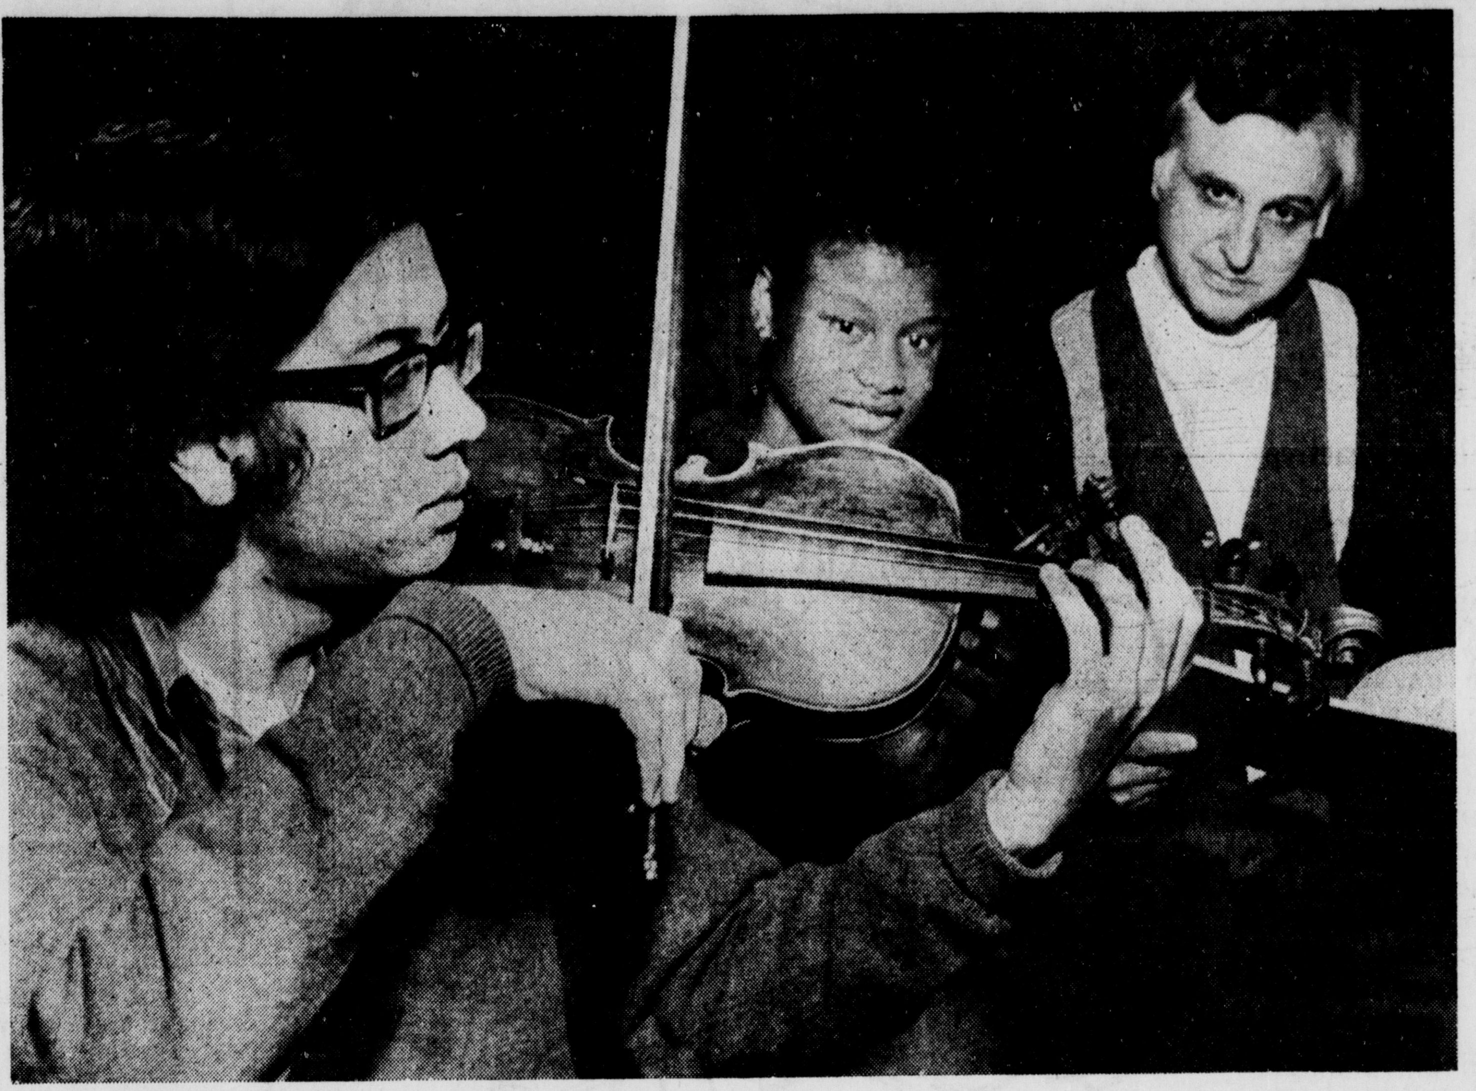
"The sad thing is that they have to leave," said Rinaldi. "But they leave with maturity and new ones come along to replace them."

The orchestra will leave for Italy June 17, arriving in Milan the following evening. From there they will travel to Venice, Florence and Rome, with concerts being scheduled for each city.

They will perform their festival concert July 1, which will include a work commissioned especially for them by Richard Cumming. They also will perform in the Mozart Marathon, under the direction of Lucas Foss, and will join the National Orchestra July 8 in the festival finale, Benjamin Britten's "War Requiem."

The group has received a $10,000 grant for the trip from the San Francisco Foundation and will earn about $3,000 from appearances in Marin and the Bay Area. The orchestra will perform at 8 p.m. tomorrow at St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere.

"This particular group is a reflection of the kind of community we live in," Rinaldi said. "It is a real marriage of the kids, their parents, teachers, schools and the Marin Symphony. This is one area in which the community is in real harmony."



MUSIC OF YOUTH — Dan Smiley, 17-year-old concertmaster of the Orchestra Piccola, a 27-member chamber ensemble of the Marin Youth Orchestra, works through a passage of one of the pieces the orchestra will perform during the Spoleto Festival in Italy this summer. Listening are Lue Ann Fischer, 17, another orchestra member, and Hugo Rinaldi, orchestra director and founder. The Marin ensemble is the first youth group ever invited to the festival.

Violinist To Perform On Monday

Japanese violinist Teiko Maehashi will present a selection of classics at 8:15 p.m. Monday in a concert sponsored by the Marin Concert Association at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Miss Maehashi, a native of Tokyo, began playing the violin at the age of 5. She later studied at the Leningrad Conservatory and the Juilliard School.

In 1968 she won first prize in the Oakland Young Artist completion and then appeared the next year with the Oakland Symphony. She has made around-the-world recital tours, appearing with the Orchestra of the Opera of Monte Carlo, the Baltimore Symphony and the Vancouver Symphony.

Art Show Reception

A public reception will be held from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. April 15 for the Marin opening of the Terra Linda Art Association's annual "Zellerbach Show," at the association gallery, 4175 Redwood Highway. The show will be open through May 12.

The juried show now is hanging in the Zellerbach building in San Francisco.

The reception will include a slide and sound show at 2:30 p.m., when artist Tony Williams will present "Something Else Sensory," combining the art work and photography of himself, Gary Williams and Torben Strandgaard.

Weekly Class In Spanish Under Way

A weekly class in Spanish for children of Latin parents began today in the Novato Public Library, sponsored by Mujeres Latinas Unidas de Marin (United Latin Women of Marin).

The classes will be held from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. each Saturday at the library through June 9, according to Dolores Pena of Novato.

Tourism Can Help Save Environment

THOSE WHO promote tourism and those who promote conservation have more in common than either group often recognizes.

If each could recognize and accentuate what they have in common, the general welfare would be better served, especially in our Redwood Empire counties, including Marin.

What is it that they have in common?

Both work for the common good as each sees it.

Tourism promoters want to attract visitors to strengthen the local economy. We cannot exist in the Redwood Empire just taking in each others washing.

We are NOT heavily industrialized, nor do we wish to become so. Even if we wished, we do not have the raw materials necessary to turn us into another Pittsburgh or Detroit. We do have some light industry scattered about; Sonoma County especially, seems to be expanding in this field. But manufacturing can never be our principal economic support.

Agriculture? We are not big in farming; in fact, our acreages held in agriculture are declining. The chicken and egg business has left Petaluma, for instance. Novato's orchards are no more. Marin's once-huge dairying industry has been squeezed down considerably. Our economic future does not lie with agriculture.

Commercial fishing? We have some at Point Reyes, Tomales, Noyo, Bodega, Eureka, Crescent City and elsewhere. It cannot be expected to expand much because the supply of fish in the sea is limited, as we are coming to realize more clearly all the time. Commercial fishing will not support us.

Timber production? It is still big in the northern counties. Although much timber has been removed from the commercial market by acquisition for state and national parks, much remains in "perpetual" tree farms held in private ownership. Most of us hope and expect that we will achieve a balance between specimen groves in public ownership and production groves in private ownership, maintained on a sustained yield basis. There is no way over the long run that we can depend on timber and forest products as the cornerstone of our economy. For some small logging communities, yes; but for the whole of the Redwood Empire, the lumber industry is about as economically productive as it can ever be.

THOSE WHO promote tourism see visitors as the economic salvation of our area.

Tourism supporters know — at least the principal leadership in the Redwood Empire Association recognizes — that the natural splendors of our environment constitute our attractiveness to visitors.

Every time a majestic, 2,000-year-old redwood tree crashes before the logger's chain saw, we have lost another chunk of our environmental attractiveness.

"Tourism does not have to be a threat to the environment. Sometimes it can be a factor in preserving and safeguarding it. A worsening environment may attract fewer and fewer visitors; this may spur public officials and business leaders to take steps to halt the loss of historic buildings and natural scenes and thus keep the tourist trade."

Robert J. Sullivan, manager of San Francisco's convention and tourist bureau, put it this way:

"If Americans hadn't wanted to visit Independence Hall as the nation's birthplace, somebody would have melted down that cracked bell a long time ago."

Tourism, he said, can be "the environment's best friend and potentially its greatest protector."

SAVING, PROTECTING and even improving our environment is not cheap, as we are coming to see more clearly every day as we pony up more money for automobiles with costly smog control devices.

If we are to support the costs of environmental protection, we must have a sound economic foundation. Some conservation leaders have publicly recognized this state of affairs. All will have to if we are to save our environment from destruction by pollution.

On the other hand, as Sunset publisher Lane has stated it, "We would have a bad case of environmental myopia if we were to ignore the increasing examples around the world where the tourist industry does not enhance the environment and, indeed, is a contributor to various forms of pollution."

The general welfare would be better served if those who promote tourism and those who promote conservation would work together.

Both groups should work to foster greater appreciation for the natural scenic splendors and other environmental assets of the Redwood Empire.

Both should encourage protection of scenic, historical and recreation resources of the Redwood Empire to the end that they will be enjoyed, not destroyed.

Both should work toward tourist management to insure that our visitors are attracted in ways and at times when they benefit our economy without damaging our environment.

Both should support the expansion and improvement of public transportation and encourage its use as an alternative to ever-increasing highway congestion.

Both should support establishment of scenic highways and the improvement of all roads and highways throughout the Redwood Empire to safe standards, so local residents and visitors alike can enjoy safe travel to and from our beaches, forests, rivers, lakes, and other natural environmental features.

IN SUM, THEY should be promoting a cooperative spirit, recognizing that what is preserved should be for public enjoyment and that our important visitor economy depends on preservation of our natural wonders.

Let us hope there are leaders in both groups who have sufficient breadth of vision to see the necessity for working together to achieve the greatest good for all of us.

Headline Misconstrued Thrust Of Letter

In the interests of accuracy, I am compelled to point out that the editorial caption given my letter (I.J. April 3), i.e., "Only Teachers Qualified To Evaluate Teachers" totally misconstrued my position.

The thrust of my expressed opinion was that only those with experience in teaching and the professional observation of teacher performance, etc., should be considered competent to set up standards for teacher evaluation under the Stull Bill.

Contrary to your caption, my letter did not posit that valid evaluations of teacher performance can only be made by other teachers.

Special Interest Groups And Election

Your editorial of March 20 concerning special interest groups started out as if it were taken from some of my own campaign material. You pointed out correctly that it is the job of those in public office to decide which special interest coincides with the public interest. In the past boards such as those who were to protect our environment and those who were to run our publicly owned utilities were made up generally of persons who represented the special interest groups. In the case of the pollution control boards it was like sending goats to watch the cabbage. This has changed now and we can be sure that progress will be made in this sector. There has also been a change in the make-up of water boards in many parts of this country. The election on April 17 will be the second M.M.W.D. election where the interests of the public in the development of their county will be considered as it relates to available water.

What perhaps your editorial failed to point out is that independence is required when deciding which special interest groups' stands coincide with that of the public. Independence, however, is a state of mind and if the public is to have confidence in those holding public office those persons must also maintain an appearance of independence as well as an actual independent attitude. Yet candidates continue to align themselves with special interest groups in order to obtain the funds with which to run for office and once elected ask why the public does not believe they are acting independently.

The Family Boycott Works —That Is . . . Until . . . Except

WASHINGTON — It was the fifth day of our meat boycott and the family was sitting around the dining-room table wiping up the gravy from the cheese-and-turnip casserole that my wife had prepared for us. You could see the pride in the children's faces. They had survived almost a week without meat — and they knew they had struck a great blow for lower food prices.

"I don't even miss meat," my daughter Jennifer said.

"I don't even miss chicken," my daughter Connie agreed.

My son Joel said, "The voice of the consumer has been heard in the land."

"Then you all agree," I said, "that boycotts are the best way of showing our discontent over high prices."

Everyone agreed.

"THE REASON I raise the question," I said, "is that the telephone company is thinking of doubling the price of a call from 10 cents to 20 cents. This would be an increase of 100 per cent and I think if they do it we should boycott the telephone system."

The family looked at me as if I had gone mad.

"Boycott the telephone company?" Jennifer said. "But how could I talk to my friends?"

"You could write them letters," I suggested.

"No one writes anyone letters any more," Connie said.

"Even if they did," Joel said, "They'd never be delivered."

MY WIFE, who never knows when I'm kidding, said, "Are you serious about boycotting the phone company?"

"Dead serious," I said. "We've got to bring them to their knees. We've got to bring the cost of a telephone call down, down, down."

"You gave up meat," I said.

"Meat is just food," she shouted. "The telephone is my life."

Connie yelled, "We'd die without the telephone."

Joel agreed. "Man has to communicate by phone or his ear will wither away."

MY WIFE SAID, "I'll give up one or the other but I won't give up both meat and the telephone."

"Nevertheless," I said, "if we're going to stick by our principles, we will have to boycott the telephone company, just as we will have to boycott the gasoline stations when they raise the price of gas."

"Raise the price of gas?" Joel said. "What am I going to do with my car?"

"Keep it in the garage until the gasoline companies see the error of their ways."

"How do I get to school?" Connie said.

"Take the bus."

"What's a bus?" Connie demanded.

"DON'T BE SMART," I said. "If we're going to give up meat because they raised the prices on us, we're going to give up the telephone and gasoline and, if they raise electricity, we'll give up air conditioning."

"But we have to have air conditioning," Jennifer said.

"Look, prices are going up on everything. Why should we just sock it to the farmer? If we really want our voices heard, we've got to sock the phone company, the gasoline companies, the power companies and anyone else who thinks they can horse around with our household budget.

"I say we're either in the boycott business for real or we get out of it altogether. Now what do you say?"

My wife sighed, "I'll order a pork roast from the butcher tomorrow morning."

Thieu Has Plenty Of Reasons To Thank President Nixon

We do not know how much gratitude President Thieu of the Republic of Vietnam expressed to President Nixon of the United States when they chatted together at San Clemente, but it should have been substantial.

True, all American combat ground troops now are out of South Vietnam, and the country again is being managed largely by its own people. But as the last American soldier walked out, it was plain that Mr. Nixon had handed over to Mr. Thieu an extremely favorable situation — much more favorable than anyone, except perhaps Mr. Nixon himself, would have expected a year ago.

The immediate situation is that President Thieu and his army have decisive military superiority over their enemies in most of South Vietnam today. Whether they can keep that superiority over the next 12 months is another matter. No one can possibly foresee now what changes will occur in the two parts of Vietnam over coming months. But as of today, the advantage is decidedly with Saigon.

THE SITUATION IS THIS: On the eve of the cease-fire two months ago, the local Viet Cong units, backed by regular North Vietnam units, launched hundreds of local offensives designed to widen the area of the country undr their control. Mr. Thieu's army woke up on the morning after the cease-fire with a choice. Either the South Vietnamese counterattacked, or left their enemies in possession of much more territory and many more villages and strategic positions that their previous soldiering had justified. The South Vietnamese counterattacked.

Most of the fighting since cease-fire day has consisted of the counterattacks. Most, in fact nearly all, of these have been decisively successful. The Viet Cong has not been able to hang on to the hamlets or the road-blocking positions. One of the sharpest battles was fought for the fishing village of Sa Huynh and a blocking position at that point on the coast across the main north-south highway. Troops trying to hold Sa Huynh for the Viet Cong were said to have been told to hold it at all costs. They didn't. The highway is clear.

In other words, the Saigon army has won the campaign which has been waged over cease-fire positions. It has paid a price, yes. Casualties have been heavy. But, in spite of reinforcements from North Vietnam, the two months of fighting over cease-fire positions has been a major victory of President Thieu's forces.

THE LARGER MILITARY situation which this Saigon victory has been gained is as follows:

North Vietnam has largely replaced the losses taken by its troops in the south during the last year. A steady and routine flow of replacements down the Ho Chi Minh trail over the last four months has fleshed out the depleted units. Some 300 tanks have made good much of the armor lost in the April offensive a year ago. But the combined North Vietnam and Viet Cong units are not in a condition comparable to their condition of a year ago.

There have been two major Communist offensives in the Vietnam war. The first was Tet in 1968. The second was the Easter offensive of 1972. They were four years rebuilding to offensive capacity after the losses they took in Tet. But the Easter offensive is only one year behind. And their losses in the Easter offensive were at least as heavy, and perhaps even more so than in Tet. In other words, they haven't yet had time to get ready for another major offensive; nor are they deployed for one as they were a year ago. And the dry season suitable for heavy campaigning already is drawing toward its end.

Thus President Thieu and his generals are sitting on top of a victory, of a winning military situation, and of an army in the full confidence earned from a whole galaxy of local successes. Besides, the enemy is not in condition to go over to the offensive this season. The earliest time it might be in offensive condition would be 10 months from now.

PRESIDENT THIEU has President Nixon to thank for the support, the guns, and the diplomacy behind this condition, which is strengthed by the continued presence of substantial American sea and air power around Vitnam. And Mr. Nixon has again threatened to use it against the North Vietnamese should they attempt to resume the offensive. There is no present sign of any such intention.

The net of it all is that President Theiu came to San Clemente as a man who has some 10 months ahead of him in which to consolidate a presently favorable condition. His business with President Nixon is over schedules and amounts for continuing American supplies and weapons replacements. There should not be much trouble between the two men. Mr. Nixon has invested heavily on survival of the Thieu regime in Saigon. He is unlikely to put it on short rations now.

Arab Sheikhs Hold Trumps As U.S. Runs Out Of Gas

WASHINGTON — Like a mirage seen in shimmering desert heat is the vast wealth of the oil sheikhdoms in the Persian Gulf. When in the next decade the United States must import up to 30 per cent of all the oil we use, their take will increase from roughly $10 billion a year to $30 billion or more.

That tidy sum will be at the command of sheikhs whose desert principalities are sparsely populated and whose peoples make few demands. The leverage in world finance and diplomacy this will give these autocrats is reason for dark foreboding in western capitals, foremost among them Washington. Along with the sheikhdoms there are the leading oil producers such as Iran and Saudi Arabia, making up a total overall of 75 to 90 billions of dollars, yen, sterling and francs by 1980.

HOW WILL THEY spend these vast sums? In a speech in Paris recently, Thornton F. Bradshaw, president of Atlantic Richfield, put this question to a leading British politician. Bradshaw said all he could think of was that they would come into the stock market and buy all of General Motors, all of IBM, all of General Electric. After thinking for a moment, his British friend replied:

"Splendid! You let them buy General Motors. You let them buy IBM. You let them buy General Electric. And then you nationalize."

This was, of course, meant for a laugh.

In a serious vein Bradshaw made what, for an oil man, was an heretical proposal. He suggested sharply increased taxes on cars according to horsepower to discourage large cars. He would encourage the use of gasoline taxes for building mass transit systems in cities.

A GASOLINE SHORTAGE is just around the corner. It is likely to be acute with the beginning of the tourist season. The motorist scurrying from pump to pump to fill up his tank will be a common sight. Prices will rise sharply and there may even be an attempt at rationing, which promises to be both too late and too little.

Short of a direct attack on the great god horsepower and the status symbol of the Cadillac and the Lincoln Continental, the pinch will grow worse from year to year. Far from stimulating production of the motorcar, as was the goal when the excise tax was removed, the objective should be just the opposite.

Detroit is saying proudly that this will be an 11 million-car year. City streets are already so clogged that traffic moves slower than a walking pace. The one-man, one-car commuter is a familiar phenomenon coming in from suburbs to the center city.

THE PLAIN, HARD fact is that, for all the chirrupy talk about the boundless resources of oil, gas and shale within the continental United States, nothing can be done to relieve the pinch within domestic confines for at least a decade. Government-controlled prices for natural gas, the rising cost of exploration, a complex web of circumstances make any quick change all but impossible.

An illustration of the time lag is Atlantic Richfield's discovery of the largest field in North America in Alaska in 1968. Company geologists first visited the north slope in 1949. Conservationists blocked construction of the trans-Alaska pipeline in federal court.

The United States Supreme Court has just declined to overrule the lower court injunction. This means that only Congress can act to decide whether construction of the line on government-owned land can proceed. This is bound to be a lengthy business as ecologists take up the challenge in Senate and House.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

April 7, 1963

The Marin County clerk's office announced that 65,236 were eligible to vote in school district elections April 16.

State Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, announced he would introduce a bill to dissolve the Golden Gate Bridge District and abolish tolls on the bridge.

Tourism Can Help Save Environment

THOSE WHO promote tourism and those who promote conservation have more in common than either group often recognizes.

If each could recognize and accentuate what they have in common, the general welfare would be better served, especially in our Redwood Empire counties, including Marin.

What is it that they have in common?

Both work for the common good as each sees it.

Tourism promoters want to attract visitors to strengthen the local economy. We cannot exist in the Redwood Empire just taking in each others washing.

We are NOT heavily industrialized, nor do we wish to become so. Even if we wished, we do not have the raw materials necessary to turn us into another Pittsburgh or Detroit. We do have some light industry scattered about; Sonoma County especially, seems to be expanding in this field. But manufacturing can never be our principal economic support.

Agriculture? We are not big in farming; in fact, our acreages held in agriculture are declining. The chicken and egg business has left Petaluma, for instance. Novato's orchards are no more. Marin's once-huge dairying industry has been squeezed down considerably. Our economic future does not lie with agriculture.

Commercial fishing? We have some at Point Reyes, Tomales, Noyo, Bodega, Eureka, Crescent City and elsewhere. It cannot be expected to expand much because the supply of fish in the sea is limited, as we are coming to realize more clearly all the time. Commercial fishing will not support us.

Timber production? It is still big in the northern counties. Although much timber has been removed from the commercial market by acquisition for state and national parks, much remains in "perpetual" tree farms held in private ownership. Most of us hope and expect that we will achieve a balance between specimen groves in public ownership and production groves in private ownership, maintained on a sustained yield basis. There is no way over the long run that we can depend on timber and forest products as the cornerstone of our economy. For some small logging communities, yes; but for the whole of the Redwood Empire, the lumber industry is about as economically productive as it can ever be.

THOSE WHO promote tourism see visitors as the economic salvation of our area.

Tourism supporters know — at least the principal leadership in the Redwood Empire Association recognizes — that the natural splendors of our environment constitute our attractiveness to visitors.

Every time a majestic, 2,000-year-old redwood tree crashes before the logger's chain saw, we have lost another chunk of our environmental attractiveness.

"Tourism does not have to be a threat to the environment. Sometimes it can be a factor in preserving and safeguarding it. A worsening environment may attract fewer and fewer visitors; this may spur public officials and business leaders to take steps to halt the loss of historic buildings and natural scenes and thus keep the tourist trade."

"If Americans hadn't wanted to visit Independence Hall as the nation's birthplace, somebody would have melted down that cracked bell a long time ago."

Tourism, he said, can be "the environment's best friend and potentially its greatest protector."

SAVING, PROTECTING and even improving our environment is not cheap, as we are coming to see more clearly every day as we pony up more money for automobiles with costly smog control devices.

If we are to support the costs of environmental protection, we must have a sound economic foundation. Some conservation leaders have publicly recognized this state of affairs. All will have to if we are to save our environment from destruction by pollution.

On the other hand, as Sunset publisher Lane has stated it, "We would have a bad case of environmental myopia if we were to ignore the increasing examples around the world where the tourist industry does not enhance the environment and, indeed, is a contributor to various forms of pollution."

The general welfare would be better served if those who promote tourism and those who promote conservation would work together.

Both groups should work to foster greater appreciation for the natural scenic splendors and other environmental assets of the Redwood Empire.

Both should encourage protection of scenic, historical and recreation resources of the Redwood Empire to the end that they will be enjoyed, not destroyed.

Both should work toward tourist management to insure that our visitors are attracted in ways and at times when they benefit our economy without damaging our environment.

Both should support the expansion and improvement of public transportation and encourage its use as an alternative to ever-increasing highway congestion.

Both should support establishment of scenic highways and the improvement of all roads and highways throughout the Redwood Empire to safe standards, so local residents and visitors alike can enjoy safe travel to and from our beaches, forests, rivers, lakes, and other natural environmental features.

IN SUM, THEY should be promoting a cooperative spirit, recognizing that what is preserved should be for public enjoyment and that our important visitor economy depends on preservation of our natural wonders.

Let us hope there are leaders in both groups who have sufficient breadth of vision to see the necessity for working together to achieve the greatest good for all of us.

The Family Boycott Works —That Is . . . Until . . . Except

WASHINGTON — It was the fifth day of our meat boycott and the family was sitting around the dining-room table wiping up the gravy from the cheese-and-turnip casserole that my wife had prepared for us. You could see the pride in the children's faces. They had survived almost a week without meat — and they knew they had struck a great blow for lower food prices.

"I don't even miss meat," my daughter Jennifer said.

"I don't even miss chicken," my daughter Connie agreed.

My son Joel said, "The voice of the consumer has been heard in the land."

"Then you all agree," I said, "that boycotts are the best way of showing our discontent over high prices."

Everyone agreed.

"THE REASON I raise the question," I said, "is that the telephone company is thinking of doubling the price of a call from 10 cents to 20 cents. This would be an increase of 100 per cent and I think if they do it we should boycott the telephone system."

The family looked at me as if I had gone mad.

"Boycott the telephone company?" Jennifer said. "But how could I talk to my friends?"

"You could write them letters," I suggested.

"No one writes anyone letters any more," Connie said.

"Even if they did," Joel said, "They'd never be delivered."

MY WIFE, who never knows when I'm kidding, said, "Are you serious about boycotting the phone company?"

"Dead serious," I said. "We've got to bring them to their knees. We've got to bring the cost of a telephone call down, down, down."

"You gave up meat," I said.

"Meat is just food," she shouted. "The telephone is my life."

Connie yelled, "We'd die without the telephone."

Joel agreed. "Man has to communicate by phone or his ear will wither away."

MY WIFE SAID, "I'll give up one or the other but I won't give up both meat and the telephone."

"Nevertheless," I said, "if we're going to stick by our principles, we will have to boycott the telephone company, just as we will have to boycott the gasoline stations when they raise the price of gas."

"Raise the price of gas?" Joel said. "What am I going to do with my car?"

"Keep it in the garage until the gasoline companies see the error of their ways."

"How do I get to school?" Connie said.

"Take the bus."

"What's a bus?" Connie demanded.

"DON'T BE SMART," I said. "If we're going to give up meat because they raised the prices on us, we're going to give up the telephone and gasoline and, if they raise electricity, we'll give up air conditioning."

"But we have to have air conditioning," Jennifer said.

"Look, prices are going up on everything. Why should we just sock it to the farmer? If we really want our voices heard, we've got to sock the phone company, the gasoline companies, the power companies and anyone else who thinks they can horse around with our household budget.

"I say we're either in the boycott business for real or we get out of it altogether. Now what do you say?"

My wife sighed, "I'll order a pork roast from the butcher tomorrow morning."

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Thick, prime beefsteaks
Wild rice
Imported Hawaiian papaya
Cream and butter
Mushrooms and truffles

Place in an inexpensive casserole and serve.

Modern man fusses too much about the grocery bill. When Eve put Adam on an apple diet, he didn't go around complaining about the price of apples.

Thieu Has Plenty Of Reasons To Thank President Nixon

We do not know how much gratitude President Thieu of the Republic of Vietnam expressed to President Nixon of the United States when they chatted together at San Clemente, but it should have been substantial.

True, all American combat ground troops now are out of South Vietnam, and the country again is being managed largely by its own people. But as the last American soldier walked out, it was plain that Mr. Nixon had handed over to Mr. Thieu an extremely favorable situation — much more favorable than anyone, except perhaps Mr. Nixon himself, would have expected a year ago.

The immediate situation is that President Thieu and his army have decisive military superiority over their enemies in most of South Vietnam today. Whether they can keep that superiority over the next 12 months is another matter. No one can possibly foresee now what changes will occur in the two parts of Vietnam over coming months. But as of today, the advantage is decidedly with Saigon.

THE SITUATION IS THIS: On the eve of the cease-fire two months ago, the local Viet Cong units, backed by regular North Vietnam units, launched hundreds of local offensives designed to widen the area of the country undr their control. Mr. Thieu's army woke up on the morning after the cease-fire with a choice. Either the South Vietnamese counterattacked, or left their enemies in possession of much more territory and many more villages and strategic positions that their previous soldiering had justified. The South Vietnamese counterattacked.

Most of the fighting since cease-fire day has consisted of the counterattacks. Most, in fact nearly all, of these have been decisively successful. The Viet Cong has not been able to hang on to the hamlets or the road-blocking positions. One of the sharpest battles was fought for the fishing village of Sa Huynh and a blocking position at that point on the coast across the main north-south highway. Troops trying to hold Sa Huynh for the Viet Cong were said to have been told to hold it at all costs. They didn't. The highway is clear.

In other words, the Saigon army has won the campaign which has been waged over cease-fire positions. It has paid a price, yes. Casualties have been heavy. But. in spite of reinforcements from North Vietnam, the two months of fighting over cease-fire positions has been a major victory of President Thieu's forces.

THE LARGER MILITARY situation which this Saigon victory has been gained is as follows:

North Vietnam has largely replaced the losses taken by its troops in the south during the last year. A steady and routine flow of replacements down the Ho Chi Minh trail over the last four months has fleshed out the depleted units. Some 300 tanks have made good much of the armor lost in the April offensive a year ago. But the combined North Vietnam and Viet Cong units are not in a condition comparable to their condition of a year ago.

There have been two major Communist offensives in the Vietnam war. The first was Tet in 1968. The second was the Easter offensive of 1972. They were four years rebuilding to offensive capacity after the losses they took in Tet. But the Easter offensive is only one year behind. And their losses in the Easter offensive were at least as heavy, and perhaps even more so than in Tet. In other words, they haven't yet had time to get ready for another major offensive: nor are they deployed for one as they were a year ago. And the dry season suitable for heavy campaigning already is drawing toward its end.

Thus President Thieu and his generals are sitting on top of a victory, of a winning military situation, and of an army in the full confidence earned from a whole galaxy of local successes. Besides, the enemy is not in condition to go over to the offensive this season. The earliest time it might be in offensive condition would be 10 months from now.

PRESIDENT THIEU has President Nixon to thank for the support, the guns, and the diplomacy behind this condition, which is strengthed by the continued presence of substantial American sea and air power around Vitnam. And Mr. Nixon has again threatened to use it against the North Vietnamese should they attempt to resume the offensive. There is no present sign of any such intention.

The net of it all is that President Theiu came to San Clemente as a man who has some 10 months ahead of him in which to consolidate a presently favorable condition. His business with President Nixon is over schedules and amounts for continuing American supplies and weapons replacements. There should not be much trouble between the two men. Mr. Nixon has invested heavily on survival of the Thieu regime in Saigon. He is unlikely to put it on short rations now.

Arab Sheikhs Hold Trumps As U.S. Runs Out Of Gas

WASHINGTON — Like a mirage seen in shimmering desert heat is the vast wealth of the oil sheikhdoms in the Persian Gulf. When in the next decade the United States must import up to 30 per cent of all the oil we use, their take will increase from roughly $10 billion a year to $30 billion or more.

That tidy sum will be at the command of sheikhs whose desert principalities are sparsely populated and whose peoples make few demands. The leverage in world finance and diplomacy this will give these autocrats is reason for dark foreboding in western capitals, foremost among them Washington. Along with the sheikhdoms there are the leading oil producers such as Iran and Saudi Arabia, making up a total overall of 75 to 90 billions of dollars, yen, sterling and francs by 1980.

HOW WILL THEY spend these vast sums? In a speech in Paris recently, Thornton F. Bradshaw, president of Atlantic Richfield, put this question to a leading British politician. Bradshaw said all he could think of was that they would come into the stock market and buy all of General Motors, all of IBM, all of General Electric. After thinking for a moment, his British friend replied:

"Splendid! You let them buy General Motors. You let them buy IBM. You let them buy General Electric. And then you nationalize."

This was, of course, meant for a laugh.

In a serious vein Bradshaw made what, for an oil man, was an heretical proposal. He suggested sharply increased taxes on cars according to horsepower to discourage large cars. He would encourage the use of gasoline taxes for building mass transit systems in cities.

A GASOLINE SHORTAGE is just around the corner. It is likely to be acute with the beginning of the tourist season. The motorist scurrying from pump to pump to fill up his tank will be a common sight. Prices will rise sharply and there may even be an attempt at rationing, which promises to be both too late and too little.

Short of a direct attack on the great god horsepower and the status symbol of the Cadillac and the Lincoln Continental, the pinch will grow worse from year to year. Far from stimulating production of the motorcar, as was the goal when the excise tax was removed, the objective should be just the opposite.

Detroit is saying proudly that this will be an 11 million-car year. City streets are already so clogged that traffic moves slower than a walking pace. The one-man, one-car commuter is a familiar phenomenon coming in from suburbs to the center city.

THE PLAIN, HARD fact is that, for all the chirrupy talk about the boundless resources of oil, gas and shale within the continental United States, nothing can be done to relieve the pinch within domestic confines for at least a decade. Government-controlled prices for natural gas, the rising cost of exploration, a complex web of circumstances make any quick change all but impossible.

An illustration of the time lag is Atlantic Richfield's discovery of the largest field in North America in Alaska in 1968. Company geologists first visited the north slope in 1949. Conservationists blocked construction of the trans-Alaska pipeline in federal court.

The United States Supreme Court has just declined to overrule the lower court injunction. This means that only Congress can act to decide whether construction of the line on government-owned land can proceed. This is bound to be a lengthy business as ecologists take up the challenge in Senate and House.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

April 7, 1963

The Marin County clerk's office announced that 65,236 were eligible to vote in school district elections April 16.

State Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, announced he would introduce a bill to dissolve the Golden Gate Bridge District and abolish tolls on the bridge.

20 YEARS AGO

April 7, 1953

Sen. John F. McCarthy's bill to put the Golden Gate Bridge under the California Division of Bay Toll Crossings was killed in the state Senate Transportation Committee.

Trustees of Tamalpais High School District discussed hiring the school district's own attorney, complaining that the Marin County district attorney's office "seems too limited or understaffed to give counsel."

Christians Are Praying Less Often In Private

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Recent surveys indicate there has been a sharp drop-off, among both Protestants and Catholics, in the practice of private prayer.

Those who've inquired into this trend say there seem to be several reasons for it. One is that many Christians in recent years have paid relatively little attention to the "vertical dimension" of religion — the personal relationship of each human soul to God. They've been preoccupied with "horizontal dimension" of religion - that is, relationships among human beings in society.

Another factor, it appears, is a widespread belief among contemporary Christians that prayer is asking God for special favors. Those who operate under this misapprehension refrain from praying, they say, because they don't want to behave like selfcentered beggars.

A third difficulty, which has existed in every age but seems particularly acute today, is that many find it hard to conceive of the Creator and Sustainer of the whole universe having the time or inclination to "listen" to the prayers of countless individuals.

All of these hang-ups originate in a profound misunderstanding of what prayer is and the role it can play in a person's life.

Prayer is not a magical incantation by which the superstitious hope to manipulate God and con Him into granting favors He'd otherwise withhold. Jesus Christ, who prayed fervently and regularly, forever demolished the validity of "gimme prayers" by pointing out that "Your Father in heaven knows what you need before you ask for it." (Sometimes He knows far better than we what we really need — and mercifully refuses our requests.)

To Jesus — and to millions of Christians since — prayer is a focusing of the mind, heart and will on God, so that you become aware of his presence, confident of His love and submissive to His will. It is direct communion between man and God, and its principal importance lies in the healing, strengthening and refreshment of the human spirit which comes from even momentary felt contact with the Spirit of God.

Far from being irrelevant to a concern for social justice, private prayer is an essential means by which normally self-centered or cowardly human beings may find the compassion and courage to fight effectively to achieve a better life for others.

As for difficulty in conceiving of God being able to "listen" to so many prayers, this arises from an immature, anthropomorphic picture of God as a particular Being who dwells "up there" or "out there" someplace. But as theologians Paul Tillich and John Robinson have emphasized in our time, and as Jesus himself made clear long ago, God is not A being, but the ground of ALL being. And He is present, not in A place but in EVERY place — most particularly, in the hearts and minds of human persons who hunger for communion with Him — even though they may not realize what or Who they are hungering for.

Larry Baker Is Named Golden Gate PR Aide

LARRY BAKER
Public relations aide

Larry Curtis Baker, a former Stamford, Tex., journalist, has been named public relations associate at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, at Strawberry.

Baker, 27, is former assistant publisher of the "Stamford American" weekly newspaper. In his new capacity, Baker will be responsible for news releases, publications production, media relations and photography.

He succeeds James Lee Young, who has served as director of news and information services at Golden Gate since September, 1970. Young resigned to begin full time studies at Golden Gate, aiming toward a career in religious journalism. He expects to graduate in June, 1974.

A 1970 graduate of Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, Tex., with a bachelor of arts degree in journalism, Baker was editor of the "H-SU Brand" during his junior and senior years and was named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities." Baker served in the U.S. Air Force from 1963-67 and was stationed in Misawa, Japan, as a Russian linguist.

Presently pastor of DeAnza Baptist Church in Cupertino, Calif., Baker was pastor of Dodson Hill (now Central) Baptist Church in Stamford, 1969-71, and was pastor of Maryneal Baptist Church, Maryneal, Tex., 1968-69. He was public relations chairman for the Baptist Double Mountain Area of Texas in 1970.

He is married to the former Miss Mary Callicoat, of Batesville, Ark. They are residing on the Golden Gate campus. Baker is the son of Mrs. Lena G. Tamlyn, of Tucson, Ariz.

Home Study Sessions Are Slated

Home cottage meetings of Christ the Victor Lutheran Church will resume Wednesday at seven homes in Marin County.

The sessions, at 7:47 p.m., will be held in San Anselmo at 46 Austin Avenue, 260 Van Winkle Drive, and 34 Dutch Valley Lane; in San Rafael at 10 Capri Court; in Fairfax at 448 Oak Manor Road and 362 Bolinas Road, and in San Geronimo at 5 Cecil Road.

Wednesday's sessions will be the last before Easter and the groups are studying the story of Jesus' last few days before his Crucifixion.

Goal of the study is to learn how to apply the story to the present and a basis for the study is a Keith Miller tape, "Inside I Tremble."

At 6 p.m. tomorrow at the church a surprise pizza party will be held.

Dr. Herschel H. Hobbs Teaching At Seminary

Dr. Herschel H. Hobbs, former president of the 12 million member Southern Baptist Convention, is serving as guest professor of preaching at the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Mill Valley.

Hobbs was pastor of First Baptist Church, Oklahoma City, Okla., for 23 years before retiring in January, 1973. He has been the principal preacher for the International Baptist Hour radio broadcast since 1958.

He has authored 35 books and contributed to numerous volumes compiled by others. His more recent works include: "Cosmic Drama: Exposition on the Book of Revelation." 1971; "An Exposition of the Gospel of Mark," 1970; "Epistles to the Corinthians," 1969; "When the Rain Falls," 1967; and "What Baptists Believe," 1963.

Lecture Day Speaker Is Top Baptist

Dr. Porter Routh, executive secretary-treasurer of the Southern Baptist Convention Executive Committee, Nashville, Tenn., will be Lecture-Dialogue Day guest at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary on April 10.

Routh will speak at 9:50 a.m. in John A. Broadus Hall Chapel at the campus on Strawberry Point. In addition to his duties as head of the convention's executive committee, Routh is also treasurer for the SBC.

The eighth guest to appear in the 1972-73 lecture and dialogue series at Golden Gate, Routh is well known as a Southern Baptist leader, author, editor and public speaker. He has written three books: "My World Too," "Meet the Presidents," and "77,000 Churches."

Baptist Church To Host Choir

The Young Adult Association of First Missionary Baptist Church in Marin City will host the Polytechnic High School Choir at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

The musical service will be in the church sanctuary at 501 Drake Avenue and is open to the public.

Students Named To 'Who's Who' From Seminary

Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary has been notified that six students have been named to "Who's Who Among Students" in American Universities and Colleges for the 1972-73 academic year.

Named for the honor were Jerry K. Baker, third year master of divinity candidate from Norco, Calif.; Kay Ellen Green, second year master of religious education candidate from Salinas, Calif.; Herbert V. Hollinger, third year master of divinity candidate from Burley, Ida.; Tom E. Prevost, third year master of divinity candidate from Hazelhurst, Miss.; William H. Smith, third year master of divinity candidate from Covington, Va.; and Keith H. Williams, third year master of divinity candidate from House Springs, Mo.

Concert To Benefit Marin City Church

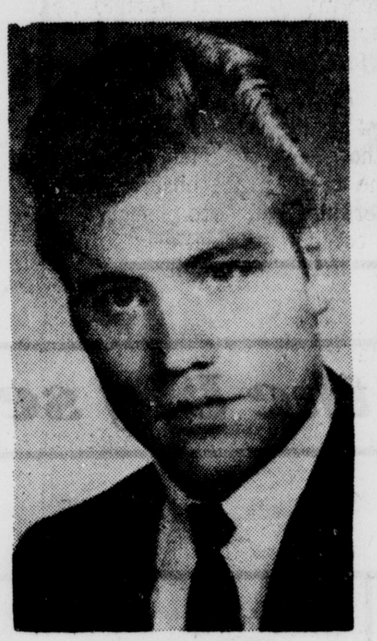
A benefit concert featuring Alma Wells, lyric soprano and Fran Valentine Harden, mezzo soprano, sponsored by the Village Baptist Church will be held at 4 p.m. April 15 at the church in Marin City.

The Concert will be spirituals, gospel songs, classical songs and operatic arias. It will benefit the church building fund.

Miss Wells is a resident of Marin City. She has been soloist in churches throughout Marin County and the Bay Area. Miss Harden lives in San Francisco. She sang the role of Dionne in "Hair" and has appeared throughout California.

They will be accompanied by Sandra Abernathy and Dorothy Childress.

Organ Recital Slated At St. Paul's Church



STEVEN GRUBB
Modesto organist

Steven Grubb of Grace Lutheran Church of Modesto will present a recital at 8 p.m. tomorrow on the Centennial Memorial Organ at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 1123 Court Street, San Rafael.

Grubb is a student of Kenneth Mansfield, professor of organ at California State University at Hayward. The recitals are open to the public and are followed by a wine reception afterward in the parish hall of the church.

Selections for Grubb's recital are: "Hymnus," J. Ahrens; "Suite Du Premier Ton," L. N. Clearambault; "Benedictus," M. Reger; "Kleine Intraden," H. Schroeder; "Cantabile in B Major," C. Franck; "O Wir Armen Sunder," Pepping; and "Prelude and Fugue in D Major," Bach.

Trio To Perform Spring Concert In San Rafael

A special spring concert, featuring the Anastasio-Weingart Trio, has been added to the continuing series of music events being presented by St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael.

According to Rev. Al Price, organist and choirmaster, the group will make one of its infrequent Marin County appearances on Palm Sunday, April 15.

The trio consists of Barbara Anastasio, piano; Edmund Weingart, violin; and Richard Anastasio, cello. Richard Anastasio is well known in Marin for his teaching, and as conductor of the Dominican Chamber Orchestra.

Their program — actually "a trio of Trios" — will offer a full range of enjoyment to chamber music aficionados: Dvorak's Trio in E Minor; Beethoven's, in B Flat Major; and Mendelssohn's, in D Minor.

Admission to the concert, commencing at 7 p.m. in the music room, is free and will be followed by a reception for the artists in the parish hall.

Baptist Church Will Present Easter Cantata

Gordon Young's Easter Cantata, "Man of Sorrows," will be presented by the adult choir of the First Baptist Church, San Rafael, at 11 a.m. Sunday, April 15.

The special public service will be held in the sanctuary at 1411 Lincoln Avenue. The choir will be under the direction of John Tolar. Narrator will be Ross Tetzloff of San Francisco. Soprano soloist will be Mrs. Fred L. Fisher of Mill Valley. James L. Young of Mill Valley will be tenor soloist. Tolar will sing the bass solo. Pastor of the church is Rev. Barrett M. Lampp.

Christian Religion Under Attack Throughout Africa

NAIROBI (UPI) — The Christian religion is under attack in Africa.

From the Cape to Cairo, Christians of various denominations have been harangued, beaten, imprisoned or kicked out of countries in recent months.

In Somalia, the government suddenly ordered all Roman Catholic missionaries to leave the country, Catholic officials here said.

Ethiopian police cracked down on Protestant groups, raiding homes, throwing scores of persons into jail and shaving the heads of women as a mark of disgrace, the sources said.

Some 15,000 Jehovah's Witnesses from Malawi have cautiously returned to their homes after they fled into neighboring Zambia last year following widespread persecution.

Other incidents have been reported in Uganda, Burundi, Egypt and South Africa.

"The whole continent is in turmoil and change," says religious writer Norman Hart. "It is inevitable that the church will get caught up in it."

The Catholic Mirror newspaper said many of the incidents have been inspired by the clash between Islam and Christianity, including the situation in the predominantly Moslem country of Somalia, where, according to Catholic officials, all missionaries were ordered to leave the country.

The exodus has now been temporarily halted pending a review of the situation, the Catholic sources said, but all activity in mission-run hospitals, dispensaries, schools and orphanages has ceased.

In Ethiopia, the sources said, the crackdown against Pentecostal, Lutheran and Baptist groups was inspired by the local and still all-powerful Coptic church trying to protect its position and prevent the influx of competing Christian ideas.

The police action began last fall, and for the first time spread from the countryside into Addis Ababa. Public meeting were banned but when the groups moved into private homes, police raided these, too. The sources said in one swoop some 260 persons were thrown into jail for months and women had their heads shaved.

There was another religious crisis involving the Coptic Church in Egypt last fall when a series of incidents against that country's five million Copts resulted in the destruction of a church in Cairo and clashes between Copts and Moslems.

President Idi Amin of Uganda, a Moslem, has declared war on Christian groups, accusing white missionaries of being mercenaries in disguise and expelling around 60 of them.

In nearby Burundi, President Michel Micombero in a recent speech blamed white missionaries for last year's massacres in which an estimated 150,000 persons died. Church officials were apprehensive Micombero's speech might herald a fresh crackdown against the church.

The estimated 250,000 Jehovah's witnesses in Africa have been in repeated trouble with governments because their religious beliefs often forbid them to enter into what officials consider essential nation building tasks and duties such as national service, paying respect to national flags and singing anthems.

President Hastings Banda of Malawi last year called the Witnesses "devil's disciples" and, tacitly at least, encouraged attacks on them.

After reports of killings, rapes and beatings, 15,000-20,000 members fled into Zambia where, according to church sources, some 300 persons died from measles and dysentery in refugee camps.

Witnesses in South Africa regularly have been sent to prison for refusing to serve in the armed forces. A recent flashpoint occurred when children were suspended from school in the Transvaal for refusing to pay special respect to the national flag.

DEADLINE FOR EASTER NOTICES SET

Special notices for Palm Sunday, Maundy Thursday, Good Friday and Holy Saturday must be received by the Independent-Journal Church Page editor by noon Wednesday.

Notices of the services — both in Marin and Southern Sonoma — will be carried on next Saturday's church page.

The deadline for Easter Sunday services is noon on April 18.

Lay Evangelism Unit Sets Ladies Luncheon

Marin County women, especially those in business and professions, are invited to attend the Marin County Lay Institute for Evangelism ladies luncheon at the NCO Club at Hamilton Air Force Base on Tuesday, April 24, at one o'clock.

Connie Van Maanen, Institute co-director from Palo Alto will be the guest speaker, and information on the Marin County Lay Institute for Evangelism to be held May 3-6 at the Hamilton Air Force Base Chapel will be available. The Institute is designed to explain how one can experience a vital, meaningful Christian life.

Reservations for the luncheon, which will cost $2.50, must be made by April 18, by contacting Arleen Russell, Women's Committee Director, 69 Wallace Way, San Rafael, or Irene Jaquette, Publicity Director, 505 Quietwood Drive, San Rafael.

The lay division of the Campus Crusade for Christ International will conduct the Lay Institute for Evangelism, and over 25 churches in Marin County will be participating in the Institute. The Institute is open to all residents of the county.

Graduate School Applications Sent

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — Applications for admission to the new Assemblies of God Graduate School, which will be officially opened Sept. 4, have been mailed to about 300 persons, Dr. Cordas C. Burnett, executive vice president of the school, reports.

Most of the applications went to persons requesting them or asking for information about the school, which will initially offer courses leading to the Master of Arts degree in Bible-Theology or in Missions.

Lutheran Concert Title Is 'Century Seventeen'

"Century Seventeen" is the title of a concert to be presented tomorrow at 7 p.m. at Marin Lutheran Church, 659 Meadowsweet Drive, Corte Madera.

Featured work of the evening will be Heinrich Schutz' cantata, "The Seven Last Words". Other compositions of the 1600s by Aguilera de Heredia, Frescobaldi, Gabrieli, Sweelinck and Scheidt for organ, solo voices and vocal ensemble also will be featured.

Participants will be: Gerald R. Skeels, Paul Davis, Robert Randig, Ellen Davis, Susan Albrecht Skeels, Anne Walters and Joyce O'Neill. The evening will be an informal one, with comments on the music by Skeels, organist at the church.

The concert is the third in a series presented in connection with the congregation's 25th anniversary and the installation of a new pipe organ earlier this year.

The program:

"Obra de Octavo Tono Alto" (organ), — Aguilera de Heredia;

"Capriccio Pastorale" (organ), — Frescobaldi;

"Ricercar Arioso" (organ), — Gabrieli;

Variations on "Est-ce Mars" (organ) — Sweelinck;

"Magnificat Noni Toni" (organ, vocal ensemble) — Scheidt;

"Give God, the Father, Praise" (tenor, organ) — Schutz;

"Psalm 18" (alto, violin, organ) — Schutz; and

"The Seven Last Words" (vocal ensemble, organ) — Schutz.

OF GOD AND MAN

Christians Are Praying Less Often In Private

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Recent surveys indicate there has been a sharp drop-off, among both Protestants and Catholics, in the practice of private prayer.

Those who've inquired into this trend say there seem to be several reasons for it. One is that many Christians in recent years have paid relatively little attention to the "vertical dimension" of religion — the personal relationship of each human soul to God. They've been preoccupied with "horizontal dimension" of religion - that is, relationships among human beings in society.

Another factor, it appears, is a widespread belief among contemporary Christians that prayer is asking God for special favors. Those who operate under this misapprehension refrain from praying, they say, because they don't want to behave like selfcentered beggars.

A third difficulty, which has existed in every age but seems particularly acute today, is that many find it hard to conceive of the Creator and Sustainer of the whole universe having the time or inclination to "listen" to the prayers of countless individuals.

All of these hang-ups originate in a profound misunderstanding of what prayer is and the role it can play in a person's life.

Prayer is not a magical incantation by which the superstitious hope to manipulate God and con Him into granting favors He'd otherwise withhold. Jesus Christ, who prayed fervently and regularly, forever demolished the validity of "gimme prayers" by pointing out that "Your Father in heaven knows what you need before you ask for it." (Sometimes He knows far better than we what we really need — and mercifully refuses our requests.)

To Jesus — and to millions of Christians since — prayer is a focusing of the mind, heart and will on God, so that you become aware of his presence, confident of His love and submissive to His will. It is direct communion between man and God, and its principal importance lies in the healing, strengthening and refreshment of the human spirit which comes from even momentary felt contact with the Spirit of God.

Far from being irrelevant to a concern for social justice, private prayer is an essential means by which normally self-centered or cowardly human beings may find the compassion and courage to fight effectively to achieve a better life for others.

As for difficulty in conceiving of God being able to "listen" to so many prayers, this arises from an immature, anthropomorphic picture of God as a particular Being who dwells "up there" or "out there" someplace. But as theologians Paul Tillich and John Robinson have emphasized in our time, and as Jesus himself made clear long ago, God is not A being, but the ground of ALL being. And He is present, not in A place but in EVERY place — most particularly, in the hearts and minds of human persons who hunger for communion with Him — even though they may not realize what or Who they are hungering for.

Larry Baker Is Named Golden Gate PR Aide

LARRY BAKER
Public relations aide

Larry Curtis Baker, a former Stamford, Tex., journalist, has been named public relations associate at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, at Strawberry.

Baker, 27, is former assistant publisher of the "Stamford American" weekly newspaper. In his new capacity, Baker will be responsible for news releases, publications production, media relations and photography.

He succeeds James Lee Young, who has served as director of news and information services at Golden Gate since September, 1970. Young resigned to begin full time studies at Golden Gate, aiming toward a career in religious journalism. He expects to graduate in June, 1974.

A 1970 graduate of Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, Tex., with a bachelor of arts degree in journalism, Baker was editor of the "H-SU Brand" during his junior and senior years and was named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities." Baker served in the U.S. Air Force from 1963-67 and was stationed in Misawa, Japan, as a Russian linguist.

Presently pastor of DeAnza Baptist Church in Cupertino, Calif., Baker was pastor of Dodson Hill (now Central) Baptist Church in Stamford, 1969-71, and was pastor of Maryneal Baptist Church, Maryneal, Tex., 1968-69. He was public relations chairman for the Baptist Double Mountain Area of Texas in 1970.

During his first year as a master of divinity candidate at Golden Gate Seminary, Baker worked for the Belvedere-Tiburon "Ebb Tide" newspaper.

He is married to the former Miss Mary Callicoat, of Batesville, Ark. They are residing on the Golden Gate campus. Baker is the son of Mrs. Lena G. Tamlyn, of Tucson, Ariz.

Home Study Sessions Are Slated

Home cottage meetings of Christ the Victor Lutheran Church will resume Wednesday at seven homes in Marin County.

The sessions, at 7:47 p.m., will be held in San Anselmo at 46 Austin Avenue, 260 Van Winkle Drive, and 34 Dutch Valley Lane; in San Rafael at 10 Capri Court; in Fairfax at 448 Oak Manor Road and 362 Bolinas Road, and in San Geronimo at 5 Cecil Road.

Wednesday's sessions will be the last before Easter and the groups are studying the story of Jesus' last few days before his Crucifixion.

Goal of the study is to learn how to apply the story to the present and a basis for the study is a Keith Miller tape, "Inside I Tremble."

At 6 p.m. tomorrow at the church a surprise pizza party will be held.

Dr. Herschel H. Hobbs Teaching At Seminary

Dr. Herschel H. Hobbs, former president of the 12 million member Southern Baptist Convention, is serving as guest professor of preaching at the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Mill Valley.

Hobbs was pastor of First Baptist Church, Oklahoma City, Okla., for 23 years before retiring in January, 1973. He has been the principal preacher for the International Baptist Hour radio broadcast since 1958.

He has authored 35 books and contributed to numerous volumes compiled by others. His more recent works include: "Cosmic Drama: Exposition on the Book of Revelation," 1971; "An Exposition of the Gospel of Mark," 1970; "Epistles to the Corinthians," 1969; "When the Rain Falls," 1967; and "What Baptists Believe," 1963.

Lecture Day Speaker Is Top Baptist

Dr. Porter Routh, executive secretary-treasurer of the Southern Baptist Convention Executive Committee, Nashville, Tenn., will be Lecture-Dialogue Day guest at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary on April 10.

Routh will speak at 9:50 a.m. in John A. Broadus Hall Chapel at the campus on Strawberry Point. In addition to his duties as head of the convention's executive committee, Routh is also treasurer for the SBC.

The eighth guest to appear in the 1972-73 lecture and dialogue series at Golden Gate, Routh is well known as a Southern Baptist leader, author, editor and public speaker. He has written three books: "My World Too," "Meet the Presidents," and "77,000 Churches."

Baptist Church To Host Choir

The Young Adult Association of First Missionary Baptist Church in Marin City will host the Polytechnic High School Choir at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

The musical service will be in the church sanctuary at 501 Drake Avenue and is open to the public.

Students Named To 'Who's Who' From Seminary

Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary has been notified that six students have been named to "Who's Who Among Students" in American Universities and Colleges for the 1972-73 academic year.

Named for the honor were Jerry K. Baker, third year master of divinity candidate from Norco, Calif.; Kay Ellen Green, second year master of religious education candidate from Salinas, Calif.; Herbert V. Hollinger, third year master of divinity candidate from Burley, Ida.; Tom E. Prevost, third year master of divinity candidate from Hazelhurst, Miss.; William H. Smith, third year master of divinity candidate from Covington, Va.; and Keith H. Williams, third year master of divinity candidate from House Springs, Mo.

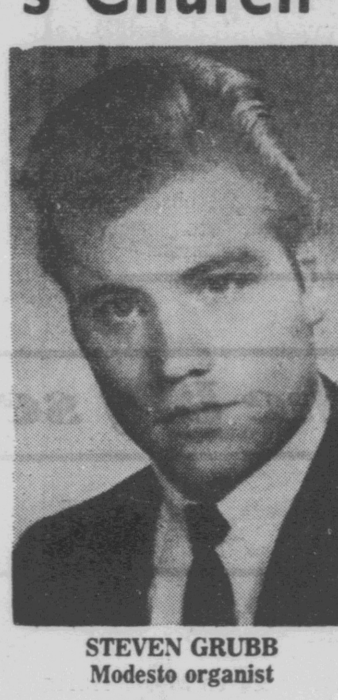
Organ Recital Slated At St. Paul's Church



STEVEN GRUBB
Modesto organist

Steven Grubb of Grace Lutheran Church of Modesto will present a recital at 8 p.m. tomorrow on the Centennial Memorial Organ at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 1123 Court Street, San Rafael.

Grubb is a student of Kenneth Mansfield, professor of organ at California State University at Hayward. The recitals are open to the public and are followed by a wine reception afterward in the parish hall of the church.

Selections for Grubb's recital are: "Hymnus," J. Ahrens; "Suite Du Premier Ton," L. N. Clearambault; "Benedictus," M. Reger; "Kleine Intraden," H. Schroeder; "Cantabile in B Major," C. Franck; "O Wir Armen Sunder," Pepping; and "Prelude and Fugue in D Major," Bach.

Trio To Perform Spring Concert In San Rafael

A special spring concert, featuring the Anastasio-Weingart Trio, has been added to the continuing series of music events being presented by St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael.

According to Rev. Al Price, organist and choirmaster, the group will make one of its infrequent Marin County appearances on Palm Sunday, April 15.

The trio consists of Barbara Anastasio, piano; Edmund Weingart, violin; and Richard Anastasio, cello. Richard Anastasio is well known in Marin for his teaching, and as conductor of the Dominican Chamber Orchestra.

Their program — actually "a trio of Trios" — will offer a full range of enjoyment to chamber music aficionados: Dvorak's Trio in E Minor; Beethoven's, in B Flat Major; and Mendelssohn's, in D Minor.

Admission to the concert, commencing at 7 p.m. in the music room, is free and will be followed by a reception for the artists in the parish hall.

Baptist Church Will Present Easter Cantata

Gordon Young's Easter Cantata, "Man of Sorrows," will be presented by the adult choir of the First Baptist Church, San Rafael, at 11 a.m. Sunday, April 15.

The special public service will be held in the sanctuary at 1411 Lincoln Avenue. The choir will be under the direction of John Tolar. Narrator will be Ross Tetzloff of San Francisco. Soprano soloist will be Mrs. Fred L. Fisher of Mill Valley. James L. Young of Mill Valley will be tenor soloist. Tolar will sing the bass solo. Pastor of the church is Rev. Barrett M. Lampp.

Christian Religion Under Attack Throughout Africa

NAIROBI (UPI) — The Christian religion is under attack in Africa.

From the Cape to Cairo, Christians of various denominations have been harangued, beaten, imprisoned or kicked out of countries in recent months.

In Somalia, the government suddenly ordered all Roman Catholic missionaries to leave the country, Catholic officials here said.

Ethiopian police cracked down on Protestant groups, raiding homes, throwing scores of persons into jail and shaving the heads of women as a mark of disgrace, the sources said.

Some 15,000 Jehovah's Witnesses from Malawi have cautiously returned to their homes after they fled into neighboring Zambia last year following widespread persecution.

Other incidents have been reported in Uganda, Burundi, Egypt and South Africa.

"The whole continent is in turmoil and change," says religious writer Norman Hart. "It is inevitable that the church will get caught up in it."

The Catholic Mirror newspaper said many of the incidents have been inspired by the clash between Islam and Christianity, including the situation in the predominantly Moslem country of Somalia, where, according to Catholic officials, all missionaries were ordered to leave the country.

The exodus has now been temporarily halted pending a review of the situation, the Catholic sources said, but all activity in mission-run hospitals, dispensaries, schools and orphanages has ceased.

In Ethiopia, the sources said, the crackdown against Pentecostal, Lutheran and Baptist groups was inspired by the local and still all-powerful Coptic church trying to protect its position and prevent the influx of competing Christian ideas.

The police action began last fall, and for the first time spread from the countryside into Addis Ababa. Public meeting were banned but when the groups moved into private homes, police raided these, too. The sources said in one swoop some 260 persons were thrown into jail for months and women had their heads shaved.

There was another religious crisis involving the Coptic Church in Egypt last fall when a series of incidents against that country's five million Copts resulted in the destruction of a church in Cairo and clashes between Copts and Moslems.

President Idi Amin of Uganda, a Moslem, has declared war on Christian groups, accusing white missionaries of being mercenaries in disguise and expelling around 60 of them.

In nearby Burundi, President Michel Micombero in a recent speech blamed white missionaries for last year's massacres in which an estimated 150,000 persons died. Church officials were apprehensive Micombero's speech might herald a fresh crackdown against the church.

The estimated 250,000 Jehovah's witnesses in Africa have been in repeated trouble with governments because their religious beliefs often forbid them to enter into what officials consider essential nation building tasks and duties such as national service, paying respect to national flags and singing anthems.

President Hastings Banda of Malawi last year called the Witnesses "devil's disciples" and, tacitly at least, encouraged attacks on them.

After reports of killings, rapes and beatings, 15,000-20,000 members fled into Zambia where, according to church sources, some 300 persons died from measles and dysentery in refugee camps.

Witnesses in South Africa regularly have been sent to prison for refusing to serve in the armed forces. A recent flashpoint occurred when children were suspended from school in the Transvaal for refusing to pay special respect to the national flag.

DEADLINE FOR EASTER NOTICES SET

Special notices for Palm Sunday, Maundy Thursday, Good Friday and Holy Saturday must be received by the Independent-Journal Church Page editor by noon Wednesday.

Notices of the services — both in Marin and Southern Sonoma — will be carried on next Saturday's church page.

The deadline for Easter Sunday services is noon on April 18.

Lay Evangelism Unit Sets Ladies Luncheon

Marin County women, especially those in business and professions, are invited to attend the Marin County Lay Institute for Evangelism ladies luncheon at the NCO Club at Hamilton Air Force Base on Tuesday, April 24, at one o'clock.

Connie Van Maanen, Institute co-director from Palo Alto will be the guest speaker, and information on the Marin County Lay Institute for Evangelism to be held May 3-6 at the Hamilton Air Force Base Chapel will be available. The Institute is designed to explain how one can experience a vital, meaningful Christian life.

Reservations for the luncheon, which will cost $2.50, must be made by April 18, by contacting Arleen Russell, Women's Committee Director, 69 Wallace Way, San Rafael, or Irene Jaquette, Publicity Director, 505 Quietwood Drive, San Rafael.

The lay division of the Campus Crusade for Christ International will conduct the Lay Institute for Evangelism, and over 25 churches in Marin County will be participating in the Institute. The Institute is open to all residents of the county.

Graduate School Applications Sent

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — Applications for admission to the new Assemblies of God Graduate School, which will be officially opened Sept. 4, have been mailed to about 300 persons, Dr. Cordas C. Burnett, executive vice president of the school, reports.

Most of the applications went to persons requesting them or asking for information about the school, which will initially offer courses leading to the Master of Arts degree in Bible-Theology or in Missions.

Lutheran Concert Title Is 'Century Seventeen'

"Century Seventeen" is the title of a concert to be presented tomorrow at 7 p.m. at Marin Lutheran Church, 659 Meadowsweet Drive, Corte Madera.

Featured work of the evening will be Heinrich Schutz' cantata, "The Seven Last Words". Other compositions of the 1600s by Aguilera de Heredia, Frescobaldi, Gabrieli, Sweelinck and Scheidt for organ, solo voices and vocal ensemble also will be featured.

Participants will be: Gerald R. Skeels, Paul Davis, Robert Randig, Ellen Davis, Susan Albrecht Skeels, Anne Walters and Joyce O'Neill. The evening will be an informal one, with comments on the music by Skeels, organist at the church.

The concert is the third in a series presented in connection with the congregation's 25th anniversary and the installation of a new pipe organ earlier this year.

The program:

"Obra de Octavo Tono Alto" (organ), — Aguilera de Heredia;

"Capriccio Pastorale" (organ), — Frescobaldi;

"Ricercar Arioso" (organ), — Gabrieli;

Variations on "Est-ce Mars" (organ) — Sweelinck;

"Magnificat Noni Toni" (organ, vocal ensemble) — Scheidt;

"Give God, the Father, Praise" (tenor, organ) — Schutz;

"Psalm 18" (alto, violin, organ) — Schutz; and

"The Seven Last Words" (vocal ensemble, organ) — Schutz.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Too Much Tax Being Held Out? Work It Out With Employer

If there is too much tax being withheld from your wages because you are entitled to a lot of itemized deductions like taxes on your home, interest on your home, heavy medical expenses, etc., you can file a new Form W-4, Schedule A, based on your 1972 tax return and your withholding for 1973 will be reduced by the amounts that you claim.

If you think this applies to you, be sure to get a Schedule A, W-4, and read the instructions carefully and complete it exactly according to the instructions and chances are your take-home pay will be increased.

If you incurred no income tax liability for 1972 and don't believe you will incur any tax liability for 1973, then you should get Form W-4 E Withholding Exemption Certificat read the instructions carefully and if they apply to you complete this form exactly as per the instructions and give it to your employer.

You will not have to file an income tax return for 1973 unless your income will be at least:

Single individual $2,050; Single individual 65 or over 2,800; Married couple filing jointly 2,800; Married couple, one spouse 65 or over 3,550; Married couple, both 65 or over 4,300; Married person filing separately 750.

Your employer then has no option, he must discontinue withholding from your wages.

This will save you, your employer and the government the trouble and inconvenience of having tax withheld from your wages and paid into the government and then your having to file an income tax return in 1974 to get the withholding tax back.

Do you have a big federal tax bill to pay this year in addition to what your employer has already withheld from your 1972 paychecks?

Withholding, at the regular rates, only covers the tax on your salary or wages and is inadequate if you have a large salary or earnings from sources not subject to withholding.

The law provides that you can agree with your employer to have him take more than the regular rate of withholding out of your paychecks so that you will have your taxes fully paid at the end of the year.

The W-4 slip you sign for your employer has a special place provided for this. Your employer handles this the same way as other withholding and you report this extra withholding on your tax return the same as any other withholding. This will let you pay your 1973 income tax in 1973 as you receive your income.

If this applies to you, then make such an agreement with your employer now so that you can spread the payment over as long a period as possible.

If you are receiving a pension, you can now have the tax withheld by filing Form W-4 P with the payor of the pension, stating the amount you want withheld and other information required.

Four Are Named To Claremont List

Four Marin County men have been named to the fall list for academic honors at Claremont Men's College, Claremont.

Michael F. Davlin Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael F. Davlin of 68 Scenic Road, Fairfax, was named to the dean's list for posting a grade average of 3.0 or better. Named distinguished scholars for grade point averages of 3.5 or better were Joel Jutovsky, a senior, son of Hanna L. Jutovsky of 3714 Kerner Boulevard, San Rafael; Thomas Kramer, a senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. of 84 Oak Ridge Road, San Rafael, and Timothy Nissan, a senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donn E. Nissen of 607 Tamarack Drive, San Rafael.

Law Day Essay Contest Open

All Marin County high school students are eligible to compete in an essay contest coordinated for the annual Law Day observance of the Marin County Bar Association, attorney Ronald K. Clausen announced yesterday.

Clausen is chairman of the essay contest for the bar association. He said a total of $150 will be awarded to the top three essayists, and they will be guests at the bar association's Law Day luncheon, May 1.

Judges will consider the competitors' age and grade in school, Clausen said. The essays on "Youth and the Law" should run 300 to 500 words, he said, and may be sent on or before April 25 to Clausen at 960 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, 94901.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Too Much Tax Being Held Out? Work It Out With Employer

If there is too much tax being withheld from your wages because you are entitled to a lot of itemized deductions like taxes on your home, interest on your home, heavy medical expenses, etc., you can file a new Form W-4, Schedule A, based on your 1972 tax return and your withholding for 1973 will be reduced by the amounts that you claim.

If you think this applies to you, be sure to get a Schedule A, W-4, and read the instructions carefully and complete it exactly according to the instructions and chances are your take-home pay will be increased.

If you incurred no income tax liability for 1972 and don't believe you will incur any tax liability for 1973, then you should get Form W-4 E Withholding Exemption Certificat. read the instructions carefully and if they apply to you complete this form exactly as per the instructions and give it to your employer.

You will not have to file an income tax return for 1973 unless your income will be at least:

Single individual $2,050; Single individual 65 or over 2,800; Married couple filing jointly 2,800; Married couple, one spouse 65 or over 3,550; Married couple, both 65 or over 4,300; Married person filing separately 750.

Your employer then has no option, he must discontinue withholding from your wages.

This will save you, your employer and the government the trouble and inconvenience of having tax withheld from your wages and paid into the government and then your having to file an income tax return in 1974 to get the withholding tax back.

Do you have a big federal tax bill to pay this year in addition to what your employer has already withheld from your 1972 paychecks?

Withholding, at the regular rates, only covers the tax on your salary or wages and is inadequate if you have a large salary or earnings from sources not subject to withholding.

Profile Of A Marinite

"I just enjoy meeting people and being close to them," says San Rafael's Al Quilici, painting contractor, Rotarian and friend of the little guy and the underdog.

By WAT TAKESHITA

Alfred D. Quilici, 57, of San Rafael heads Giampolini & Company, the second largest painting contracting firm in the Bay Area.

In the battle for economic survival and eventual success in the business world, Quilici never lost his interest in people and a genuine concern for the small and the downtrodden.

His first contact with the stern world of making a living was in his father's little grocery store in the ghetto-like neighborhood of Powell and Broadway in San Francisco, where he swept the floor and did errands before and after school hours. It was a long and tough climb from grocery store errand boy to the head of a major contracting firm, but the experience undoubtedly had a strong bearing on Quilici's philanthropic pursuits today.

QUILICI IS District 513 (Redwood Empire) governor of Rotary International. He is putting into practice what Rotary International has been preaching for 68 years — service above self, and the promotion of international understanding.

"Being district governor has been one of the greatest thrills of my life," says Quilici. "I've been able to extend myself all over the world, making friends in Italy, England, Australia, South Africa and throughout the United States."

Fellowship, especially for the underdog and the little guy, has always been one of his main concerns. Back in 1960-61, while he was president of the Painting and Decorating Contractors of America, Quilici initiated the observance of National Painting and Decorating Week, during which he urged every local chapter to undertake a charitable project to aid the poor and the unfortunate.

THAT TRADITION is carried on to this day, with each chapter competing for a national trophy. Last year, the San Francisco chapter, of which Quilici is a member and former president, won the top award.

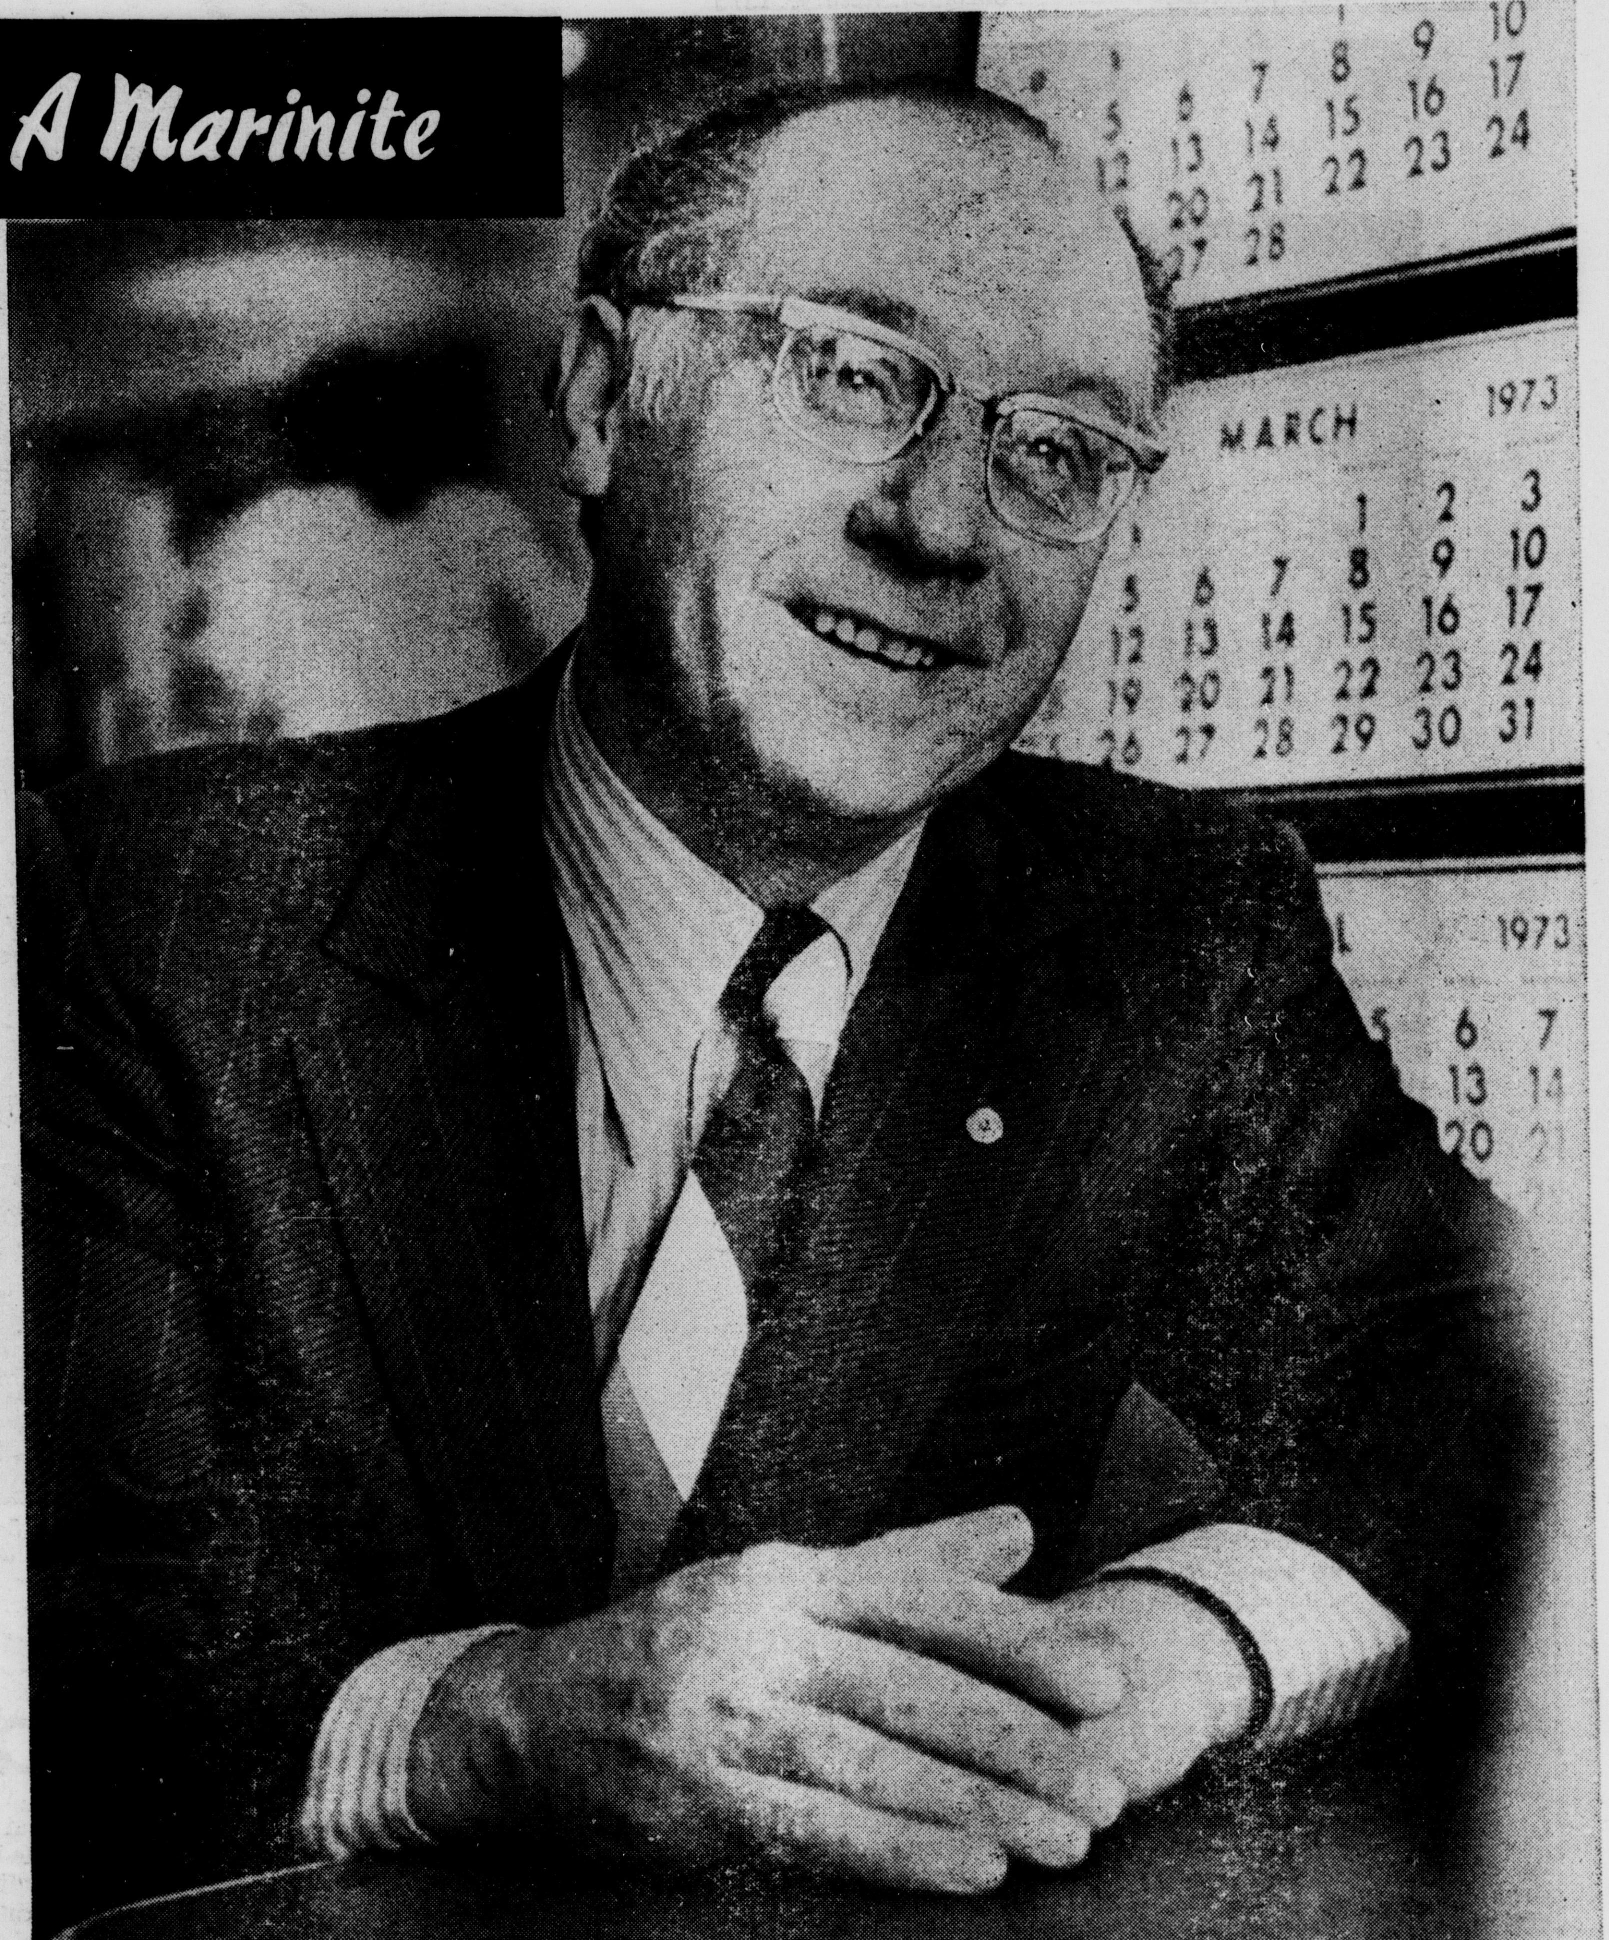
The project which brought San Francisco that recognition was the cleaning and painting of the men's dormitory of St. Anthony's Dining Room in San Francisco. St. Anthony's Dining Room, operated by St. Boniface Church, feeds the poor the year-round and is a mecca for thousands of hungry and homeless, especially the aged, on Thanksgiving.

This month, Quilici is involved in another major project to promote fellowship. Rotary District 513's annual conference, which will bring together 43 clubs from Menlo Park to Crescent City, will be held for the first time in San Rafael, April 16 through 18.

Housing headquarters will be at the Holiday Inn in Terra Linda, and the plenary sessions and meals will be at the Veterans Memorial Building at the Marin Civic Center.

THE FEATURED speakers include Charles Gould, publisher of the San Francisco Examiner, and Jo Foxworth, advertising executive from New York City.

Marin Rotarians who will have key roles at the conference include Quilici as district governor; Mel L. Morse of San Rafael, conference chairman; Col. Robert S. Nourse of Greenbrae, district secretary, and William P. Murray Jr. of San Rafael, district treasurer.



ALFRED D. QUILICI has advanced from grocery store errand boy to head of the Bay Area's second largest painting contracting firm, all the time retaining his interest in civic service and his fellow man, as reflected by such activities as his current tenure as a Rotary International district governor.

Marin Rotary clubs that will host the conference are San Rafael, headed by Herbert K. Walton Jr.; Terra Linda, Edward C. Brendel; Novato, Wayne Womack; San Anselmo, Abe Froman; Mill Valley, James E. Egger, and Sausalito, Robert D. Bauerle.

QUILICI WAS BORN in San Francisco on Aug. 26, 1915, in a house which literally stood on what is now Broadway. The house was torn down for construction of the Broadway Tunnel.

A 1933 graduate of Galileo High, Quilici went to work as apprentice for Giampolini & Co., founded in North Beach in 1912 by his grandfather, Severino Giampolini. While working, he attended night school at University of San Francisco for a couple of years.

In 1941, Quilici married Clista Gerhard of Mill Valley and he has been a Marin County resident ever since. His work with Giampolini Co. was interrupted in 1943, when he entered the U.S. Army and served in the South Pacific.

HIS UNIT WAS one of the first to enter Tokyo after the Japanese surrender. His reaction on first encountering the defeated enemy is typical of his interest in people as individuals.

"Everything was wrecked by bombs, but the people were neat and clean," he recalls. "They treated us wonderfully — they'd salute anyone in uniform."

He came out of the service in 1945 as a first sergeant. When Albert Giampolini died in 1947, Quilici became a partner in the firm with his aunt, Genevieve Giampolini, and a cousin, Leo Fregosi.

Quilici became an active leader in the Painting and Decorating Contractors of America, serving as president of the San Francisco chapter in 1951-52, as state president in 1958, and as national president in 1960 and 1961.

IN THE ROTARY movement since 1958, he became president of San Rafael Rotary in 1968 and district governor last year. He was on the board of directors of the Meadow Club and served as its president for two years — 1964 and 1965.

In 1961, he was Marin chairman in the building fund drive for the Junipero Serra Center for Girls at Mission San Jose. He is on the Citizens Advisory Committee of Dominican College, on the board of directors of the Nazareth House for the aged in Terra Linda, and is a member of St. Raphael's Church.

He and his wife make their home on Twain Harte Lane in San Rafael. They have three grown sons.

QUILICI SPREADS himself thin, dividing his time between the main office at 1445 Bush Street in San Francisco and the branch office at 34 DeLuca Place in San Rafael. In between preparing for the Rotary convention and working for other charitable causes, Quilici still finds time for his personal hobbies — golf, skiing, and swimming.

But his chief hobby continues to be people — sharing their joys, sympathizing with and helping the unfortunate.

"I just enjoy meeting people and being close to them," Quilici explains. "As a youngster, I can remember working in that grocery store with broom in hand. I have met a lot of people from all walks of life, and I've become close to them."

In 1941, Quilici married Clista Gerhard of Mill Valley and he has been a Marin County resident ever since. His work with Giampolini Co. was interrupted in 1943, when he entered the U.S. Army and served in the South Pacific.

HIS UNIT WAS one of the first to enter Tokyo after the Japanese surrender. His reaction on first encountering the defeated enemy is typical of his interest in people as individuals.

"Everything was wrecked by bombs, but the people were neat and clean," he recalls. "They treated us wonderfully — they'd salute anyone in uniform."

He came out of the service in 1945 as a first sergeant. When Albert Giampolini died in 1947, Quilici became a partner in the firm with his aunt, Genevieve Giampolini, and a cousin, Leo Fregosi.

Quilici became an active leader in the Painting and Decorating Contractors of America, serving as president of the San Francisco chapter in 1951-52, as state president in 1958, and as national president in 1960 and 1961.

IN THE ROTARY movement since 1958, he became president of San Rafael Rotary in 1968 and district governor last year. He was on the board of directors of the Meadow Club and served as its president for two years — 1964 and 1965.

In 1961, he was Marin chairman in the building fund drive for the Junipero. Serra Center for Girls at Mission San Jose. He is on the Citizens Advisory Committee of Dominican College, on the board of directors of the Nazareth House for the aged in Terra Linda, and is a member of St. Raphael's Church.

He and his wife make their home on Twain Harte Lane in San Rafael. They have three grown sons.

QUILICI SPREADS himself thin, dividing his time between the main office at 1445 Bush Street in San Francisco and the branch office at 34 DeLuca Place in San Rafael. In between preparing for the Rotary convention and working for other charitable causes, Quilici still finds time for his personal hobbies — golf, skiing, and swimming.

But his chief hobby continues to be people — sharing their joys, sympathizing with and helping the unfortunate.

"I just enjoy meeting people and being close to them," Quilici explains. "As a youngster, I can remember working in that grocery store with broom in hand. I have met a lot of people from all walks of life, and I've become close to them."

A Nail-Keg Drum And A Washtub Bass

By DON KEOWN

There's no attendance problem when the members of the Novato Rural Band gather at noon-time on Tuesdays for their regular weekly rehearsal at the Marin Valley Mobile Clubhouse near Hamilton Air Force Base.

"We're a dedicated group," says Myrle Dahl, the leader of the band. "We all turn out for practice."

And the big attraction? Fun. For fun, says Mrs. Dahl, is what the Novato Rural Band is all about.

Fun on such "kitchen" instruments as the washboard, a nail keg drum, a mop handle guitar, a washtub bass, a bicycle horn and what have you — plus the less unusual instruments of the accordion (which Mrs. Dahl plays), the piano, the guitar, the ukelele and the mandolin.

THERE ARE currently seven members, all grandparents or old enough to be grandparents.

But it all began with only two in 1967. Mrs. Dahl and Val Hunt formed an entertainment duo of accordion and gutbucket to entertain at convalescent hospitals as a service project of their circle of the Bethel Church in Novato.

They made their first appearance at the Novato Manor Convalescent Hospital, Mrs. Dahl recalls, with a repertoire that led off with "Goofus" and "Yotta."

"It was a community sing sort of thing," she says, "and we would also sing a little, just to get them started."

OUT OF THAT interest in the elderly and hospitalized has grown a career for Mrs. Hunt. She's now activities director with a convalescent home.

Sponsorship of the entertainment unit shifted from church circle to the Newcomers' Club in Novato, and membership grew from two women to 15 members in 1969, all Novato area residents. Added were such instruments as the pretzel can, the scrub board, maracas and a set of horseshoes.

Since then, the group has gone "independent" uner the name Novato Rural Band, and has settled down to the membership figure of seven.

PLAYING WITH the band now in addition to Mrs. Dahl, who has taught accordion since 1944 but still regards herself as "strictly an amateur," are:

Vertie Fisher, who plays the washtub bass that her husband makes for her. He has produced several, using different size tubs with different strings, different lengths of poles, intent upon improving the musical quality of his performer-wife's unusual musical instrument.

Pauline Laino who alternates between her washboard played with thimbles on her fingers, and her nail-keg drum covered with an inner-tube and with an array of bells, horns, wooden blocks and metal accessories. She plays the maracas as well. And sometimes the vivacious grandmother lays aside her drumsticks to dance a can can, a shimmy or a hula, to the delight of audiences.

Evelyn Hogue adds melody with her banjo-uke, a four-string instrument with a short neck, a banjo-type head, and a larger wooden casing around the sides and back of the body. This instrument is no longer being made, although Mrs. Dahl knows of at least three still being played in Marin County. Mrs. Hogue also plays the Melodica, and for Latin pieces shifts to the claves or castanets, to become a part of the rhythm section.

Rose Doane plays melody and also chords on her mandolin, a kind of lute with 12 paired metal strings that are played with a pick or plectrum that is moved rapidly back and forth for a tremolo effect. "Her biggest complaint," smiles Mrs. Dahl, "is that her D-string is always breaking. The D string isn't weak. It's just that Rose plays so enthusiastically."

Jane Welch uses a 40-year-old guitar with a round brass plate attached to its front, that both amplifies and improves the quality of the sound. "She plays chords in the first, fifth and seventh positions, as well as some melody runs in the chord progressions," says Mrs. Dahl, "and she uses a good Latin strum for the rhythm."

LONE MALE member of the band is ragtime pianist Beverly Fisher who improvises at the keyboard with a flair to provide "a nice accompaniment as long as the piano is tuned to the same orchestra pitch as the other instruments." Fisher's bane: Pianos in need of repair that hinder his style.

He is a relatively recent addition to the group, and succeeded a woman ragtime piano player on the recommendation of a member of Marin Valley Mobile Club where the band practices.

"We are," Mrs. Dahl describes her group, "residents of

Novato with a mutual desire to provide pleasure and entertainment for ourselves and others.

"I ENJOY working with them as they all are so dedicated. In the past, there have been other members just as talented and just as fascinating, but who could not always find two hours each Tuesday to donate to practice. We do not call those meetings jam sessions, for each time we are learning and expanding our repertoire."

That repertoire is a varied one, ranging from "Irish Washerwoman" to "76 Trombones," and including the likes of "In a Shanty in Old Shanty Town," "Heart of My Heart," "She'll Be Coming 'Round the Mountain," "California Here I Come," "Blue Hawaii," "Cowboy Jack," "Yellow Bird," "When You Wore a Tulip," "Vaya Con Dios" and "The Whole World in His Hands."

"It is the kind of music that appeals most to older listeners," Mrs. Dahl says. "But lately we have been adding some newer tunes."

AS PART OF this continuing effort to expand the band's horizons, Mrs. Dahl spends a good deal of her time experimenting with potential new instruments.

"I think most of my ideas come from my dim, distant memories of the community programs I used to attend as a small child back in Minnesota," she says. "Those were the days of the musical saw and the tire pump."

She has put together a one-string high E guitar on a mop handle, played by running the cigar box up and down the string while it is plucked.

SHE IS WORKING now on playing the tire pump. And she has found pamphlets with instructions on how to play the musical saw and how to build the gutbucket.

"I once made a tuba from a garden hose, a French horn mouthpiece and a trumpet mute," she recalls, then adds: "But that wasn't very successful. I don't know whether it was the construction, or my playing."

Mrs. Dahl adds: "One thing I have found as a result of working with the rural band: When it comes to musical instruments, some people are blowers, some pluckers, some pounders or sawers by natural inclination. And it is hard to get one of them to do the other. A blower just won't pluck."

MRS. DAHL would like to add a harmonica player to her company, but she has been unable to find one. She would like to find, too, someone who has mastered the musical saw.

Of the rural band's rehearsals and performances, Mrs. Dahl says: "There was a time when I was striving for perfection. But I discovered that no matter what I did or said, the members just continued doing what they wanted to do. So I decided to relax, and let them enjoy themselves.

"So we really enjoy ourselves, whether at practice or a performance. I have learned that whenever I clamp down, not only does the fun go out of the thing, but we also don't play as well."

The Novato Rural Band Is Going Strong

Unusual Musical Aggregation Never Fails To Entertain The Audience

MRS. DAHL and band members are delighted as the audience when over-60 Pauline Laino lays aside her drumsticks and, appropriately costumed, goes into a spirited, high-kicking can can. At one time the entire band was costumed — in 1920-era swimsuits.

In the past year the Novato Rural Band has appeared at such diverse places and events as the Nazareth Retirement Home in San Rafael, the Whistle-Stop Senior Center in San Rafael, Hill Road Convalescent Home in Novato, Lynwood School in Novato, the Presbyterian Church in San Rafael, Novato's Old Town Festival, the Corte Madera-Larkspur Fourth of July celebration, Mill Valley Senior Citizen Center, the Grape Festival, the 4-H parade in Novato, before Novato Kiwanis and San Rafael Masons and Eastern Star, the San Marin Halloween parade, the Marin Valley Mobile Club, at Mission San Rafael Arcangel and at Hamilton Air Force Base.

One special thrill for the amateurs who make up the Novato Rural Band came when they saw themselves on television — briefly — in 1971 in Channel 5's coverage of the San Marin Halloween Parade in Novato.

WHILE THEIR music has a special appeal to the elderly, the rural band has found it is able to entertain other generations.

"And we enjoy the change," says Mrs. Dahl.

Servicemen at Hamilton Base have been an especially responsive audience, she adds. "But wherever we go, they seem to enjoy us."

For their appearances, the band members accept donations that go toward such expense as instruments and their repair, gasoline, etc.

MRS. DAHL is the wife of Allen Dahl, a transit mechanic employed in San Francisco. He is no musician. Neither is any of their three daughters.

"I guess I'm the family freak," she smiles.

Sometimes she and her accordion make solo appearances at receptions, open houses and similar events.

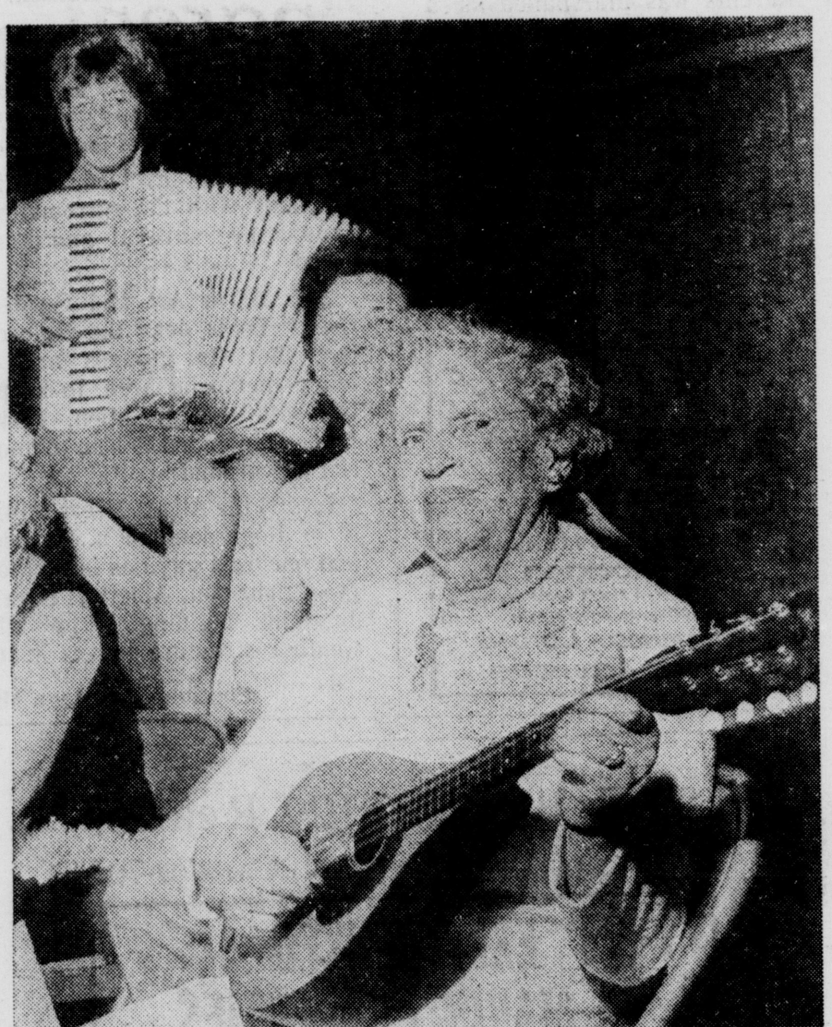
"ONE THING that used to bother us is that until recently most of the requests for our appearances came from out of town," she says. "But that has been changing gradually. Novato seems to have discovered us, and we are getting more and more local calls."

There is, Mrs. Dahl has found, a demand and need for "a knd of music that falls somewhere in-between the Orchestra Piccola, and the Hard Rock with its 12-bar progressions and amplifiers (which we do not use)."

Western tunes, blues, Latin and Irish pieces, waltzes, polkas, hillbilly songs, sing-a-long music from an accordion, banjo-uke, mandolin, guitar piano and an assortment of rhythm instruments can still make Americans tap their feet and nod their heads in time. And to smile and relax, forgetting cares and problems, just as did our ancestors in country schools, around campfires, in sod houses and rancho haciendas, in town halls and other community buildings generations ago.



ON HER MANDOLIN, Rose Doane both chords and plays the melody, and her biggest problem is a D-string that frequently gives way under her enthusiastic playing. Behind her are accordionist Myrle Dahl and banjo-uke player Evelyn Hogue.

The Novato Rural Band Is Going Strong

the thing, but we also don't play as well."

MRS. DAHL and band members are delighted as the audience when over-60 Pauline Laino lays aside her drumsticks and, appropriately costumed, goes into a spirited, high-kicking can can. At one time the entire band was costumed — in 1920-era swimsuits.

In the past year the Novato Rural Band has appeared at such diverse places and events as the Nazareth Retirement Home in San Rafael, the Whistle-Stop Senior Center in San Rafael, Hill Road Convalescent Home in Novato, Lynwood School in Novato, the Presbyterian Church in San Rafael, Novato's Old Town Festival, the Corte Madera-Larkspur Fourth of July celebration, Mill Valley Senior Citizen Center, the Grape Festival, the 4-H parade in Novato, before Novato Kiwanis and San Rafael Masons and Eastern Star, the San Marin Halloween parade, the Marin Valley Mobile Club, at Mission San Rafael Arcangel and at Hamilton Air Force Base.

One special thrill for the amateurs who make up the Novato Rural Band came when they saw themselves on television — briefly — in 1971 in Channel 5's coverage of the San Marin Halloween Parade in Novato.

WHILE THEIR music has a special appeal to the elderly, the rural band has found it is able to entertain other generations.

"And we enjoy the change," says Mrs. Dahl.

Servicemen at Hamilton Base have been an especially responsive audience, she adds. "But wherever we go, they seem to enjoy us."

For their appearances, the band members accept donations that go toward such expense as instruments and their repair, gasoline, etc.

MRS. DAHL is the wife of Allen Dahl, a transit mechanic employed in San Francisco. He is no musician. Neither is any of their three daughters.

"I guess I'm the family freak," she smiles.

Sometimes she and her accordion make solo appearances at receptions, open houses and similar events.

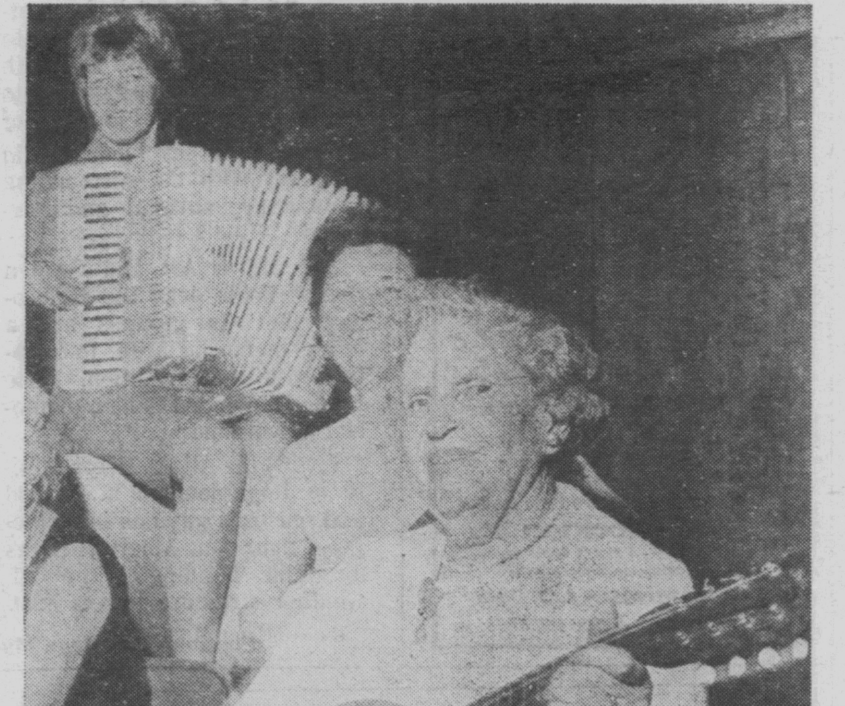
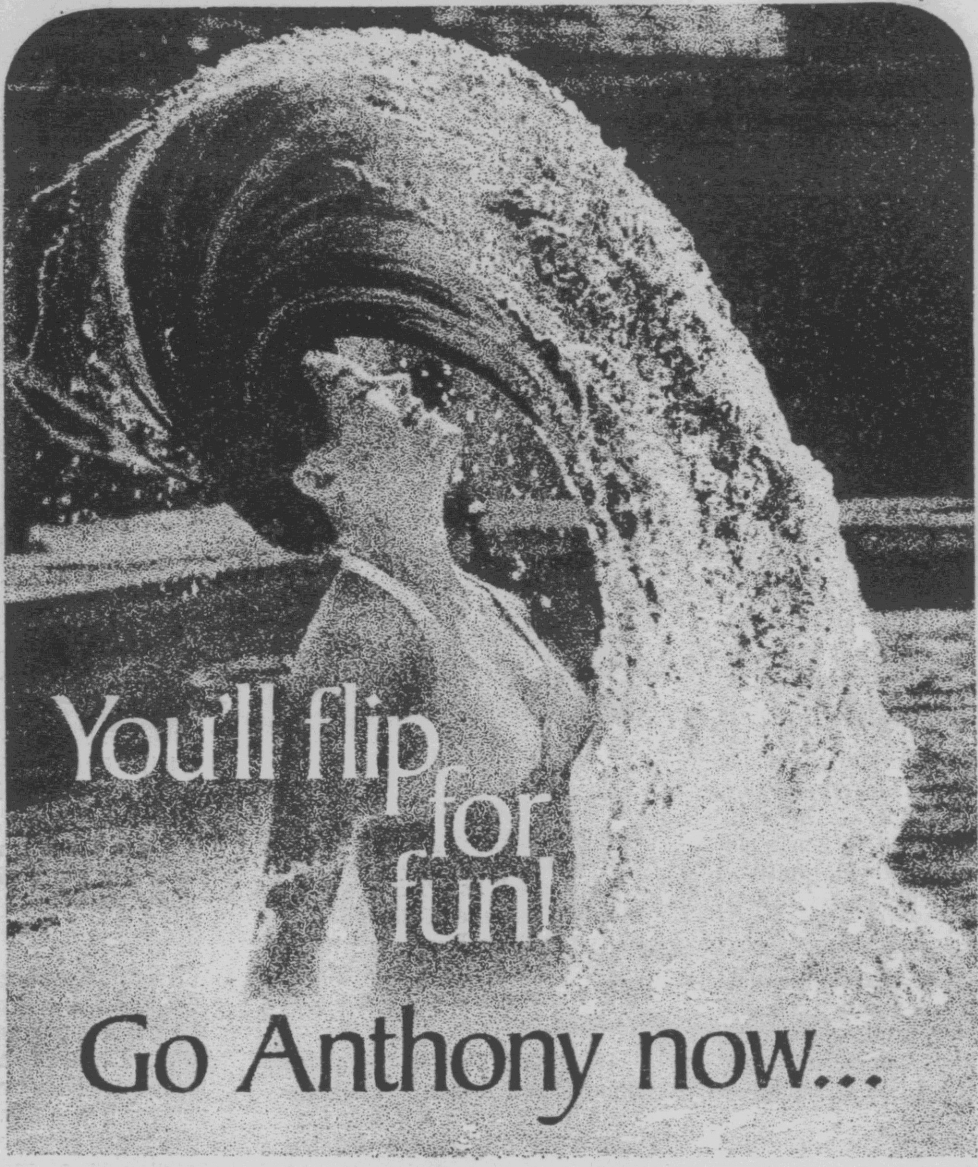
"ONE THING that used to bother us is that until recently most of the requests for our appearances came from out of town," she says. "But that has been changing gradually. Novato seems to have discovered us, and we are getting more and more local calls."

There is, Mrs. Dahl has found, a demand and need for "a knd of music that falls somewhere in-between the Orchestra Piccola, and the Hard Rock with its 12-bar progressions and amplifiers (which we do not use)."

Western tunes, blues, Latin and Irish pieces, waltzes, polkas, hillbilly songs, sing-a-long music from an accordion, banjo-uke, mandolin, guitar piano and an assortment of rhythm instruments can still make Americans tap their feet and nod their heads in time. And to smile and relax, forgetting cares and problems, just as did our ancestors in country schools, around campfires, in sod houses and rancho haciendas, in town halls and other community buildings generations ago.



ON HER MANDOLIN, Rose Doane both chords and plays the melody, and her biggest problem is a D-string that frequently gives way under her enthusiastic playing. Behind her are accordionist Myrle Dahl and banjo-uke player Evelyn Hogue.



You'll flip for fun!
Go Anthony now...

There's one sure way you can save money on a pool and make sure your family enjoys a full season of swimming fun . . . both at the same time.

That's by planning your Anthony pool now — ahead of the summer rush — while our construction crews have more free time.

Keeping our crews busy all year is just one way Anthony Pools, the world's largest pool builder, is able to pass along savings to you. Bigger volume means better prices. And to make the savings even greater, Anthony is the only pool builder who eliminates the middleman's profits by manufacturing a full line of pool equipment and accessories and selling them directly to you.

FASTER CONSTRUCTION. Anthony's new computerized construction scheduling insures that there will be no hang-ups. Your pool will be finished in minimum time. For the best pool — built quicker — at the least money, go Anthony . . . now!

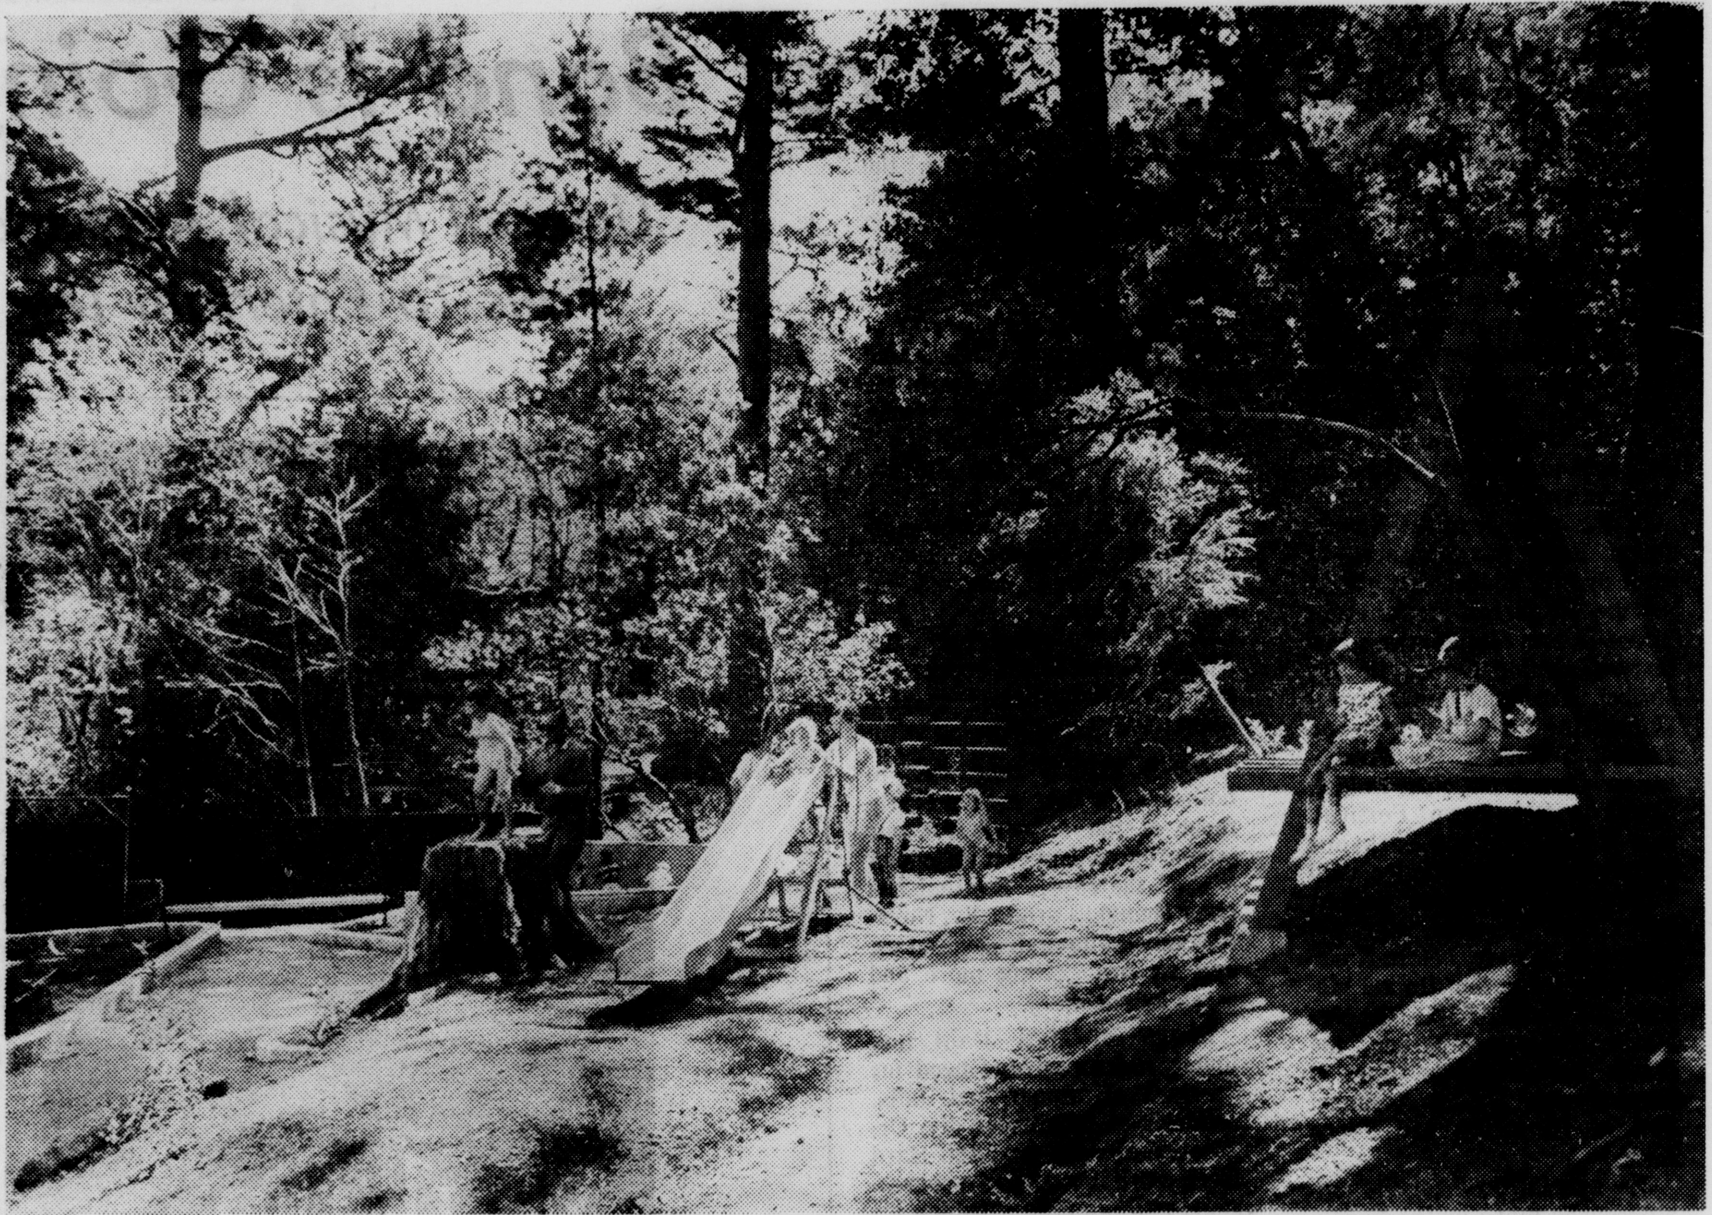
A Place For Play And For Laughter

Happy Tykes At The Center



IN ITS EARLY YEARS, in 1960 when this photograph was taken, just eight years after its founding and two years after the incorporation of Pixie Parents Inc., the Pixie Place playground at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross looked like this. Since then, it has undergone extensive renovation. And yet another badly needed "remodeling" is under way.

By MELANIE MANSUR

Put a dozen or so children into a world of sand and sunshine, provide them with a stimulating play area and imaginative equipment, and what do you wind up with?

Happy children, enjoying a truly creative experience.

And for a playground unsurpassed in sheer personal exhilaration or in cooperative play effort anywhere in the Bay Area, Marin County residents need look no further than their own Ross Valley.

PIXIE PLACE is that rare establishment: The only private, non-profit playground expressly intended for the use of pre-school children in the Bay Area. Located on the grounds of the wooded Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, its individuality is enhanced by surroundings of refreshing natural beauty, all set to a musical background of the laughter of small tykes at play.

The story of Pixie Place and how it grew is another redoubtable chapter in the continuing story of the American — and Marin — tradition of volunteer effort.

Pixie Place originated in 1952 as a small area in the Marin Art and Garden Center developed by the Child Study Group of the Marin Branch, American Assn. of University Women.

In 1956 the parents of the children who used the playground began to take over its management, and in 1958 they incorporated as Pixie Parents Inc. and assumed full responsibility for Pixie Place.

This newly-established group had a membership of some 30 families.

AS PIXIE Parents began to expand and become a stable organization, it became evident that if the playground were to become permanent, it would require a major physical upgrading. Accordingly, the organization began contacting architects expert in the planning of children's playgrounds.

Robert Royston of Mill Valley, well known for his effective design of playgrounds in Palo Alto, Alameda and Oakland, volunteered his services in the designing of a new Pixie Place.

The first requirement was the acquisition of more land. The Marin Art and Garden Center granted the use of an additional 1.2 acres adjacent to the original site.

ROYSTON'S DESIGNS were completed in 1958. Then the Pixie Parents were confronted by the considerable problem of raising the funds to finance the construction and the new equipment that would be required. The estimated cost: $20,000. The sum in the organization's treasury: just $80.

To raise the needed money the entire membership of Pixie Parents was marshalled for a supreme fundraising effort.

A succession of benefit events followed — and eventually the needed thousands were in the bank.

Along with accumulating the finances, the Pixie Parents also volunteered hundreds of work hours toward the renovating and construction of the playground.

ELDON BECK of Royston, Hanamoto, Beck and Abey, landscape architect, recalls that at the time the work began "there wasn't anything there really except a fence and pavilion — and lots of underbrush."

In the end, they had an attractive playground replete with child-safe paths and with individual play areas geared to the special needs of the ages of the children involved, all in harmony with the surrounding landscape, natural and nurtured.

The Marin Art and Garden Center holds dear the philosophy that its grounds are a living memorial area. In keeping with that tradition, Pixie Place is intended to be a memorial playground.

In 1953 the Albert Evers family of Ross donated a covered and enclosed pavilion in memory of their son, Albert J. Evers Jr. This building is an all-weather structure that is heat-

Where Pixies Play

IF PHYSICAL FACILITIES at Pixie Place have changed considerably through the years, the happy laughter of playing children has not. Eric Kaiser, 2, of Larkspur, enjoys a swing, with his mother, Pat, watching. Next Wednesday and Thursday the Marin Art and Garden Center will be the scene of the annual Easter Fair for children.

ed and contains kitchen and bathroom facilities.

ONE ENTIRE play area and the equipment therein is a memorial to Dr. William J. Kerr Jr. It consists of a large free-form area of sand into which slides, mounted low on a hill, deposit their young travelers. Concrete climbing and hiding places complete the memorial area.

Another such memorial is the fragrant and shady wisteria arbor erected in memory of Camille Laurent Diesmen, a Pixie Parent member whose special interest was in the garden areas of Pixie Place.

Several other memorial areas grace the grounds of Pixie Place.

Since the construction of Pixie Place in 1958 a continuing effort to keep up with maintenance and add new play and safety equipment has been carried out. In 1971, however, Pixie Parents agreed that a major renovation job was necessary.

At this time, Pixie Parents contacted Michael Painter of Michael Painter and Associates, Landscape Architects, of Mill Valley and he volunteered his services to master plan for the necessary renovation work. Frank Peccorini, landscape contractor of San Rafael, contracted to do the work.

But again, many volunteer hours were necessary on the part of Pixie Parents.

THOUSANDS OF cubic feet of sand and tanbark, Pixie's play area groundcovers, were replaced, additional play equipment was added, and much play equipment was rearranged to allow for separation of older from younger children. Much landscaping and path rearranging was done to correct ecological damage incurred by wear and tear and by time since 1958 when the last major work had been done.

Painter has on the drawing of wood boards a new functional play structure which will be acquired by Pixie Place in the near future. It is a climbing and swinging structure complete with rope and tire swings, nets to catch adventuresome souls, and angles and dangles designed to stimulate the imaginations of Pixie's older children.

All these maintenance efforts, renovations and new play equipment cost money far in excess of the annual dues to Pixie Parents Inc. Indeed, the dues cover only annual operating expenses.

The annual dues are $7 — $3.50 of which goes towards membership in the Marin Art and Garden Center, netting Pixie Parents only $3.50 a year from each member family. This annual fee has not changed since the early 1960s.

PIXIE PARENTS cooperate in many of the fundraising events of the various organizations of the Marin Art and Garden Center during the year. But all funds realized by these events are donated to the Center.

The only annual fundraising event which Pixie Parents hold solely for the benefit of Pixie Place is its Easter Egg Hunt and Fair. Proceeds from this event are what Pixie Parents use to renovate and add to the charm and facilities of Pixie Place.

This year, marking the 18th annual Easter Fair, the event will be held on the grounds of the Marin Art and Garden Center next Wednesday and Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. daily.

Each year the fair has grown from its early days of only an egg hunt. This year the thousands of pre-school age children who attend may choose from the traditional egg hunt, pony and pony cart rides, meeting Big Bunny, popping through the Rabbit Hole, viewing a puppet show and several new events such as an "amazing maze" or the "Creative Play Experience" sponsored by the Louise A. Boyd Memorial Museum and directed by Stephen Siege.

A special "Bunny Lunch" will be available for picnicking on the center's beautiful grounds.

There is no admission charge for entrance to the fair, and tickets for all events may be purchased at the gate.

PIXIE PLACE today is the end result of thousands of dollars raised and hours donated, simply for the love of children. The joy brought to the children who year around revel in the safety and stimulation of Pixie Place is returned a thousand fold to all the children of the Bay Area through the annual Easter Fair.

Membership in Pixie Parents Inc. is open to all parents of pre-school age children in the Bay Area. Inquiries may be addressed to Mrs. Robert Tocchini, president. Or simply directed to one of the many busy Pixie Parents who will be on hand next week to make certain of the success of their traditional Easter holiday event.

THE NOVATO LIBRARY, a branch of the Marin County library system, is one of the interior design assignments Phyllis Martin-Vegue has enjoyed as head of the interior design department and associate with Marquis & Stoller, Architects and Planners. In the layout, decoration and furnishing of the attractively light and airy Novato library, Mrs. Martin-Vegue worked with Maurice Sands, consulting designer.

Those Are Among The Responsibilities Of Phyllis Martin-Vegue, Designer

There is nothing unusual today in an architectural firm including in its staff one or more interior designers.

Still, Phyllis Martin-Vegue of Lucas Valley feels her position with the award-winning firm of Marquis & Stoller, Architects and Planners, is unusual in that she has been elevated to the position of full-fledged associate within the corporation.

As such, she heads the Marquis & Stoller interior design department.

"IT CONSISTS of myself, and a part-time secretary," she says frankly. But she has access to the drafting staff and the other highly specialized personnel in the offices at 717 Beach St., San Francisco.

And her responsibilities are considerable: She is charged with space planning, color coordination, furniture selection, design and specification, budgeting, and the graphics for Marquis & Stoller jobs.

Says Robert Marquis: "By offering these services within our own firm, rather than relying solely on outside consultants, we are able to improve our program in three imortant areas — in communication with the client, in coordination between the architecture and interior design, and in cost control."

Mrs. Martin-Vegue has now been with the firm two years.

SHE RECEIVED her education in interior design at the College of Architecture and Design, University of Michigan. After graduation she worked for several years with the interior design firm of Emily C. Novak Inc. in San Francisco. After a year as senior designer with the architectural firm of Smith, Hinchman & Grylls Associates Inc. in Detroit, she returned to San Francisco to form a partnership with Miss Novak.

With Marquis & Stoller, she has designed interiors for such diverse institutions as libraries, banks, private clubs, office buildings, educational facilities and prvate clubs.

She considers commercial buildings "my field," and whenever she works in private residences, her responsibilities are generally limited to space planning and color advice.

THE MARQUIS & Stoller assignment that she regards as "perhaps my most exciting" dealt with the decorating and furnishing of the modern new Commerce Clearing House regional headquarters building on San Rafael's Quail Hill.

"Because people there work together a lot, and work frequently in different, fast-changing combinations, we strove for an open plan —we call it office landscaping," she says. "What we were after was a plan that permitted the people to move about and to communicate with greater ease. There was to be no separation into small, individual offices.

"And, also of prime importance, was planning to make certain that the entire personnel could share in the enjoyment of the magnificent view from Quail Hill."

A POINT OF special pride with Mrs. Martin-Vegue was the choice of a tapestry, custom-designed by Mark Adams and woven in France, and representing the brilliant colors of a hillside French vineyard, for the jception area.

Done all in wool, six feet square, it provides what Mrs. Martin-Vegue considered to be a necessary texture and warmth called for "because so much of the building is concrete."

A painting as that large focal point would not have provided that same dimensional texture and warmth achieved by the tapestry, she feels.

Another inclusion was a 15-foot-tall stainless steel, fluted garden sculpture by Tony DeLap, in the garden court.

IT REFLECTS the keen interest of Richard K. Duncan, Commerce Clearing House vice president, in the fine arts.

Duncan, says Mrs. Martin-Vegue, "was a fantastic client — a delightful person with whom to work." And Bob Marquis described Duncan as "a modern DeMedici" because of his interest in and knowledge of the arts.

A current assignment from which Mrs. Martin-Vegue is deriving much enjoyment and satisfaction is the restoration of a beautiful old Bernard Maybeck building in conjunction with a new Marquis — Stoller-designed dining pavilion for the University of California Faculty Club in Berkeley.

"IT IS particularly challenging because one has to deal with the beautiful feeling that Maybeck had for architecture, and let it set the mood —almost one of nostalgia," she says, "and yet work largely with things that are produced today as its furnishings."

Thus modern copies of the old Windsor chairs, newly manufactured but completely in keeping with that Maybeck feeling, were included in the decor.

An exception to the contemporary origins, if not feeling, of the furnishings were some old Morris chairs found on the premises and being refurbished for use again.

In contrast to the more leisure and considered approach taken to the Berkeley assignment was a "hurry-up" call from Xerox which wanted a quick job done on its research center in Palo Alto.

"I had just two weeks," Mrs. Martin-Vegue says, "and my main concern was with personnel who had been newly assigned to work in the sement area. The idea was to make them feel that their surroundings were as nice as those enjoyed by workers on the upper floor."

One device used by Mrs. Martin-Vegue was the use of impressionistic murals of windows with garden scenes beyond — "very contemporary, and yet very warm."

PLANS HAVE been finished and accepted for the interior of a proposed new library at California Polytechnic in San Luis Obispo, but funds for the building have not yet been forthcoming.

Other recent jobs have included offices and showrooms for Arnelle of California, a San Francisco dress manufacturer, and the offices of Love Cosmetics in New Yorkity.

Mrs. Martin-Vegue's husband Frank works as an executive with Tiburon Vintners. She has decorated their own home in Lucas Valley, but adds: "We have been there only a year, so it really hasn't jelled as yet."

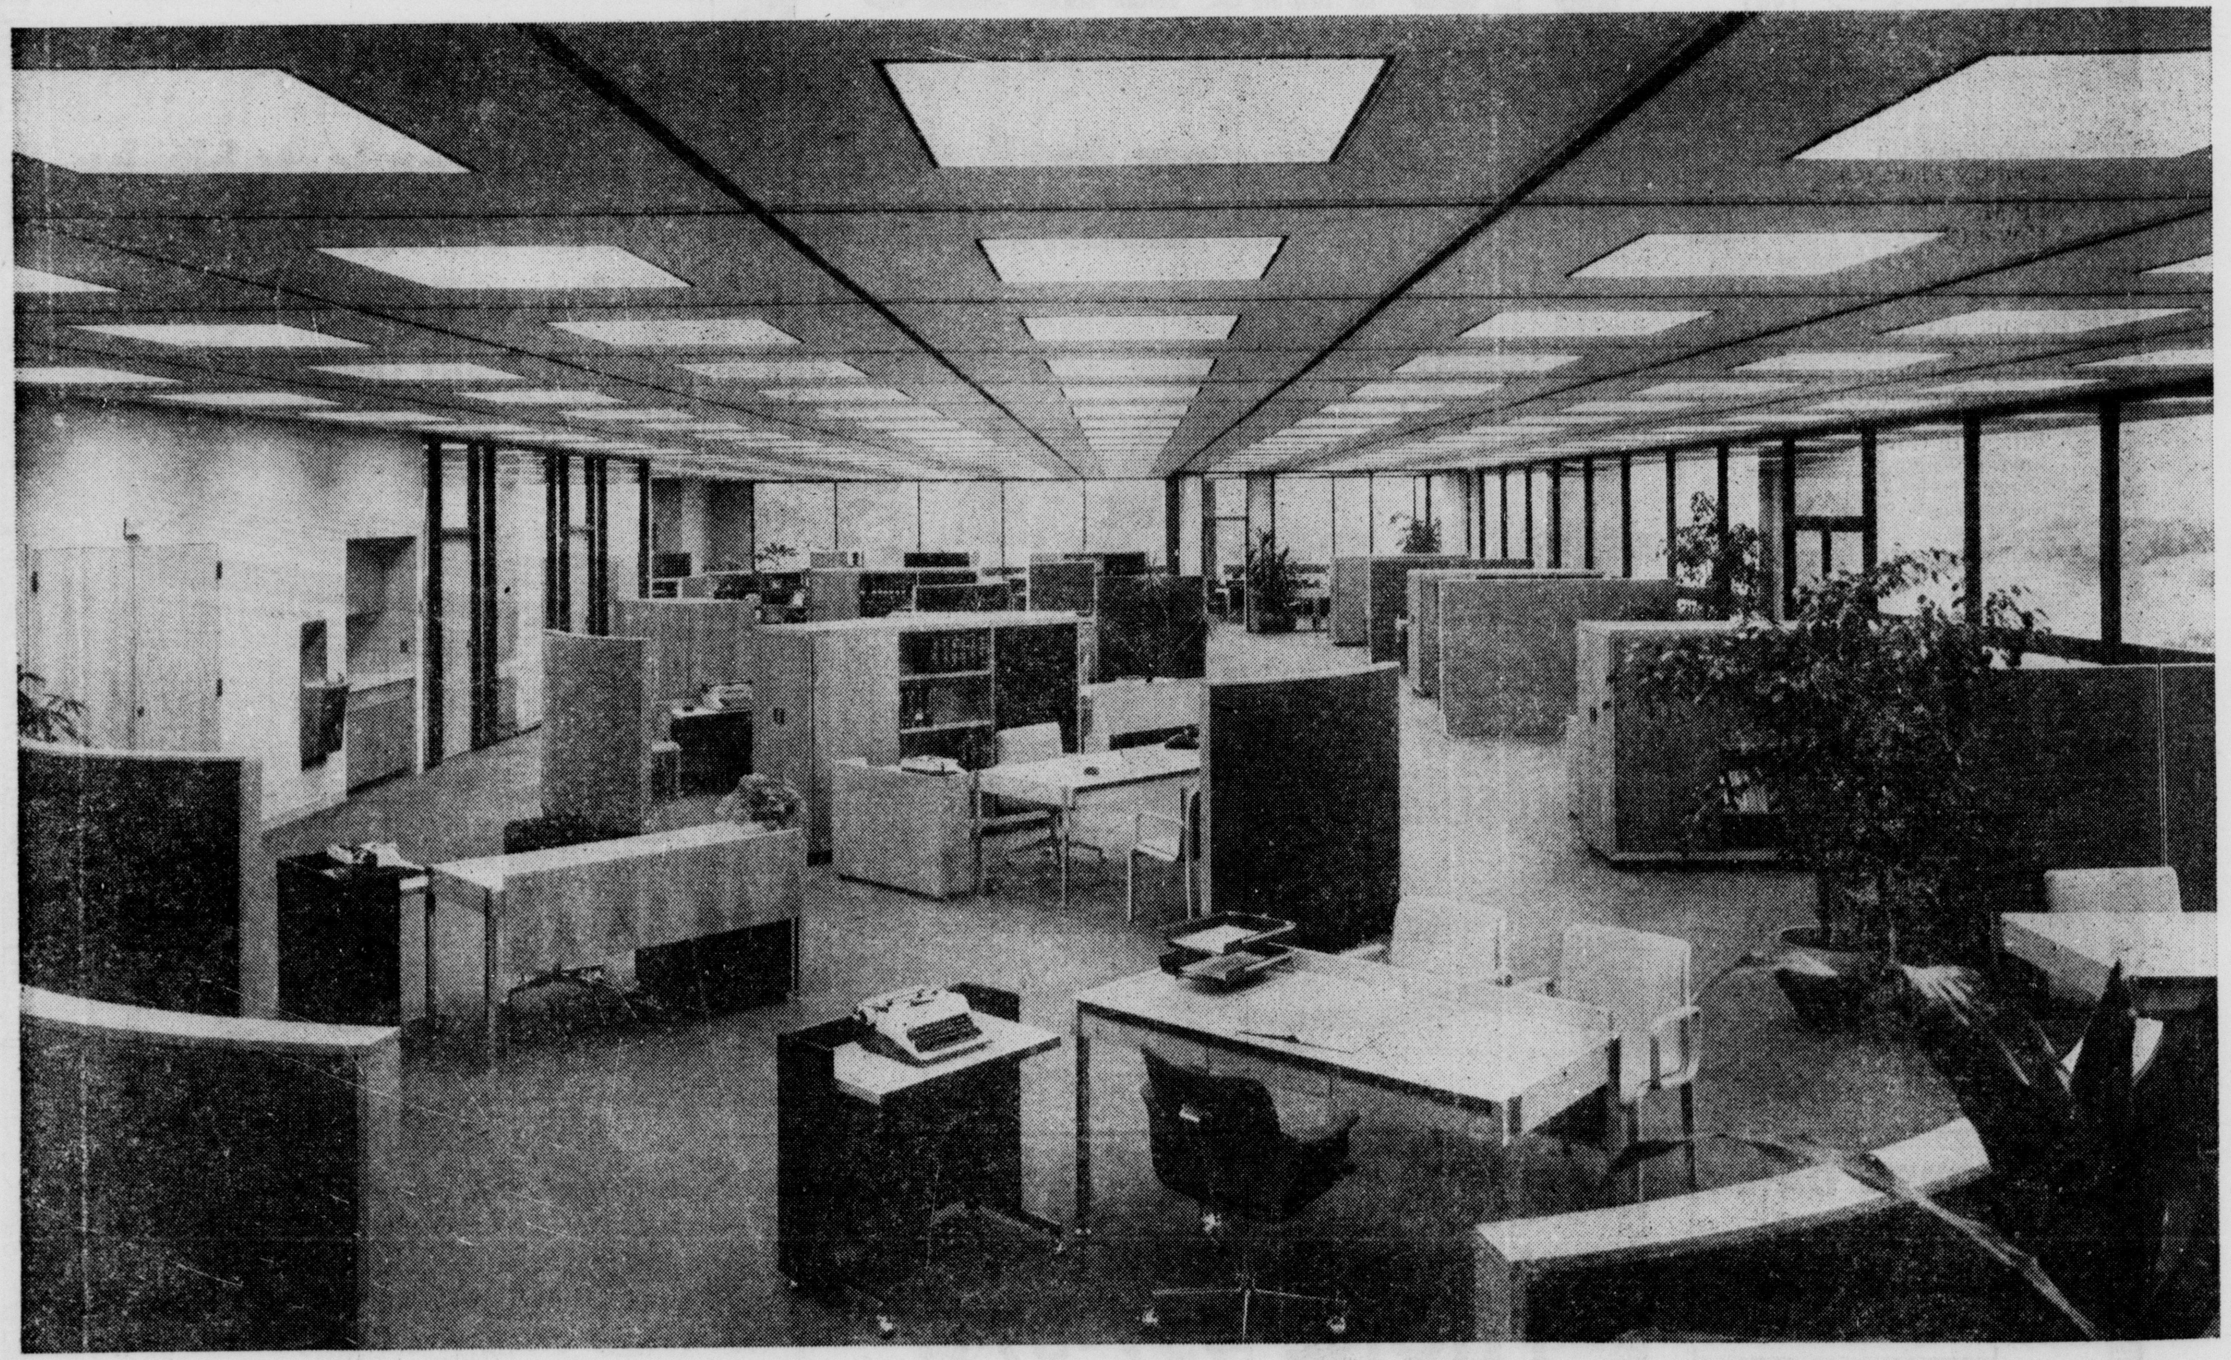
At age 30, Mrs. Martin-Vegue feels that her association with the comparatively small firm is an ideal arrangement for her professionally "because it gives me the option f immense variety of design, instead of being pigeon-oled into one type or time."

She feels, too, that all architects should either hire interior design consultants or, preferably, have interior designers within their firm "so that clients can enjoy the benefits of coordination of design talents from start to finish on a job."

And she attributes the success she has already enjoyed to "the simple fact that I enjy my work."



REGIONAL HEADQUARTERS of Commerce Clearing House on San Rafael's Quail Hill is regarded by interior designer Phyllis Martin-Vegue as one of her most challenging and satisfying interior design assignments, since she joined Marquis & Stoller, Architects and Planners, two years ago. A prime objective in the "interior landscaping" she planned for the new building was an ease of communication among personnel working closely with one another, but frequently changing working partners and combinations. Thus there are no office walls or separate cubicles to hinder freedom of movement and communication. Another principal goal was to permit all Commerce Clearing House staff members and employees to share in the enjoyment of the magnificent view from the hilltop site.

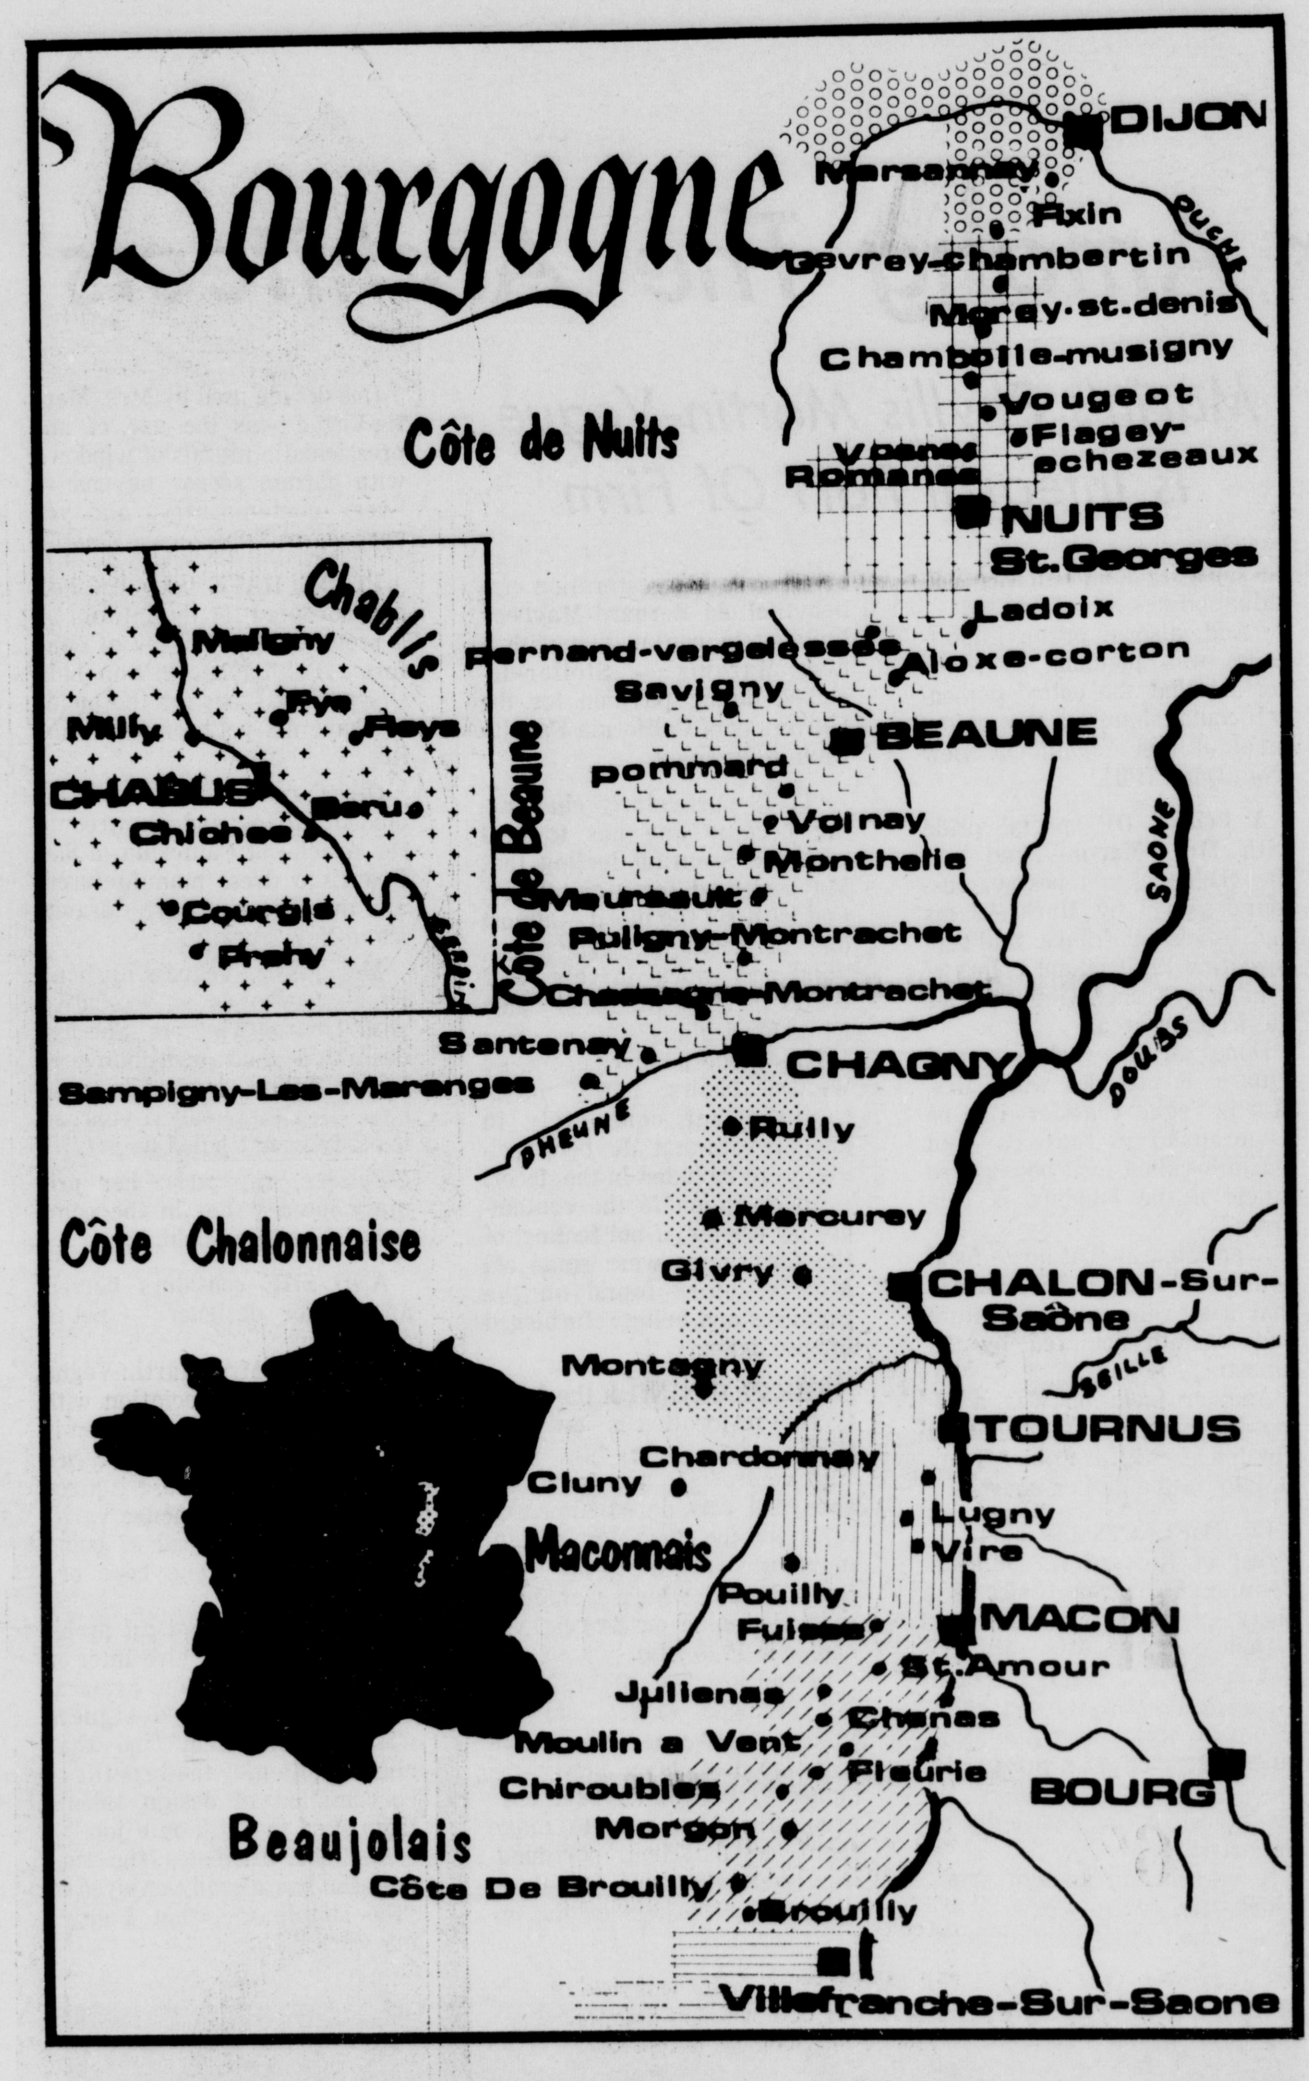
Burgundy Is Ideal French Region For Random Rambling



La Province de Bourgogne, with its rolling countryside replete with vineyard castles and ancient churches reflected in silver-stream serenity, is, like its food and wines, to be savored leisurely.

What is Burgundy?

Put most simply, it is a color, an area, a wine, a feeling! This cultural tapestry stretches from the Crusaders' Vezelay and dukedom of Dijon to merchant Macon.

AT BURGUNDY'S crossroads, Beaune can truly be described as the very hub of the "Golden Slope" — Cote d'Or — the Burgundian name for the gilded expanse of low-lying hills which extend from Dijon on the north to Santenay in the south. Here, ocher fields are crested with a sea of sun-splashed vines and golden stone steeples.

The robust French province of Burgundy was as powerful as La Belle France itself in the Middle Ages hen the splendid dukes spread their might to other European nations. As a result, Burgundy is also home for Romanesque and Flemish art and edifices, with a French accent.

Even the Greek influence is evidenced by the Sixth Century B.C. bronze mixing bowl discovered in Vix and now in Chatillon-sur-Seine in a museum, the delightful Maison Philandier Renaissance manor housing fine archeological collections.

AT BEAUNE, the wine capital, one savors the essence of Burgundy.

A prime example is the perfectly preserved 15th Century Hospice — a working hospital — and a Gothic masterpiece with multi-colored tile roof that also shelters treasures of Flemish-Burgundian art. Notable is the polyptych of the Last Judgement by Roger van der Weyden. Close by is the Musee du Vin de Bourgogne, while beneath the town ramparts are fascinating cellars that may be visited.

Burgundy is the ideal region for random rambling.

From Paris, one may speed along main autoroutes — quickest access to the area — then easily get off on the scenic, secondary roads and wander, by auto, bike or foot, through the pastoral pleasures and gastonomic offerings. Even "in season," there is little difficulty in finding comfortable lodging, especially in out-of-the-way places.

GOOD LIVING has been casually perfected to a fine art in this province. Many connoisseurs contend that this is France's outstanding gastonomic region as well as having earned it an accolade rating for its world-renowned red and white wines.

Ah, the wines! From Sens in the northwest district of Yonne to Macon in the southwest district of Saone and Loire, are vintages to both please and excite the palate. The Chablis region, the Cote de Nuits, the Cote de Beaune, the Cote de Chalon, the Maconnais and the Nivernais constitute the six major wine-growing regions of Burgundy.

Sens serves as the gateway into Burgundy.

AT CITY CENTER stands one of the oldest Gothic cathedrals in France and its treasury contains the robes of Thomas Becket among other important reliquaries. From Sens, one may wish to meander through to Pontigny, Chablis and stop over in Auxerre to visit the historic Cathedral of Saint-Etienne and the abbey church of Saint-Germain, whose crypts contain very rare Carolingian frescoes. Then continue through the valley of the Cure into the green and peaceful landscape of the Morvan.

Burgundy, in eastern France, has just about every scenic splendor one can imagine — plains, plateaus, lakes, rivers, canals, magnificent forests and mountains as well as rich valleys and hillsides.

AND BURGUNDY'S most prized jewels are its sunny sloping vineyards, with such evocative names as Romanee, Pommard, Montrachet, Chambertin (a favorite of Napoleon), Moulin a Vent, and Morgon.

The province's flavorful beef comes from the celebrated creamy-white herds of Charolais cattle which feed on fertile pastures in the Nivernais. Then there are the succulent chickens from the Bresse district, or game, cooked to a delicious turn, from its superb forests. Add to this the unique specialty of Burgundy, the escargot or perhaps the spicy, fragrant golden mustard which carries the name Dijon.

Truly a gastronomic paradise which raises a sigh even in other regions of France.

CONTINUING BY auto from Burgundy's northwest portal, a deligtful "must" u a visit to Vezelay and the town's abbey of the Madeleine, with its incomprable facade, the whole, a masterpiece of Romanesque art. It is here that the Second Crusade began, preached by Saint Bernard, and with King Louis its leader.

Close by is the old fortified town of Avallon, shielded behind its ancient ramparts. Spending a day or two there will prove a gastronomic highlight, for the Hostelerie de la Poste and the Moulin de Ruats are considered among the best in the country. Avallon is an excellent setting-off spot for excursions to the north of the Massif du Morvan.

A SOUTHWESTERLY trek brings the motorist to the former Roman town of Autun, with its remains of the largest theater in Roman Gaul, and its sanctuary, the "Temple of Janus." Autun's cathedral has the delightful, vivid sculpture of Giselbertus, and a climb to the belfry offers a view of the serene countryside. Afterwards, one should see the Musee Rolin at its base, where the bas-relief of the "Temptation Eve" is on exhibit.

As an alternative, you may take the auto route from northern Tonnere to Fontenay, where the abbey is considered the purest, most perfect model of Cistercian art, and to Dijon, capital of the Dukes of Burgundy.

Dijon is filled with history. Home of the "Grand Dukes of the West," Dijon was the 14th Century hub of a province as powerful as France itself, stretching to the North Sea, including among its possessions a good part of Belgium, half the Netherlands, and the Duchy of Luxembourg. The legendary feasts given in the palace at Dijon established early the reputation of Burgundians as hearty eaters and drinkers.

A BIT TO the south and west of Dijon is ougeot, a tiny Burgundian village which s the center of probably the greatest wine region of France. The Chateu du Clos de Vougeot was built by Cistercian monks in 1551 Its vines date to the 12th Century. On certain nights of the year it is a mecca for the wine-lovers of the world when the Chevaliers du Tastevin gather to do honor to wines of Burgundy.

Within the vicinity of Dijon are the intriguing little towns of Tournus, whose Romanesque abbey church is unique and inspiring, and Cluny, one of the great names in the history of western civilization. Founded in 910, this Benedictine order once boasted an abbey church which was the largest in Christendom. The southern arm of its great transept and two towers still stand.

Further south, Macon, the birthplace of Lamartine, is an important commercial center. The Saone, here nearly 1,000 feet wide, offers a straight, two-mile stretch of water, an exceptional course for competitive rowing.

Burgundy Is Ideal French Region For Random Rambling

La Province de Bourgogne, with its rolling countryside replete with vineyard castles and ancient churches reflected in silver-stream serenity, is, like its food and wines, to be savored leisurely.

What is Burgundy?

Put most simply, it is a color, an area, a wine, a feeling! This cultural tapestry stretches from the Crusaders' Vezelay and dukedom of Dijon to merchant Macon.

AT BURGUNDY'S crossroads, Beaune can truly be described as the very hub of the "Golden Slope" — Cote d'Or — the Burgundian name for the gilded expanse of low-lying hills which extend from Dijon on the north to Santenay in the south. Here, ocher fields are crested with a sea of sun-splashed vines and golden stone steeples.

The robust French province of Burgundy was as powerful as La Belle France itself in the Middle Ages hen the splendid dukes spread their might to other European nations. As a result, Burgundy is also home for Romanesque and Flemish art and edifices, with a French accent.

Even the Greek influence is evidenced by the Sixth Century B.C. bronze mixing bowl discovered in Vix and now in Chatillon-sur-Seine in a museum, the delightful Maison Philandier Renaissance manor housing fine archeological collections.

AT BEAUNE, the wine capital, one savors the essence of Burgundy.

A prime example is the perfectly preserved 15thr Century Hospice — a working hospital — and a Gothic masterpiece with multi-colored tile roof that also shelters treasures of Flemish-Burgundian art. Notable is the polyptych of the Last Judgement by Roger van der Weyden. Close by is the Musee du Vin de Bourgogne, while beneath the town ramparts are fascinating cellars that may be visited.

Burgundy is the ideal region for random rambling.

From Paris, one may speed along main autoroutes — quickest access to the area — then easily get off on the scenic, secondary roads and wander, by auto, bike or foot, through the pastoral pleasures and gastonomic offerings. Even "in season," there is little difficulty in finding comfortable lodging, especially in out-of-the-way places.

GOOD LIVING has been casually perfected to a fine art in this province. Many connoisseurs contend that this is France's outstanding gastonomic region as well as having earned it an accolade rating for its world-renowned red and white wines.

Ah, the wines! From Sens in the northwest district of Yonne to Macon in the southwest district of Saone and Loire, are vintages to both please and excite the palate. The Chablis region, the Cote de Nuits, the Cote de Beaune, the Cote de Chalon, the Maconnais and the Nivernais constitute the six major wine-growing regions of Burgundy.

Sens serves as the gateway into Burgundy.

AT CITY CENTER stands one of the oldest Gothic cathedrals in France and its treasury contains the robes of Thomas Becket among other important reliquaries. From Sens, one may wish to meander through to Pontigny, Chablis and stop over in Auxerre to visit the historic Cathedral of Saint-Etienne and the abbey church of Saint-Germain, whose crypts contain very rare Carolingian frescoes. Then continue through the valley of the Cure into the green and peaceful landscape of the Morvan.

Burgundy, in eastern France, has just about every scenic splendor one can imagine — plains, plateaus, lakes, rivers, canals, magnificent forests and mountains as well as rich valleys and hillsides.

AND BURGUNDY'S most prized jewels are its sunny sloping vineyards, with such evocative names as Romanee, Pommard, Montrachet, Chambertin (a favorite of Napoleon), Moulin a Vent, and Morgon.

The province's flavorful beef comes from the celebrated creamy-white herds of Charolais cattle which feed on fertile pastures in the Nivernais. Then there are the succulent chickens from the Bresse district, or game, cooked to a delicious turn, from its superb forests. Add to this the unique specialty of Burgundy, the escargot or perhaps the spicy, fragrant golden mustard which carries the name Dijon.

Truly a gastronomic paradise which raises a sigh even in other regions of France.

CONTINUING BY auto from Burgundy's northwest portal, a deligtful "must" u a visit to Vezelay and the town's abbey of the Madeleine, with its incomprable facade, the whole, a masterpiece of Romanesque art. It is here that the Second Crusade began, preached by Saint Bernard, and with King Louis its leader.

Close by is the old fortified town of Avallon, shielded behind its ancient ramparts. Spending a day or two there will prove a gastronomic highlight, for the Hostelerie de la Poste and the Moulin de Ruats are considered among the best in the country. Avallon is an excellent setting-off spot for excursions to the north of the Massif du Morvan.

A SOUTHWESTERLY trek brings the motorist to the former Roman town of Autun, with its remains of the largest theater in Roman Gaul, and its sanctuary, the "Temple of Janus." Autun's cathedral has the delightful, vivid sculpture of Giselbertus, and a climb to the belfry offers a view of the serene countryside. Afterwards, one should see the Musee Rolin at its base, where the bas-relief of the "Temptation Eve" is on exhibit.

As an alternative, you may take the auto route from northern Tonnere to Fontenay, where the abbey is considered the purest, most perfect model of Cistercian art, and to Dijon, capital of the Dukes of Burgundy.

Dijon is filled with history. Home of the "Grand Dukes of the West," Dijon was the 14th Century hub of a province as powerful as France itself, stretching to the North Sea, including among its possessions a good part of Belgium, half the Netherlands, and the Duchy of Luxembourg. The legendary feasts given in the palace at Dijon established early the reputation of Burgundians as hearty eaters and drinkers.

A BIT TO the south and west of Dijon is ougeot, a tiny Burgundian village which s the center of probably the greatest wine region of France. The Chateu du Clos de Vougeot was built by Cistercian monks in 1551 Its vines date to the 12th Century. On certain nights of the year it is a mecca for the wine-lovers of the world when the Chevaliers du Tastevin gather to do honor to wines of Burgundy.

Within the vicinity of Dijon are the intriguing little towns of Tournus, whose Romanesque abbey church is unique and inspiring, and Cluny, one of the great names in the history of western civilization. Founded in 910, this Benedictine order once boasted an abbey church which was the largest in Christendom. The southern arm of its great transept and two towers still stand.

Further south, Macon, the birthplace of Lamartine, is an important commercial center. The Saone, here nearly 1,000 feet wide, offers a straight, two-mile stretch of water, an exceptional course for competitive rowing.

Glacier Park Is America's Answer To Swiss Alps

The "Crown of the North American Continent" on the Montana-Canadian border, sprawling over one million acres, is a constant delight and lure for the escapist — be he comfort-conscious or camper.

The park's thousands of miles of trout streams, 250 lakes and 60 living glaciers are easily accessible from major air terminals and by superb highways and even by rail —the Am Track Railroad system services East and West Glacier Park.

YOU DON'T NEED a car to enjoy all the park's wonders.

Glacier Park Inc.'s quaint open-topped, sky-view buses, reminiscent of Europe's charabancs, take you leisurely through the park's pine and cedar-scented forests and breathtakingpasses over towering mountains which are forever snow-capped.

There's something for everyonenin Glacier Park.

There are thousands of miles of trails for hikers and horseback riders, tranquil lakes for launch ides, and there are gracious hotel verandas from which the visitor can absorb the peace and tranquility of this western Eden.

BESIDES THE comfortable hotels, there are meticulously maintained and unobtrustive campsites. Even the man-made structures like East Glacier's unusual challenging nine-hole golf course, blend easily into the park's natural beauty.

The photographer enjoys unlimited opportunities to "capture" the park's wildlife — bear, moose, deer, elk, mountain goats, bighorn sheep, birds of every hue (including the bald eagle) and innumerable denizens of the forest. Or he can focus on Grinnell Lake and Glacier which appear turquoise because of the sun's reflection off the glacial silt.

Near the center of the park is 6664-foot Logan Pass, a cleft in the mighty Continental Divide, bounded on one side by massive stone walls encrusted in ice and snow, and on the other by a dazzling yellow carpet of glacial lillies.

THEN THERE are Grick Falls with waters roaring over the mountainside to disappear into an eerie underground cavern before plunging out again to form an icy clear pool below.

Glacier Park may be known as the Switzerland of America, but you are aware that this is Indian territory. Names of mountains like Rising Wolf and Thunderbird, and lakes named Swiftcurrent and Two Medicine recall the American Indians' heritage. Even the magnificently engineered Going-To-The-Sun highway is named for the Indian god, Napi, whom the Blackfeet believed lived in the sun and took this route back to his celestial home after visiting his children.

The park's four splendid hotels, famous for expert service and fine food, and three modern motels, are staffed by thoroughly trained professional and carefully selected college students from all across the United States.

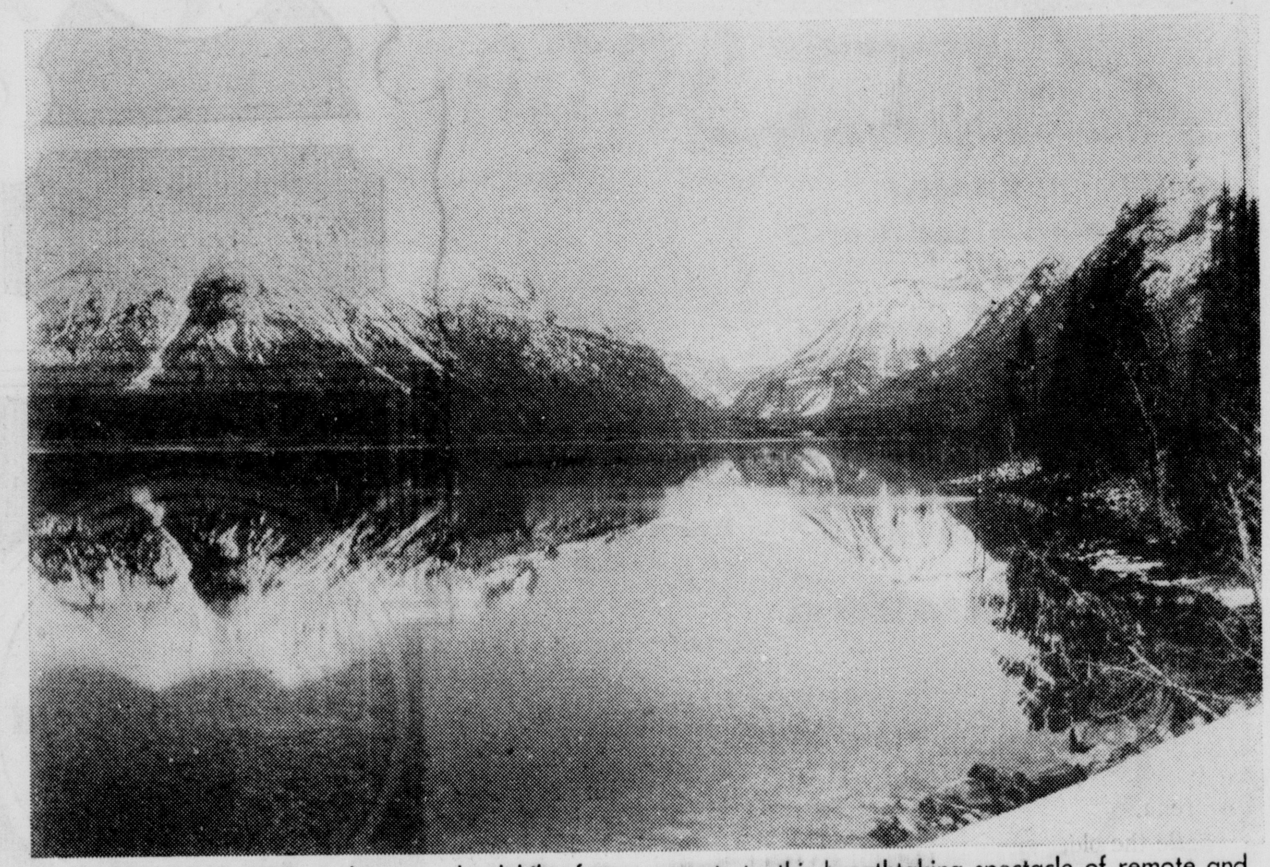
BESIDES providing cheerful, considerate service, the talented and accomplished students double as entertainers for the hotel guests. Staying at any one of the park's accommodations — Many Glacier, Glacier Park Lodge, Lake McDonald Lodge, Prince of Wales (on the Canadian side), Village Inn, Rising Sun Motor Inn or Swiftcurrent Motor Inn —offers Americans and tourists from abroad a wonderful opportunity to meet a fine cross-section of American college youth.

Most hotel facilities, tours and other activities are open June 15 through Sept. 9, but some cater for the pre-season and post-season visitors seeking the gentle greens and blossoms of spring, or the fall's brilliant colors. Roads are open as soon as they can be cleared, usually mid-May and remain open until snow makes them impassable in October.

The park's winter delights are fast being discovered by the cross-country skier and snowmobile enthusiast.

GLACIER PARK Inc. offers two to five-day tours which include first-class hotel accommodations with either American or European plan. The tours allow time to stop over at any point for an overnight pack trip, an afternoon hike, launch or horseback ride, or a morning of golf.

For illustrated brochures and hotel, motel and tour reservation information, write Glacier Park Inc., 213 Fifth Ave., Helena, Mont., 59601.



A SHORT BOAT RIDE and an overland hike from Many Glacier Hotel treats Glacier National Park guests to this breathtaking spectacle of remote and beautiful Josephine Lake, nestled among snow-crowned mountains.

"The next time you are tempted to dodge personal responsibility remember, 'Don't blame the game.' Are you falling behind in school? Don't blame the system. Are you making little progress in your business? Don't blame the company. . .Are you hooked on drugs? Don't blame your friends. Are you a cheat in sports? Don't blame the game. Don't blame it on anything. Accept your share of the responsibility and get busy setting things right. Don't let a corrupt environment corrupt you. Instead, correct it." Bill Glass and William M. Pinson Jr. in "Don't Blame the Game."

Athletes And Ethics

By DON KEOWN

The past few years have seen a splattering of expose-type books by athletes who have bared the problems of the games they play — and often a great deal of their personal lives as well.

These were far different books from the older, ghost-written genre that recited the heroics of the superstars for a hero worship cult, and gave superficial or no attention to activities off the playing field or arena.

While the older books enjoyed only a limited readership, and this largely among juveniles, both under and over 21, the new expose-type books with their sensational revelations often hit the best-seller lists. And stir heated controversy.

"Don't Blame the Game" by former Cleveland Brown defensive end Bill Glass, assisted by William M. Pinson Jr., a professor of Christian ethics at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Tex., represents yet a third kind of sports book.

It offers a rebuttal to the criticisms by Jim Bouton, Dave Meggyesy, Bernie Parish and others of sports, and it suggests as well that disclosures by Joe Namath, Marty Domres and others of the freewheeling aspects of their personal lives were unnecessary, unwise and in poor taste, presenting the public with an untrue and unfair picture of the professional athlete.

DON'T BLAME THE GAME by Bill Glass and William M. Pinson Jr.; Word, 168 pages, $4.95.

Glass and Pinson root their stands in a staunch belief in the Christian faith and ethics. And they contend that there is far greater support among fellow athletes for their concept of what constitutes proper behavior for a sports figure than for the do-your-own-thing philosophy of Namath, et al.

The format used by Glass and Pinson is to lead off each chapter with a quote from the opposition, touching upon one particular facet of sports and social ethics. The two authors then rebut that quote, using a dialogue format in which they alternate in commentary. At first, the technique is mildly disconcerting. But one adjusts, and on the whole the approach is effective and persuasive.

At the outset, Pinson generally takes the role of devil's advocate, setting up straw men for partner Glass to bowl over. But as the book progresses, the professor joins the ex-footballer more genuinely as a participant in the argument.

Some of the topics tackled head-on include the charges of brutality, the claim that professonal athletes under contract for their services are degraded to slave status, racial prejudice, the use of drugs, drinking, the emphasis upon money, the playboy morality, "bump-and-run" sex, gambling and even swearing.

To Dave Meggyesy's report of "incredible racism. . .in the (St. Louis) Cardinals' organization and throughout the league," Glass admits that "racial prejudice at one time was a serious problem in sports." But he adds:"Things are getting better." And summarizes: "In some ways pro sports reflect the prejudice of American life, but they don't contribute to it. Athletes can't take credit for all the improvements in race relations over the last few years. But they deserve some credit. Keep in mind that any racism in pro sports is the product of a sickness in our society and in mankind in general. Don't blame the game."

Where Joe Namath says, "Most of the time, there's got to be some fun mixed with the business, or I just won't bother with it," Pinson retorts: "The person who spends his life seeking pleasure seldom, perhaps never, finds what he seeks. Making happiness the chief goal of life is a sure way not to find it. The best way to find happiness is to forget about it."

And Glass comments: "The pleasure approach to life says: Get wealth. Enjoy sensual activity. Life for yourself. But if you make your goal serving others, you discover real happiness."

Glass counters the claim that athletics breed militarism, and interjects his own belief: "Too much militarism exists in this country and throughout the world. The amount of money spent on armaments is a disgrace. Why waste our resources fighting one another? We need to combat our real enemies — hunger, poverty, racism, ignorance, pride, selfishness. . .We have so many real problems, (but) it's ridiculous to attack sports which are predominantly helpful."

Drugs, drinking, gambling, profanity, casual sex are all less prevalent in sports than the expose books have suggested, Glass and Pinson maintain, and Namath, "something of a high priest for playboyism —fun morality," is not the typical athlete.

Their nominee would seem to be another quarterback, Roger Staubach, who wrote the preface for the book — "Many people call me a square. My reaction is simply this —if loving my family and being a Christian are the traits, then I'm proud of being a square." — and who is quoted frequently in the pages that follow.

Quite probably, neither Namath nor Staubach is truly representative of the average professional sports star, whose personality and ethical standards probably lie somewhere in the wide gap between the two.

And in assessing the moral climate of professional sports, once again the truth is probably to be found somewhere in the middle —less swinging than a reading of Bouton or Namath would indicate, less straight-laced than Glass and Pinson might lead one to believe.

One thing is certain: A Bouton book with its humor is more fun to read than the Glass-Pinson book. For Glass and Pinson are utterly serious and unquestionably sincere. In their defense of sports and their upholding of Christian moral standards, they have no time for witticisms.

Still, they have written an interesting book, and their presentation is impressive. They seem weakest in their arguments that money doesn't overshadow competition in sports (in the face of sports page headlines to the contrary), and in defending the emphasis that is placed on winning (while rejecting the win-at-any-price syndrome, they nonetheless appear to underestimate the impact the glorification of victory must have upon younger imitators).

And while they reject the "God is in my corner" school of thought in athletics and suggest that the prayer-maker ask only that he perform to his fullest potential, there are times when they seem to suggest that the Deity might, indeed, align himself with one man —and against another — in the boxing ring, or with one team —and against another —on the football field.

Still, if the picture Glass and Pinson present of sports ethics doesn't quite jibe with reality, they make the point that athletics and athletes generally are no worse and no better than the society in which they function. They set some goals and standards to which athletes, and all of us, could well aspire. And they remind us that old-fashioned, socially-concerned Christianity has not disappeared from the scene —and that there are men still willing to stand up and speak out for those beliefs.

Book Pages

TWO YOUNG Mill Valley men, Len Richmond and Gary Hoguera, are the co-editors of "The Gay Liberation Book," published by Ramparts Press, $3.95 softcover, $7.95 hardbound, and available in most Marin bookstores.

Contributors include the likes of Allen Ginsberg, William Burroughs, Gore Vidal, Alan Watts, Paul Goodman, Don Jackson and editor Richmond, with subjects ranging from "Sexism in the New Army" and "Games Male Chauvinists Play" to "Testament of a Gay Militant' and reports on the Gay Movement in Italy, France and elsewhere.

The editors in their introduction term their book "a celebration — a tribute to all gay brothers who have discovered that they are beautiful." And declare: "We have a commitment not just to homosexual liberation but to total human liberation."

"THE HOME Health Handbook" seems to be a blend of Hippie ingenuity, New England commonsense and experience, and professional expertise, offering guidelines for self-help for emergencies ranging from poisoning and burns to childbirth, and offering directions for rural sanitation, pediatric care and a host of other subjects.

The Stephen Greene Press of Brattleboro, Vt., is the publisher of the new third edition of this interesting, illustrated $3.95 softcover, $7.95 hardcover manual. Dr. Stuart Copans and David Osgood of the Yale Medical School are the editors. And the contributors range from "registered herbalist" Elizabeth Baer to microbiology professor Charles Phillips of the University of Vermont, College of Medicine, from commune members Arie and Owen Lindsay to pediatrician Dr. John Starr. Dr. M.J. Halberstam, reviewing an earlier edition for the New England Journal of Medicine, praised it as "a good piece of work" embodying "the American virtue of do-it-yourself . . ."

Sleuths & Suspense

AN UNSUITABLE JOB FOR A WOMAN by P.D. James; Scribner's, 216 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Quite simply, this is the best crime novel we have read in a good long time.

The death of her male partner leaves Cordelia Gray the sole proprietress of a faltering London detective agency. And her first solo case is a difficult and delicate one — a famous scientist wants her to determine why his son committed suicide (if, indeed, he did so).

The scene of her investigations is Cambridge, where Cordelia deports herself credibly and creditably. The university community is involved. So are the tangled strands of the dead youth's family ties.

P.D. James, Cambridge-educated, a senior civil servant now working with police, writes with fine British style, plots beautifully, and uses the Cambridge setting most effectively. Although both author and heroine are women, there is nothing exclusively feminine about the story. Recommended, without reservation.

THE DEBUT OF A YOUNG AND GIFTED WRITER

JUDAH THE PIOUS by Francine Prose; Atheneum, 279 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Jacob Gaines.

There is about this brand-new book, the first novel by a 24-year young woman, a feeling of antiquity, a biblical, poetic wisdom that is ancient and precious. In the tradition of Sufi and Chasidic tales and the Talmud, Francine Prose tells a story within a story that is more an enfolding than a telling.

The outer petal of her lotus-like "Judah the ious" is set in the Polish court once upon a time — perhaps a century ago.

Two Polish aristocrats, who in the tradition of people over the ages have insisted that rituals different from their own are evil, have witnessed the throwing of a handful of dirt upon the grave during a Jewish burial ceremony. They conclude that the Jews are "teasing their dead with a last sweet taste of soil that would tantalize their ghosts into coming back from the other world and stalking innocent people."

In the ensuing reaction to this "barbarism," there is no one willing to plead the case of the Jews since their lawyers had become strangers to their faith, the rabbis and scholars were unaccustomed to convincing unsympathetic listeners, and the prominent citizens were unwilling to risk their high positions. So when an unknown 89-year-old tuteler, Rabbi Eliezer of Rimanov, volunteered to represent his people before the ruler of Poland, the Jews, in desperation, allowed him to do so.

The young king is astounded by the old man's knowledge of intimate court matters and expresses his suspicion that the rabbi had spent several weeks researching court affairs.

"Nonsense," the rabbi replied. "My secret is an empty head, purposely kept blank, so that the slightest tremor of the eyelid which passes before it can inscribe a story there, more accurate and complicated than anything I could have read."

Finally alone with the king, the old man explained the dirt-throwing custom by saying that his people believed that the spirit of a dead man accompanied his body to the cemetery where it lingered like "an uncomfortable party guest, seeking the proper moment to make an exit and a seemly manner of saying goodbye"; and that it was not until the soul of the departed saw his loved one turn his back and cast dirt on his grave that he felt assured that life would go on without him and he could begin to take his rest.

The young king scoffed at the rabbi's reference to spirits and such which he had never seen. Sensing the unhappiness of the lonely king who had been unable to discuss his feelings of estrangement from the warm protective arms of the mother church, the old man asked that his people be permitted to retain their custom if he was able to convince the king of the fallacy of a system which did not allow for the unseen and improbable. The king agreed.

The tale the old spellbinding rabbi tells is like the clear crystal water of a stream coursing its way over polished gem-like stones. The words here do not describe the action but are the action; there is no searation between the flowing liquidity of the story and the story. There is only the action — pure and perfect.

This reviewer has long ago overcome his sweet-tooth addiction for the occasional excellence of the late-late shows by having given away his television set. He was helpless, however, before the sweet charm of Francine Prose' poetic prose. Carried along by her magic, he was licking his eyes until 4 a.m. savoring the rare delicacy of her verbal honey.

Francine Prose is indeed deserving of her publisher's accolades that "this is an extraordinary work by a young and gifted writer."

The Virtue Of Man's Compassion

PEG LEG PETE by Mel Ellis; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 169 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Jean Rauzy.

The duck in the title role comes into the Mel Ellis family when he is injured in a muskrat trap and brought in to the house by Dianne, one of the Ellis daughters. Mel splints the injured leg. When Pete is finally released to make it on his own, his progress in the duck world is followed by the family for the next six or seven years. During this time a picture emerges of all the Ellises and their changing attitudes toward the animals they love and toward each other, particularly what wife Gwen calls Mel's "getting softer every year."

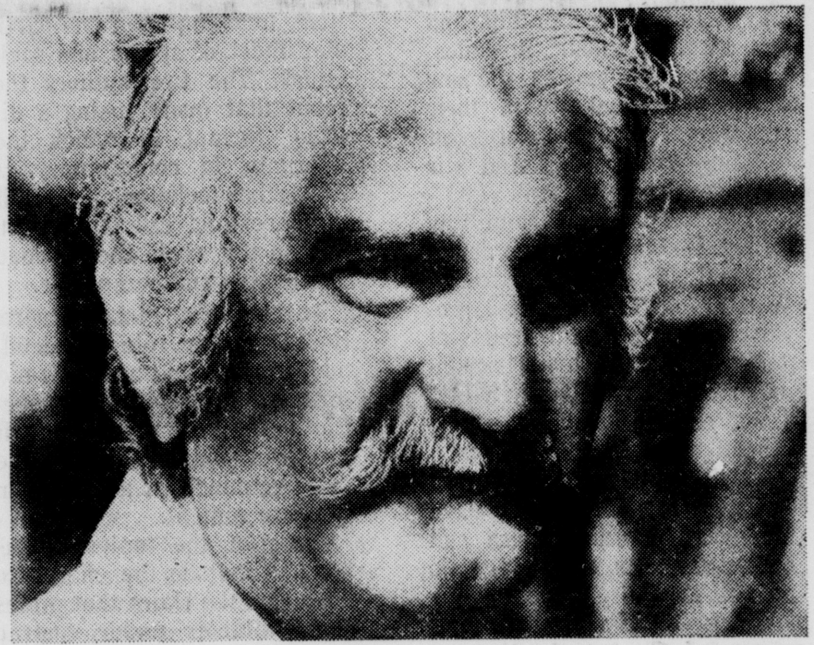
MEL ELLIS
"Softer every year"

The result is not so much a story as a "thought" piece, with the incidents in the Wisconsin woods home used to illustrate the contrasts between the human and the animal handling of life situations.

Gwen says, in one of their discussions about this subject, "To me the capacity for concern most distinguishes man from animals, the virtue of compassion." All of the Ellises are full of compassion and the love of what they see about them and papa Ellis is a good reporter of the scene.

The Circles Of Human Existence

IN THE LAND OF MORNING by Harry Mark Petrakis; McKay, 290 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Francis M. Dozier Jr.



HARRY MARK PETRAKIS in his newest novel, "In the Land of Morning," writes of the trials of a young man newly returned from the fighting in Vietnam.

This is a somber tale of circles — concentric circles of human existence which border, control and influence lives.

Ethnocentricity emerges as the widest one.

A Greek colony lies in the bowels of urban Chicago, all but escaping involvement with the larger community. It is a closed whirlpool of homogenous interaction that touches and affects all its members. The smallest spheres are, of course, those of families and their intermingling.

A young man returns from Vietnam, embraces one kind of love, yet is disturbed by another. Although sick to the marrow of death and killing, he is inevitably reinvolved with them. This is the plot at its basic level.

"In the Land of Morning" is curiously remindful of a 1950s television drama in its claustrophobic compression of action and mood of character entrapment. But, like many of those shows, despite its high quality, a sense of ennui is nonetheless also transmitted. Somehow, the story does not quite fill the pages.

After Last Summer, Comes The Winter

COME WINTER by Evan Hunter; Doubleday, 229 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by James Meldrum.

Evan Hunter, who has written, among other works, "The Blackboard Jungle" and "Fuzz," has, I am afraid, failed to enhance his reputation with his new novel "Come Winter."

This novel is a sequel to Hunter's moderately successful "Last Summer." The central characters, Sandy, David, and Peter, are retained as an inseparable trio whose lives seem to be about as mixed up as this plot.

We are given some insight into the characters' lives by the authorial device of having Peter, the main narrator, switch back and forth mentally to conversations he has had with his psychiatrist. There is some good humor and clever writing in these flashbacks, but more significant is the fact that this shrink, Dr. Krakauer, needs to be shrunk himself. Also, if Krakauer were doing his job, Peter would not be roaming around the mountains with two other unstables and telling us about their bizarre deeds.

Ski buffs might enjoy clipping along the mountain trails with these terrible three, for there are indeed some exhilarating descriptions of death-defying plunges into valleys and some hair-raising cliff-edge adventures.

Had the plot been better developed. "Come Winter" might well have succeeded. I have the sneaking suspicion, however, that Hunter was looking ahead and eyeing a contract for the far more lucrative motion picture rights. Perhaps it would have been better for all concerned had he just written the screenplay and forgotten about the book until later.

"The next time you are tempted to dodge personal responsibility remember, 'Don't blame the game.' Are you falling behind in school? Don't blame the system. Are you making little progress in your business? Don't blame the company. . .Are you hooked on drugs? Don't blame your friends. Are you a cheat in sports? Don't blame the game. Don't blame it on anything. Accept your share of the responsibility and get busy setting things right. Don't let a corrupt environment corrupt you. Instead, correct it." Bill Glass and William M. Pinson Jr. in "Don't Blame the Game."

Athletes And Ethics

By DON KEOWN

The past few years have seen a splattering of expose-type books by athletes who have bared the problems of the games they play — and often a great deal of their personal lives as well.

These were far different books from the older, ghost-written genre that recited the heroics of the superstars for a hero worship cult, and gave superficial or no attention to activities off the playing field or arena.

While the older books enjoyed only a limited readership, and this largely among juveniles, both under and over 21, the new expose-type books with their sensational revelations often hit the best-seller lists. And stir heated controversy.

"Don't Blame the Game" by former Cleveland Brown defensive end Bill Glass, assisted by William M. Pinson Jr., a professor of Christian ethics at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Tex., represents yet a third kind of sports book.

It offers a rebuttal to the criticisms by Jim Bouton, Dave Meggyesy, Bernie Parish and others of sports, and it suggests as well that disclosures by Joe Namath, Marty Domres and others of the freewheeling aspects of their personal lives were unnecessary, unwise and in poor taste, presenting the public with an untrue and unfair picture of the professional athlete.

Glass and Pinson root their stands in a staunch belief in the Christian faith and ethics. And they contend that there is far greater support among fellow athletes for their concept of what constitutes proper behavior for a sports figure than for the do-your-own-thing philosophy of Namath, et al.

The format used by Glass and Pinson is to lead off each chapter with a quote from the opposition, touching upon one particular facet of sports and social ethics. The two authors then rebut that quote, using a dialogue format in which they alternate in commentary. At first, the technique is mildly disconcerting. But one adjusts, and on the whole the approach is effective and persuasive.

At the outset, Pinson generally takes the role of devil's advocate, setting up straw men for partner Glass to bowl over. But as the book progresses, the professor joins the ex-footballer more genuinely as a participant in the argument.

Some of the topics tackled head-on include the charges of brutality, the claim that professonal athletes under contract for their services are degraded to slave status, racial prejudice, the use of drugs, drinking, the emphasis upon money, the playboy morality, "bump-and-run" sex, gambling and even swearing.

To Dave Meggyesy's report of "incredible racism. . .in the (St. Louis) Cardinals' organization and throughout the league," Glass admits that "racial prejudice at one time was a serious problem in sports." But he adds:"Things are getting better." And summarizes: "In some ways pro sports reflect the prejudice of American life, but they don't contribute to it. Athletes can't take credit for all the improvements in race relations over the last few years. But they deserve some credit. Keep in mind that any racism in pro sports is the product of a sickness in our society and in mankind in general. Don't blame the game."

Where Joe Namath says, "Most of the time, there's got to be some fun mixed with the business, or I just won't bother with it," Pinson retorts: "The person who spends his life seeking pleasure seldom, perhaps never, finds what he seeks. Making happiness the chief goal of life is a sure way not to find it. The best way to find happiness is to forget about it."

And Glass comments: "The pleasure approach to life says: Get wealth. Enjoy sensual activity. Life for yourself. But if you make your goal serving others, you discover real happiness."

Glass counters the claim that athletics breed militarism, and interjects his own belief: "Too much militarism exists in this country and throughout the world. The amount of money spent on armaments is a disgrace. Why waste our resources fighting one another? We need to combat our real enemies — hunger, poverty, racism, ignorance, pride, selfishness. . .We have so many real problems, (but) it's ridiculous to attack sports which are predominantly helpful."

Drugs, drinking, gambling, profanity, casual sex are all less prevalent in sports than the expose books have suggested, Glass and Pinson maintain, and Namath, "something of a high priest for playboyism —fun morality," is not the typical athlete.

Their nominee would seem to be another quarterback, Roger Staubach, who wrote the preface for the book — "Many people call me a square. My reaction is simply this —if loving my family and being a Christian are the traits, then I'm proud of being a square." — and who is quoted frequently in the pages that follow.

Quite probably, neither Namath nor Staubach is truly representative of the average professional sports star, whose personality and ethical standards probably lie somewhere in the wide gap between the two.

And in assessing the moral climate of professional sports, once again the truth is probably to be found somewhere in the middle —less swinging than a reading of Bouton or Namath would indicate, less straight-laced than Glass and Pinson might lead one to believe.

One thing is certain: A Bouton book with its humor is more fun to read than the Glass-Pinson book. For Glass and Pinson are utterly serious and unquestionably sincere. In their defense of sports and their upholding of Christian moral standards, they have no time for witticisms.

Still, they have written an interesting book, and their presentation is impressive. They seem weakest in their arguments that money doesn't overshadow competition in sports (in the face of sports page headlines to the contrary), and in defending the emphasis that is placed on winning (while rejecting the win-at-any-price syndrome, they nonetheless appear to underestimate the impact the glorification of victory must have upon younger imitators).

And while they reject the "God is in my corner" school of thought in athletics and suggest that the prayer-maker ask only that he perform to his fullest potential, there are times when they seem to suggest that the Deity might, indeed, align himself with one man —and against another — in the boxing ring, or with one team —and against another —on the football field.

Still, if the picture Glass and Pinson present of sports ethics doesn't quite jibe with reality, they make the point that athletics and athletes generally are no worse and no better than the society in which they function. They set some goals and standards to which athletes, and all of us, could well aspire. And they remind us that old-fashioned, socially-concerned Christianity has not disappeared from the scene —and that there are men still willing to stand up and speak out for those beliefs.

TWO YOUNG Mill Valley men, Len Richmond and Gary Hoguera, are the co-editors of "The Gay Liberation Book," published by Ramparts Press, $3.95 softcover, $7.95 hardbound, and available in most Marin bookstores.

Contributors include the likes of Allen Ginsberg, William Burroughs, Gore Vidal, Alan Watts, Paul Goodman, Don Jackson and editor Richmond, with subjects ranging from "Sexism in the New Army" and "Games Male Chauvinists Play" to "Testament of a Gay Militant' and reports on the Gay Movement in Italy, France and elsewhere.

The editors in their introduction term their book "a celebration — a tribute to all gay brothers who have discovered that they are beautiful." And declare: "We have a commitment not just to homosexual liberation but to total human liberation."

"THE HOME Health Handbook" seems to be a blend of Hippie ingenuity, New England commonsense and experience, and professional expertise, offering guidelines for self-help for emergencies ranging from poisoning and burns to childbirth, and offering directions for rural sanitation, pediatric care and a host of other subjects.

The Stephen Greene Press of Brattleboro, Vt., is the publisher of the new third edition of this interesting, illustrated $3.95 softcover, $7.95 hardcover manual. Dr. Stuart Copans and David Osgood of the Yale Medical School are the editors. And the contributors range from "registered herbalist" Elizabeth Baer to microbiology professor Charles Phillips of the University of Vermont, College of Medicine, from commune members Arie and Owen Lindsay to pediatrician Dr. John Starr. Dr. M.J. Halberstam, reviewing an earlier edition for the New England Journal of Medicine, praised it as "a good piece of work" embodying "the American virtue of do-it-yourself . . ."

Sleuths & Suspense

Quite simply, this is the best crime novel we have read in a good long time.

The death of her male partner leaves Cordelia Gray the sole proprietress of a faltering London detective agency. And her first solo case is a difficult and delicate one — a famous scientist wants her to determine why his son committed suicide (if, indeed, he did so).

The scene of her investigations is Cambridge, where Cordelia deports herself credibly and creditably. The university community is involved. So are the tangled strands of the dead youth's family ties.

P.D. James, Cambridge-educated, a senior civil servant now working with police, writes with fine British style, plots beautifully, and uses the Cambridge setting most effectively. Although both author and heroine are women, there is nothing exclusively feminine about the story. Recommended, without reservation.

A GRAIN OF SAND

Lowly, inanimate, almost invisible in
Its solitary state —
A grain of sand.
An entity, twisted and turned and laid
To rest by capricious winds.
Rough, hard, cruel cousin of gentle dust;
Akin to the speck —
The spot, little things.
Transitory, emotionless!
Infinitely more durable than man.

The Circles Of Human Existence

IN THE LAND OF MORNING by Harry Mark Petrakis; McKay, 290 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Francis M. Dozier Jr.

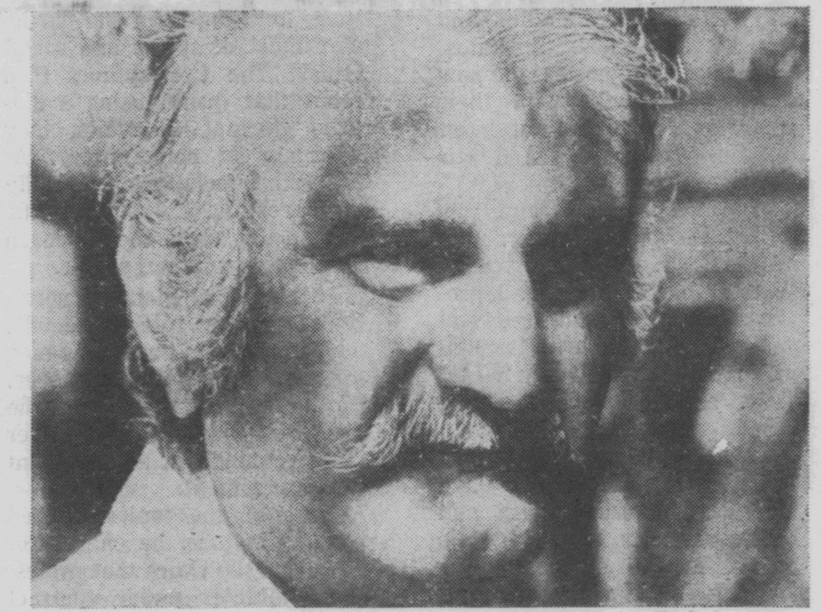
This is a somber tale of circles — concentric circles of human existence which border, control and influence lives.

Ethnocentricity emerges as the widest one.

A Greek colony lies in the bowels of urban Chicago, all but escaping involvement with the larger community. It is a closed whirlpool of homogenous interaction that touches and affects all its members. The smallest spheres are, of course, those of families and their intermingling.

A young man returns from Vietnam, embraces one kind of love, yet is disturbed by another. Although sick to the marrow of death and killing, he is inevitably reinvolved with them. This is the plot at its basic level.

"In the Land of Morning" is curiously remindful of a 1950s television drama in its claustrophobic compression of action and mood of character entrapment. But, like many of those shows, despite its high quality, a sense of ennui is nonetheless also transmitted. Somehow, the story does not quite fill the pages.



HARRY MARK PETRAKIS in his newest novel, "In the Land of Morning," writes of the trials of a young man newly returned from the fighting in Vietnam.

After Last Summer, Comes The Winter

COME WINTER by Evan Hunter; Doubleday, 229 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by James Meldrum.

Evan Hunter, who has written, among other works, "The Blackboard Jungle" and "Fuzz," has, I am afraid, failed to enhance his reputation with his new novel "Come Winter."

This novel is a sequel to Hunter's moderately successful "Last Summer." The central characters, Sandy, David, and Peter, are retained as an inseparable trio whose lives seem to be about as mixed up as this plot.

We are given some insight into the characters' lives by the authorial device of having Peter, the main narrator, switch back and forth mentally to conversations he has had with his psychiatrist. There is some good humor and clever writing in these flashbacks, but more significant is the fact that this shrink, Dr. Krakauer, needs to be shrunk himself. Also, if Krakauer were doing his job, Peter would not be roaming around the mountains with two other unstables and telling us about their bizarre deeds.

Ski buffs might enjoy clipping along the mountain trails with these terrible three, for there are indeed some exhilarating descriptions of death-defying plunges into valleys and some hair-raising cliff-edge adventures.

Had the plot been better developed. "Come Winter" might well have succeeded. I have the sneaking suspicion, however, that Hunter was looking ahead and eyeing a contract for the far more lucrative motion picture rights. Perhaps it would have been better for all concerned had he just written the screenplay and forgotten about the book until later.

U Thant's Memoirs

U Thant, the former secretary general of the United Nations, has promised candid memoirs that will "tell everything, short of causing World War III." Holt, Rinehart and Winston hopes to publish the book in 1974.

For That Easter Gift, Why Not A Flowering Or Foliage Plant?

Easter shopping is simplified this year.

The "return to nature" trend, and use of natural materials, manifests itself in the increased popularity of living, green plants. What Easter Bunny wouldn't hop for joy, to be remembered with a gift plant on April 22.

PARLOR PALMS and ferns are in great demand. An elegant Easter gift would be an arching, airy Boston Fern — presented in an ornate fern stand, to serve as an indoor accessory to compliment the furnishings. On a smaller scale, a handsomely textured Emerald Ripple Peperomia in an earthenware pot is a delightful remembrance.

Nurseries have a wide range of indoor foliage selections; shopping will also turn-up plants suitable for use in hanging baskets — for indoor use or for display on the porch or patio. A cascading Grape Ivy in an extraordinary container will add a distinctive dimension to indoor-outdoor surroundings.

GROWING YOUR own citrus certainly is in keeping with contemporary interests; and if space is limited, use Dwarf Citrus. Nurseries have the best varieties for local conditions. Don't hesitate to grow them in containers, where their year-round beauty can be enjoyed close-up. You'll also find blooming Camellias and Azaleas in nurseries; these seasonal favorites can be featured in tubs, as well, the California Association of Nurserymen points out.

Container-grown roses are excellent Easter choices. Many will be in bloom and, if the family has been talking about getting the 1973 All-American Roses, Easter is a fine time to take action.

History Of The Dahlia

One of the delightful aspects of Spain's conquest of Mexico was the appearance of some roots in the botanic gardens in Madrid in 1789.

The plants that sprung forth were hardly spectacular, but they interested the Swedish professor, Andreas Dahl, an ardent follower of the great botanist Linnaeus; Dahl devoted so much time to this Mexican native it was named in his honor. Hence Dahlias.

Actually, it was many years and several thousand plants later that the ancestors of the present garden Dahlias appeared, and the vast array of different flower forms were developed.

Ideal growing conditions for Dahlias include a soil that is loose and well-drained; plenty of organic matter in the soil so that enough moisture is retained to keep the plants growing well; and plenty of moisture and ample plant food during the growing season — so that growth does not slow down at any time once the shoots start coming-up.

Nurseries have Dahlia tubers available for planting now.

How Much Water?

Water requirements of houseplants vary. During active growth they need more. In fall and inter they are often dormant and the soil should be kept drier. Water house plants until the entir soil base is wet, then let top of soil dry before watering again.

A GRAIN OF SAND

Lowly, inanimate, almost invisible in
Its solitary state —
A grain of sand.
An entity, twisted and turned and laid
To rest by capricious winds.
Rough, hard, cruel cousin of gentle dust;
Akin to the speck —
The spot, little things.
Transitory, emotionless!
Infinitely more durable than man.

Growing Salad Makings

There are two big reasons for the sudden surge of interest in vegetable gardening.

First, there is the new awareness of ecology. Growing fresh produce in your own backyard seems very much in keeping with that movement, as well as affording you some healthful exercise.

Second, high prices, including foodstuffs, have caused many households to become increasingly concerned with their food budgets. Homegrown vegetables are as economical as they are wholesome.

A GREAT MANY Californians are planting home vegetable gardens this month. And, in a state where the emphasis is on outdoor living during the summer, a special salad plot is a sensible addition to the garden.

Salad vegetables include tomatoes, radishes, cucumbers, green onions, endive, parsley, and lettuce. Head lettuce will do well, planted now, in cooler areas of the state. Inland, in warmer spots, leaf lettuce — in tempting variety — is a better choice now. If in doubt, check with your nurseryman.

It isn't necessry to have unlimited garden space to grow goodies for the salad bowl. Apartment dwellers can grow certain items in pots or window boxes on a sunny balcony.

CHERRY TOMATOES, or such salad treats as Pixie or Patio tomatoes — which are small oval morsels of flavor — can be grownin pots, or containers, in limited space. A fun gardening experience is to grow tomatoes in a tub. They can be trained on a trellis to support the growth and heavy yield of tomatoes, advises the California Assn. of Nurserymen.

If your garden lacks space for a salad plot, a little ingenuity solves the problem: Certain cucumbers can be trained to grow on a support in a easy-to-handle size container; parsley is a pretty plant for edgings in the garden, and leaf lettuce can be planted again and again, and featured as crispy green or red accent in garden borders.

NOW IS THE time to plant warm season vegetables, and your nurseryman is a good source of informatin on how to achieve the maximum enjoyment — and yields from home-harvested fixings for salads.

While you are at it, include a couple of herbs in your planting. They will add zest to your salads, as well as other dishes.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

✓Fill out your garden color scheme with free-flowering geraniums. Shop now for them and get the colors you want.

✓On established roses, a monthly feeding will increase the quantity and quality of bloom. Special, ready-to-use Rose Food is available at nurseries.

✓Keep after snails and slugs with pellets, bait or liquid controls.

✓Try one or several dwarf citrus as tubbed or patio plants. These smaller-sized editions bear heavily in containers and are ornamental all year.

✓Prune your spring-blooming shrubs by cutting sprays of blossoms to brighten and freshen your indoor decor.

About CARPETS

By Doug Emerson

CARPET INFLATION? Surprisingly enough, it just hasn't happened. While everything else (or so it seems) costs a lot more than it did a decade ago, the fact is that today's fine carpet manufacturers offer you a better carpet, longer wearing, in a wider range of colors and textures. than a decade ago.

In the immediate period after World War II, a full generation ago, quality carpets ranged in price from $10 to $15 per square yard. Some cottons cost less, and some of the finest wools cost more at that time.

The price story is similar for the fifties and sixties . . . and today you can still buy a quality carpet in that price range. You can find a wider selection than ever for less than you paid ten years ago, And, of course, you can still pay a premium price for the lushest, thickest, finest quality broadlooms.

There is a much bigger choice of fibers today, also available in a wide range of prices. Perhaps one big difference, from a budget point of view, is that there are more good carpets today in the low range than were ever offered before.

Whatever your budget, whatever your decor, you'll find the right quality carpet in our selection, each bearing a trusted name in carpet manufacture. Come in and talk it over with our carpet specialists.

A POOL TABLE THAT COSTS YOU LITTLE

NO NEED to tell you that the game of pool enjoyed a renaissance a few years back, and at the same time began to move out of the dingy pool halls of low repute into swanky recreation parlors and into homes where all members of the family could enjoy the sport. Most of those converts have remained faithful to the game. But still, one obstacle to yet more pool-playing in the home remains the relatively high cost of a good pool table. A ping pong table, for instance, comes a good deal cheaper. Steve Ellingson suggests that you can beat the high cost of pool tables by building your own — and a good one. Send $2 to Steve Ellingson, Independent-Journal pattern department, Post Office Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif., 91409, and ask for Pool Table Pattern 417. A materials list is included, and directions and pictures guide you clearly through every step of the construction. As you no doubt know, the heavier the table, the better the play. This holds true especially for cushion and rails. A lightweight table gives slightly under impact and cuts down on the vital rebound of the balls. But the table shown here has extra heavy rails to support solidly the rubber cushions for maximum efficiency. And the ball return system is similar to that found on tables costing a thousand dollars or more. A center tunnel permits a shallow apron design and avoids the bulky look found on tables with a side tunnel layout. Some other Ellingson patterns to help bring fun into your home: No. 319, ping pong table, $1; No. 155, shuffleboard court, 50 cents.

Don't Let Your Bedroom Nap In Daytime

When you rise and shine each morning, do the bedrooms in your house go to sleep for the rest of the day?

Bedrooms form a quiet zone of their own, which may be overlooked until too many projects threaten to crowd the family out of customary activity reas.

Take the "do-not-disturb" sign off the door and wake up idle space for quiet pasttimes such as reading, sewing and letter writing, thereby easing the squeeze in the kitchen and family room.

AN ASSORTMENT of furniture may be wasting cubits that built-ins could use twice as profitably. Just 24 inches of space is deep enough to line a wall with drawer and counter space below, shelves for books and treasures on top.

Or a window may be attractively framed by floor-to-ceiling shelves and a low chest with a colorful padded seat beheath the sill, forming a cozy reading nook.

Stop arranging furniture for symmetry, if it means forfeiting useful space. Push parallel twin beds out along adjoining walls to open a play area in a child's room, or a conversation corner for a teen-ager.

A LONG NARROW bedroom behaves like a suite when beds are arranged at one end and the other end functions as a small personal office-sitting area.

One design approach marks the ivision of room duties with a desk built to parallel beds, matching their length. The extra wide drawers and cabinets store stacks of hobby supplies.

Hanging bookshelves of one-by-12-inch western pine are an ingenious accompaniment to the desk, suspended from the ceiling by one-inch metal pipe or wood dowels bolted directly to overhead rafters.

Restful, uncrowded decor enhances the sleeping chamber, so remember this trick: built-ins and furniture painted to match walls recede into them — and the room retains a comfortable, open feeling.

Growing Salad Makings

There are two big reasons for the sudden surge of interest in vegetable gardening.

First, there is the new awareness of ecology. Growing fresh produce in your own backyard seems very much in keeping with that movement, as well as affording you some healthful exercise.

Second, high prices, including foodstuffs, have caused many households to become increasingly concerned with their food budgets. Homegrown vegetables are as economical as they are wholesome.

A GREAT MANY Californians are planting home vegetable gardens this month. And, in a state where the emphasis is on outdoor living during the summer, a special salad plot is a sensible addition to the garden.

Salad vegetables include tomatoes, radishes, cucumbers, green onions, endive, parsley, and lettuce. Head lettuce will do well, planted now, in cooler areas of the state. Inland, in warmer spots, leaf lettuce — in tempting variety — is a better choice now. If in doubt, check with your nurseryman.

It isn't necessry to have unlimited garden space to grow goodies for the salad bowl. Apartment dwellers can grow certain items in pots or window boxes on a sunny balcony.

CHERRY TOMATOES, or such salad treats as Pixie or Patio tomatoes — which are small oval morsels of flavor — can be grownin pots, or containers, in limited space. A fun gardening experience is to grow tomatoes in a tub. They can be trained on a trellis to support the growth and heavy yield of tomatoes, advises the California Assn. of Nurserymen.

If your garden lacks space for a salad plot, a little ingenuity solves the problem: Certain cucumbers can be trained to grow on a support in a easy-to-handle size container; parsley is a pretty plant for edgings in the garden, and leaf lettuce can be planted again and again, and featured as crispy green or red accent in garden borders.

Gourmet salad-makers may add their own special ingredients, including perhaps, zucchini squash and peppers.

NOW IS THE time to plant warm season vegetables, and your nurseryman is a good source of informatin on how to achieve the maximum enjoyment — and yields from home-harvested fixings for salads.

While you are at it, include a couple of herbs in your planting. They will add zest to your salads, as well as other dishes.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

✓Fill out your garden color scheme with free-flowering geraniums. Shop now for them and get the colors you want.

✓On established roses, a monthly feeding will increase the quantity and quality of bloom. Special, ready-to-use Rose Food is available at nurseries.

✓Keep after snails and slugs with pellets, bait or liquid controls.

✓Try one or several dwarf citrus as tubbed or patio plants. These smaller-sized editions bear heavily in containers and are ornamental all year.

✓Prune your spring-blooming shrubs by cutting sprays of blossoms to brighten and freshen your indoor decor.

About CARPETS

By Doug Emerson

CARPET INFLATION? Surprisingly enough, it just hasn't happened. While everything else (or so it seems) costs a lot more than it did a decade ago, the fact is that today's fine carpet manufacturers offer you a better carpet, longer wearing, in a wider range of colors and textures. than a decade ago.

In the immediate period after World War II, a full generation ago, quality carpets ranged in price from $10 to $15 per square yard. Some cottons cost less, and some of the finest wools cost more at that time.

The price story is similar for the fifties and sixties . . . and today you can still buy a quality carpet in that price range. You can find a wider selection than ever for less than you paid ten years ago, And, of course, you can still pay a premium price for the lushest, thickest, finest quality broadlooms.

There is a much bigger choice of fibers today, also available in a wide range of prices. Perhaps one big difference, from a budget point of view, is that there are more good carpets today in the low range than were ever offered before.

Whatever your budget, whatever your decor, you'll find the right quality carpet in our selection, each bearing a trusted name in carpet manufacture. Come in and talk it over with our carpet specialists.

On Working With Pre-Mixed Cement

It Is Not Quite Ready To Use From The Bag

By ANDY LANG

Premixed cement is just that. The ingredients have been factory-measured, mixed and bagged.

Only the addition of water is required to make a workable product for instant use in patching concrete and repairing brickwork.

But it is a mistake to use the mix exactly as it comes from the bag if you want optimal results. That's because the ingredients have been separated a bit during transportation and storage.

THUS, IF YOU scoop out only the portion which you intend to use — as, for instance, in the case of a concrete mix — it will not have the same proportion of ingredients as when originally bagged. The heavier pieces of gravel may have sunk to the bottom of the sack, so that the first part that is used will not have enough gravel, whereas that used last will have too much of it.

To be sure that you get the mixture intended, dump out the entire bag — whether it be a 10-pounder or a 90-pounder — on a piece of plywood or something similar. Mix it thoroughly, then take as much as you think you will need.

Only when you are ready to begin immediately to make a patch should the water.

ADD THE WATER slowly until you get a workable mixture, one that is neither too dry nor too wet. If it's too dry, you won't be able to spread it easily. If it's too wet, it will develop puddles as you spread it. A mixture with too much water in it will not be as strong as one with the proper amount.

Return the unused portion of the original contents (that to which no water has been added) to the bag in which it came. It will have an indefinite life if no moisture gets into the bag, so be sure to seal the bag tightly.

There are quite a few different kinds of mixtures available, but those most commonly used are sand, gravel and mortar mixes.

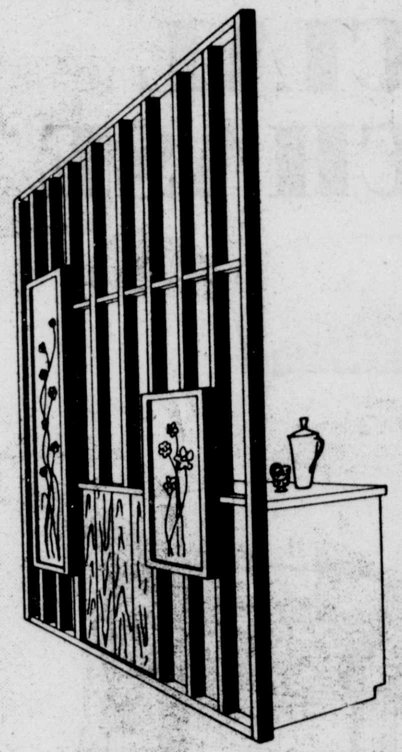
THE SAND MIXTURE is used to make patches in a sidewalk or walls where the thickness is only an inch or so. Where extra strength is required on thicker surfaces, use a gravel or concrete mix. To patch the joints between bricks, concrete blocks and the like, use a mortar mix.

The sand mix is made of cement and sand; the gravel mix of cement, sand and gravel; the mortar mix of sand, cement and lime.

Among other types of patching compounds are those to which a liquid latex rather than water is added and those which use water but have vinyl in them. These are especially good when only a thin patching layer must be added to existing concrete.

BECAUSE THEY differ somewhat from the regular premixes and from each other, these compounds should not be used until the directions on the container are read carefully and followed just as carefully.

VEILED VIEW



A DIVIDER of two-by-four-inch western fir or spruce divides the busy kitchen from the family room, yet doesn't isolate the cook. But it also provides an opportunity for cabinets and a work or serving counter, on one or both sides. Here the cabinets are on the kitchen side. The same idea can be used effectively to separate the entry (and provide guest coat storage at the door) from the living room, or a home entertainment corner from the rest of the living room.

TERMITES INVADING MARIN HOMES NOW.

Every homeowner in Marin County should be on the alert this month for a cloud of winged ant-like insects anywhere around his home. Don't assume that they are ants. It may be a swarm of termites!

In the early spring and fall, all three types of termites found in Marin send out swarms of flying "kings" and "queens" to start new nests. Swarming is heavy and noticeable on a sunny day following rain, but continues to some degree from late February through late October.

Termite colonies send out swarms only after they've been established for three years or more. The flying reproductives can go only a short distance, seldom more than 100 feet unless helped by winds. So if you see a cloud of swarmers or their discarded wings, there's a termite nest nearby.

The swarmers can act as an early-warning system for you. The nest is still fairly small when the first swarms are sent out. If you detect an early swarm, therefore, you've avoided the worst damage. Later, the nests grow to 250,000 termites or more.

The three types of termites in Marin have somewhat different habits for nesting and swarming. But all three types have infested homes in every part of Marin. And contrary to popular belief, they can infest both new and old homes. So every Marin homeowner should be alert this month.

If you see a swarm or discarded wings, call Hinkley & Gordon for a complete Structural Pest Control Inspection. The cost of a Hinkley & Gordon inspection, the most thorough in Marin County, costs just $50 for the average home.

This inspection isn't just a gimmick to sell you a "termite job." It's the best way to avoid one.

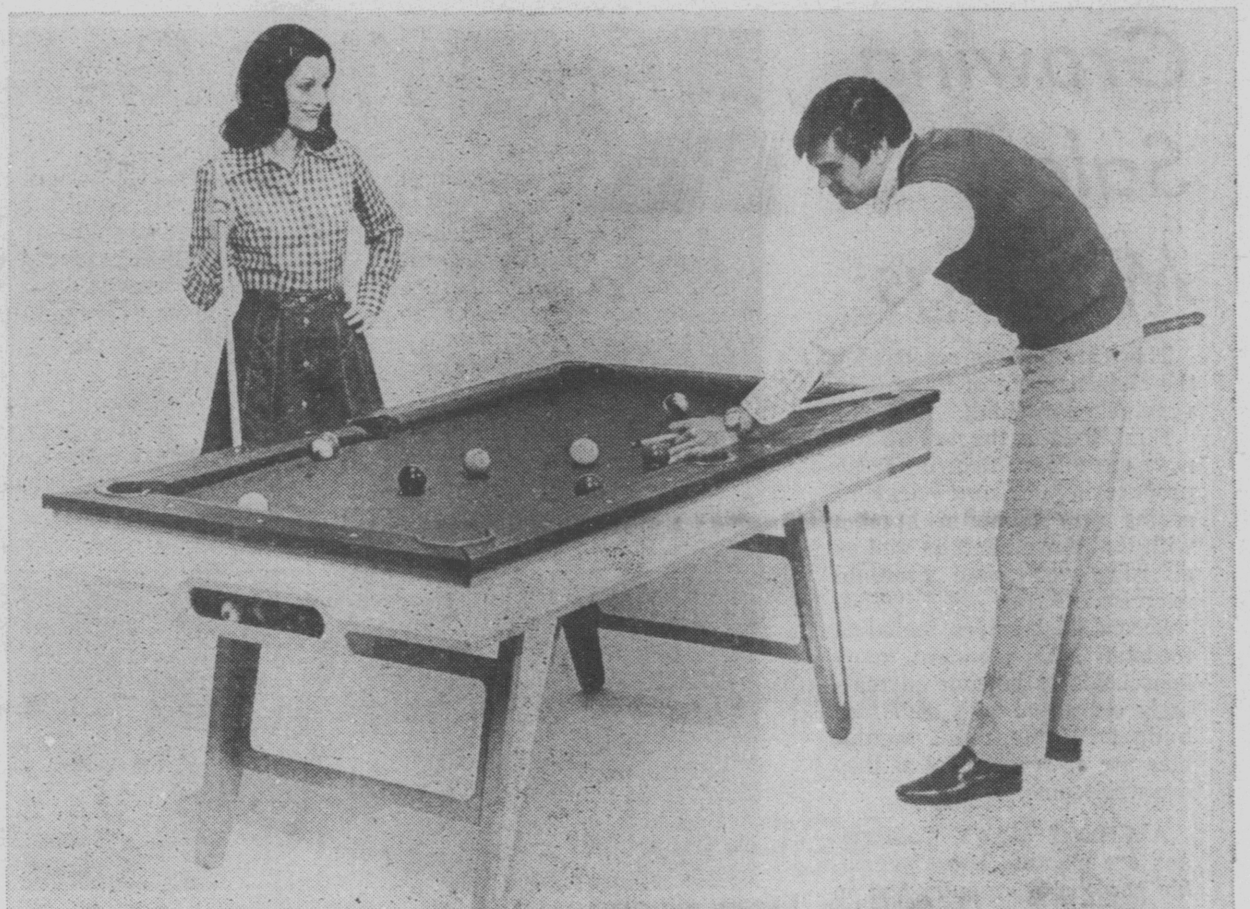
A POOL TABLE THAT COSTS YOU LITTLE

NO NEED to tell you that the game of pool enjoyed a renaissance a few years back, and at the same time began to move out of the dingy pool halls of low repute into swanky recreation parlors and into homes where all members of the family could enjoy the sport. Most of those converts have remained faithful to the game. But still, one obstacle to yet more pool-playing in the home remains the relatively high cost of a good pool table. A ping pong table, for instance, comes a good deal cheaper. Steve Ellingson suggests that you can beat the high cost of pool tables by building your own — and a good one. Send $2 to Steve Ellingson, Independent-Journal pattern department, Post Office Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif., 91409, and ask for Pool Table Pattern 417. A materials list is included, and directions and pictures guide you clearly through every step of the construction. As you no doubt know, the heavier the table, the better the play. This holds true especially for cushion and rails. A lightweight table gives slightly under impact and cuts down on the vital rebound of the balls. But the table shown here has extra heavy rails to support solidly the rubber cushions for maximum efficiency. And the ball return system is similar to that found on tables costing a thousand dollars or more. A center tunnel permits a shallow apron design and avoids the bulky look found on tables with a side tunnel layout. Some other Ellingson patterns to help bring fun into your home: No. 319, ping pong table, $1; No. 155, shuffleboard court, 50 cents.



Don't Let Your Bedroom Nap In Daytime

Handyman's Pages

When you rise and shine each morning, do the bedrooms in your house go to sleep for the rest of the day?

Bedrooms form a quiet zone of their own, which may be overlooked until too many projects threaten to crowd the family out of customary activity reas.

Take the "do-not-disturb" sign off the door and wake up idle space for quiet pasttimes such as reading, sewing and letter writing, thereby easing the squeeze in the kitchen and family room.

AN ASSORTMENT of furniture may be wasting cubits that built-ins could use twice as profitably. Just 24 inches of space is deep enough to line a wall with drawer and counter space below, shelves for books and treasures on top.

Or a window may be attractively framed by floor-to-ceiling shelves and a low chest with a colorful padded seat beheath the sill, forming a cozy reading nook.

Stop arranging furniture for symmetry, if it means forfeiting useful space. Push parallel twin beds out along adjoining walls to open a play area in a child's room, or a conversation corner for a teen-ager.

A LONG NARROW bedroom behaves like a suite when beds are arranged at one end and the other end functions as a small personal office-sitting area.

JUDY GARLAND as Dorothy, Bert Lahr as the cowardly lion, Jack Haley as the tin woodman and Ray Bolger as the brainless scarecrow will embark once again on their long journey to the magical land of Oz, as MGM's film classic, "The Wizard of Oz," is shown once again in color Sunday at 6:30 p.m. on Channels 3 and 4. It is one of Hollywood's most enduring productions.

NO LATE, LATE SHOWS

There are no late or late-late shows to entertain sleepless Danes on Copenhagen television.

The one-channel, non-commercial station closes down on most nights between 10:30 and 11 p.m.

The radio, state-run like the television, is allowed to keep one channel open until 2:30 a.m. Listeners searching for more music can turn to the all-night Swedish programs.

NO LATE, LATE SHOWS

There are no late or late-late shows to entertain sleepless Danes on Copenhagen television.

The one-channel, non-commercial station closes down on most nights between 10:30 and 11 p.m.

The radio, state-run like the television, is allowed to keep one channel open until 2:30 a.m. Listeners searching for more music can turn to the all-night Swedish programs.

THE DWINDLING BREED of man who lives in the saddle or with any of the other legendary traditions of the Old Wsst is the subject of a National Geographic Society special study, "The Haunted West," to be telecast Thursday at 8 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10. It's a look at a land of arid sagebrush and sometimes empty towns that still echo with the memories of a rowdy frontier life — the area between Utah and the California desert.

TELEVISION NOTES

By JACK GAVER

Universal Television is in the process of filming for NBC broadcast next season a four-hour version of that notable 1818 horror tale, "Dr Frankenstein," by Mary Shelley. I imagine that a lot of people think the late Boris Karloff wrote it, as well as playing the role of the Creature. This is promised to be a faithful interpretation of the original novel. Some of the players: James Mason, David McCallum, Agnes Moorehead, Michael Sarrazin and Nicola Pagett. NBC will present it either in two two-hour segments or in four one-hour portions.

Maury Wills, noted for his base-stealing when a major league ballplayer, will be a commentator for NBC's coverage of 1973 games.

The first annual Emmy News and Documentary Award ceremonies of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences will be aired on CBS in a 90-minute program May 22.

Bert Convy and Jo Ann Pflug, both familiar to television viewers through appearances on many programs, star in a half-hour situation comedy "Shakespeare Loves Rembrandt," that NBC hopes will find a place in its 1973-74 schedule. They play a man and wife who create greeting cards.

NBC has signed actress Marilyn Hassett to an exclusive long-term contract. No indication as to what use will be made of her. She has done numerous commercials, had a role in the movie, "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?," and has appeared in two segments of NBC's "Emergency!" series.

DINAH SHORE is best known in the sports world as a tennis enthusiast. But she shows here that she can also swing a wicked golf club. And next weekend she will be the hostess for her second annual Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle Championship, with the top women golfers of the world. At $154,000, it offers the biggest purse of prize money of any event in women's pro golfing history. Channels 7 and 11 will carry the event next Saturday at 1 p.m. and again the following day at 1:30 p.m., for a total of 150 minutes of the action.

'Today' Show Wins Award

NBC's "Today" program has been awarded the National Kidney Foundation's 1972 Public Service Award for "bringing into public focus the plight of kidney patients." The network program twice in 1972 highlighted artificial kidney treatment and the need for donated kidneys for transplantation.

On The Stereo Scene

From The Jazz Greats And Cat Stevens To The Music Of Scriabin And Ives

By JOHN SUNIER

This cassette of seven high-energy jazz standards such as "Love for Sale," and "Caravan," boasts Dizzy Gillespie, Bobby Hackett and Mary Lou Williams. It seems to have been taped some years back, but the sound is fine stereo, though un-Dolby-ized.

ANOTHER double-play cassette is devoted to the early recorded works of Cat Stevens, the British singer-composer who has received so much praise for his series of fine LPs on A & M recently. It combines two albums, "Matthew and Son," and "New Masters" (Deram-Ampex J77600). The backing is not as lavish in these tracks as on later ones, and the lyrics are brought to the fore.

Some critics feel Stevens to be a modern version of the ancient troubadour, or say that if he lived in Schubert's time he would have written glorious lieder. He does have a way with words and music that is unique though occasionally I cringe at somewhat brainless lyrics ("I Love My Dog and My Dog Loves Me.")

OUR FINAL cassette for this week grows out of the programming of a KSAN disc jockey and record producer who goes by the name of Voco.

"Lights Out: San Francisco" (Blue Thumb-Ampex L56004) is a strange but very listenable collection of tunes ranging from rock and jazz through belly-dancing music and ending with a country song. None of the performers are identified but all are excellent. This is a double-play cassette too, and should provide some groovy listening experiences to all those with catholic tastes in music.

THE REST OF the tapes we'll consider are reel-to-reel type, and the first four are also Dolby-ized.

The first I won't say much about musically, since I reviewed the non-Dolby version only a couple of months ago. It is Smetana's "Ma Vlast" (My Fatherland) with Rafael Kubelik conducting The Boston Symphony Orchestra on Deutsche Grammophon-Ampex K47054.

The Dolby version of this double-play album provides in comparison with the non-Dolby version much more high end, greater clarity, and freedom from hiss. And this is without using the Dolby circuit for playback, which would improve the sound even more. All I needed to do was slightly turn down the treble tone vntrol.

Alexander Scriabin's "Prometheus, Poem of Fire" is an exotic psychedelic piece of orchestral music which was played by the San Francisco Symphony last year complete with its original light show. It now has a smashing recording on London-Ampex Tape L480251, coupled with the Russian composer's "Piano Concerto in F Sharp Minor" in its first stereo recording. (Lorin Maazel conducting The London Philharmonic with pianist Vladimir Ashkenazy).

Since I had simultaneously received the LP version from London, I had another fascinating A-B comparison opportunity here, the upshot of which is I couldn't tell any difference between the tape and the disc; both will make your hair stand on end when heard on proper equipment at a good ear-shattering volume.

Charles Ives singular "Piano Sonata No. 2" has so much going on at one time in it that a single pianist really can't bring it off. Therefore other instruments are often used to add support.

IN A NEW Dolby-ized DGG-Ampex stereotape (L43215), pianist Roberto Szidon is joined by violaist Walter Stangl in the first movement and flutist Dieter Sonntag in the fourth movement. The Piano Sonata is subtitled "Concord, Mass., 1840-1860" and is inspired by the transcendental movement taking place there at that time. Four personalities of this movement are reflected in the movements, titled "Emerson," "Hawthorne," "The Alcotts," and "Thoreau," with its added flute conjuring up a vision of the calmness of Walden Pond.

Pianist Szidon, who has received acclaim for his complete Scriabin Piano Sonatas on DGG discs, makes this complex music clearer to the listener than I have ever heard, and DGG's superb sound aids in the success of this tape.

SOME TIME AGO I reviewed in this column some of the Mahler Symphonies conducted by Georg Solti with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra on tape. Now some of these are being issued in Dolby sound, and my personal favorite among Mahler's Symphonies — The Seventh — is an example of the amazing improvement in sonic impact due to the signal-stretching process. The non-Dolby predecessors sound extremely dull in comparison. The two "Nachtmusik" sections of the Seventh Symphony are ideal material to demonstrate the freedom from hiss and noise — delicate bowed strings and mandolin sounds come over with amazing clarity and separation. With the length of Mahler's symphonic creations, this is of course a Double-Play tape, and keeping in mind the cost of two London discs — imported and therefore more expensive — the stereotape comes out at about the same price.

Even on the simplest stereo tape deck, it would probably sound better than the disc.

THE DWINDLING BREED of man who lives in the saddle or with any of the other legendary traditions of the Old Wsst is the subject of a National Geographic Society special study, "The Haunted West," to be telecast Thursday at 8 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10. It's a look at a land of arid sagebrush and sometimes empty towns that still echo with the memories of a rowdy frontier life — the area between Utah and the California desert.

TELEVISION NOTES

By JACK GAVER

Universal Television is in the process of filming for NBC broadcast next season a four-hour version of that notable 1818 horror tale, "Dr Frankenstein," by Mary Shelley. I imagine that a lot of people think the late Boris Karloff wrote it, as well as playing the role of the Creature. This is promised to be a faithful interpretation of the original novel. Some of the players: James Mason, David McCallum, Agnes Moorehead, Michael Sarrazin and Nicola Pagett. NBC will present it either in two two-hour segments or in four one-hour portions.

Maury Wills, noted for his base-stealing when a major league ballplayer, will be a commentator for NBC's coverage of 1973 games.

The first annual Emmy News and Documentary Award ceremonies of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences will be aired on CBS in a 90-minute program May 22.

Bert Convy and Jo Ann Pflug, both familiar to television viewers through appearances on many programs, star in a half-hour situation comedy "Shakespeare Loves Rembrandt," that NBC hopes will find a place in its 1973-74 schedule. They play a man and wife who create greeting cards.

NBC has signed actress Marilyn Hassett to an exclusive long-term contract. No indication as to what use will be made of her. She has done numerous commercials, had a role in the movie, "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?," and has appeared in two segments of NBC's "Emergency!" series.

Tour Of Cambodia By Haig

SAN CLEMENTE (UPI) — President Nixon Saturday ordered one of his top military-political troubleshooters, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., to visit Southeast Asia for a first-hand assessment of the deteriorating situation in Cambodia.

Haig's trip was announced less than a week after Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu had warned of "appropriately vigorous reactions" if the Communists continued to violate the Jan. 28 cease-fire agreement in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

The White House press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said Haig would leave later Saturday after a meeting with Nixon and his national security advisor, Henry A. Kissinger, at the Western White House in San Clemente.

In the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, military sources said that U.S. Air Force cargo planes had begun airlifting ammunition and other war materials into Cambodia. A Communist blockade has closed off all normal supply routes.

Haig, now Army vice chief of staff, was Kissinger's deputy during the first four years of the Nixon administration. This trip will be his 12th to the war zone. He last visited the area Jan. 14-21, just before the cease-fire agreement was signed.

Ziegler said Haig's purpose was to assess the military and political situation throughout Southeast Asia. But it appeared that his meeting in Phnom Penh with Cambodian Prsident Lon Nol would be the most important stop.

Ziegler said Haig will first visit Bangkok, Thailand, then Vietiene, Phnom Penh and Saigon. He will return to Washington next Thursday.

Ziegler said Haig's trip "should not suggest that the United States is anticipating the reintroduction of forces" into Southeast Asia,

Asked if he could rule out any possible return of American troops to Indochina, Ziegler responded that the United States has "no intention, no plans and no desires to reintroduce

Two Peace Mission Helicopters Missing

Fate Of U.S. Crews, Passengers Unknown

SAIGON (UPI) — Two helicopters carrying about 16 members of the Vietnam peacekeeping forces, a delegation of Communists and American crewmen disappeared over Communist-held territory in South Vietnam today and have been listed as missing, International Commission for Control and Supervision sources said. The fate of the passengers and crew was not known.

The helicopters were ferrying members of the International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS) to Lao Bao, a Communist controlled village on the South Vietnamese Laotian border which had been designated by the Communists as a port of entry for replacement of war materials.

One of the helicopters were believed to have been shot down.

"I am hit; I am going down," a crewman radioed in English.

It was the last communication with either of the two helicopters, the source said. It was believed the second helicopter may have gone to the aid of the other.

A Communist source said earlier the crew and passengers of one helicopter were "rescued." But this source gave no details and made no mention of the fate of those aboard the other helicopter.

It was the first reported shooting down of an ICCS helicopter.

Sources close to the ICCS said the two helicopters took off from Phu Bai, just south of Hue, early Saturday bound for Lao Bao, about 31 miles to the northwest. Because of its listing as one of three ports of entry by the Communists, the ICCS was to station a team there to monitor the incoming supplies.

Lao Bao is just south of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and only about six miles west of Khe Sanh, a former American Marine base now occupied by the Communists. The team en route there was to check on construction of facilities to house the ICCS observers.

The sources said the helicopters carried represenatives

Meat Boycott Will End Tonight; A Pledge Made

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The national boycott on meat officially ends at midnight, but many consumer groups indicated they will continue at least a partial boycott throughout the month even though there has been no general drop in retail prices.

Boycott leaders said they would meet in Washington Wednesday to decide whether to continue the protest.

The boycott continued to be effective yesterday traditionally the heaviest grocery shopping day of the week.

Boycott groups from Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine met in Woburn, Mass., Friday and formed a coalition to continue the meat protest with reduced purchases of meat the remainder of April, and another full-scale boycott the first week of May. In Louisville, Ky., Mrs. Patty Twyman of "Fight Inflation Together" said her group would keep the boycott going next week and added, "We'll see who can hold out the longest.

In calling together boycott leaders for the Wednesday meeting in Washington, Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., said the housewives' rebellion "has been incredibly successful in terms of numbers participating" but has not succeeded in its objective to roll back prices.

A food store group in Wisconsin announced yesterday that it would lower meat prices next week. James E. Godfrey, chairman of Godfrey Co., which operates Sentry Food Stores, said "practically all our meat items will be sold for less than the ceiling prices." However, he did not specify how much lower prices would be or how long they would remain in effect.

In Dublin, Calif., an executive of Lucky Stores—which includes 400 supermarkets and the nation's seventh largest retailer — said his company would not order beef next week if packers raised wholesale prices to reflect this week's rise in livestock prices.

A spokesman for the Atlanta-based Colonial Stores predicted "a lot of gimmicks" in the next few weeks to entice housewives to buy meat. He said the stores' sales were off about 40 per cent, but said retail prices would remain high until wholesale prices drop.

Sharp increases in chicken prices were reported by two New England firms Friday, the Jim Dandy fried chicken stands and the Food Mart Inc. supermarkets.

In Quincy, Ill., 60 farmers went on a meat-buying spree in support of meat prices as they stand, and bought $7,000 worth of meat.

Because yesterday is a light trading day on livestock markets, there were not enough cattle shipments to establish a price trend for beef-on-the-hoof. However, hog receipts were up substantially from a week ago and prices were uneven, but mostly steady to 50 cents lower.

Envoys Said Big Nixon Contributors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three U.S. ambassadors were reported today to have swelled President Nixon's reelection campaign chest with sizable contributions.

The Washington Star-News said its report was based on bank records which were sealed by a federal judge Friday after being made available briefly to a reporter for the newspaper.

The Star-News said the records of contributions from about two dozen Nixon committees showed that Philadelphia publisher Walter Annenberg, ambassador to Great Britain, gave $250,000; ambassador to Switzerland Shelby Davis, a New York investment broker, gave $50,000 or more; and Washington parking executive Kingdon Gould Jr., formerly ambassador to Luxembourg and now believed in line for the Netherlands embassy, had given about $30,000.

SPIRALING RENT COSTS

More And More Singles Are Taking The Homeowner Route

By FLORENCE MOUCKLEY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

You are single — so you probably rent an apartment to live in. Yet more and more single people across the United States are not renting these days —they are buying.

Faced with spiraling apartment rents, runaway consumer prices, and a larger tax bite than married people, thousands of single people are plunking down money on houses and condominiums.

"I found myself in a rent bracket where it was cheaper to buy a condominium," says Bostonian Sandy Mulhern, a public-relations professional in her early 30s. "After 10 years of paying rent and nothing to show for it, I decided to build equity in something."

This is the typical attitude of many young "singles" who have decided to buy. Their primary reasons are economic. They say that besides equity, they are looking for an income-tax break, and a good investment that also helps fight inflation

And some, to whom a house sounds too formidable, are going for a condominium.

A single, professional woman in her late 30s who owns a two-bedroom duplex at Glover Landing condominium, a complex of one, two, and three-story units in the seacoast town of Marblehead, Mass., ticks off her reasons for buying rather than renting:

"It's a tax saving. I felt I couldn't live in a nice place unless I bought something. Paying rent was just wasting my money. I wanted to make a good investment — something that had a good resale value. And I bought a condominium because I wasn't sure I wanted to take the responsibility of maintaining the grounds."

The disadvantages: "I have to see to repairs inside the apartment myself, including the appliances."

Figures are few and far between. But according to the 1970 United States census figures the number of one-person homeowners has grown from 2.9 million in 1960 to 4.8 million in 1970.

And Jackson Goss, president of the Investors Mortgate Insurance Co., who has compiled figures from thrift institutions, mortgage bankers, and other lenders, expects that figure to go to "five million-plus in 1973."

Of the two million new and existing homes sold in the United States in 1972, some 2 per cent or 40,000 were bought by singles (unmarried, divorced, or widowed). Seventy-two per cent of the one-person home buyers today are under the age of 30.

Testimony Of Mitchell Phone Check

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. has testified under oath that Martha Mitchell frequently asked him to run security checks at her apartment after she received a telephoned death threat.

McCord, in a pretrial deposition given earlier this week and released yesterday, said his duties also involved escorting the daughter of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell to school because of fears she might be harmed.

McCord's sworn deposition was given in connection with a $6.4 million civil damage suit Democratic party officials filed against President Nixon's reelection campaign, McCord and the six other men convicted of burglarizing and bugging the

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A privately financed report on a widely used food additive claimed today that bacon may be "the most dangerous food in the supermarket" in terms of cancer-causing potential.

The allegation was made by the Center for Science in the Public Interest in a 55-page study of sodium nitrite, a preservative used for hot dogs, hams, fish and a long list of other products in addition to bacon.

The Agriculture Department and the Food and Drug Administration have had the nitrite question under review for some time. Their position is that evidence against the chemical so far does not outweigh the good that it does in preventing growth of bacteria in meat.

The Center is a non-profit organization staffed primarily by scientists who are paid through foundation money and income from sales of various reports published by the center.

The study on sodium nitrite, written by Michael F. Jacobson, who has a PhD in biology, urged the government to ban use of the additive in food.

"Eating a hot dog or strip of bacon now and then will not guarantee cancer," Jacobson said. "However, food made without nitrite is certainly safer than that made with nitrite. I recommend that people stop eating cured meats, particularly bacon, until the threat of nitrosamines is eliminated."

Jacobson said nitrosamines — a combination of nitrites and amines formed sometimes after meat is cured or when it is cooked —are "among the most potent cancer-causing agents yet discovered."

Nitrites are used to preserve color in meat. The sodium part of the formula is salt, a traditional preservative. Amines, an ammonia derivative, occur naturally in foods, beverages and drugs.

The chemical reaction of nitrite and an amine, to produce a nitrosamine, could occur either in a food containing both or in the stomach if both nitrites and amines are eaten at the same time.

Jacobson said one FDA study found that in four different brands of bacon "up to 106 parts per billion of another cancer-causing nitrosamine was discovered. Twice that amount was found in the bacon drippings. The toxic chemical must have formed when the bacon was fried, because uncooked bacon was free of it."

Concentrations of nitrosamines were not nearly so high in other foods as in bacon, he said.

"Fifty-two samples of canned ham and weiners also did not contain nitrosamines," he said. "Thus the worst offender and probably the most dangerous food in the supermarket is bacan."

Sexual Overtones In Triple Slaying

By LARRY MOWELL

The three members of the Schallock family found riddled by shotgun blasts outside their Mill Valley home last month were the victims of misguided homosexual jealousy, the Independent-Journal learned yesterday.

Furthermore, a source close to the murder investigation said, Brent William Bedayan, the former lifeguard charged with the triple slaying, was behaving so strangely two days before the killings that his psychiatrist obtained a court order to force him to undergo further treatment.

Bedayan, 22, apparently thought 19-year-old Daniel Schallock was involved sexually with his younger brother and told his San Rafael psychiatrist, Dr. Joseph P. Gutstadt, in December that he intended to kill Schallock, according to the source.

Reached late this morning, Dr. Gustadt called the report of Bedayan's fixation "inaccurate" and said "the truth will come out at the trial.

"Much of what has already been printed contains a great deal of misinformation," he said. "The publicity has been damaging to everybody concerned.

A report of Bedayan's intention to kill young Schallock is contained in a warrant used to search the accused man's residence, a document on file in Marin Superior Court.

The I-J was informed there was no truth to Bedayan's belief of young Schallock's sexual involvement with Bedayan's brother.

Bedayan's sessions with Gustadt in December — which focused in part on what were described as Bedayan's homosexual hangups — failed to change the young man's feelings, the source said.

Bedayan is said by authorities to have gone to the Schallock home at 217 Summit Avenue March 16, shot Daniel and his parents, Melvin, 61, and Ruth, 56, and set fire to their wood-and-stucco residence. Daniel Schallock, a rock musician, was found nude with a shotgun wound in the groin.

Following the shootings, Gutstadt and Bedayan's father, Torcom, are said to have informed police of the threats and Bedayan was arrested the next day at his home. Police, who found 22 shotgun shells at the Schallock home, discovered a receipt in Bedayan's car indicating he bought shells March 13, it also was learned yesterday.

Bedayan's behavior on the day he reportedly bought the ammunition prompted his mother to contact Gutstadt, according to the source, and the psychiatrist asked court help because he did not think Bedayan would appear voluntarily.

However, Bedayan contacted the doctor March 15, the source said, and the two set a meeting for March 16, the day of the shootings. Bedayan did not keep the appointment.

Mill Valley Police Chief William Walsh has declined to speculate on a motive other than to say Bedayan and young Schallock had "a falling out of some type" that "had been brewing for some time."

Authorities and attorneys have been ordered not to comment on evidence in the case on the theory that pretrial publicity could lead to the trial being moved to another county.

However, reports before the gag rule was imposed indicated the soft-spoken Bedayan had been a friend of young Schallock at one time, but that Bedayan's psychiatric problems had led to his confinement during December at the Community Mental Health Center. He reportedly continued treatment as an outpatient after his release.

Held in marin County Jail without bail, Bedayan is to appear in superior court April 16 for a bail hearing and to plead to a murder indictment returned by the Marin County Grand Jury on March 28.

U.S. Plane Reported Downed In Cambodia

HONOLULU (UPI) — A U.S. Air Force observation aircraft has been shot down in Cambodia and its pilot killed, the U.S. Pacific Command said today.

The OV10 observation aircraft carried only the pilot when it was shot down Friday in the central portion of the country, said a command spokesman.

Returning POWs Doubt Their Toughness Now

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Psychological pressure and physical torture used by the North Vietnamese broke the will of a large number of prisoners of war, according to statements by former POWs.

The revelations came in a series of talks and news conferences yesterday during which some POWs revealed their surprise at discovering they were not as tough under duress as they had imagined.

In Biloxi, Miss., Brig. Gen. John P. Flynn, the highest ranking officer captured by the North Vietnamese said that "if they asked me to shoot my mother, I probably would have done it."

Air Force Maj. Jay Hess, said at Hill AFB in Utah that while the military code of conduct requires POWs to give only their name, rank and serial number "I think 95 per cent—or even more—of the prisoners gave more than that."

Flynn, who was a colonel when his fighter jet was shot down in 1967 said "The thing that hurt me personally was that after they had tortured me and gotten me to answer a tough question, I came to the realization that I was not as strong as I thought I was.

"Up to this point I had a great deal of confidence in the toughness of John Peter Flynn, and suddenly, I was at the hands of the...(North Vietnamese) and they were making me do what they wanted me to do."

Flynn said the North Vietnamese were "consumate masters at establishing situations which indicate that some men are cooperating..."

A number of former POWs were bitter about colleagues who gave information and at least one indicated he would take some action.

At Fitzsimmons General Hospital in Denver four returnees spoke about two American prisoners of war who collaborated with prison officials. They said the two divulged information that resulted in one man being tortured and a second being thrown into solitary confinement for eight months.

BRIG. GEN. FLYNN
At hands of captors

Army Capt. Richard Anshus, 25, Minneapolis, said he would bring court-martial charges against the men whom he refused to name.

Army CWO Phillip Prather, who appeared at the same news conference with Anshus said he did not break although the North Vietnamese refused him anasthesia while operating on his right leg hoping the pain would make him divulge military secrets.

Prather, of Lamar, Colo., said he was interrogated during surgery. "I was told if I gave them the military information they desired, I would go to the hospital and receive proper care."

He said he refused to give in despite the pain and nine days after his interrogation began he was switched to a Hanoi hospital where surgeons operated, using anasthesia, and saved his leg.

At Scott AFB in Illinois, Capt. William Byrns of Warrenton, Mo., who broadcast a peace message endorsing Sen. George McGovern's presidential bid on Hanoi Radio, told a news conference he said what the North Vietnamese wanted him to say.

"They wanted us to endorse an antiwar idea but they watered it down as much as possible," said Byrns, who was beaten just after his capture but not after he read the peace message.

THOUSANDS FLEE

Mississippi River Continues Rampage

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Workers stepped up sandbagging and evacuation efforts today with more rain predicted for delta areas where the flooding Mississippi River threatened cities it once helped to build.

The crest of the river, a long, flat swirl of muddy water, rushed past Memphis yesterday. The city itself is protected by its high bluffs but the water inundated thousands of acres of northwest Tennessee farmland.

National Guardsmen and Civil Defense workers toiled through the night evacuating residents and sandbagging in Mississippi and Louisiana.

In New Orleans, sandbags were hastily stacked up to protect the French Quarter.

Around Vicksburg, Miss., boats and National Guard trucks droned in the darkness hauling sandbags in and people out.

Flash flood watches were in effect in Mississippi, where officials warned that another 3,000 families may have to flee their homes. More than 5,000 Mississippi homes already have been damaged by the rampaging river.

More than 350,000 acres of northwest Tennessee farmland were underwater in the Memphis area, and 500 families still were unable to return to their homes. The river was receding around Memphis but officials kept a wary eye toward the skies.

Fresh torrents of rain around New Orleans brought new forecasts of higher cresting that would trigger emergency measures. Officials revised their estimates three times, finally saying the river would crest at 18.6 feet in New Orleans April 13. This would be 1.6 feet above flood stage and would cause the Corps of Engineers to open spillways which have not had to be used in 23 years.

About 1,000 persons have been evacuated in Louisiana, most of them northeast of New Orleans along the Atchafalaya River, the Mississippi's main tributary in Louisiana.

One to three inches of new rain were expected in the Mississippi Delta today and officials stepped up sandbagging and evacuation, especially in the lowlands around Vicksburg.

Twenty-seven Mississippi counties have been declared disaster areas and 11 Mississippi deaths have been attributed to the flooding which began in the middle of March.

Progress Is Reported In A Government For Laos

VIENTIANE (UPI) — Agreement has been reached on the distribution of ministries in the coalition government provided in the Laos cease-fire agreement, a newspaper published by Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma reported yesterday.

According to the report in the Say Kang (Neutral Road) newspaper, agreement was worked out in continuing private talks between Communist Pathet Lao and government negotiators for a 23-member cabinet in which Souvanna's government would retain the key ministeries of defense, interior and finance.

Say Kang, published by Souvanna and his interior minister, Pheng Phongsavan, said the Pathet Lao would get the foreign affairs and information portfolios. It said the two factions would control five ministries each in the new government, according to the provisions of the peace agreement.

Two additional ministeries, justice and post and telephone and telegraph, would be regarded as non-political and awarded to persons not aligned with either side, the Say Kang report said.

No official confirmation of the report was available and Pathet Lao officials declined comment.

Under terms of the agreement signed Feb. 21, the provisional coalition government was to have been formed by March 23. The deadline passed with no ranking Pathet Lao negotiators present in Vientiane, prompting widespread feeling the Communists were delaying at the direction of the North Vietnamese.

After School Jobs Will Be Viewed

After school jobs for high school students will be discussed at the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at LaTercera School.

Kathy Buccholz, a student at Casa Grande Junior-Senior High School, will discuss the school's employment service. Members will also hear program plans of the Petaluma Concert Association and schedule a date for a candidates night for the June 12 Petaluma election.

Seaman Acquitted

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A black crewman from the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk was acquitted yesterday of assault and riot charges in connection with disturbances aboard the vessel last October.

Airman Appren. Pernell Robinson, 21, of Chicago, is the second black to be acquitted in the 21 cases handled so far.

Premier Resigns

ANKARA (UPI) — Premier Fereit Melen handed in his government's resignation to new President Fahri Koruturk today, clearing the way for Koruturk to appoint his own cabinet.

Susan Hayward Is Treated For Illness

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actress Susan Hayward is "responding well to treatment" for an undisclosed illness for which she was hospitalized March 26, a spokesman said today.

He said Miss Hayward was first admitted to Cedars of Lebanon Hospital but transferred to another hospital Friday because a flood of flowers and calls to the switchboard created too much publicity.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Smothers Victory

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Tom and Dick Smothers, the popular brother comedy team whose television show was canceled in 1969 when they ran afoul of the network, won a $776,000 judgment against CBS yesterday.

The entertainers had sought $10 million in the breach of contract suit arising from the "Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour." CBS filed a cross complaint demanding $1 million.

After five days of deliberations, the jury rejected the CBS action and awarded the damages to Tom and Dick Smothers.

Health Watchdog

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. William I. Bauer, 48, a Greeley, Colo., internist, today was named director of a new federal agency to monitor the quality of medical care given to needy Medicaid and elderly Medicare patients in hospitals and other institutions.

Congress, contending that such care has not been monitored adequately, set up a review system.

Bauer was named to the $36,000-a-year post as head of the Office of Professional Standards Review in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Newsman Shield

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — The Illinois House passed and sent to the Senate yesterday a bill that would allow newsmen to keep their sources confidential.

The bill applies only to protection of sources and could not be used when a reporter witnessed a crime or an accident, said its sponsor, Rep. John C. Hirschfeld, R-Champaign.

It passed by four votes, and is the first such measure to pass either chamber of the General Assembly.

Pioneer On Target

PASADENA (UPI) — America's Pioneer 11 space probe, streaking toward Jupiter in the second day of its 620-million mile journey, was on target and sending back information today.

The 570-pound Pioneer 11, second of two probes to the largest planet in the solar system, was launched almost flawlessly by an Atlas Centaur rocket from Cape Kennedy Thursday night.

Plea Over Land

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Egypt, Jordan and Syria asked U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim today to take action to prevent Israeli nationals from buying property in occupied Arab territory.

Ambassadors A. Esmat Abdel Meguid of Egypt, Sherif Abdul Hamid Sharaf of Jordan and Haissim Kelani of Syria scheduled a meeting with Waldheim today to press the issue but preceded the meeting with a joint letter that was released today.

The letter asked Waldheim to aid in heading off land purchases reported under consideration by the Israeli cabinet.

Podgorny In Finland

HELSINKI (UPI) — Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny ended a five-day official visit to Finland today and flew back to Moscow.

Podgorny, who arrived here to attend ceremonies marking the 25th anniversary of the Finnish-Russian treaty of friendship and cooperation, met three times with Finnish President Urho Kekkonen and discussed world affairs and relations between the two countries.

On The Stereo Scene

From The Jazz Greats And Cat Stevens To The Music Of Scriabin And Ives

By JOHN SUNIER

This cassette of seven high-energy jazz standards such as "Love for Sale," and "Caravan," boasts Dizzy Gillespie, Bobby Hackett and Mary Lou Williams. It seems to have been taped some years back, but the sound is fine stereo, though un-Dolby-ized.

ANOTHER double-play cassette is devoted to the early recorded works of Cat Stevens, the British singer-composer who has received so much praise for his series of fine LPs on A & M recently. It combines two albums, "Matthew and Son," and "New Masters" (Deram-Ampex J77600). The backing is not as lavish in these tracks as on later ones, and the lyrics are brought to the fore.

Some critics feel Stevens to be a modern version of the ancient troubadour, or say that if he lived in Schubert's time he would have written glorious lieder. He does have a way with words and music that is unique though occasionally I cringe at somewhat brainless lyrics ("I Love My Dog and My Dog Loves Me.")

OUR FINAL cassette for this week grows out of the programming of a KSAN disc jockey and record producer who goes by the name of Voco.

"Lights Out: San Francisco" (Blue Thumb-Ampex L56004) is a strange but very listenable collection of tunes ranging from rock and jazz through belly-dancing music and ending with a country song. None of the performers are identified but all are excellent. This is a double-play cassette too, and should provide some groovy listening experiences to all those with catholic tastes in music.

THE REST OF the tapes we'll consider are reel-to-reel type, and the first four are also Dolby-ized.

The first I won't say much about musically, since I reviewed the non-Dolby version only a couple of months ago. It is Smetana's "Ma Vlast" (My Fatherland) with Rafael Kubelik conducting The Boston Symphony Orchestra on Deutsche Grammophon-Ampex K47054.

The Dolby version of this double-play album provides in comparison with the non-Dolby version much more high end, greater clarity, and freedom from hiss. And this is without using the Dolby circuit for playback, which would improve the sound even more. All I needed to do was slightly turn down the treble tone vntrol.

Alexander Scriabin's "Prometheus, Poem of Fire" is an exotic psychedelic piece of orchestral music which was played by the San Francisco Symphony last year complete with its original light show. It now has a smashing recording on London-Ampex Tape L480251, coupled with the Russian composer's "Piano Concerto in F Sharp Minor" in its first stereo recording. (Lorin Maazel conducting The London Philharmonic with pianist Vladimir Ashkenazy).

Since I had simultaneously received the LP version from London, I had another fascinating A-B comparison opportunity here, the upshot of which is I couldn't tell any difference between the tape and the disc; both will make your hair stand on end when heard on proper equipment at a good ear-shattering volume.

Charles Ives singular "Piano Sonata No. 2" has so much going on at one time in it that a single pianist really can't bring it off. Therefore other instruments are often used to add support.

IN A NEW Dolby-ized DGG-Ampex stereotape (L43215), pianist Roberto Szidon is joined by violaist Walter Stangl in the first movement and flutist Dieter Sonntag in the fourth movement. The Piano Sonata is subtitled "Concord, Mass., 1840-1860" and is inspired by the transcendental movement taking place there at that time. Four personalities of this movement are reflected in the movements, titled "Emerson," "Hawthorne," "The Alcotts," and "Thoreau," with its added flute conjuring up a vision of the calmness of Walden Pond.

Pianist Szidon, who has received acclaim for his complete Scriabin Piano Sonatas on DGG discs, makes this complex music clearer to the listener than I have ever heard, and DGG's superb sound aids in the success of this tape.

SOME TIME AGO I reviewed in this column some of the Mahler Symphonies conducted by Georg Solti with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra on tape. Now some of these are being issued in Dolby sound, and my personal favorite among Mahler's Symphonies — The Seventh — is an example of the amazing improvement in sonic impact due to the signal-stretching process. The non-Dolby predecessors sound extremely dull in comparison. The two "Nachtmusik" sections of the Seventh Symphony are ideal material to demonstrate the freedom from hiss and noise — delicate bowed strings and mandolin sounds come over with amazing clarity and separation. With the length of Mahler's symphonic creations, this is of course a Double-Play tape, and keeping in mind the cost of two London discs — imported and therefore more expensive — the stereotape comes out at about the same price.

Even on the simplest stereo tape deck, it would probably sound better than the disc.

Moscone Will Open A Tax-Paid Office

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco, a candidate for the 1974 Democratic nomination for governor, will open a new office in Los Angeles soon at taxpayers' expense, it was reported yesterday.

The Senate Democratic floor leader was granted the office, an administrative assistant and a secretary on a 3-2 party-line vote by the Senate Rules Committee at a closed-door meeting several weeks ago.

It was the first time the floor leader ever had been permitted an office outside his own district.

However, the speaker of the Assembly has had an office in San Francisco and Los Angeles and recently opened a third in San Diego. Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, is also a potential candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

The Rules Committee also granted authority to Senate Republican floor leader Fred Marler of Redding and Senate President pro tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego, to open Los Angeles offices. Marler has refused the offer and Mills said he hasn't decided.

In an interview with the San Jose Mercury, John Jervis, Moscone's administrative assistant in the Capitol, insisted Moscone did not want the Los Angeles office for political purposes.

"Our telephone bill to Los Angeles has been very high and there are people who want to see George in Southern California as a spokesman for Senate Democrats," he said. "It's very inconvenient for them to come up here."

"And it's taking mail three days to arrive from Southern California and another three days to get back," he said, "and George wants to answer his mail faster than that."

Jervis estimated that half of the senator's mail originates in Los Angeles. "I think a lot is generated by George traveling down there, frankly," Jervis said, noting Moscone's schedule of campaign appearances.

"If George weren't running for governor," he conceded, "he wouldn't be spending nearly as much time in Southern California and so there would be a different evaluation of our needs down there."

Concert Planned By Oregon Bands

The Cottage Grove High School Concert and Stage Bands will give a free concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the San Rafael High School auditorium.

The Cottage Grove groups are from Oregon. They will tour the Bay Area for several days. This is their first appearance in Marin County.

The San Rafael High School music department toured Oregon last spring, performing at Cottage Grove High School. The residents of the Oregon community housed the San Rafael Music students who in turn will house the Cottage Grove students the night of the concert.

Heaviest Drinkers: 21-29 Age Bracket

It's time to drop our stereotypes of the alcoholic as a skid row bum in his 40s and realize that the heaviest drinkers are men between 21 and 29, a researcher in alcohol abuse said today.

Don Cahalan, who teaches behaviorial sciences in the University of California's School of Public Health in Berkeley, said the drinking problem among younger people was one of the main facts brought to light through surveys he has made.

Cahalan was one of several speakers at a community workshop on alcohol abuse held today at the College of Marin, sponsored by the Alcohol Information Committee, Marin Association for Mental Health and Marin Community Mental Health Services.

He said his research also has shown that men of lower economic status have more social, health and economic injuries because of drinking. But he thinks that is probably because they have less money to keep themselves out of trouble.

"The poor guy always gets it in the neck," the speaker said.

Cahalan said he found that "many people change their drinking behavior over the year, either by quitting or drinking less."

Most people who overcome alcoholic problems, he said, are of higher socio-economic status.

Cahalan also warned against "destructive competition" for financial support among groups which treat alcohlics because of federal cutbacks of funds or social problems.

The workshop included law enforcement, medical, social service and educational people who were to discuss such topics as ways of dealing with alcoholic abuse in schools, the courts and through medicine and family and social service counseling.

Robber In Tiburon Exits Empty-Handed In A Fall

Police said the man entered the home on Mountain View Road shortly after noon on the guise of using a telephone to locate a friend. Once inside, the man choked the woman occupant and told her he wanted money. Police refused to identify the victim.

The woman told police she led the man in the direction of her purse and then ran toward the front door. Police said the man became confused in the multilevel house, lost his balance in the chase and fell through the plate glass window.

Police said traces of blood were found in the area, but it is not known how badly the robber was cut. A search by Tiburon and Mill Valley police, a bloodhound and a California Highway Patrol helicopter failed to find the man.

He was described as 25 to 30 years old, white, five feet, 11 inches tall, 180 pounds with shoulder length brown hair and a beard. He wore bluejeans and a blue denim shirt.

Man Given A Year In County Jail

Danny Ray Pyles, 24, of Novato, has been sentenced to a suspended term in prison for his part in the robbery of a 79-year-old invalid in San Rafael last year.

In lieu of prison, Pyles was ordered by Judge Henry J. Broderick of Marin Superior Court to serve one year in the Marin County Jail and stay out of trouble during five years of supervised probation.

Pyles was convicted last month by a jury in Broderick's court. The jurors determined he was one of the four men who robbed Ralph D. Hoy of $300 last June 28.

The four visited Hoy, a television repairman, on the pretext of having a set fixed, but instead held a toy pistol to his head, took his cash and knocked him from his wheelchair.

Police traced the car to a San Anselmo address where they arrested Pyles; Paul Brent Caldwell, 25, of Sonoma, and a 13-year-old boy on July 12. Pyles's brother, Leonard, 20, of Pittsburg, was arrested Sept. 10, but fled to the East Coast to avoid prosecution on the robbery charge.

Caldwell stood trial alone and was acquitted.

Pyles also fled, but was captured in Maryland in a car he stole from a San Rafael rental agency. He admitted the car theft and will be sentenced Monday to a term concurrent with the robbery sentence under a plea bargain with Judge David Menary Jr.

LOST

from each of the four ICCS nations— Canada, Indonesia, Hungary and Poland—as well as Viet Cong and American crew members.

Capt. Phuong Nam, a press officer for the Viet Cong, said the Canadian and Indonesian delegations told the Communists earlier today that two ICCS aircraft were "lost" enroute to Lao Bao. He said he did not have any other details. But he was checking with his high command.

ICCS teams now are flown by Americans crews under a contract with Air America. They were previously flown by American Army pilots until the last men went home one week ago.

Meanwhile, U.S. Air Force C130 Hercules transport planes have begun airlifting ammunition and war supplies to beseiged government troops defending Phnom Penh and major government strongholds in the outlying provinces, military sources in Cambodia said today.

Walking Tour Only; Other Activities Out

Tomorrow's walking tour of the Schoonmaker property in Sausalito will not include the right to picnic, swim, drink or eat on the property, Ted Schoonmaker, president of the A. G. Schoonmaker Co., said today.

He has invited interested persons to view the property, site of a proposed multimillion-dollar development, along with sketches and plans for the project from noon to 5 p.m.

Schoonmaker said he was forced to issue the statement against picknicking and the like after a leaflet inviting people to a "public beach party" on the land tomorrow was circulated around the community. The leaflet urged people to bring blankets, foods, drink and musical instruments.

He said he did not know who distributed the flyers.

Session Set On Center Plans

The Corte Madera Planning Commission will review proposed changes in the Hahn shopping center plans during its meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in town hall.

The town council has scheduled a full-scale April 16 hearing on changes a citizens' committee and others propose for the controversial plan. The planning commission thus need not hold a full-scale hearing on the changes, Town Mgr. Ronald A. Bartels advised the commission in a memo Wednesday.

Crash Near Sears Point Kills One

An El Cerrito woman was killed and two persons were injured last night in a two-car crash at Highways 37 and 121 near Sears Point Raceway in Sonoma County.

Hazel Olson, 66, was dead on arrival at Sonoma Valley Hospital following the smash-up, which occurred at 9:10 p.m.

The California Highway Patrol said an auto driven by Lloyd P. Darley, 62, of Richmond, crossed Highway 37 into the path of an eastbound auto operated by Nancy Ann Miller, 27, of Dublin.

The Darley car, hit broadside, went off the road, across a ditch and came to rest on the shoulder against a fence, officers said.

The dead woman was a passenger in the Darley auto. Another passenger, Ruth Sikes, 64, of Richmond, was reported in fair condition today at the hospital with fractures of the arm, ribs and pelvis. Darley was reported in good condition with a collapsed lung.

Council In Novato Has Big Slate

The Novato City Council has a busy schedule next week, with three meetings scheduled in the first two days.

Councilmen will continue review of the Novato General Plan map at 8 p.m. Monday at the community house.

At 7:30 a.m. Tuesday the council will meet in a a joint breakfast session with the Novato Sanitary District board at the Alvarado Inn to discuss coordination between the two agencies.

Councilmen then will hold a hearing at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Novato Community House on rezoning 32 acres of the Hanna Ranch, at the future Rowland Boulevard interchange along Highway 101, from industrial to commercial.

The Hann estate views the commercial zoning as the financial key to development of a golf course, motel-convention center, motor coach park and industrial park on the ranch east of Highway 101, south of Novato Creek.

knowledged the quarter-million contribution. Mrs. Ruth L. Farkas, who will succeed Gould in Luxembourg, also has confirmed that she contributed $300,000, mostly after the November election.

The records were sealed after being obtained under subpoena in a suit brought by consumer advocate Ralph Nader. Nader is trying to roll back the milk price floor which he claimed was raised by the administration as the result of political contributions, allowing milk producers to put up their prices.

Hopefuls List Their Events

Candidates in Marin school board races April 17 have announced newly scheduled campaign coffees and public appearances.

They are:

TAMALPAIS UNION HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT — Candidate Elaine Brockbank, 10:30 a.m. Monday, Dr. John McGee home, 54 Winship Avenue, San Anselmo, and 8 p.m. Thursday at the David Freedheim home, 51 Crecienta Lane, Sausalito.

MARIN COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT BOARD — Candidate Joseph Doherty, 3 to 5 p.m. tomorrow, Dona E. Good home, 310 Highland Avenue, San Rafael; 10 a.m. Monday, Herbert D. Swasey home, 360 West Baltimore Avenue, Larkspur.

partnership although only one person's name may appear on the deed, Goss reports, and the majority of these singles buy town houses.

The majority of one-person homeowners buy in metropolitan centers. The heaviest concentration is along the upper East Coast, middle Atlantic states, the entire West Coast, and in rapidly growing cities led by Denver, Phoenix, Orlando, Dallas and Atlanta.

Sam Smullin of the Data Realty Corp. of Brookline, Mass., says that "there is a trend toward singles buying apartments and houses — no question about it. The demand is there from single, young professional people of about 30 to 35."

Single women are also finding it a great deal easier to finance a house than it used to be. "We couldn't get a mortgage 10 years ago," says one woman executive in the publishing field, who joined with a woman friend to try to buy a house.

Finally, she says, they prevailed upon a friend who was the vice-president of a bank in the town where they wanted to purchase the house to get their financing. "Banks, at that time," says this executive, "wouldn't take on single girls."

This woman has no regrets about her decision.

"Now our house has doubled in value, she says. "It's a hedge against inflation. Rent checks are for the birds —what have you got after paying out all that money?" The only factor women must weigh carefully, she says, is whether they want to take on the maintenance and upkeep of a house. But for these two women it was not a problem.

"I don't mind mowing lawns, and I learned how to fix a faucet. These things are not that big a deal," she says. "And we get neighborhood kids to help with outside jobs. In these suburban towns you can get almost anything done if you are willing to pay for it."

And a home means, she continued, "that you can have the place to yourself, you can entertain. . ."

Many men, too, like the lifestyle of living in a house.

Brent Kleihauer, a single man in his early 30s, says he likes working in his yard on weekends and enjoys the friendliness of the people in his neighborhood. He intends to take part in community affairs, and there is the economic advantage.

"I looked at an apartment — a brand new one out on a country road in a new development," he says. "It would have been nice — a balcony in the back facing the woods. But the rent would not have been any lower than my monthly mortgage payments for the house."

Arlene Ippilito, a real-estate agent, says that single people are much more sophisticated now about buying houses for investment.

"I've even sold land to single people for investment. One girl in her 20's wrote out a check just like that."

Young women buying houses and especially condominiums also want "to feel safe, they want protection." In a condominium, she says, the owners "have a say in how the property is run."

For some people there are definite advantages in renting houses and apartments.

For those who want to be able to pick up and move, don't want the responsibility of fixing and maintaining a house or apartment, don't want to tie up a major part of their savings, or like to experiment with different jobs, then homeowning is not the solution.

But if these are not considerations, experts say that buying a sound house or apartment in a location that is not in transition can have these advantages:

Homeowners can reduce heir taxable income since they can claim deductions on the interest they pay on their mortgages and on real estate taxes.

OBITUARIES

Ruth G. Petersen Dies At 77

Ruth G. Petersen, 77, longtime Petaluma resident, died yesterday at a Santa Rosa hospital after a lengthy illness.

She was born and reared in Marshall and spent most of her adult life in Petaluma. Mrs. Petersen lived at 15 Post Street.

She was the wife of Ebbie Petersen, who died in 1966. Mrs. Petersen had worked for various poultry producers in the Petaluma area.

She is survived by two daughters, Edna Mae Silva and Dolores Antongnin; two sons, Kenneth Petersen and Clarence Petersen; two sisters, Martha Cowan and Jane Jacobsen; all of Petaluma; two brothers, Harry McDonald of Novato and Jack McDonald of Petaluma; 11 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be held Monday at 11 a.m. at the Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma. Burial will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park. Contributions may be made to the Bay Area Chapter of the Leukemia Society of America, 323 Geary Street, San Francisco, or to any charity.

WILLIAM SOUZA

Mass of Resurrection for William E. Souza, father of Fairfax City Councilman Robert R. Souza, will be celebrated at 9 a.m. Monday at Holy Angels Church in Daly City.

Souza, a native of Sacramento who grew up in San Francisco, died Thursday at a Daly City hospital after an illness of two months. He was 79.

Souza was an avid baseball fan and played with the Twin Peaks Native Sons Parlor team in San Francisco that won the state semi-professional championship in 1912.

About 1915, he went into partnership with radio sportscaster Ernie Smith and formed the Ernie Smith News Co. in San Francisco. He later left the firm to operate his own business, but returned in 1933 and was a periodical truck driver until retiring in 1961.

Souza was the father of 13 children by his first wife, Delpine, who died in 1952. His second wife, Georgia, died last December.

He was a member of the Oldtimers Baseball Association of San Francisco, the San Mateo Elks Lodge and was a retired member of Periodical Drivers Union Local 91.

In addition to Robert Souza, a member of the Fairfax Town Council for the past nine years, he is survived by six other sons, Clarence of Napa, George, William D. and John of San Francisco, Norman and Raymond of Colma; three daughters, Isabel Malianni and Anita O'Toole, both of Daly City, and Frances Newsom of San Francisco; a brother, Jack Souza of Clarkesburg, Sacramento County; 22 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 7 p.m. tomorrow at Duggan's Serra Mortuary in Daly City. Entombment will be at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park. The family requests memorial donations to the American Cancer Society.

GEORGE DIPPLE

Memorial service for George A. Dipple, 58, of San Rafael, will be held Monday at 7 p.m. in Montgomery Chapel at San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo.

Dipple died Thursday at a San Francisco hospital after collapsing on Columbus Avenue. He was commercial art director for the Maxwell Arnold Agency, San Francisco.

Dipple was a native of Pennsylvania and moved to California as a youngster. He and his wife, Betty, had lived in Marin county since 1949.

Dipple was a member of the San Francisco Art Directors Club.

He is also survived by a son, Jeff Dipple; a daughter, Janene Dipple, both of San Rafael; and a granddaughter.

Inurnment will be private. The family prefers contributions to the Heart Fund or San Francisco Theological Seminary.

META JOHNSON

Private funeral for Meta Marie Johnson, 75, of San Rafael, will be held Tuesday at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Mrs. Johnson died Wednesday at a local hospital after a short illness. She was born in Denmark and moved to New York as a young woman.

Mrs. Johnson moved to California in 1930 and to San Rafael in September of 1971. She had worked as a housekeeper.

She is survived by a son, Nils Nielsen of Long Island.

RICCO ROFFI

Rosary will be recited for Ricco Roffi of San Anselmo at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael, not in San Anselmo as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Roffi also is survived by a daughter, Barbara Ottinger of Simi, Venutra County.

MRS. CHAPPELL

Funeral for Luella D. Cappell, 76, of Novato, a former police matron in Las Vegas, will be held next week in Dover, Ohio, her hometown.

Mrs. Cappell, who has lived periodically during the last 11 years with her daughter, Mary Lou Stevenson, at 2577 Center Road, died Thursday at a local convalescent hospital after a one-month illness.

Mrs. Cappell, widow of Harvey Roy Cappell, also worked as a housemother at a Scottsdale, Ariz., school.

Surviving, besides her daughter, are a son, Joe E. Cappell of Dover; a brother, Charles Buss of Dover, five grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Burial will be in Dover.

JEAN C. BLACK

Memorial service for Jean C. Black of San Anselmo will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

Mrs. Black, 56, of 138 Woodland Avenue, died Thursday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Marin, she was a graduate of Katharine Branson School in Ross and received a bachelor's and master's degrees in French from the University of California at Berkeley.

She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

Surviving are her husband, Douglas C. Black; three sons, Peter C. Black of Massachusetts, Alan C. Black and Christopher M. Black, both of San Anselmo; a sister, Helen Davis of Santa Rosa, and two brothers, Howard Cunningham of Oregon and Gordon Cunningham of San Jose.

Burial will be private. The family requests memorial gifts to the American Cancer Society.

Ziegler said Haig had no plans to meet in Saigon with South Vietnamese officials because of the just concluded Nixon-Thieu summit. Ziegler said the Saigon stop was intended to permit Haig to confer with American officials stationed there.

In addition to meeting Thai officials in Bangkok, Haig will call at the headquarters of the U.S. Support Activities Group stationed at U Dorn, Thailand. That group has assumed the functions previously conducted by the now-closed Pentagon East in Saigon.

Democrats' Watergate headquarters last June 17.

The 145-page statement contrasted sharply with remarks made by Mrs. Mitchell last weekend. She told UPI it was a "Goddamn lie" that her husband and McCord had been good friends. She also said she had known McCord only as a passing acquaintance.

Mitchell has said under oath he only met McCord once.

In the lengthy deposition, which was ordered released by U.S. District judge Charles R. Richey, McCord also said he was hired as security coordinator for Nixon's re-election campaign committee with the apparent approval of White House counsel John W. Dean III.

Russian River Water Bond Set

WINNER — Alicia Brink, San Rafael High School student and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Escobar of 61 Prospect Drive, has won regional first prize in the 1973 Invest-In-America Junior Achievement Oratorical Program conducted among Junior Achievement organizations in Northern California and Nevada.

The North Marin Water District will hold a $4.1 million bond election June 12 to finance a new pipeline for delivery of Russian River water.

Directors, facing a problem of water delivery in peak summer use periods, set the election date Tuesday night.

Voting will be in the Novato service area of the district, which is from Hamilton Air Force Base to San Antonio Creek and from the Petaluma River to Stafford Lake.

Directors decided financing should be by general obligation bonds. Although requiring a two-thirds favorable vote, directors decided, general obligation bonds would be $329,000 cheaper than financing with revenue bonds, which require a simple majority, Mgr. John Nelson said.

Bond repayment wouldn't require any increase in the district tax rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, but a moderate increase in water rates and a significant increase in connection fees may be required, he said. "We should have firm figures in about 30 days," added Nelson.

The $4.1 million, together with $1.3 million in existing bond funds, would finance the district's share of a new pipeline from Cotati to the Russian River, a replacement for an existing line that has created a bottleneck in the delivery of water.

Joining in the project would be the cities of Petaluma, Cotati, Rohnert Park, Santa Rosa, Sonoma, Forestville and the Valley of the Moon County Water District. Total cost has been estimated at $22 million.

West Marin areas served by the district were excluded from the bond election since the proposed new line wouldn't benefit that sector, Nelson said.

With water delivery problems expected to become more critical with increasing development in the Novato area, the directors also adopted Tuesday night a priority system for processing applications for water service.

The system "is based on the assumption that there isn't enough water to go around," Nelson said. "The aim of the system is to put available water in the hands of people who need it soonest."

Directors also set June 12 for a $70,000 general obligation bond measure in the Olema area to finance improvements of the water system serving the community and the Point Reyes National Seashore.

Nelson estimated the improvements would cost about $150,000, with federal funds expected to cover about 57 per cent of the costs.

Directors also approved plans for a sewage treatment plant at the Harold Genazzi Ranch south of Point Reyes Station to serve Coast Guard housing after determining it wouldn't have any adverse effect on the environment. Approval of a disposal site was postponed until further study is completed, Nelson said.

The board authorized Cooper-Clark and Associates of Novato to make a predesign geologic study at the Genazzi site at a cost of $13,500. Director William W. Wright, an employee of the firm, didn't participate in the discussion or vote on the study.

The board approved main extension agreements to Ignacio Industrial Park and to a boat storage facility at Deer Island "for fire service only," Nelson reported.

Performers For Series Announced

Performances by a Metropolitan Opera Company contralto, a pianist and the San Francisco Ballet have been scheduled for the Marin Music Chest's summer series at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Opening the season on June 17 will be contralto Lili Chookasian. A concert featuring Christoph Eschenbach is scheduled for July 22, with the series ending Sept. 9 with a performance by the ballet company.

All concerts will start at 2:30 p.m.

Florence Lesoine, president of the Music Chest, said it has been necessary to raise subscription prices this year because of increased artists fees. Further information may be obtained by calling the Marin Music Chest office in San Rafael.

A Photo Exhibit

The Studio Gallery, Bolinas, will display photographs by Shedrick Williames, April 22 through June 8, from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

New Plan In Heroin War Urged

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A San Francisco Superior Court judge has urged that heroin should be dispensed to registered addicts from government centers to free the rest of society from "the horrendously hideous effects" of narcotics.

Judge Francis McCarty said yesterday that large scale heroin maintenance would eliminate vast profits in illicit drug trafficking and make burglaries, robberies and muggings by addicts unnecessary.

"The 99 per cent of us who are drug free are the victims of our own narcotic laws," the judge said in remarks prepared for a Barristers Club luncheon.

"We pay for the futile attempts to control the flow of heroin and to punish the unfortunate addicts. We are the victims of the crimes which must be committed to feed a habit."

Judge McCarty cited official figures which he said showed an estimated 559,000 addicts in the U.S. spend about $6.2 billion a year, making heroin the top consumer import and placing sales among the top 10 of the country's industrial corporations.

"The criminal approach to the problem has failed to solve it and has led to corruption in many law enforcement agencies—federal, state and local," he said.

"The arrest and prosecution of narcotic users for possession and related crimes —robbery, burglary, etc. —has completely overburdened our jails and courts and has led to the collapse of our criminal judicial system in many parts of the country" though not in California.

McCarty said that heroin maintenance clinics set up by the government along the same lines as those operating in Britain would eliminate profits in trafficking and make associated crimes unnecessary. It would, he said, unclog the criminal courts.

"It would be wise for the federal government to forthwith initiate large-scale experiments with heroin maintenance throughout the nation," he said.

"I am confident such experiments would lead to permanent establishment of government operated clinics to dispense heroin to registered addicts.

"When that happens it will free us all from the horrendously hideous effects of the pretty poppy."

Symposium On Strokes Is Thursday

A stroke prevention symposium for physicians and other professional medical persons will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday in the Tamalpais retirement center, 501 Via Casitas, Larkspur.

The program, sponsored by the Marin Medical Society, Marin Heart Assocation, county health department and California Regional Medical Programs, will be limited to 200 registrants and is eligible for credit in continuing education, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Reservations should be made throughthe Marin Medical Society, 4460 Redwood Highway, San Rafael.

Policy On Roads Due Discussion

The newly-formed Muir Beach Property Owners Association will discuss problems with roads and water pipes in the community when it meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the home of president Clavin Garrison, Shoreline Highway and Franks Valley Road.

Residents are concerned about the rough and pitted condition of Sunset and Pacific ways, caused, they say, when pipe was laid on the street.

Also to be discussed are complaints that water and sewer pipes in the community are lying side by side in many areas and thus could create health problems.

Methods for cleaning up the entrance to the Muir Beach State Park and undergrounding on power poles also will be considered at the session.

Tribunal Will Not Hear Metzger Plea

The State Supreme Court will not hear an appeal by a Sausalito attorney seeking to suppress drugs seized in his home in a 1970 raid, according to a notice received by Marin Superior Court yesterday.

The Supreme Court's decision, opposed by Justices Matthew O. Tobriner and Stanley Mosk, left intact a ruling by the State Court of Appeal in San Francisco against attorney Michael H. Metzger.

No written opinion accompanies such court decisions.

Attorneys for Metzger appealed after retired Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court ruled last August that a search warrant for Metzger's home was properly issued even though a narcotics agent obtained it on the basis of misinformation from an informant.

Metzger's appeal said narcotics agents were so eager to arrest Metzger they committed perjury to obtain a warrant.

Metzger, a former federal prosecutor who turned defense attorney in drug cases, claims he was a target because he embarrassed high-ranking drug agents by trying to prove they lied in court testimony.

Metzger was arrested Dec. 6, 1970, after an intensive search of his home and charged with having LSD, cocaine, marijuana and hashish in a hidden safe.

The attorney is charged with felony possession of the drugs and a tear gas weapon found in another part of the house.

A trial date may be set in Marin Superior Court Monday.

Controls On Reagan Jet Are Sought

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — To assure the state's flashy new executive jet "isn't abused," a Republican senator has urged the Legislature to tightly control its use by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Sen. Howard Way of Exeter said the limitations would prohibit Reagan from flying outside California in the 400- mile-an-hour jet and force his office to make public the purpose of every flight and the names of passengers.

California taxpayers spent $52,926 to fly Reagan and his aides around the state during the jet's initial three months of operation. The sum included $2,520 to fly the governor to a dinner honoring Frank Sinatra and more than $10,000 for flights to Reagan's Pacific Palisades home.

All other state agencies and officials have totalled $14,861 worth of flying during the same three-month span.

Edwin Gray, the governor's press secretary, said the Reagan administration has "administrative concerns and security reasons" for refusing to disclose the purpose of specific trips.

He declined comment on Way's proposal.

Way, chairman of a Senate finance subcommittee, asked legislative aides to draft amendments to Reagan's proposed state budget imposing the controls. The amendments would have to be adopted by the entire legislature.

Way and Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, also questioned why Reagan ordered the new jet when six years ago the governor vehemently criticized former Gov. Edmund G. Brown's use of a private state plane.

Novato Supporters Of Flood Bond Set Rally

The Novato Flood Control Bond Committee will hold a rally at Gerner Park, along Novato Creek, at 7 p.m. Friday to culminate its campaign for passage of the $4.5 million flood control bond measure April 17.

The Novato High School Medley Group, directed by John H. Enders, will perform, slides of floods and creeks will be shown, children will be given balloons and everyone will receive hot dogs and soft drinks, said Jerry Groves, committee cochairman.

Prizes will be awarded to winners in the committee's poster contest. Lola Lane, Josephine Oberding and Ella McElroy of the North Bay Artists are judges.

Entires for the contest for children from kindergarten through sixth grade must be submitted at the Novato Library by 9 p.m. Wednesday, Mrs. Groves said.

Trials Set For Three At Quentin

Jury trials were set yesterday for three of the five San Quentin inmates indicted last month on felony counts resulting from prison crimes.

After accepting innocent pleas, Superior Court Judge David Menary Jr. set the trial of Phillip Vendil Kirk, 28, for the week of May 14 and that of Jimmy E. Speights, 27, and Arthur C. Cacera, 23, for the week of June 18.

Kirk's trial on an escape charge is expected to last three days. The June trial of Speights and Cacera on charges of having narcotics paraphernalia is scheduled for five days.

Two other inmates also indicted by the Marin County Jury March 21 are scheduled to enter pleas Friday. The grand jury charges against the five were the first sought by Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales in about 15 months.

Bales said he tried not prosecuting less serious cases that would not result in any additional prison time, but changed the policy when prison officials complained of an increase in escapes.

Kirk is said to have left the prison ranch outside the walls Feb. 13 only to be captured five days later.

Speights and Cacera were seized in the prison gymnasium Feb. 10, according to Bales.

To Host POWs

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. and Mrs. Ronald Reagan will host another of their "welcome home" dinners for returned POWs on Tuesday, with the governor also set to sign a bill exempting their prison-time' earnings from state tax.

$3,000 Of Circus Profit To Charity

Nearly $3,500 profit was taken in at circus performances last month sponsored by the County of Marin Association of Firemen, president Michael E. Vonada said yesterday.

He said members of the association, who are employees of the Marin County Fire Department, plan to keep $490 for expenses and give $3,000 to three charities.

The Marin County Heart Association will be given $1,000 toward purchase of three training mannekins for use in teaching cardio-pulmonary resuscitation to lay and professional groups.

Another $1,000 will be donated to the Marin Aid to Retarded Children for use in vocation training programs. St. Francis Hospital's burn center in San Francisco also will receive $1,000 toward purchase of a portable heart monitor.

Vonada pointed out that the "facilities at the center are available to anyone in Marin County who is critically burned and requires intensive burn treatment."

Vonada also said that the circus was sponsored by the employees of the county fire department only. Confusion over the name of their association, he said, made it appear to some people that all fire departments in the county were involved.

He also apologized for the shortage of seats at some performances, and said three additional performances at the association's expense were held to take care of overflow.

PG&E Sets Trench Work In Novato

The Novato Public Works Department reported yesterday that Pacific Gas and Electric Co. crews will be working along Tamalpais Avenue between Novato Boulevard and Center Road starting Monday and drivers should be cautious.

Crews will be doing trench work for a new gas line and traffic will be slowed and possibly narrowed to one-way at times. The job will last about six weeks and work hours will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Duke Of Argyll Dies In England

EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI) — The Duke of Argyll, whose divorce and subsequent marriage to an American woman caused a sensation 10 years ago, died today in an Edinburgh nursing home. He was 69.

The duke, Ian Douglas Campbell, was the 11th duke and chief of the Clan Campbell and hereditary master of the queen's household in Scotland.

He married the former Mrs. Matilde Coster Mortimer, daughter of Stanley Mortimer of New York, six weeks after divorcing his third wife, Mrs. Margaret Sweeney, on the grounds of adultery.

In the divorce case, which made headlines around the world, a judge ruled the duke's elegant wife committed adultery with four men, including an American and a member of the German aristocracy.

The duke earlier this year had a stroke in France and was flown to Edinburgh General Hospital. On Monday, he was transferred to the Royal Scottish Nursing Home.

The United States Mint system has coined money for more than 10 foreign countries.

Joske Hits Plans For Agencies

A proposal to consolidate the county parks and recreation department with two other agencies came under fire yesterday as "a step backwards" that could cripple park development.

Parks Director Pierre W. Joske said he will ask county supervisors Tuesday to abandon the proposed reorganization, developed by County Administrator John F. Barrows and his staff.

Barrows recommended Wednesday that the departments of planning, public works and parks and recreation be consolidated in one new department of planning and public facilities. The new department would be headed by Public Works Director Ray W. Foreaker Jr.

"I believe it to be a mistake to propose distributing out presently unified functions into the various divisions of a large department . . ." Joske wrote in a letter to supervisors.

"It is my sincere belief that the proposed consolidation would be a step back to the period of 1963 to 1965 when this department was a division of the planning department with grounds maintenance responsibilities delegated to the public works department."

Joske said the decision to create a parks and recreation department at that time was to give the county parks program "direction and impetus."

Under the county administrator's proposed reorganization, Joske, as well as Planning Director Werner von Gundell, would be relegated to third level supervisory positions in the new department.

Joske would remain as general manager of the new regional park director and chief staff assistant to the county parks and recreation commission.

Housing Project Plans Will Be Tied To Reports

Master plans for two large housing developments — which were to be considered by the Novato Planning Commission at 8 p.m. Monday at the community house are to be deferred pending environmental impact reports.

To be continued are a master plan for 45 townhouses and tennis court at the crossroads project, Highway 101 and South Novato Boulevard, and a master plan by Continemal Development Co. for 38 townhouses west of Highway 101, north of the crossroads development.

Commissioners will consider an amendment to the zoning ordinance to create a flood plain zone to control development in areas where flood waters pass, generally in the area that flooded along South Novato Boulevard this winter.

Science fair winner

Two Marin Students Win Science Awards

Investigations into the effect of pollution on crabs and the measurement of stress with polarized light have paid off for two Marin students, winners of first prizes in the 20th annual Bay Area Science Fair.

Awarded $25 savings bonds and trophies were Alex A. Davis, 16, a junior at San Rafael High School, and Richard C. Zulch, 12, a seventh grader at Ross School.

Davis's project, entitled "Adaptations of Hemigrapsus Oregon ensis to a Polluted Environment," involved studying how well a common Marin shore crab survives in polluted water.

Davis, assisted by fellow student Larry Stadtner, took crabs from Tomales Bay and put them in polluted water from the San Rafael Canal. His finding, after 48 hours: either the crabs are very hardy or the water is not so dirty, because they thrived. They even ate a meal of boiled eggs, he said.

Science teacher Larry Lack advised Davis in the project.

Richard's project measured the stress in a sheet of stretched polyethylene plastic by means of polarized light. The light, passed through a polarizing filter, broke into colors when it encountered stress lines, he said.

Similar experiments are used in industry, Richard said, to make sure manufactured objects are strong enough to avoid breaking in use. Clear plastic models are made of solid objects so that the polarized light can pass through, he said.

Richard's adviser was teacher Michael Manganiello.

Winner of a third prize ribbon in the biological science category was Dawn A. Speck, 15, a sophomore at San Rafael High. Her project measured the effect of various acids on how far sea anemones project a poisonous fluid from their tentacles.

The Marin winners were among 500 competitors in the science fair. The winners were announced last night at ceremonies at the California Academy of Sciences in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park.

The fair is open to the public until 10 p.m. today and 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. tomorrow through Wednesday.

Two grand prize winners will represent the Bay Area at the International Science Fair in San Diego in May. Henry Lin of El Cerrito High won for his project on tissue regeneration, and Michael Deering of Crestmoor High, San Bruno, for his research into the fourth dimension.

Mulryan To Talk

Incumbent Lawrence E. Mulryan, making his first bid for a full term on the San Rafael City Council, will speak at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Joyce Clark home, 41 Miraflores Avenue, and at 8 p.m. Friday at the Clarice Kraemer home, 109 Oakmont Avenue.

Woman Hurt In Hit-Run Crash

A 20-year-old Penngrove woman was injured when she was struck by a hit-and-run driver while walking on Old Adobe Road near Old Redwood Highway at 5:40 p.m. yesterday.

Carol Ann Parker, 225 Penngrove Avenue, was reported in satisfactory condition with internal injuries at Hillcrest Hospital.

The California Highway Patrol said Miss Parker was walking westbound on the north side of the street when a car struck her from the rear and tossed her 58 feet on the dirt shoulder. No description of the car was given.

Intravenous Fluid, Third Death Link

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An intravenous fluid already suspected of causing the deaths of two hospital patients in Milwaukee has been associated with yet a third death.

Doctors at the Washington Hospital Center reported Friday that a suburban Maryland woman died in February, three days after the solution was administered following what should have been a routine ear operation.

The solution was made by Cutter Laboratories Inc. Cutter solutions were already associated with two deaths in Milwaukee and the company earlier this week began recalling all bottled intravenous fluid made at its Chatanooga, Tenn., plant prior to March 14. Involved are 93 different varieties and more than two million bottles.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) said its preliminary investigation indicated an improper sterilizing process at the Chatanooga plant was to blame. All production has been halted there and solution bottled after March 14 has been put under quarantine.

Dr. James A. Curtin, chairman of the Washington Hospital Center's department of medicine, said Mrs. Harry J. Eby, 57, of Greenbelt, Md., underwent a relatively low-risk operation to correct hearing loss in her right ear on Feb. 15. After the operation, he said, she got "one liter of the type of fluid that has been implicated in the Milwaukee cases."

The next day she developed symptoms of blood poisoning and two days later was dead, despite what Curtin said were "heroic efforts by intensive care personnel."

Curtin said he had no reason to suspect the intravenous solution was at fault until he read the next month that two Milwaukee patients had died of blood poisoning after being given a dextrose solution from Cutter. He said tests identified the poison which killed Mrs. Eby as one of the three involved in the Milwaukee deaths. A third non-fatal case was also reported in Milwaukee.

Curtin said no other similar cases have been reported at his hospital. He said the dextrose fluid was administered to Mrs. Eby as a standard postoperative step to replenish fluid loss, and from outward appearances looked normal when it was given to her.

Oil Trees Aren't Somebody's Dream

The oil palm, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, produces the highest oil yied of any crop—ranging to 2,880 pounds per year per acre. An acre of castor beans can give up to 2,000 pounds of oil.

The Jobless Rate Is Up

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's unemployment rate rose from 5.3 to 5.4 per cent in March compared to a nationwide rate of 5.00 for the month, the state Department of Human Resources reported Friday.

However, department Director Dwight Geduldig said the number of Californians holding jobs during the period increased by more than 75,000. He said 8.39 million persons were employed in March, compared with 8.31 million in February and 8.15 million a year ago.

The number of unemployed was 525,000, a decline of 27,000 for the month, Geduldig said. But the drop was 13,000 less than anticipated, pushing the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate up .1 per cent.

Geduldig said employment gains were registered in every major industry.

THROUGH ALA-TEEN

Teen-Agers Cope With Tippling Parents

By BARBARA HOSMER

How should the teen-ager of an alcoholic parent react in a family in which the non-alcoholic spouse tends to "feed" off of the situation?

That's a fairly common problem for children in families with alcoholism, explained the co-sponsor of Ala-Teen in Marin, known to members of the group as Jean. Quite often the child will withdraw, show emotional problems and carry the burden of guilt him or herself, she said.

The daughter of an alcoholic and the former wife of an alcoholic, Jean can identify closely with the problems and roles in such a situation.

For the teen-agers who come to Ala-Teen at 7 p.m. each Monday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael, Jean helps to guide, "not lecture", the youngsters into realizing that they can detach themselves emotionally from their parents' problem.

"WE TRY to teach them to understand alcoholism as a disease, and that their parents are not willfully doing what they do," she said.

As Jean describes the non-alcoholic in the alcoholic family, the spouse and sometimes the children play the game of being persecutor and helper at various times.

"The teen-ager does not have to play the game or protect the alcoholic or non-alcoholic parent. We try to get them to recognize that it's a game and that they don't have to be a part of it," she explained.

Don't pick up the martyrdom or guilt feelings. Otherwise you tend to pick up the whole bag of garbage," she said.

The basic idea is to help the youngster develop identity and maturity, Jean says of the Ala-Teen group. The teen-agers talk mainly among themselves at the meetings, first considering anyone's urgent problem that week. Each time a selected chairman chooses a topic such as self-pity, acceptance, criticism or tolerance to be discussed by the group.

The meetings are scheduled the same time and place as Al-Anon, which many of their parents attend, so transportation is not a problem.

Most of the seven or eight youngsters who come are girls, Jean said, "because boys tend to turn outward and just take off" from an alcoholic home at that age. They are supposed to be teen-agers, but some come at age 11 or so, Jean said.

"Some can discuss it quite well and they stay on, but others come once or twice and are bored or feel they don't need it," she said of the weekly discussions.

SHE AND the other co-sponsor believe that Ala-Teen provides a place where the youngsters feel safe, can maintain anonymity, and talk about their common problems. They find they have a mutual bond and warmth develops among them. Most have one alcohlic parent, but some have both.

Usually it takes a few months of going to meetings before a youngster feels safe enough to express the real feelings about the parents, Jean said of her three years' work with children of alcoholic parents.

She said that some of the youngsters of alcoholic homes tend to show symptoms of the family stress through poor school grades, drug use, illnesses and upsets. And some parents of youngsters who have been involved with the Ala-Teen discussions have told her that the children's grades have picked up or their health improved because of their ability to get beyond the home problems with a better awareness of their individuality and detachment from the alcoholism situation.

ALA-TEEN youngsters also have some social activities together such as swimming, dinners, going to the beach and ice skating.

Ala-Teen groups hold their convention in the early fall when for two days groups of the teen-agers can share experience and insights in a series of discussion groups,

"The National Council on Alcoholism refers some youngsters to Ala-Teen and other agencies are becoming more aware of the program," Jean stated. Al-Anon speakers who speak at schools mention it and posters help to spread the information, but mostly youngsters hear of the program from word-of-mouth or through parents who attend Al-Anon, she said.

Price Controls Said Too Little, Too Late

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bess Myerson says it is "better for the consumer to roar than mumble." But she wishes the roar had started earlier.

She is fully supportive of the current meat boycotts around the nation, but after four years as commissioner of New York's Department of Consumer Affairs she finds the boycotts only a partial answer to a growing national problem.

Freezing wholesale and retail prices of beef, pork and lamb when they were at record highs was not enough, she said of President Nixon's action last week. There should be a total rollback on all food prices and an "honest system of controls, which is the real answer," she said.

THE DRAMA of the boycotts was enough "to turn the President around, but it (his action) was too little and too late," she said.

But the consumer has a basic duty beyond boycotts to save on family food and other bills. "I find it discouraging to see that not all the people are keeping a report card," she said. "So many consumers just don't carry their awareness with them to the marketplace."

During a special interview on her final day in office last Friday, the commissioner agreed to an extent with the comment of Mrs. Cedrick M. Smith Jr., of the executive committee of the American National Cowbelles, women's auxiliary of the National Cattlemen's Association.

Mrs. Smith, a rancher's wife, had said of our budgeting—"We housewives — me included—are damned lazy people today— excuse my English."

"I think lazy is too simple a term, though," said Miss Myerson. "We (consumers) know to plan menus, to make our lists and stick to them, not to shop on an empty stomach, to avoid impulse buying.

Bess Myerson created the consumer affairs department for the nation's largest city. It is the city's smallest department—around 325 employes plus 100 or so volunteers, many of them fulltime, and a budget under $4 million annually.

Yet it has managed to handle about 200,000 complaints a year and to push through masses of consumer protection legislation. Now, Miss Myerson turns the department over to Betty Furness, who served as President Johnson's consumer adviser and later held a similar post in the Governor Rockefeller administration.

It's with pride that she talks of what her staff has done although it's a job "no one can ever finish."

HER STEERAGE made the department a pilot, or resource, for consumer activisim in such far-off places as Australia, New Zealand, Holland, Iraq, Germany.

It also helped to shape Bess Myerson from the woman who won national attention first as a Miss America (1945), stayed there with television shows, and enhanced her to the point that she's now being urged to run for major political office.

But for the moment, she said, she's going to get some rest and start on a handbook of information geared basically to the consumer.

She hasn't ruled out political office—she called running for the house or senate "appealing concepts."

Whatever route Bess Myerson takes, it will be some form of public service. She feels strongly in what she can contribute and also says, "I have to work. I've worked since I was 12 (teaching piano). Work creates a a healthy balance to my life."

MRS. ROBERT S. PHILLIPS
Grape Festival chairman

Sunny Hills Council Picks New Leader

The Guilds Governing Council of Sunny Hills has selected Mrs. Robert S. Phillips of Lucas Valley as chairman for the 1973 Grape Festival.

Sharon Phillips served as entertainment chairman for the festival last year, and is a five year member of the Lucas Valley Guild. For the guild she has been vice president, fund raising chairman and publicity chairman.

Mrs. Phillips and her husband, who is a partner in an insurance brokerage firm, have three children, Scott, 11, Noelle, 7, and Courtenay, 4. They have lived in Marin for nine years.

Sharon Phillips enjoys golf, bridge and skiing and she is currently in Europe tracing material for a family history she is writing.

The Grape Festival will be held Oct. 6 at the fair grounds at the Marin Civic Center in San Rafael, with all proceeds to benefit the Sunny Hills residential treatment center for emotionally disturbed children in San Anselmo.

Saint-Laurent Offering No Big Surprises In Left Bank Shop

By ALISON LERRICK

PARIS (AP) — You don't go looking for surprises at Yves Saint-Laurent.

The fall and winter Rive Gauche collection is simply as pretty as clothes can be. Rive Gauche means Left Bank, and Saint-Laurent's boutique, called Rive Gauche, is on the left bank of the Seine.

Saint-Laurent was the first to put women in pants. And now, even though skirts are back with a vengeance, he hasn't changed his mind.

HIS PANTS are straight, wide and cuffed in tweed or gray flannel. They come with those famous long, belted jackets, often in suede, or a long Eskimo parka with a drawstring waist and fur-trimmed hood. You can also have it for gala occasions in black satin.

Otherwise, it's the pleated tweed skirt at the knee with a printed, silk shirt that ties in a bow at the neck and a long, knitted cardigan. The Rive Gauche sweaters are cabled, striped, mottled or nubbly in the same shades as the tweeds.

The colors, in fact, are the most beautiful part of the collection and much more cheerful than the serious 1950s shades most designers are fond of. Saint-Laurent mixes green, rust and mustard, gray-blue and royal, plum and mauve or burgundy and coral.

THEY ALSO go on the crocheted cap with a huge braided wool border that hides every single hair.

While you can still find a few bulky polo coats at the Rive Gauche, the better idea is a long circular cape in the same color as your suit.

Money Plays Big Issue In Breakup Of Marriages

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Countless problems contribute to the breakup of a marriage. But the real issues — according to a financial counselor — are often obscured by the shadow of one problem; money worries.

"Money woes far too frequently play a part of it," said William A. Reasoner, president of Waddell and Reed, Inc., a Kansas City-based firm which manages mutual funds nationwide.

He pointed to statistics predicting 1.5 million persons will become divorced this year and another 1.5 million will begin legal action towards divorce. The figures, he said, are four times the divorce rate 10 years ago.

"The sad part about these statistics is that many could have been alleviated, had the husband and wife given more thought to money management and sought proper counseling on how to avoid financial pitfalls," Reasoner said.

"Financial problems are often the hidden factors in marital dissolution. They just serve to camouflage the real reasons for dissent, to cloud important issues. Too many married couples simply are not equipped to cope with money problems."

The financial adviser said his points about seeking money management were not entirely self-serving.

Ironically enough, he said, divorce is much more expensive than seeking financial advice.

"For young families, the sudden economic toll of divorce can be catastrophic," Reasoner asserted. "For older, more established families, the effect can be traumatic.

"Alimony and child support can devour one-half of a man's income and financial worth. And let us not forget the woman —stretching the alimony dollar can be difficult for her. So everyone stands to suffer."

His advice.

Before seeing the divorce lawyers, try to straighten out your budget problems. It could save both your marriage and your money.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

15-Year-Old Financial 'Whiz' Wants To Play Stock Market

DEAR RAP:

I consider myself an above average 15-year-old who is interested in the stock market. I analyze, study and arrive at fine predictions.

My parents have permitted me to make minor trades thus far, but "it takes money to make money."

My last prediction turned $2,700 into a net of almost $4,100 in two weeks, but it was just a prediction — no money involved.

Since I know what I'm doing, shouldn't my parents permit me to gamble? — E.F.

DEAR E.:

With your money or theirs? Even expert market analysts have "gambled" themselves into a dark corner. — HELEN

E.:

Starting small and working up slowly isn't the worst way to go. Your folks shouldn't object if you do some educated gambling with money you've cleared on the stock market.

. . . And if they follow your advice to make a killing, maybe they'll pay you a commission. — SUE

Note from Helen: If they follow your advice and get shot down, they might also take it out of your hide.

RAP:

I'm 21 and have been going with a fellow five years. He just got home from four years of military service. Now he tells me he had affairs with women in two countries, but did not love them: He only loves me.

I get cold all over, thinking about it.

Could he make a good husband, after this? — HEARTBROKEN

HEARTBROKEN:

A man can be faithful in heart, if not in body: as they say, loneliness makes strange bedfellows.

I doubt if you spent four years completely away from males — without even once flirting around. If your guy went farther than flirting — well, it's over; he's back, so forget what he shouldn't have told you in the first place. — SUE

DEAR HB:

Whether your fiance makes a good husband or not depends on many things, but not on a couple of affairs he enjoyed and forgot, long ago.

More realism, less jealousy could help make this a good marriage. — HELEN

HELEN AND SUE:

My best friend is of a minority race. I'm middle-class Caucasian. I have no prejudices, but I can't help the jealousy I feel when he gets five scholarships plus considerable other help, and I, with the same achievements, get no breaks for college.

Sure, I'm glad for him. He's a great guy, but even he feels that he's being discriminated for, while some of his white friends are being discriminated against.

It's got to the point where if you aren't a minority or a woman, forget it, when the jobs, scholarships, etc. are being passed out. I can't even get work to help put myself through the university, but my friend already has a job assured, in addition to his several grants.

Isn't it about time someone considered the poor deprived middle-class white male? — ONE OF THEM

NOTE: Employers, scholarship boards — take heed: This is a legitimate complaint, and one which should be considered thoughtfully. — HELEN AND SUE

Put Wide Stretch Trim To Use

By EUNICE FARMER
Distributed by the Register and Tribune Syndicate

DEAR EUNICE,

When you look for ideas from ready-to-wear, why is it almost impossible to find the same look or trims when you make your own clothes? I've seen decorative grosgrain ribbon that stretches in place of the conventional plain waistband on jackets and skirts. I haven't found this at our fabric shops. Please help!

NANCY R.

DEAR NANCY,

In the early stages of design, pattern companies had problems tracking down the wide, stretchy ribbing that baseball jackets and certain sweaters needed. Now the patterns themselves are available and so is the ribbing.

Practice on a full-gathered skirt, then adapt to other patterns. This decorative elasticized ribbon should be available in most stores by the time you read this column. For a belt, skirt, or pant waistband, purchase four inches less than your waist measurement. For cuffs, pocket trims or straps, purchase the exact measurement.

Step 2. After stitching and pressing all garment seams except where garment will open, mark garment waist seamline with a row of basting stitches. (Raw seams can be bound or overcast). Divide garment waist-line into four equal parts and mark with pins.

Step 3. Overlap 5/8 inches of stretch trim and fabric with the right side of both facing up. Match pin marks on garment to pin marks on trim and pin together. (If garment has a great deal of fullness, divide garment and trim into eight equal parts). The edge of the trim should run along the marked seamline.

Step 4. As you stitch, stretch the trim to meet the fabric. Sew one segment at a time between pins, leaving the presser foot and needle down as you stitch the next segment.

Step 5. Stitch seam closed and press open. The ends of the trim may be tacked down or bound with seam binding for a clean finish. If waistband is meant to open (such as a jacket front), turn ends of trim to wrong side and close with hooks and eyes, or a buckle.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Richard Paulus, Muscatine, Iowa, is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following sewing suggestion:

"For the gals who make shirts for the men in their lives, here's the way I solved the problem of the proper stays to insert under the collars. I discovered I could cut the stays from the plastic cover of a margarine tub. I've laundered the shirts with the stays left in and even put in the dryer. They come out perfect and really keep the shirts tailored and neat."

DEAR EUNICE,

I would like to achieve the same professional look in making shirts that I see in the ready-made garments. The collars seem so firm, you can't even feel the interfacing. The same holds true with the front band and the cuffs. Isn't there something we home sewers can use that will work?

MRS. C.W.

DEAR MRS. C.W.,

We have done quite a bit of experimenting on this same subject and have had very good luck in two of our methods. These were tested on the conventional shirt patterns, like men's shirts, a collar stand. These methods seem to work well on lightweight shirting fabrics rather than heavier wools.

The first method is to use lightweight press-on interfacing. Press it to the collar facing, front band, and cuffs. It is much less bulky if you cut it slightly smaller than the seam allowance. In this way, it will still be where you need it but will not be included when stitching the seams. If you do include it in the seams, you will find the edges are very difficult to press flat.

The second method, and one that is very new is to use the fusible webbing. Apply it to your collar, cuffs, and front bands just as you would any lightweight interfacing. After you have done your machine stitching, clipping and trimming of seams and turned it to the right side, you can press it firmly (according to the directions on your fusible webbing). The pressing will create a bonding between both layers of fabric. I am sure this is done very often professionally.

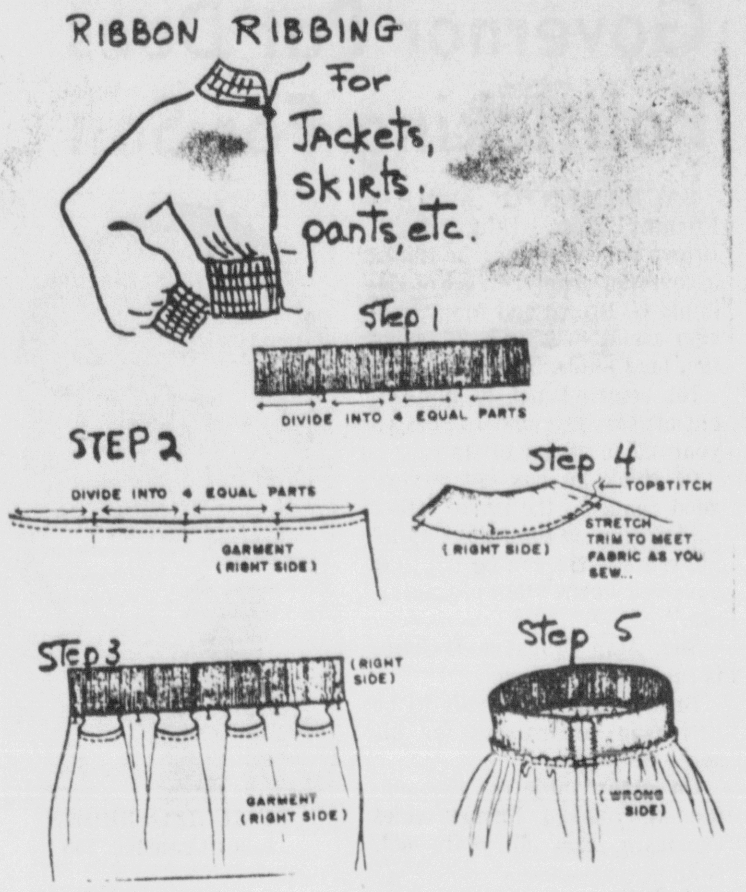
You can also use the webbing that is applied to paper for easier handling. You press the paper which bonds the webbing to one layer of your fabric, continue to construct your garment. When it is completed, press again and it will bond the two layers together.

DEAR EUNICE,

I was examining some ready-made blouses and I could swear they are made out of lining fabric. Could this be possible?

Yes, it could be very possible. Some lining fabrics are 100 per cent polyester, lightweight, and inexpensive. There is no reason that I can think of that you couldn't use this fabric for almost any kind of blouse. Remember, if you are intending to wash synthetic garments, be sure the interfacing you use is also washable.

The lap board is a nifty gadget and a great sewing aid. It fits around your lap for an instant table for hand sewing. For your instructions on making the lap board, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Eunice Farmer in care of this newspaper.



Loosen Up Before Exercise Program

Sit with feet crossed, body relaxed. Rest arms and hands loosely, let head hang. Circle head slowly to right and up as you stretch spine by lifting rib cage. Continue to stretch torso as you raise head until it is in a line with the spine. Swing head to left, then down to hang as at start. Relax body, then repeat.

Seasoned Trio

Encore. Here come red, white and blue. Always welcomed guests in a young wardrobe, they fare well in dresses, playclothes and nautical looks.

Governor Pat Does Politicking For Son

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Former Gov. Edmund G. Brown said yesterday he thinks a governor-senator ticket of Edmund G. Brown and Alan Cranston would sweep the 1974 election for California Democrats.

He referred not to himself, but his son, Edmund Jr., the 34-year-old secretary of state.

"I think he has got a very good chance," the proud father said during an informal Capitol interview. "He can be the next governor of the state of California."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., is seeking reelection.

Brown said he intends to be active in fundraising for his son's campaign.

On other subjects, the suntanned, relaxed former chief executive, now 67 years old, said:

He believes Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan is using his tax control petition drive to build a campaign for president in 1976. Brown, who was ousted from office by Reagan in 1966, added he thinks Reagan "has a good shot" at the GOP nomination.

Former Texas Gov. John Connally would have a better chance at the presidency in 1976 if he remained a Democrat rather than switching parties and becoming a Republican.

He thinks President Nixon, whom Brown defeated for governor in 1962, will be most remembered for his establishment of ties with Communist China.

Brown Jr. is considered by some political observers as the frontrunner among the five potential Democratic candidates to succeed Reagan, who plans to step down next year.

EDMUND G. BROWN
Likes Cranston, too

"I think a ticket of Alan Cranston and Edmund Brown would sweep the state," Brown said. Then he added with a smile: "If his father would stay out of it and not embarrass him."

Brown said Reagan is wrong to take his tax control plan to the people without first holding full hearings on the measure.

"This is politics of the most dishonest kind," Brown said.

He called Reagan's strategy "a very transparent ploy that he wants to use in his campaign for the presidency."

School Board Hopefuls Slate Series Of Events

Candidates in Marin School board races April 17 have announced newly scheduled coffees and public appearances.

They are:

LARKSPUR SCHOOL DISTRICT — Candidate James Laviletta at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Richard Spawn home, 37 Meadowood Drive, Larkspur.

KENTFIELD SCHOOL DISTRICT — Candidate Gloria Riccardi, 10:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Victor Donati home, 101 La Cuesta, Greenbrae; 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Peter Dunn home, 208 Laurel Grove Avenue, Kentfield; 1 p.m. Wednesday at the Peter Brajkovich home, 139 Via La Cumbre, Greenbrae, and 1 p.m. Thursday at the Edward Bingham home, 29 Bretano Way, Greenbrae.

Governor Opens Drive On Tax Plan

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It's not every day you find the governor of California smiling on your doorstep.

Yet there he was yesterday, Gov. Ronald Reagan, pen and petition in hand as he stepped smartly down Galloway Street in suburban Pacific Palisades, pausing at each home to kick off a campaign to get his new tax plan on the November ballot.

He must get some 800,000 signatures by June and 520,000 to qualify for the election.

California's tall and tan chief politico, clad in a warm green-checked suit, strode down the walk of more than a dozen tidy, middle income homes, catching quite a few housewives in housecoats and morning chores.

"Hi, I'm Ronald Reagan," the governor would say, flashing a broad grin, then launching into a brief but animated discussion of his "revolutionary, new" state tax reduction plan of which the Democratic legislature has all but turned thumbs down.

The governor, standing on the lawn of one home, told some two dozen newsmen that his house-to-house initiative campaign was a first for a California governor and meant to give taxpayers the chance to bypass the legislature and decide on the proposal themselves.

Gov. Reagan submitted the proposed constitutional tax amendment to the legislature last month, but leaders in both state houses made it clear they have no intention of letting the people vote on the issue.

The statewide petition drive, which begins next week by citizens, could be halted abruptly, Reagan said, if the legislature decides to let the special election take place Nov. 6.

The governor himself lives nearby in an expensive, ranchstyle home in this wealthy coastal community and an aide said Galloway Street was chosen for Reagan's walk because it was "typical." The homes were chosen for their Middle America look.

Mrs. Virginia Ferguson, a registered Democrat, was the first to meet the governor. Clad in sandals and a flowered top, she agreed with Reagan that something had to be done about high taxes.

Autistic Child Project Is Set

Novato Jaycees will start selling trash can liners Monday in a campaign to raise funds for the Marin Society for Autistic Children and other community projects, according to chairman Donald G. Benstine.

Recenue will help develop a new center for training and treatment of autistic children, Benstine said. Telephone and door-to-door solicitation will be used, he said. The campaign will continue through June.

DeMolays In Novato Set Installation

Jeffery Conover, 15, a student at Sinaloa Junior High School in Novato, will be installed as master councilor of the Novato Chapter, Order of DeMolay, at 7:30 p.m. today at Druid's Hall.

Conover, son of senior M/Sgt. and Mrs. J. D. Conover of 52 Stasia Drive, will be the youngest master councilor ever to serve the Novato chapter.

Steven Sooy will be installed as senior councilor and Lawrence Dacquisto as junior councilor.

Christopher Wright will be installed as senior deacon; Marshall Allen, junior deacon; Allen Benner, scribe-treasurer; Daniel Crammer, chaplain; Michael Foster, marshal; Carl Hagberg, senior steward.

Also, Byron Shave, junior steward; John Lee, Standard Bearer; Scott Hayes, first preceptor; Paul Gramlich, second preceptor; Michael Lakos, third preceptor; David Voorhees, fourth preceptor; Steven Short, fifth preceptor; Byron Shaver, sixth preceptor, and Michael Dacquisto, seventh preceptor.

Kathryn Sheraw and Lauren Elkin III will be hosts. After the installation, a dance will be held with music by "Temptest."

First Names Of Hopefuls Left Out

An editing error in an article appearing in yesterday's Independent-Journal resulted in deletion of the first names of two candidates for the San Rafael City Council.

The candidates, described in a list of council contenders as Mulryan and Tinkler, are incumbent councilman Lawrence E. Mulryan and Leo Tinkler, a San Rafael real estate broker.

IMPOUNDS & EXTRAS EXPLAINED.

Through this series of Ads, the member offices of the Marin County Board of Realtors want you to know as much as possible about buying or selling your home.

When you buy a home, there may be charges known as "Impounds & Extras". Since some mortgage loans require taxes and insurance be paid monthly, a trust fund, or "Impound" account is set up by the lender for the payment of these funds. Other payments through an Impound account might include pro-rated taxes between buyer and seller; pr-rated fire insurance premiums; pro-rated rents or bonds.

Extras include such things as a credit report, Notary and recording Fee, Loan Fee, Appraisal report, tax service, ALTA Inspection Fee.

When buying a home, you'll find it to your advantage to work through a member of the Marin County Board of Realtors. And when selling your home, be sure to place it on Multiple Listing. You'll have more than 1,000 salesmen working for you. The member offices of the Marin County Board of Realtors. Your Real Estate Professionals.

Old Jets Are Being Retired

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) — The Royal New Zealand Air Force is retiring the last of its 21-year-old Vampire jet fighters.

The Vampires comprised the country's first jet squadron in 1951 and were the mainstay of the Air Force strike force until Canberra light bombers were introduced in 1959.

Vampires remained in an operations role until the Air Force acquired Skyhawks in 1970. They will be completely phased out on arrival of new Strikemaster jet training aircraft.

Atlanta First Named Terminus

ATLANTA (UPI) — The first name for the present city of Atlanta was Terminus because it was at the end of a rail line.

In 1843 the name was changed to Marthasville, in honor of Martha Lumpkin, daughter of a former governor. In 1845 the name was changed to Atlanta, a coined word which was believed to be the feminine version of Atlantic.

Youth Enters A Plea To Drug Charges

A 19-year-old Novato resident has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to felony counts of possessing marijuana and restricted drugs.

Preliminary hearing for William Joseph Harrington was set for April 24.

Mill Valley police, who saw suspected pot in his car March 14, obtained a warrant to search the auto and arrested him the next day.

Officers said they found four burned marijuana cigarettes, more than 150 white tablets and a bottle of red pills during the search.

Tests revealed the white tablets to be methamphetamine, but the red tablets apparently were not an illegal substance, according to deputy Dist. Atty. Edward Torrico.

Cotati Council's Session Canceled

The Cotati City Council meeting scheduled for Monday has been canceled, according to City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen.

The council had been scheduled to interview an applicant for the new position of city engineer-public works director, but the application was withdrawn yesterday.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Saturday, April 7, the 97th day of 1973 with 268 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Jupiter, Venus, Mars and Mercury. The evening star is Saturn.

Allen Pinkerton, first chief of the U.S. Secret Service, was born April 7, 1819.

On this day in history:

In 1927, the first successful demonstration of long distance television was made between Washington and New York City.

In 1943, American and British troops linked up in Tunisia during the North African campaign of World War II.

In 1947, millions of Americans were without telephone service as a nationwide strike began. It lasted 23 days.

In 1968, federal troops were ordered out in Baltimore to put down racial rioting.

A thought for the day: British poet George Chapman said, "They're only truly great who are truly good."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, clean air.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Phony Insurance Claims Revealed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Nearly two-thirds of the insurance policies claimed by the scandal-ridden Equity Funding Life Insurance Co. were phony—no one really had bought them—a preliminary audit by the California Department of Insurance showed Friday.

The department, which has been auditing the giant firm since a possible multimillion dollar fraud was uncovered, announced Friday that the Los Angeles company carried 97,111 insurance policies on its books when the department seized Equity's assets and records last weekend.

Of the policies, 56,091 were phony and 34,796 were in force, the department said.

Thursday, the corporate parent, Equity Funding Corp. of America, declared bankruptcy. The California Insurance Department has been awarded conservator powers over Equity Funding Life Insurance Co. and Equity Funding Corp., the parent's bookkeeping subsidiary.

The heart of the purported scandal is the charge that the insurance company invented customers, fabricating policy holders who never existed. The alleged bogus policies, which made the company appear far more prosperous than it was, sold to other insurance companies—at least 15 of them—for millions of dollars, investigators say.

In another development Friday, it was revealed that the downfall of Equity apparently was touched off by a telephone call a month ago to a New York insurance expert.

Raymond L. Dirks, a vice president of Delafield, Childs & Co. in New York, said he received the call from Ronald H. Secrist, then employed by another insurance company in Atlanta.

Dirks said Secrist told him he had worked both for Equity Funding and a subsidiary in New Jersey and suspected that as much as one third of its business was "faked."

After checking the story out, Dirks said he took his informationo before Equity Funding's outside auditors, Seidman & Seidman, who turned it over to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The Los Angeles Times said Friday that Dirks told the newspaper that he himself is being investigated by the SEC and the New York Stock Exchange for possible violation of insider trading rules and laws involving the leak.

The Times said Dirks admitted that he told some of his clients first about the alleged fraud, prompting them to unload their Equity Funding stock, which led to the SEC investigation.

But Dirks, who said he considers himself the "Ralph Nader of Wall Street defended his actions on grounds that the institutions which are his clients "were not insiders, because insider information is where the company disclosed something to one individual or broker which it is not disclosing to the public.

Richard M. Bishop, an NYSE senior vice president, said in a Times interview, "I think he (Dirks) should have told us sooner (about Equity). That is a very serious thing."

As a result, Dirks will be called before a group of Big Board stock watch investigators Monday when a deposition will be taken and he will be asked to "get a lot more specific" on how he filled in his clients, Bishop said.

Rules and law set forth by the SEC make it the responsibility of persons in the securities industry to inform the SEC of significant events which may have an impact on stock trad-

Wounded Knee Peace Talks Are Postponed

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (UPI) — A 24-hour postponement of talks in Washington between American Indian Movement (AIM) leaders and government officials was expected to result in the continued occupation of Wounded Knee.

Militant Indians had been expected to lay down their arms and end their 38-day takeover after AIM officials met with Washington officials this morning, but last night Washington officials said "some minor details" had caused a 24- hour postponement of that meeting.

The talks, pushed back until tomorrow morning, had been one of the terms of the agreement signed Thursday in which militants said they would abandon Wounded Knee and submit to arrest on any warrants against them.

There was no word early today from militant Indians at Wounded Knee as to how the postponement would affect the scheduled surrender. Government officials in the area also had no comment.

However, Russell Means, an AIM leader who submitted to arrest after the agreement so he could negotiate with Washington officials, said Friday the occupation would continue "until the government shows it is sincere."

Speaking at an impromptu news conference at Dulles International Airport after arriving in Washington Friday before the talks were postponed, Means said, "The federal government has duped the press and the world again. The conflict at Wounded Knee is not over and will not be over until the federal government shows it is sincere."

Under terms of the agreement, Means, Chief Bad Cobb and medicine man Crow Dog were to meet with Leonard Garment, a special assistant to President Nixon. Then Means was to telephone followers in Wounded Knee to surrender their weapons and submit to arrest on any warrants against them.

However, even before the announcement came that talks had been postponed, government officials near Wounded Knee were pessimistic over the outcome of the surrender.

Kent Frizzell, assistant attorney general who has been the government's chief negotiator at Wounded Knee, said a handful of dissidents—some four to 10 men—might resist.

Frizzell said the agreement had called only for the handing over of "illegal" weapons such as automatic rifles and pistols without permits, and that shooting might erupt at the surrender hour.

Reports circulated in Pine Ridge, the reservation headquarters town, that either opposition by hard core militants or followers of Oglala Sioux Tribal Chairman Dick Wilson might mar the promised end of the occupation.

Hearing Will Resume Monday On Project

The Marin County Planning Commission, meeting Monday at 9 a.m. at Civic Center, will resume its hearing on the environmental impact of the controversial San Pedro reserve townhouse project.

Backers of the project, which calls for 1,100 units on 257 acres overlooking Santa Venetia, are expected to propose modifications and request approval for only 450 units.

The commission also will discuss a proposed specific plan for the Indian Valley area near Novato. The plan proposes to preserve the rural atmosphere of the area.

Angel Is Found Guilty In Death

MARTINEZ, Calif. (UPI) — Hell's Angel William J. Moran was found guilty Thursday of strangling a Georgia motorcyclist during a drug and alcohol party the outlaw gang held in their El Sobrante clubhouse.

Moran 40, was convicted of killing Charles Baker, 30, but was acquitted of the death of the victim's buddy, Thomas Shull, 24.

Prosecution witnesses said Moran used his hands, then a belt and finally a rope before he finally succeeded in strangling Baker.

Shull apparently died of a drug overdose at the party and both victims were buried in graves at a Mendocino County ranch owned by a former motorcycle gang member.

Subdivision Ban To Be Studied

The Fairfax City Council will consider a proposal for a moratorium on subdivisions, multiple dwellings and ridge and creek development when it meets at 8 p.m. Monday in the Fairfax Women's Club.

The ban, proposed by Councilman Frank J. Egger, would prevent such development pending recommendations from the city's general plan review committee.

The council also will consider plans to improve Deer Park School and hear a report on storm damage.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Iron In Body Has Very Rapid Turnover Due To Blood Cells

The body contains between two and five grams (1-15 to 1-6 ounce) of iron. However, the amount varies with body weight and the hemoglobin (iron) level in the blood. About 30 per cent of this is storage iron. A large portion of the remainder is in the form of hemoglobin in red blood cells. Hemoblogin carries oxygen from the lungs to the tissues and carbon dioxide in return.

In males, the total amount of iron is greater mainly because more is stored and the hemoglobin is higher. The recommended daily allowance for men is 10 mg. (18 mg. for women).

IRON IN THE body has a very rapid turnover because every second some three million red blood cells die and break up. The hemoglobin is released and returns to bone marrow where it is reformed into fresh hemoglobin within new cells. This is how the body conserves its iron supply.

The amount of iron in the body is regulated by control of absorption. It is increased in the healthy individual when the blood hemoglobin is lower than normal and if iron stores are low. Diet also is important, because the amount of iron absorbed from food differs with different foodstuffs. For example, from 15 to 20 per cent of the iron is absorbed from diets containing large amounts of animal protein; only 5 to 10 per cent is absorbed from diets composed of vegetable foods.

THE MOST common form of anemia is due to iron deficiency. This occurs whenever blood iron loss exceeds dietary iron intake. Bleeding is one cause especially among women during the childbearing years. Less absorption ensues after age 65.

Iron deficiency also occurs during infancy due to an inadequate diet and small iron stores at birth. A newborn has only one-quarter gram of iron. This doubles by the end of the first year and doubles again by age 2. Since milk contains very little iron, solid foods must be started early to avoid anemia. But iron deficiency due to an inadequate diet still is common before the age of 3. After age 3, iron deficiency is unusual in children.

SKIN DRYNESS

REPLY

Vitamin deficiencies, allergy, too little thyroid production, and heredity are among the possibilities. The youngster may be bathed too frequently or the apartment may lack humidity. There is some evidence that a limited amount of fat in the diet contributes to dryness of the skin. I assume he does not have ichthyosis, a condition in which the skin is extremely dry and scaly.

STRIPPING VEINGS

W.R.B. writes: Will stripping of varicose veins be successful if the injection method has been used previously?

REPLY

Yes, assuming that the injections failed to eliminate the vein. We realize that the veins must be open if stripping is to be successful. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on varicosities.

Swim Crown To Backhaus

Butterfly Victory For Marinite In AAU Meet

I-J Special Report

CINCINNATI — Robin Backhaus woke up this morning as a national champion, but had little chance to enjoy his triumph with another important race scheduled late today.

Backhaus yesterday became the first Marin Aquatic Club swimmer ever to win a national title when he swam the 200-yard butterfly in 1:49.55 in the National Amateur Athletic Union Short Course Men's and Women's Swimming Championships here.

The 18-year-old senior from San Rafael High School, who moved from Redlands to join coach Don Swartz' Marin A.C., also moved into the lead in the individual point standings with 49 to 48 for Steve Furniss of the University of Southern California and 45 for the unattached John Naber of Menlo Park.

Backhaus was scheduled to swim today in the 1,650-yard freestyle along with teammate Rick DeMont, former world record holder in the similar 1,500-meter free who ironically is still bidding for his first victory in the Nationals.

Naber also swims the 1,650, so Backhuas can hope to fend him off directly in his bid for the point title, but Furniss is entered in the 200 individual medley, in which he is the American record holder. If Furniss wins, Backhaus must win the 1,650 for the point title, which means he would have to beat DeMont.

"Robin changed his tactics a little bit and caught everybody off guard," said Swartz of yesterday's race. Backhaus swam the first 100 yards in 52.36, some two seconds faster than normal, and had enough left at the end to outlast Gary Hall of Indiana University by about a foot. Hall, who beat Backhaus for the silver medal in the Munich Olympics last fall, was timed in 1:49.8

Backhaus' time in the preliminaries was 1:59.49.

Six other Marinites swam yesterday, with Keith Strange finishing 14th in the 200 breaststroke in 2:12.02 after swimming 2:11.86, five seconds under his previous best time, in the prelims. Jeff Miller did 2:16.1 (a personal best), Warren Lager 2:16.6 and Spencer Eldred 2:18.3 in that race. All swam unattached.

Sue Secondo swam 2:33.7 in the women's 200 breast and Art Morrill did a personal best of 55.0 in the 100 back. Neither placed.

USC was swimming away with the men's team championship with 494 points to 173 for the Santa Clara Swim Club. Marin A.C. was eighth at 64.

In other races, Lynn Colella of the University of Washington bettered her own American record in the 200 breast with a 2:20.549 clocking, and Shane Gould of Australia and Santa Clara won the 200 fly in an American record 2:02.72.

Other winners included Rick Colella, Lynn's brother, in the men's 200 breast, Linda Simpson of Los Angeles in the women's 100 breast in 58.507, and Naber in the men's 100 back in 51:36.

Other Marinites scheduled to swim today include Jo Hislop in the women's 100 free, Maura Campion in the women's 200 IM, and Morrill in the men's 200 IM.

San Rafael Nine Outlasts Drake

In a baseball game which contained everything from high heroics to absurdity, San Rafael High School outlasted Drake yesterday afternoon in a 15-14 slugfest which was finally decided on a bases-loaded walk.

The Bulldogs' John Sims drew the free pass with two out in the bottom of the seventh inning of the Marin County Athletic League game at Albert Field. It scored Lance Loughlin, the first of four San Rafael players to walk that inning.

Nine pitchers from the two teams combined to give up 28 bases on balls and 23 hits during the three-hour, 15-minute marathon. Two of the hits were epic blows — a grand-slam homer by Drake's Don Asay in the first inning, and a two-run shot by San Rafael's Dave Steele in the second, both to left field.

By the middle of the fourth inning — the halfway point of the game — the score was 14-11 in favor of Drake, but the Pirates were kept from further scoring by San Rafael reliever Mike Farris.

San Rafael picked up three runs in the sixth on a two-run single by Craig Saunders and — yes — a bases-loaded walk to Kevin Loughlin.

Redwood Shuts Out Novato In Baseball

Redwood High School scored four unearned runs in the first inning and pitcher Ed Andersen kept visiting Novato at bay the rest of the game yesterday as the Giants captured a 5-0 baseball victory.

The triumph kept the defending champions (4-0) in sole possession of first place in the Marin County Athletic League, while Novato (2-2) rests in fifth place with Terra Linda.

With two out in the first, Mark LaTorre hit an infield single and Matt Gondak a towering fly into the blinding sun which went for a double. A throwing error on Ross Secor's grounder scored them, and Daryl Edralin followed with a walk.

Secor eventually scored on a fielder's choice which failed to retire anybody, and Edralin tallied on a rundown which resulted in the third out.

Andersen was touched for 10 hits, four by Novato's Jeff Rubino.

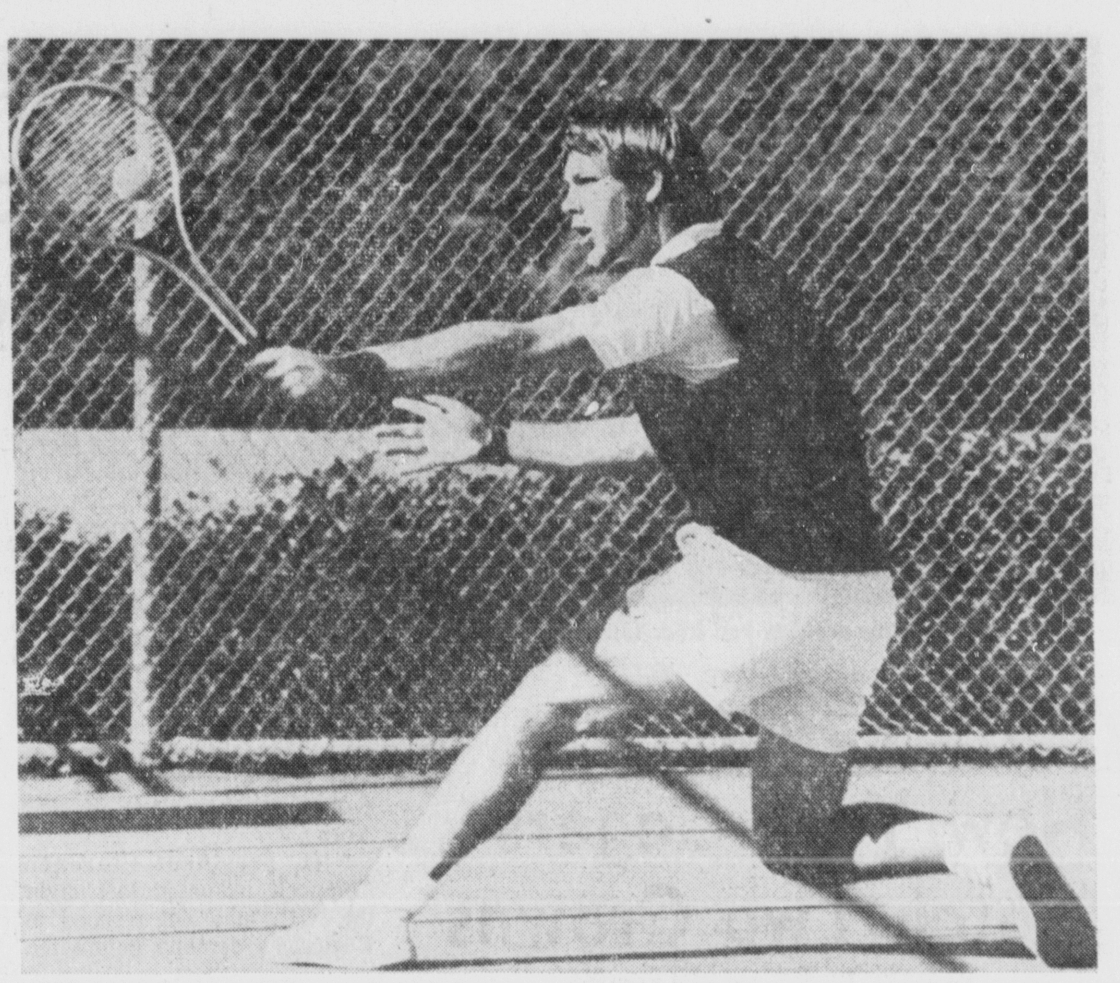
3 Local Masters Swimmers On Team

Two Terra Lindans and one former Petaluma product are on the recently selected first National Masters All-American swimming team.

The Marinites are Jane McCollister, women's 50-54 age category, and Lyle Collet, men's 60-64. The erstwhile Petaluma product is Gail Roper, women's 40-44. They are among the 19 men and 18 women honored from this Amateur Athletic Union program.

3 Petalumans Win

Three Petaluma riders — Larry Norrison, Ron Sarver and Reggie Jackson — won their races last night in a program of motorcycle racing run at the Sonoma-Marin Fairgounds in Petaluma before about 750 fans.



STROKE — College of Marin's No. 1 tennis player, Mark Rodnick, returned a shot by John Hursh of Redwood City's Canada College yesterday in a Camino Norte Conference match in Kentfield. Hursh beat Rodnick, 6-0, 6-1, and Canada topped the Tars, 8-1.

San Marin Nears 1st Track Title

San Marin High School (4-0) is within reach of its first Marin County Athletic League track championship after beating Tamalpais, 79-57, in yesterday's crucial meet at Tam.

In other league encounters yesterday, Redwood barely got by upset minded San Rafael, 68-64, Terra Linda dumped Marin Catholic, 94-41; and Novato whipped Drake, 81-54.

San Marin bopped previously unbeaten Tam (3-1) behind the performances of Terry Kom, who won three events, and Gary Lathrop, winner of two, including the league's best time in the mile at 4:28.6.

Four other of the MCAL's top duel meet performances were bested, or tied, in the Mustangs' victory, including Indians' Shannon Bynum's time of 10.3 in the 100 yard dash and Kim Combs' 52.0 in the 440. San Marin's Larry Butti's 41-5½ in the triple jump, and Tam's Fred Adams time of 15.6, which tied Greg Campbell of San Rafael for the top 120 high hurdle mark, were other marks of note.

Redwood had a tough time with San Rafael. Led by a triple win by Campbell and a double by Jim Grigg, the Bulldogs (1-3) came close to the biggest track upset of the year. Ed Phelps was a double winner for Redwood.

Terra Linda had it easier against winless Marin Catholic (0-4). A double win by Trojan Harry Bolton was enough to offset Marin's Rick Cervisi, who won both sprints.

Novato (1-3) climbed out of the cellar with its win over Drake (1-3). Mike Rennier was a triple winner for Novato, while hurdler Tony Grey won two for the Pirates.

Marin Tars Are Beaten By Canada

College of Marin's tennis team fell to the awesome power of Canada College of Redwood City yesterday, 8-1, in a Camino Norte Conference match on the losers' court.

Marin lost for the second time in seven conference starts to one of the state's top junior college teams. The Colts from Redwood City lead the CNC with a 7-0 record.

After losing all the singles matches, the only bright spot of the day for Marin was a doubles victory by Mark Rodnick and Bill Kinser. Rodnick and Kinser remain undefeated in doubles competition this year.

Canada 8, Marin 1

Singles — John Hursh (C) d. Mark Rodnick, 6-0, 6-1; Randy Marks (C) d. Bill Kinser, 7-6, 6-1; Tim McNeil (C) d. Terry Timmons, 6-3, 6-2; Bill Spiker (C) d. Greg Kalemba, 6-7; 6-1, 6-3; Mike Herman (C) d. Dave Murata, 6-1, 6-2; Andy Thurm (C) d. Dave Toole, 6-1, 6-2.

Doubles — Kinser-Rodnick (M) d. Hursh-Marks, 3-6, 6-3, 7-6; McNeil-Herman (C) d. Timmons-Kalemba, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4; Thurm-Spiker (C) d. Murata-Toole, 6-1, 6-1.

DECISION CHANGED — Sonoma State College basketball coach and athletic director Bill Trumbo, (above) who resigned Thursday to accept the head coaching job at Chapman College, has reconsidered and will stay at Sonoma, according to Dr. Doug Earl, chairman of the Physical Education Department. Dr. Earl said he did not know what changed Trumbo's decision.

San Marin Victorious

Four Terra Linda High School batters combined for 11 hits and eight runs batted in yesterday as the Trojans scored nine runs in the first two innings and went on to trounce host San Marin, 11-4, in a Marin County Athletic League baseball game. Steve Withers, Jon Loberg and Greg Watroba had three hits apiece and Greg Chapman two for Terra Linda, while Loberg and Chapman drove in three runs each and Watroba two.

Warriors Seek End Of Bucks' Mastery

Round 4 Of NBA Series In Oakland

OAKLAND (UPI) — What are the Golden State Warriors going to do to stop Milwaukee?

Nate Thurmond is playing at his best and pretty well neutralizing the mighty Kareem Abdul-Jappar in the pivot, but Milwaukee has still beaten the Warriors twice with ease while Golden State managed one two-point win in return in the National Basketball Association playoff series.

If the Bucks can continue their mastery of the Warriors here tonight at 8 o'clock, they'll go to Milwaukee for game number five with a 3-1 lead.

In Thursday's 20-point Milwaukee win, Oscar Robertson flashed his form of old as he hit 13 of 17 shots for 34 points and added his usual superlative passing and floor generalship for an awesome performance.

"I never saw Oscar play better," said Abdul-Jabbar afterwards.

Thursday's game degenerated into a brawl in the late going after Bobby Dandridge blindsided Jim Barnett, knocking him out briefly. Moments later, Rick Barry and Dandridge were in a wrestling match and Warriors coach Al Attles ran onto the floor to get a hammerlock on Dandridge.

He said afterwards that he saw others were holding Barry and he wanted to keep Dandridge from contining it.

"I've noticed that if you can stop the main participants from fighting, it usually won't spread to the other players. If the main fight goes on, everybody starts swinging," said Attles.

"Above all, I wanted to stop it before anybody came out of the stands to join in," he said. "That's when somebody can really get hurt."

Attles and Barry both shrugged off the brawl after the contest, calling it just a brief flare-up.

A'S DROP OPENER

Designated Hitter Rule Big Success In Oakland

OAKLAND (UPI) — If you want to use the Oakland A's-Minnesota Twins opener as an example, the American League's new designated hitter rule is a smashing success.

Tony Oliva, hobbled by a gimpy knee, couldn't play but the Twins used him as their designated hitter Friday night, and all he did was drive in three runs with a homer and single, walk once and advance a runner a fourth time. His homer, coming in the first inning, was baseball's first for a DH.

It also staked Bert Blyleven, celebrating his 22nd birthday, to a 3-0 lead and the Twins righthander went on from there to gain the 8-3 victory.

The A's, defending World Champs, reached Blyleven for 10 hits and two walks but he stopped them when he had to while going the distance for his initial victory of the new season. He led the Twins last year with 17 victories.

Bill North, the A's designated hitter, didn't do badly either. He reached on an error and had two singles in five at-bats.

Oliva said it felt a little funny not running out to the field. He has been out of fielding action almost three weeks now because of his knee.

"It's a good rule," he laughed in talking about the DH. "It gave me a chance to play. Too bad they didn't put it in earlier. It would have helped guys like Mickey Mantle."

"Not playing in the field made me feel strong everytime I came up there," said North. "But I had to take practice swings in the runway and walk around to stay loose. Yes, it was strange just batting and not playing in the field. Off this performance, I'm happy about the new rule."

Larry Hisle, once a budding star with the Phillies but a minor leaguer in 1972, celebrated his return to the majors with a homer, double and two singles and Jim Holt added a homer as the Twins raked 21-game winner Jim Hunter and two reliecrs for 13 hits. Hisle also had a stolen base and scored three times.

The Twins jumped Hunter for nine hits and six runs inside the first four innings and it was no contest from there.

The A's were behind 6-0 when they finally cracked Blyleven in the fourth for all their runs. A single by Reggie Jackson, a double by Sal Bando, a two-base error by Bobby Darwin on a single by Billy Conigliaro and another single by Ray Fosse produced the Oakland runs.

A crowd of 38,207 turned out for the opener, the A's second biggest opening day crowd in six years in Oakland.

The Twins and A's meet in an afternoon contest today with John Odom pitching the Oakland and Jim Kaat for the Twins.

IN AUGUSTA

3rd Round Of Masters Stopped By Rain; Four Tied For Lead

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — The third round of the Masters Championship was only 27 minutes old today when officials conceded it was raining too hard to play golf and postponed the round until Sunday.

Despite a heavy rain which began about dawn, the round began as scheduled at 10:08 A.M. (EST) when Bobby Nichols, playing alone, teed off. Play was suspended at 10:35 and postponed at 11:50.

It marked the first time in a decade that a Masters round had to be postponed. Unlike regular PGA tournaments, the Masters will not try to double up with 36 holes Sunday but will hold its final round Monday, weather permitting.

The Weather Bureau predicted rain here would continue "until about 8 A.M. Dunay morning" and conditions would improve after that.

Bobby Nichols, who earned today's first starting time by shooting seven-over-par 151, 10 strokes off the lead, in the first two rounds, teed off alone at 10:08 a.m. EST and Al Geiberger and Jerry Heard, a couple of other 151 shooters, followed him eight minutes later.

Gay Brewer, who was not scheduled to tee off until 1:52 p.m., made six birdies in a 10-hole stretch Friday to tie for the lead with Tommy Aaron, Bob Dickson and J.C. Snead.

Another 23 —including Jack Nicklaus who had three bogeys and a double bogey in a row — were within five strokes going into the third round play.

Only a handful of spectators, 150 at most, were on hand to watch Nichols tee off. The rain was coming down hard and some of the other golfers watched from the clubhouse in disbelief that the Masters officials would attempt play in that type of weather.

Brewer's 6-under-par 66 was an eyeopener, but the real stunner Friday was Nicklaus' 77.

Nicklaus led the second round for three holes, then came a cropper on three straight three-putt greens; a duffer-like showing he capped by struggling in the trees on the very next hole for a very unNicklaus-like 5-over-par for the four holes.

While Nicklaus, who came here favored to win his fifth Masters championship, was saying things to his putter, Brewer was chipping with the same skill he displayed while winning this tournament six years ago.

Trailing first-round leader Aaron by seven strokes at the start of the second round, Brewer was still five back after seven holes after offsetting an early eagle with a couple of bogeys, but his game heated up at No. 8 — and stayed hot.

Thanks to his razor-sharp approach shots, the 41-year-old Brewer had four birdie putts of six feet or less and he was on the green in 2 on two other par 5s.

BOWLING NOTES

Fran Wayman In Hall Of Fame

FRAN WAYMAN
Honored bowler

A San Rafael resident is the latest addition to the Marin County Women's Bowling Association Hall of Fame.

Frances Wayman, a veteran Marin County kegler, was inducted earlier this week.

Mrs. Wayman, the sergeant at arms for the San Francisco Women's Bowling Association from 1949 to 1960, is a charter member of the MCWBA. She was among a group of Marinites who established the organization.

Until then, the San Francisco organization extended to Novato. Marin bowlers, led by organizer Julie Smith, formed their own group. President Ann Arnott and secretary Doris Sooy have 2,600 members to work with in a group that extends from Sausalito to Novato.

Mrs. Wayman was the first of the Marin aggregation to be named to the Hall. She moved to Marin in 1942 after learning to bowl in New York. She subsequently served as secretary for the California Women's Bowling Association from 1951-58.

A TOUGH SHOT. Dee Brough of Petaluma picked up a noteworthy spare last Friday night at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael. She notched the "Big Four" — the 4-6-7-10 in the Eagles League.

TOP SCORE. Gary Newman bowled a 708 series at Country Club last Friday night in the North Bay Classic. In recoridng the county's top league score of the week, Newman had games of 203, 268, and 237.

Redwood Swimmers Remain Undefeated

Redwood High School (8-0) continued its unbeaten streak in Marin County Athletic League swim competition yesterday by pounding San Marin, 83-4, at Novato High School.

In other meets yesterday, second place Terra Linda whipped Tamalpais, 59-36, while San Rafael beat Novato, 62-32. Drake drew a bye.

Redwood kept its undefeated record intact behind double wins by Brian Silcox and Matt Lager. San Marin is in seventh place in MCAL standings with a 1-8 record.

Dick Atwood and Paul Moe were double winners for Tam (3-4), but it wasn't enough against the 8-2 Trojans. Atwood set a school record in the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 58.6. Bill Power won two for Terra Linda.

San Rafael (8-3) got two victories each from Jeff Kamler and Scott Hislop to beat Novato. The Hornets are 4-6.

Redwood's home meet against Tamalpais March 30, called off due to the funeral that day of the late Giant swimmer Andrew Rice Stone, will be held Monday at 3:30 p.m., Redwood coach Rusty McManus said yesterday.

Salmina A Babe Ruth Director

Ed Salmina of Novato has been appointed District 9 director for Northern California Babe Ruth baseball.

Salmina, serving his second two-year term as president of the Novato Babe Ruth League, was appointed by Jerry Tresca, Northern California State Babe Ruth director at a recent district meeting in Novato.

The new director succeeds John E. Hover Sr. of Fulton who had to step down from the position because of ill health. Salmina had been assistant director since Hover was appointed in 1971.

District 9 covers the 10 Babe Ruth leagues in Marin and Sonoma counties.

Gloria Perryman of Novato will continue to serve as district secretary. She is also secretary for the Novato league.

The league presidents selected Santa Rosa and Sonoma as the host leagues for the district all-star tournaments which will be held in July. Santa Rosa will stage the tournament for 13-year-olds and Sonoma, the tournament for 15-year-olds.

New York Cagers Notch Two Crowns

By DAVE BRASE and TIM SIMONS

The basketball team is the City College of New York and tonight is their big night.

CCNY, coached by Nat Holman, has come a long way this year. They were not even seeded in the NIT, yet, they swept through that tournament and beat powerful Bradley in the finals.

Tonight, in a packed Madison Square Garden, they are in the finals of the NCAA tournament and their foe is that same Bradley team.

Bradley is led by two All-Americans, Gene Melchiorre and Paul Unruh. Play begins and both teams are playing well. Bradley is using a zone defense. After a see-saw first half, CCNY leads 39-32.

In the second half Bradley switches to a man for man press, but with one minute to go CCNY still has the lead.

Melchiorre, the smallest man on the floor, drives the lane and cans one for Bradley.

Seconds later, Melchiorre intercepts a pass and drives for two more points. Bradley has closed the gap to 69-68.

CCNY has the ball, but the lightning quick Melchiorre steals it again. He's driving for the CCNY bucket. There are only seconds left.

Tomales, St. Vincent Win Baseball Games

Tomales High School came up with two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning yesterday to beat visiting Calistoga, 2-1, in a North Central League II baseball game.

The win kept the Braves' league mark unblemished at 2-0 to remain in a first place tie with St. Vincent of Petaluma, which belted Point Arena, 11-4 yeaterday.

In other Southern Sonoma baseball action yesterday, Petaluma High suffered its first North Bay League loss, 7-4, to host Napa to drop to 2-1.

Tomales was down 1-0 going into the seventh inning. John Ball led off the frame with a single, stole second, advanced to third when the Calistoga catcher dropped the called third strike on Brian Horick. Ball, scored the tying on Mike Camp's squeeze bunt. Camp then swiped second base and scored the winning run on John Petroni's single.

Marin Track Team Wins First Meet

College of Marin won its first Camino Norte Conference track and field meet of the year yesterday, defeating visiting College of Alameda, 84-42, as Bruce Little, Tom Malvino and Greg Biber won three events apiece.

Little captured the shot put and discus, Malvino the high jump and long jump and Biber the 120 high hurdles and triple jump in addition to running on the victorious mile relay team.

Another good performance for the Tars (1-4) was Joe Kinn's half-mile victory in 1:55.5.

North Peralta College, also scheduled to participate, did not show, according to Marin coach Tony Bailey.

Pro Hockey Merger Talks Hit Snag; Spadia Tabbed

Combined AP & UPI

MONTREAL — The National Hockey League and the World Hockey Association are talking merger, and the NHL Players' Association wants such talk halted in a week or it will take the matter to court.

Alan Eagleson, association executive director, said yesterday he has given the two leagues seven days to give him written assurance there will be no further talks of merger or he will file a complaint in the federal district court in New York City.

NHL president Clarence Campbell indicated last night the NHL may not respond to Eagleson's demand before the deadline is reached. "The time provided is quite unreasonable," Campbell said.

Baseball

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Houston Astros pitcher Larry Dierker was identified by the Florida Highway Patrol yesterday as the driver in a car-pedestrian accident that killed an 18-year-old Brevard County Community College student from New York.

Basketball

DURHAM, N.C. — Sam Jones, former star for the Boston Celtics, will return July 1 to become head basketball coach at North Carolina Central University where he still holds the career scoring mark from his collegiate days.

Jones, now head coach and athletic director of Federal City College in Washington, D.C., was hired yesterday to succeed Harry Edmonds.

Football

LINCOLN, Neb. — Johnny Rodgers won't be making one of those fabulous kickoff returns or breaking loose for the long gainer that made him the Heisman Trophy winner last year when Monday rolls around. He'll be going to jail.

Rodgers' attorney David C. Pierson said yesterday an appeal to a sentence of 30 days for driving on a suspended license had been withdrawn, and his client will start serving the sentence Monday.

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Dan Rooney, described by commissioner Pete Rozelle as, "one of the brightest young executives in the National Football League," will play a major role in the league's future.

Rooney, the 40-year-old general manager of the Pittsburgh Steelers, yesterday was named to head the NFL's four-man expansion committee by Rozelle as the league wound up its week-long annual spring meeting.

Rooney, whose father, Art, founded the Steelers, will be joined on the Expansion Committee by Gerald Phipps, Chairman of the Board of the Denver Broncos; Lou Spadia, president of the San Francisco 49ers and Tex Schramm, general manager of the Dallas Cowboys.

Tennis

MUNICH — Cliff Richey, San Angelo, Tex., yesterday topped Australia's Rod Laver 6-1, 7-6 and advanced the semifinals of the World Championship Tennis Group A tournament. Sausalito's Bob Lutz lost, 6-1, 6-1, to Stan Smith yesterday.

Softball Results

It was an evening of big innings last night at Albert Field in San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball league play, as Escrow scored five runs in the second and again in the fifth to demolish Lazie Lee, 15-1; Marin Supply rallied from an 8-0 deficit but lost to Kentucky Fried Chicken, 11-10; and MacArthur's scored four runs in the sixth to edge Hobbit's Habit, 10-9, despite Hobbit's five in the final frame.

Rancho Cotate Swimmers Lose

Swimming without freestyle specialist Mike Dawson, Rancho Cotate High School of Rohnert Park dropped a 50-44 Sonoma County League meet to host Sonoma yesterday.

The Cougars are now 3-2 in league with just one more meet left against league-leading Piner of Santa Rosa Friday.

Sam Wenger and Chris Nissen tried to take up some of the slack for Dawson, winning two events each. Wenger took the 100-yard butterfly and the 400-yard freestyle, and Nissen won the 200-yard individual medley and the 100-yard breaststroke.

In other Southern Sonoma swimming action yesterday, Petaluma High was dunked by visiting Montgomery of Santa Rosa, 82-10, in a North Bay League meet.

Sonoma 50, Rancho Cotate 44

200 medley relay — Rancho Cotate (Mills, Nissen, Harp, Wenger); 200 free — Harp (RC), 2:13.2; 200 IM — Nissen (RC), 2:20.6; 50 free — Mathieu (S), 24.4; diving — Tibbits (S), 191.25; 100 fly — Wenger (RC), 1:11.1; 100 free — Mathieu (S), 56.0; 400 free — Wenger (RC), 4:55.0; 100 back — Mills (RC), 1:13.5; 100 breast — Nissen (RC), 1:09.6; 400 free relay — Sonoma (Youngdahl, Severence, Mathieu, McGinty).

Sonoma State '9' Receives Worst Loss By Hayward

Sonoma State College suffered its worst baseball defeat of the year yesterday, falling 15-2 to visiting Far Western Conference for Hayward State.

The loss evened Sonoma's league mark to 2-2 and their overall season record to 10-10.

The Cossacks were barely outhit by the Pioneers, 12-11, but they made seven errors, and four Sonoma pitchers gave up 20 walks. "We just played poorly, that's all," Sonoma coach Tom Glover said after the game.

Gordon MacLachlin continued his torrid FWC batting streak for the Cossacks, going three for three at the plate to raise his conference mark to .533. John Barone also delivered three hits for Sonoma.

HIGH-RIDING HINDE

A partially built replica of Sir Francis Drake's Golden Hinde rides the swells after launching at Devon, England. The vessel, launched yesterday, is being constructed with funds raised by a San Francisco corporation. After full outfitting and sea trials, the Golden Hinde will sail to San Francisco and the Bay Area.

San Anselmo Officials Given Sweeping View Of Open Space

San Anselmo city leaders received a birds-eye view of city open space lands yesterday as an Army helicopter airlifted them over the community at 70 miles per hour.

Though several dozen residents called local police to complain of noise created by the low-flying chopper, city officials agreed the aerial survey was well worthwhile.

Airlifted over the city in three flights on the seven-seat, Sixth Army Flight Detachment craft were city councilmen, planning commissioners and city staff. The flights, courtesy of the Army, were aimed at getting a first-hand view of 226 acres of open space lands under consideration for acquisition if the city's $500,000 open space bond issue passes April 17.

Most spectacular, the high-flying officials said, is the way in which San Rafael looms as a "miniature Los Angeles" and Terra Linda appears "boxed in by development," in comparison with San Anselmo, which appears as a massive park from a high-altitude perspective.

Also startling were the number of horses grazing on many of the open lands, the patchwork quilt of housing and parks, and crystal-blue swimming pools that pock many backyards in neighborhoods adjacent to the city's network of open space lands.

City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell, who gave a running commentary of the scenario below, cited the need for a city horse ordinance as several dozen of the beasts were seen grazing on lands near Sorich Park.

Leitzell spoke to passengers through headphones in the chopper, which swooped and dipped over Indian Rock, the Oakland-Alderney area, Hawthorne Hills, the Rosenthal Tract, Red Hill and the Scenic Summit area.

"The whole city looks like a park. We've got to preserve it," declared an amazed parks director Gary S. Howell after one of the flights. "We're not doing as bad as you think when you look at those other areas," agreed planning commissioner John Levo Jr.

Hearing Set In Burglary Case

A preliminary hearing for John Joseph Mueller, 19, of Novato, on a felony burglary charge was scheduled yesterday for April 19.

Mueller was arrested Tuesday hitchhiking in Novato on a warrant obtained by San Rafael police. He was linked through fingerprints on a bottle of Scotch to the burglary of a San Rafael home.

Police said two men broke into the home of Robert Emmett Eby of 232 Bungalow Avenue March 22, but were frightened off by a neighbor. A second man is being sought.

Ford's Paycheck

DETROIT (UPI) — Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., was paid $874,567 last year, according to the company's notice to its stockholders. That was $185,000 more than he made the previous year.

Funds Should Be Shared, Aide Says

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — Funds earmarked for the school lunch program by the 1972 Kentucky General Assembly should be shared by parochial schools, says the state attorney general's office.

"It seems ... that if the counties may provide free transportation to parochial schools, the state may provide a contribution to the school lunch program of parochial schools," the opinion read. "We think that an appropriation out of the general revenue of the states would be of the same genre as an appropriation out of the general revenue of the county," said assistant Attorney General Carl Miller.

Annual Easter Egg Hunt Set

The Loma Verde Homeowners Association will have its annual Easter egg hunt and coloring contest at 10 a.m. April 21 at Loma Verde School, according to president Carolyn Jones.

The association also is sponsoring a girls' softball league for fourth through ninth graders from Loma Verde, Domingo Canyon and Marin Country Club Estates, she said.

Further information about the league may be obtained from C.B. Hagele, 455 Corte Sur.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Heavy Drop Is Felt On Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices fell heavily this week on the New York Stock Exchange amid evidence of worsening inflation and what investors consider inadequate measures by the Nixon administration to curb it.

The market managed to hammer out its only gain Friday. Prices were easing toward the close, however, and most analysts described the action as a typical bounce following a lengthy decline.

The Dow Jones average of 30 blue-chip industrial stocks lost 19.94 to 931.07. The widely followed indicator Thursday neared its low for the year of 922.71, where it closed on March 23, but found support once more near the 920 level and bounced back.

"The 920 level is probably only a temporary support plateau," one broker said. "In a market like this, 880 cannot be ruled out."

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index dropped 2.24 to 109.28. The indicator reached its low for the year of 108.52 Thursday. The NYSE index declined 1.35 to 58.23. Declines outpaced gainers, 1,326 to 405, among the 1,955 issues crossing the tape.

Turnover totaled only 62,073,806 shares, compared with last week's 78,104,750, and with 98,813,620 shares a year earlier. Trading was at its lightest of the year Monday, when 10,650,000 shares changed hands. Most analysts figure the light trading indicates lack of confidence by investors, both in the stock market and in the economy.

The House Banking Committee came up with two potentially encouraging proposals. One called for a rollback of prices to May, 1972 levels and a modified version later opted for a rollback to Jan. 10, 1973, the day before President Nixon announced Phase III. Each time Treasury Secretary George Shultz scotched the moves, saying they were certain to meet with a presidential veto.

There are fatherless boys here in Marin that need someone to look up. They need to learn to fish and sail and, well, just do the things with you that you'll be doing anyway. Take a boy with you to fish that stream in Yosemite or just wash the car. Be a hero to some guy who needs one. Call the Big Brothers of Marin County at 453-8897. You'll get it back with interest. Be a hero and call today.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Expert Tries Hard To Avoid That Fatally Easy Finesse

Most people learn how to finesse early in their bridge careers and never recover from the lesson. The expert often goes to a great deal of trouble to avoid taking a finesse.

OPENING LEAD-D-6

West opended the six of diamonds, East put up the ten and South won with the queen. South could count six other tricks in top cards: three clubs, two hearts and one spade.

Two additional tricks were needed for the contract.

FIRST PLAN

Declarer's first thought was to take the spade finesse. Two additional spade tricks could be won if West held the king of spades.

Declarer's second thought saved him: If West had the king of spades, the finesse would work at any time. There was no need to hurry.

EXTRA TRICKS POSSIBLE

It was possible, although unlikely, that South could develop one extra trick in hearts and one extra trick in clubs. If so, he would not have to risk the spade finesse.

South tried the hearts first, laying down the ace and then the king of that suit. Fortunately for him, the queen dropped. This set up dummy's jack.

Declarer next cashed the three top clubs, ending in his own hand. If the suit failed to break favorably, he would be in position to try the spade finesse. As it happened, the clubs did break 3-3, and dummy's last low club was good.

LUCKY BREAK

These lucky breaks make it unnecessary for declarer to take the spade finesse. He made game with one spade, three hearts, one diamond and four clubs.

The spade finesse would have been fatal. East would have taken the king of spades and would have returned a diamond. Then West would have defeated the contract with four diamond tricks.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids no-trump, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 9 8 6
♥ - Q 10
♦ - A K 7 6 2
♣ - 10 8 3.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Big 3 no-trump. Since partner has 16 to 18 points for his bid, and you have 9 points, you know that the combined count is 25 to 27 points. This ought to be enough for game at no-trump, but it is unlikely to be enough for game in diamonds.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Mixed-up quotes! Yes, they did say these things, but answer "Yes" or "No" as to whether they're attributed to the right persons.

1. DAVID FROST is that bright, talkative Englishman, who seems to be forever quizzing celebrities about their private lives on television. Put 34 candles on his cake today! It all began with his birth at Tenterden, Kent, and his skill as a soccer player nearly turned him into a professional. But he won a state scholarship, electing to go to Cambridge University instead. Would he be likely to say: (A) "He who is tired of London is tired of life"?

2. RAVI SHANKAR, 53 today, probably is more responsible for introducing Indian music to the United States than anyone else. He learned to play his native instruments from Ustad Allaudin Kahn, who taught him all the ragas. It takes 10 to 15 years to learn this music, which is not written down. Would he be likely to say: (B) ". . . All through the years we'll spend together, sharing the tears and the stormy weather"?

3. WALTER WINCHELL (1897-1972) probably was America's best known journalist in the 1930's and 40's. This New Yorker went from selling newspapers on streetcorners at 8 to doing it at a typewriter a few years later. More than 800 newspapers published his daily column at its height. On his network radio show, would he be likely to say: (C) "Good evening, Mr. and Mrs. American and all the ships at sea. Let's go to press"?

4. BILLIE HOLIDAY (1915-1959) was a Baltimore girl who sang the blues to fame and fortune. She was discovered in Harlem night clubs, made her first recording with Benny Goodman in 1933. Stardom soon followed with numbers like "Strange Fruit" and "Any Old Time." Would she be likely to say: (D) "That's marvelous! fantastic! terrific!"?

ANSWERS: 1 - No (See D); 2 - No (See A); 3 - Yes; 4 - No (See B).

Orchestra Piccola's Dream Comes True

Rinaldi Group To Play At Festival In Italy

By PAUL LIBERATORE

The news came over the telephone one night at the San Rafael home of Hugo Rinaldi, director of the Orchestra Piccola, Marin's youth chamber ensemble. On the line was Rita Sperry, mother of one of the orchestra members.

"Hugo," she said, "are you sitting down?"

"Oh, no don't tell me," was the only reply he could muster.

But she did tell him. The Orchestra Piccola, barely two years old and made up of 27 Marin County youngsters 14 through 18 years old, had been invited to one of the most prestigious events in classical music, the Festival of Two Worlds in Spoleto, Italy, this summer.

"I wanted to take the kids to Italy," Rinaldi said. "So why not try for the best, the Festival of Two Worlds?"

The campaign to be accepted had begun months earlier when Rinaldi sent a tape of the orchestra to Harvey Lichtenstein, the U.S. director of the festival.

Weeks passed and he heard nothing. Then Mrs. Sperry, in New York on business, volunteered to telephone Lichtenstein to find out what had happened. She called and called, only to find when she finally reached him that he had lost the tape.

"Don't be deflated," she told Rinaldi on her return, "but he said the festival wouldn't hire a youth group anyway."

Stubbornly, the 50-year-old orchestra director sent a new set of tapes, his persistence was rewarded by Orchestra Piccola being the first amateur group ever to be invited to the festival.

"The nice thing about it is that there were no politics involved," Rinaldi said. "We were picked from our recordings."

For the 17-year-old concertmaster of the orchestra, Dan Smiley of Mill Valley, the Spoleto trip will be his second to Europe this year. He won the string classification of the Young Musicians Awards, his prize being six days in Paris in May.

"Paris in the spring. . ." he said wistfully. "I still can't believe it."

Smiley, a senior at Tamalpais High School, has been playing the violin for nine years and currently is studying under Stuart Canin, concertmaster of the San Francisco Symphony. His mother, Yuriko, is a music supervisor at San Domenico School in Sleepy Hollow and his 15-year-old sister, Mariko, also is a member of the orchestra.

"Dan is rare," said Rinaldi. "Never have I had a more musical concertmaster."

"I am looking forward to the contact with the people," Smiley said. "In Spoleto, we will be living with Italian families. And that is what music is supposed to do, bring people from different countries together."

He has been accepted at the Juilliard School of Music in New York and, in addition to his preparations for his two European trips, is getting ready for his first term there this fall.

He said the orchestra owes a lot to Rinaldi because it was he "who insisted on the quality to get us to Spoleto."

The road to Spoleto for 17-year-old Lue Ann Fischer began when, as a child, she stared wide-eyed at a performance of the San Francisco Children's Opera and decided "that's what I want to be."

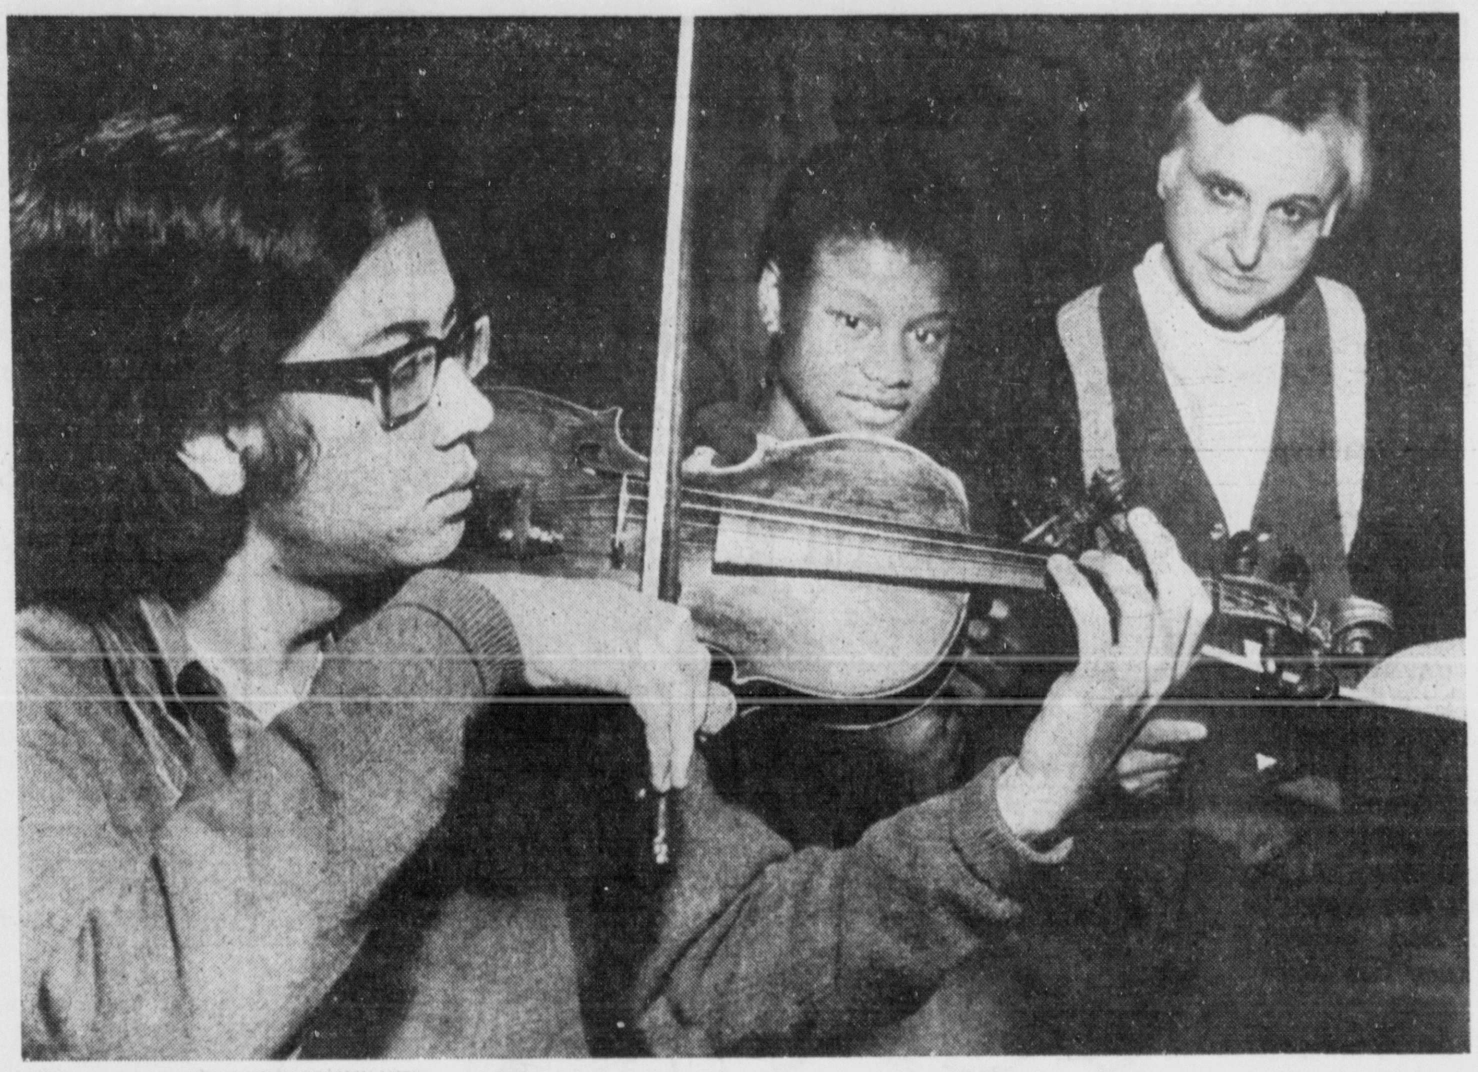
At 7 she became a member of the opera company, later taking up the violin, which she plays in the Orchestra Piccola.

"Music has been very serious in my life," she said. "I put intense energy into it."

A resident of Marin City, Miss Fischer is a senior at San Domenico School and plans to continue her study of voice and violin when she begins college in the fall, probably at Stanford.

Both Miss Fischer and Smiley expressed pride in the Orchestra Piccola, which is a select group of the Marin Youth Orchestra, founded by Rinaldi 19 years ago, and spoke about its "nonverbal communication" through music and the comraderie of its members.

The final concert at Spoleto will be Miss Fischer's and Smiley's last with the ensemble.



MUSIC OF YOUTH — Dan Smiley, 17-year-old concertmaster of the Orchestra Piccola, a 27-member chamber ensemble of the Marin Youth Orchestra, works through a passage of one of the pieces the orchestra will perform during the Spoleto Festival in Italy this summer. Listening are Lue Ann Fischer, 17, another orchestra member, and Hugo Rinaldi, orchestra director and founder. The Marin ensemble is the first youth group ever invited to the festival.

"The sad thing is that they have to leave," said Rinaldi. "But they leave with maturity and new ones come along to replace them."

The orchestra will leave for Italy June 17, arriving in Milan the following evening. From there they will travel to Venice, Florence and Rome, with concerts being scheduled for each city.

They will perform their festival concert July 1, which will include a work commissioned especially for them by Richard Cumming. They also will perform in the Mozart Marathon, under the direction of Lucas Foss, and will join the National Orchestra July 8 in the festival finale, Benjamin Britten's "War Requiem."

The group has received a $10,000 grant for the trip from the San Francisco Foundation and will earn about $3,000 from appearances in Marin and the Bay Area. The orchestra will perform at 8 p.m. tomorrow at St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere.

"This particular group is a reflection of the kind of community we live in," Rinaldi said. "It is a real marriage of the kids, their parents, teachers, schools and the Marin Symphony. This is one area in which the community is in real harmony."

Violinist To Perform On Monday

Japanese violinist Teiko Maehashi will present a selection of classics at 8:15 p.m. Monday in a concert sponsored by the Marin Concert Association at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Miss Maehashi, a native of Tokyo, began playing the violin at the age of 5. She later studied at the Leningrad Conservatory and the Juilliard School.

In 1968 she won first prize in the Oakland Young Artist completion and then appeared the next year with the Oakland Symphony. She has made around-the-world recital tours, appearing with the Orchestra of the Opera of Monte Carlo, the Baltimore Symphony and the Vancouver Symphony.

Her repertoire includes music of Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, Bruch, Haydn, Mendelssohn, Mozart, Pagannin and Sibelius.

Art Show Reception

A public reception will be held from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. April 15 for the Marin opening of the Terra Linda Art Association's annual "Zellerbach Show," at the association gallery, 4175 Redwood Highway. The show will be open through May 12.

The juried show now is hanging in the Zellerbach building in San Francisco.

The reception will include a slide and sound show at 2:30 p.m., when artist Tony Williams will present "Something Else Sensory," combining the art work and photography of himself, Gary Williams and Torben Strandgaard.

Weekly Class In Spanish Under Way

A weekly class in Spanish for children of Latin parents began today in the Novato Public Library, sponsored by Mujeres Latinas Unidas de Marin (United Latin Women of Marin).

The classes will be held from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. each Saturday at the library through June 9, according to Dolores Pena of Novato.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

The Editor's Notebook

Tourism Can Help Save Environment

THOSE WHO promote tourism and those who promote conservation have more in common than either group often recognizes.

If each could recognize and accentuate what they have in common, the general welfare would be better served, especially in our Redwood Empire counties, including Marin.

What is it that they have in common?

Both work for the common good as each sees it.

Tourism promoters want to attract visitors to strengthen the local economy. We cannot exist in the Redwood Empire just taking in each others washing.

We are NOT heavily industrialized, nor do we wish to become so. Even if we wished, we do not have the raw materials necessary to turn us into another Pittsburgh or Detroit. We do have some light industry scattered about; Sonoma County especially, seems to be expanding in this field. But manufacturing can never be our principal economic support.

Agriculture? We are not big in farming; in fact, our acreages held in agriculture are declining. The chicken and egg business has left Petaluma, for instance. Novato's orchards are no more. Marin's once-huge dairying industry has been squeezed down considerably. Our economic future does not lie with agriculture.

Commercial fishing? We have some at Point Reyes, Tomales, Noyo, Bodega, Eureka, Crescent City and elsewhere. It cannot be expected to expand much because the supply of fish in the sea is limited, as we are coming to realize more clearly all the time. Commercial fishing will not support us.

Timber production? It is still big in the northern counties. Although much timber has been removed from the commercial market by acquisition for state and national parks, much remains in "perpetual" tree farms held in private ownership. Most of us hope and expect that we will achieve a balance between specimen groves in public ownership and production groves in private ownership, maintained on a sustained yield basis. There is no way over the long run that we can depend on timber and forest products as the cornerstone of our economy. For some small logging communities, yes; but for the whole of the Redwood Empire, the lumber industry is about as economically productive as it can ever be.

THOSE WHO promote tourism see visitors as the economic salvation of our area.

Tourism supporters know — at least the principal leadership in the Redwood Empire Association recognizes — that the natural splendors of our environment constitute our attractiveness to visitors.

Every time a majestic, 2,000-year-old redwood tree crashes before the logger's chain saw, we have lost another chunk of our environmental attractiveness.

Lawrence Lane Jr., publisher of Sunset magazine, recently summed it up this way:

"Tourism does not have to be a threat to the environment. Sometimes it can be a factor in preserving and safeguarding it. A worsening environment may attract fewer and fewer visitors; this may spur public officials and business leaders to take steps to halt the loss of historic buildings and natural scenes and thus keep the tourist trade."

Robert J. Sullivan, manager of San Francisco's convention and tourist bureau, put it this way:

"If Americans hadn't wanted to visit Independence Hall as the nation's birthplace, somebody would have melted down that cracked bell a long time ago."

Tourism, he said, can be "the environment's best friend and potentially its greatest protector."

SAVING, PROTECTING and even improving our environment is not cheap, as we are coming to see more clearly every day as we pony up more money for automobiles with costly smog control devices.

If we are to support the costs of environmental protection, we must have a sound economic foundation. Some conservation leaders have publicly recognized this state of affairs. All will have to if we are to save our environment from destruction by pollution.

On the other hand, as Sunset publisher Lane has stated it, "We would have a bad case of environmental myopia if we were to ignore the increasing examples around the world where the tourist industry does not enhance the environment and, indeed, is a contributor to various forms of pollution."

The general welfare would be better served if those who promote tourism and those who promote conservation would work together.

Both groups should work to foster greater appreciation for the natural scenic splendors and other environmental assets of the Redwood Empire.

Both should encourage protection of scenic, historical and recreation resources of the Redwood Empire to the end that they will be enjoyed, not destroyed.

Both should work toward tourist management to insure that our visitors are attracted in ways and at times when they benefit our economy without damaging our environment.

Both should support the expansion and improvement of public transportation and encourage its use as an alternative to ever-increasing highway congestion.

Both should support establishment of scenic highways and the improvement of all roads and highways throughout the Redwood Empire to safe standards, so local residents and visitors alike can enjoy safe travel to and from our beaches, forests, rivers, lakes, and other natural environmental features.

IN SUM, THEY should be promoting a cooperative spirit, recognizing that what is preserved should be for public enjoyment and that our important visitor economy depends on preservation of our natural wonders.

Let us hope there are leaders in both groups who have sufficient breadth of vision to see the necessity for working together to achieve the greatest good for all of us.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Headline Misconstrued Thrust Of Letter

In the interests of accuracy, I am compelled to point out that the editorial caption given my letter (I.J. April 3), i.e., "Only Teachers Qualified To Evaluate Teachers" totally misconstrued my position.

The thrust of my expressed opinion was that only those with experience in teaching and the professional observation of teacher performance, etc., should be considered competent to set up standards for teacher evaluation under the Stull Bill.

Contrary to your caption, my letter did not posit that valid evaluations of teacher performance can only be made by other teachers.

The latter is a horse of quite a different color!

Special Interest Groups And Election

Your editorial of March 20 concerning special interest groups started out as if it were taken from some of my own campaign material. You pointed out correctly that it is the job of those in public office to decide which special interest coincides with the public interest. In the past boards such as those who were to protect our environment and those who were to run our publicly owned utilities were made up generally of persons who represented the special interest groups. In the case of the pollution control boards it was like sending goats to watch the cabbage. This has changed now and we can be sure that progress will be made in this sector. There has also been a change in the make-up of water boards in many parts of this country. The election on April 17 will be the second M.M.W.D. election where the interests of the public in the development of their county will be considered as it relates to available water.

What perhaps your editorial failed to point out is that independence is required when deciding which special interest groups' stands coincide with that of the public. Independence, however, is a state of mind and if the public is to have confidence in those holding public office those persons must also maintain an appearance of independence as well as an actual independent attitude. Yet candidates continue to align themselves with special interest groups in order to obtain the funds with which to run for office and once elected ask why the public does not believe they are acting independently.

The Family Boycott Works —That Is . . . Until . . . Except

WASHINGTON — It was the fifth day of our meat boycott and the family was sitting around the dining-room table wiping up the gravy from the cheese-and-turnip casserole that my wife had prepared for us. You could see the pride in the children's faces. They had survived almost a week without meat — and they knew they had struck a great blow for lower food prices.

"I don't even miss meat," my daughter Jennifer said.

"I don't even miss chicken," my daughter Connie agreed.

My son Joel said, "The voice of the consumer has been heard in the land."

"Then you all agree," I said, "that boycotts are the best way of showing our discontent over high prices."

Everyone agreed.

"THE REASON I raise the question," I said, "is that the telephone company is thinking of doubling the price of a call from 10 cents to 20 cents. This would be an increase of 100 per cent and I think if they do it we should boycott the telephone system."

The family looked at me as if I had gone mad.

"Boycott the telephone company?" Jennifer said. "But how could I talk to my friends?"

"You could write them letters," I suggested.

"No one writes anyone letters any more," Connie said.

"Even if they did," Joel said, "They'd never be delivered."

MY WIFE, who never knows when I'm kidding, said, "Are you serious about boycotting the phone company?"

"Dead serious," I said. "We've got to bring them to their knees. We've got to bring the cost of a telephone call down, down, down."

"I won't do it," Jennifer shouted. "I won't give up the telephone."

"You gave up meat," I said.

"Meat is just food," she shouted. "The telephone is my life."

Connie yelled, "We'd die without the telephone."

Joel agreed. "Man has to communicate by phone or his ear will wither away."

MY WIFE SAID, "I'll give up one or the other but I won't give up both meat and the telephone."

"Nevertheless," I said, "if we're going to stick by our principles, we will have to boycott the telephone company, just as we will have to boycott the gasoline stations when they raise the price of gas."

"Raise the price of gas?" Joel said. "What am I going to do with my car?"

"Keep it in the garage until the gasoline companies see the error of their ways."

"How do I get to school?" Connie said.

"Take the bus."

"What's a bus?" Connie demanded.

"DON'T BE SMART," I said. "If we're going to give up meat because they raised the prices on us, we're going to give up the telephone and gasoline and, if they raise electricity, we'll give up air conditioning."

"But we have to have air conditioning," Jennifer said.

"Look, prices are going up on everything. Why should we just sock it to the farmer? If we really want our voices heard, we've got to sock the phone company, the gasoline companies, the power companies and anyone else who thinks they can horse around with our household budget.

"I say we're either in the boycott business for real or we get out of it altogether. Now what do you say?"

My wife sighed, "I'll order a pork roast from the butcher tomorrow morning."

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Here's my recipe for an "Inexpensive Casserole Meal" to combat today's soaring food prices.

Thick, prime beefsteaks
Wild rice
Imported Hawaiian papaya
Cream and butter
Mushrooms and truffles

Place in an inexpensive casserole and serve.

Modern man fusses too much about the grocery bill. When Eve put Adam on an apple diet, he didn't go around complaining about the price of apples.

Thieu Has Plenty Of Reasons To Thank President Nixon

We do not know how much gratitude President Thieu of the Republic of Vietnam expressed to President Nixon of the United States when they chatted together at San Clemente, but it should have been substantial.

True, all American combat ground troops now are out of South Vietnam, and the country again is being managed largely by its own people. But as the last American soldier walked out, it was plain that Mr. Nixon had handed over to Mr. Thieu an extremely favorable situation — much more favorable than anyone, except perhaps Mr. Nixon himself, would have expected a year ago.

The immediate situation is that President Thieu and his army have decisive military superiority over their enemies in most of South Vietnam today. Whether they can keep that superiority over the next 12 months is another matter. No one can possibly foresee now what changes will occur in the two parts of Vietnam over coming months. But as of today, the advantage is decidedly with Saigon.

THE SITUATION IS THIS: On the eve of the cease-fire two months ago, the local Viet Cong units, backed by regular North Vietnam units, launched hundreds of local offensives designed to widen the area of the country undr their control. Mr. Thieu's army woke up on the morning after the cease-fire with a choice. Either the South Vietnamese counterattacked, or left their enemies in possession of much more territory and many more villages and strategic positions that their previous soldiering had justified. The South Vietnamese counterattacked.

Most of the fighting since cease-fire day has consisted of the counterattacks. Most, in fact nearly all, of these have been decisively successful. The Viet Cong has not been able to hang on to the hamlets or the road-blocking positions. One of the sharpest battles was fought for the fishing village of Sa Huynh and a blocking position at that point on the coast across the main north-south highway. Troops trying to hold Sa Huynh for the Viet Cong were said to have been told to hold it at all costs. They didn't. The highway is clear.

In other words, the Saigon army has won the campaign which has been waged over cease-fire positions. It has paid a price, yes. Casualties have been heavy. But, in spite of reinforcements from North Vietnam, the two months of fighting over cease-fire positions has been a major victory of President Thieu's forces.

THE LARGER MILITARY situation which this Saigon victory has been gained is as follows:

North Vietnam has largely replaced the losses taken by its troops in the south during the last year. A steady and routine flow of replacements down the Ho Chi Minh trail over the last four months has fleshed out the depleted units. Some 300 tanks have made good much of the armor lost in the April offensive a year ago. But the combined North Vietnam and Viet Cong units are not in a condition comparable to their condition of a year ago.

There have been two major Communist offensives in the Vietnam war. The first was Tet in 1968. The second was the Easter offensive of 1972. They were four years rebuilding to offensive capacity after the losses they took in Tet. But the Easter offensive is only one year behind. And their losses in the Easter offensive were at least as heavy, and perhaps even more so than in Tet. In other words, they haven't yet had time to get ready for another major offensive; nor are they deployed for one as they were a year ago. And the dry season suitable for heavy campaigning already is drawing toward its end.

Thus President Thieu and his generals are sitting on top of a victory, of a winning military situation, and of an army in the full confidence earned from a whole galaxy of local successes. Besides, the enemy is not in condition to go over to the offensive this season. The earliest time it might be in offensive condition would be 10 months from now.

PRESIDENT THIEU has President Nixon to thank for the support, the guns, and the diplomacy behind this condition, which is strengthed by the continued presence of substantial American sea and air power around Vitnam. And Mr. Nixon has again threatened to use it against the North Vietnamese should they attempt to resume the offensive. There is no present sign of any such intention.

The net of it all is that President Theiu came to San Clemente as a man who has some 10 months ahead of him in which to consolidate a presently favorable condition. His business with President Nixon is over schedules and amounts for continuing American supplies and weapons replacements. There should not be much trouble between the two men. Mr. Nixon has invested heavily on survival of the Thieu regime in Saigon. He is unlikely to put it on short rations now.

Arab Sheikhs Hold Trumps As U.S. Runs Out Of Gas

WASHINGTON — Like a mirage seen in shimmering desert heat is the vast wealth of the oil sheikhdoms in the Persian Gulf. When in the next decade the United States must import up to 30 per cent of all the oil we use, their take will increase from roughly $10 billion a year to $30 billion or more.

That tidy sum will be at the command of sheikhs whose desert principalities are sparsely populated and whose peoples make few demands. The leverage in world finance and diplomacy this will give these autocrats is reason for dark foreboding in western capitals, foremost among them Washington. Along with the sheikhdoms there are the leading oil producers such as Iran and Saudi Arabia, making up a total overall of 75 to 90 billions of dollars, yen, sterling and francs by 1980.

HOW WILL THEY spend these vast sums? In a speech in Paris recently, Thornton F. Bradshaw, president of Atlantic Richfield, put this question to a leading British politician. Bradshaw said all he could think of was that they would come into the stock market and buy all of General Motors, all of IBM, all of General Electric. After thinking for a moment, his British friend replied:

"Splendid! You let them buy General Motors. You let them buy IBM. You let them buy General Electric. And then you nationalize."

This was, of course, meant for a laugh.

In a serious vein Bradshaw made what, for an oil man, was an heretical proposal. He suggested sharply increased taxes on cars according to horsepower to discourage large cars. He would encourage the use of gasoline taxes for building mass transit systems in cities.

A GASOLINE SHORTAGE is just around the corner. It is likely to be acute with the beginning of the tourist season. The motorist scurrying from pump to pump to fill up his tank will be a common sight. Prices will rise sharply and there may even be an attempt at rationing, which promises to be both too late and too little.

Short of a direct attack on the great god horsepower and the status symbol of the Cadillac and the Lincoln Continental, the pinch will grow worse from year to year. Far from stimulating production of the motorcar, as was the goal when the excise tax was removed, the objective should be just the opposite.

Detroit is saying proudly that this will be an 11 million-car year. City streets are already so clogged that traffic moves slower than a walking pace. The one-man, one-car commuter is a familiar phenomenon coming in from suburbs to the center city.

THE PLAIN, HARD fact is that, for all the chirrupy talk about the boundless resources of oil, gas and shale within the continental United States, nothing can be done to relieve the pinch within domestic confines for at least a decade. Government-controlled prices for natural gas, the rising cost of exploration, a complex web of circumstances make any quick change all but impossible.

An illustration of the time lag is Atlantic Richfield's discovery of the largest field in North America in Alaska in 1968. Company geologists first visited the north slope in 1949. Conservationists blocked construction of the trans-Alaska pipeline in federal court.

The United States Supreme Court has just declined to overrule the lower court injunction. This means that only Congress can act to decide whether construction of the line on government-owned land can proceed. This is bound to be a lengthy business as ecologists take up the challenge in Senate and House.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

April 7, 1963

The Marin County clerk's office announced that 65,236 were eligible to vote in school district elections April 16.

State Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, announced he would introduce a bill to dissolve the Golden Gate Bridge District and abolish tolls on the bridge.

20 YEARS AGO

April 7, 1953

Sen. John F. McCarthy's bill to put the Golden Gate Bridge under the California Division of Bay Toll Crossings was killed in the state Senate Transportation Committee.

Trustees of Tamalpais High School District discussed hiring the school district's own attorney, complaining that the Marin County district attorney's office "seems too limited or understaffed to give counsel."

Christians Are Praying Less Often In Private

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Recent surveys indicate there has been a sharp drop-off, among both Protestants and Catholics, in the practice of private prayer.

Those who've inquired into this trend say there seem to be several reasons for it. One is that many Christians in recent years have paid relatively little attention to the "vertical dimension" of religion — the personal relationship of each human soul to God. They've been preoccupied with "horizontal dimension" of religion - that is, relationships among human beings in society.

Another factor, it appears, is a widespread belief among contemporary Christians that prayer is asking God for special favors. Those who operate under this misapprehension refrain from praying, they say, because they don't want to behave like selfcentered beggars.

A third difficulty, which has existed in every age but seems particularly acute today, is that many find it hard to conceive of the Creator and Sustainer of the whole universe having the time or inclination to "listen" to the prayers of countless individuals.

All of these hang-ups originate in a profound misunderstanding of what prayer is and the role it can play in a person's life.

Prayer is not a magical incantation by which the superstitious hope to manipulate God and con Him into granting favors He'd otherwise withhold. Jesus Christ, who prayed fervently and regularly, forever demolished the validity of "gimme prayers" by pointing out that "Your Father in heaven knows what you need before you ask for it." (Sometimes He knows far better than we what we really need — and mercifully refuses our requests.)

To Jesus — and to millions of Christians since — prayer is a focusing of the mind, heart and will on God, so that you become aware of his presence, confident of His love and submissive to His will. It is direct communion between man and God, and its principal importance lies in the healing, strengthening and refreshment of the human spirit which comes from even momentary felt contact with the Spirit of God.

Far from being irrelevant to a concern for social justice, private prayer is an essential means by which normally self-centered or cowardly human beings may find the compassion and courage to fight effectively to achieve a better life for others.

As for difficulty in conceiving of God being able to "listen" to so many prayers, this arises from an immature, anthropomorphic picture of God as a particular Being who dwells "up there" or "out there" someplace. But as theologians Paul Tillich and John Robinson have emphasized in our time, and as Jesus himself made clear long ago, God is not A being, but the ground of ALL being. And He is present, not in A place but in EVERY place — most particularly, in the hearts and minds of human persons who hunger for communion with Him — even though they may not realize what or Who they are hungering for.

Larry Baker Is Named Golden Gate PR Aide

LARRY BAKER
Public relations aide

Larry Curtis Baker, a former Stamford, Tex., journalist, has been named public relations associate at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, at Strawberry.

Baker, 27, is former assistant publisher of the "Stamford American" weekly newspaper. In his new capacity, Baker will be responsible for news releases, publications production, media relations and photography.

He succeeds James Lee Young, who has served as director of news and information services at Golden Gate since September, 1970. Young resigned to begin full time studies at Golden Gate, aiming toward a career in religious journalism. He expects to graduate in June, 1974.

A 1970 graduate of Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, Tex., with a bachelor of arts degree in journalism, Baker was editor of the "H-SU Brand" during his junior and senior years and was named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities." Baker served in the U.S. Air Force from 1963-67 and was stationed in Misawa, Japan, as a Russian linguist.

Presently pastor of DeAnza Baptist Church in Cupertino, Calif., Baker was pastor of Dodson Hill (now Central) Baptist Church in Stamford, 1969-71, and was pastor of Maryneal Baptist Church, Maryneal, Tex., 1968-69. He was public relations chairman for the Baptist Double Mountain Area of Texas in 1970.

During his first year as a master of divinity candidate at Golden Gate Seminary, Baker worked for the Belvedere-Tiburon "Ebb Tide" newspaper.

He is married to the former Miss Mary Callicoat, of Batesville, Ark. They are residing on the Golden Gate campus. Baker is the son of Mrs. Lena G. Tamlyn, of Tucson, Ariz.

Dr. Herschel H. Hobbs Teaching At Seminary

Dr. Herschel H. Hobbs, former president of the 12 million member Southern Baptist Convention, is serving as guest professor of preaching at the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Mill Valley.

Hobbs was pastor of First Baptist Church, Oklahoma City, Okla., for 23 years before retiring in January, 1973. He has been the principal preacher for the International Baptist Hour radio broadcast since 1958.

He has authored 35 books and contributed to numerous volumes compiled by others. His more recent works include: "Cosmic Drama: Exposition on the Book of Revelation," 1971; "An Exposition of the Gospel of Mark," 1970; "Epistles to the Corinthians," 1969; "When the Rain Falls," 1967; and "What Baptists Believe," 1963.

Lecture Day Speaker Is Top Baptist

Dr. Porter Routh, executive secretary-treasurer of the Southern Baptist Convention Executive Committee, Nashville, Tenn., will be Lecture-Dialogue Day guest at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary on April 10.

Routh will speak at 9:50 a.m. in John A. Broadus Hall Chapel at the campus on Strawberry Point. In addition to his duties as head of the convention's executive committee, Routh is also treasurer for the SBC.

The eighth guest to appear in the 1972-73 lecture and dialogue series at Golden Gate, Routh is well known as a Southern Baptist leader, author, editor and public speaker. He has written three books: "My World Too," "Meet the Presidents," and "77,000 Churches."

Baptist Church To Host Choir

The Young Adult Association of First Missionary Baptist Church in Marin City will host the Polytechnic High School Choir at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

The musical service will be in the church sanctuary at 501 Drake Avenue and is open to the public.

Home Study Sessions Are Slated

Home cottage meetings of Christ the Victor Lutheran Church will resume Wednesday at seven homes in Marin County.

The sessions, at 7:47 p.m., will be held in San Anselmo at 46 Austin Avenue, 260 Van Winkle Drive, and 34 Dutch Valley Lane; in San Rafael at 10 Capri Court; in Fairfax at 448 Oak Manor Road and 362 Bolinas Road, and in San Geronimo at 5 Cecil Road.

Wednesday's sessions will be the last before Easter and the groups are studying the story of Jesus' last few days before his Crucifixion.

Goal of the study is to learn how to apply the story to the present and a basis for the study is a Keith Miller tape, "Inside I Tremble."

At 6 p.m. tomorrow at the church a surprise pizza party will be held.

Students Named To 'Who's Who' From Seminary

Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary has been notified that six students have been named to "Who's Who Among Students" in American Universities and Colleges for the 1972-73 academic year.

Named for the honor were Jerry K. Baker, third year master of divinity candidate from Norco, Calif.; Kay Ellen Green, second year master of religious education candidate from Salinas, Calif.; Herbert V. Hollinger, third year master of divinity candidate from Burley, Ida.; Tom E. Prevost, third year master of divinity candidate from Hazelhurst, Miss.; William H. Smith, third year master of divinity candidate from Covington, Va.; and Keith H. Williams, third year master of divinity candidate from House Springs, Mo.

Concert To Benefit Marin City Church

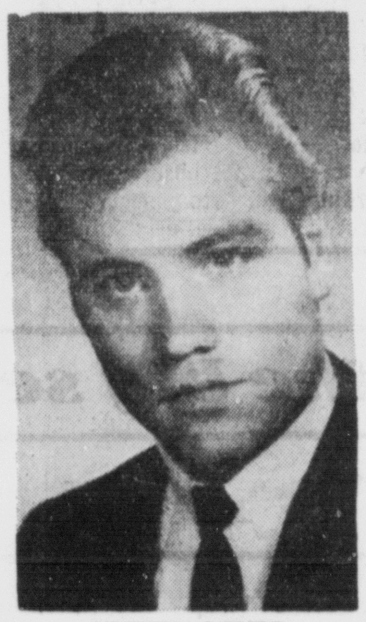
A benefit concert featuring Alma Wells, lyric soprano and Fran Valentine Harden, mezzo soprano, sponsored by the Village Baptist Church will be held at 4 p.m. April 15 at the church in Marin City.

The Concert will be spirituals, gospel songs, classical songs and operatic arias. It will benefit the church building fund.

Miss Wells is a resident of Marin City. She has been soloist in churches throughout Marin County and the Bay Area. Miss Harden lives in San Francisco. She sang the role of Dionne in "Hair" and has appeared throughout California.

They will be accompanied by Sandra Abernathy and Dorothy Childress.

Organ Recital Slated At St. Paul's Church



STEVEN GRUBB
Modesto organist

Steven Grubb of Grace Lutheran Church of Modesto will present a recital at 8 p.m. tomorrow on the Centennial Memorial Organ at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 1123 Court Street, San Rafael.

Grubb is a student of Kenneth Mansfield, professor of organ at California State University at Hayward. The recitals are open to the public and are followed by a wine reception afterward in the parish hall of the church.

Selections for Grubb's recital are: "Hymnus," J. Ahrens; "Suite Du Premier Ton," L. N. Clearambault; "Benedictus," M. Reger; "Kleine Intraden," H. Schroeder; "Cantabile in B Major," C. Franck; "O Wir Armen Sunder," Pepping; and "Prelude and Fugue in D Major," Bach.

Trio To Perform Spring Concert In San Rafael

A special spring concert, featuring the Anastasio-Weingart Trio, has been added to the continuing series of music events being presented by St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael.

According to Rev. Al Price, organist and choirmaster, the group will make one of its infrequent Marin County appearances on Palm Sunday, April 15.

The trio consists of Barbara Anastasio, piano; Edmund Weingart, violin; and Richard Anastasio, cello. Richard Anastasio is well known in Marin for his teaching, and as conductor of the Dominican Chamber Orchestra.

Their program — actually "a trio of Trios" — will offer a full range of enjoyment to chamber music aficionados: Dvorak's Trio in E Minor; Beethoven's, in B Flat Major; and Mendelssohn's, in D Minor.

Admission to the concert, commencing at 7 p.m. in the music room, is free and will be followed by a reception for the artists in the parish hall.

Baptist Church Will Present Easter Cantata

Gordon Young's Easter Cantata, "Man of Sorrows," will be presented by the adult choir of the First Baptist Church, San Rafael, at 11 a.m. Sunday, April 15.

The special public service will be held in the sanctuary at 1411 Lincoln Avenue. The choir will be under the direction of John Tolar. Narrator will be Ross Tetzloff of San Francisco. Soprano soloist will be Mrs. Fred L. Fisher of Mill Valley. James L. Young of Mill Valley will be tenor soloist. Tolar will sing the bass solo. Pastor of the church is Rev. Barrett M. Lampp.

Christian Religion Under Attack Throughout Africa

NAIROBI (UPI) — The Christian religion is under attack in Africa.

From the Cape to Cairo, Christians of various denominations have been harangued, beaten, imprisoned or kicked out of countries in recent months.

In Somalia, the government suddenly ordered all Roman Catholic missionaries to leave the country, Catholic officials here said.

Ethiopian police cracked down on Protestant groups, raiding homes, throwing scores of persons into jail and shaving the heads of women as a mark of disgrace, the sources said.

Some 15,000 Jehovah's Witnesses from Malawi have cautiously returned to their homes after they fled into neighboring Zambia last year following widespread persecution.

Other incidents have been reported in Uganda, Burundi, Egypt and South Africa.

"The whole continent is in turmoil and change," says religious writer Norman Hart. "It is inevitable that the church will get caught up in it."

The Catholic Mirror newspaper said many of the incidents have been inspired by the clash between Islam and Christianity, including the situation in the predominantly Moslem country of Somalia, where, according to Catholic officials, all missionaries were ordered to leave the country.

The exodus has now been temporarily halted pending a review of the situation, the Catholic sources said, but all activity in mission-run hospitals, dispensaries, schools and orphanages has ceased.

In Ethiopia, the sources said, the crackdown against Pentecostal, Lutheran and Baptist groups was inspired by the local and still all-powerful Coptic church trying to protect its position and prevent the influx of competing Christian ideas.

The police action began last fall, and for the first time spread from the countryside into Addis Ababa. Public meeting were banned but when the groups moved into private homes, police raided these, too. The sources said in one swoop some 260 persons were thrown into jail for months and women had their heads shaved.

There was another religious crisis involving the Coptic Church in Egypt last fall when a series of incidents against that country's five million Copts resulted in the destruction of a church in Cairo and clashes between Copts and Moslems.

President Idi Amin of Uganda, a Moslem, has declared war on Christian groups, accusing white missionaries of being mercenaries in disguise and expelling around 60 of them.

In nearby Burundi, President Michel Micombero in a recent speech blamed white missionaries for last year's massacres in which an estimated 150,000 persons died. Church officials were apprehensive Micombero's speech might herald a fresh crackdown against the church.

The estimated 250,000 Jehovah's witnesses in Africa have been in repeated trouble with governments because their religious beliefs often forbid them to enter into what officials consider essential nation building tasks and duties such as national service, paying respect to national flags and singing anthems.

President Hastings Banda of Malawi last year called the Witnesses "devil's disciples" and, tacitly at least, encouraged attacks on them.

After reports of killings, rapes and beatings, 15,000-20,000 members fled into Zambia where, according to church sources, some 300 persons died from measles and dysentery in refugee camps.

Witnesses in South Africa regularly have been sent to prison for refusing to serve in the armed forces. A recent flashpoint occurred when children were suspended from school in the Transvaal for refusing to pay special respect to the national flag.

DEADLINE FOR EASTER NOTICES SET

Special notices for Palm Sunday, Maundy Thursday, Good Friday and Holy Saturday must be received by the Independent-Journal Church Page editor by noon Wednesday.

Notices of the services — both in Marin and Southern Sonoma — will be carried on next Saturday's church page.

The deadline for Easter Sunday services is noon on April 18.

Lay Evangelism Unit Sets Ladies Luncheon

Marin County women, especially those in business and professions, are invited to attend the Marin County Lay Institute for Evangelism ladies luncheon at the NCO Club at Hamilton Air Force Base on Tuesday, April 24, at one o'clock.

Connie Van Maanen, Institute co-director from Palo Alto will be the guest speaker, and information on the Marin County Lay Institute for Evangelism to be held May 3-6 at the Hamilton Air Force Base Chapel will be available. The Institute is designed to explain how one can experience a vital, meaningful Christian life.

Reservations for the luncheon, which will cost $2.50, must be made by April 18, by contacting Arleen Russell, Women's Committee Director, 69 Wallace Way, San Rafael, or Irene Jaquette, Publicity Director, 505 Quietwood Drive, San Rafael.

The lay division of the Campus Crusade for Christ International will conduct the Lay Institute for Evangelism, and over 25 churches in Marin County will be participating in the Institute. The Institute is open to all residents of the county.

Graduate School Applications Sent

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — Applications for admission to the new Assemblies of God Graduate School, which will be officially opened Sept. 4, have been mailed to about 300 persons, Dr. Cordas C. Burnett, executive vice president of the school, reports.

Most of the applications went to persons requesting them or asking for information about the school, which will initially offer courses leading to the Master of Arts degree in Bible-Theology or in Missions.

Lutheran Concert Title Is 'Century Seventeen'

"Century Seventeen" is the title of a concert to be presented tomorrow at 7 p.m. at Marin Lutheran Church, 659 Meadowsweet Drive, Corte Madera.

Featured work of the evening will be Heinrich Schutz' cantata, "The Seven Last Words". Other compositions of the 1600s by Aguilera de Heredia, Frescobaldi, Gabrieli, Sweelinck and Scheidt for organ, solo voices and vocal ensemble also will be featured.

Participants will be: Gerald R. Skeels, Paul Davis, Robert Randig, Ellen Davis, Susan Albrecht Skeels, Anne Walters and Joyce O'Neill. The evening will be an informal one, with comments on the music by Skeels, organist at the church.

The concert is the third in a series presented in connection with the congregation's 25th anniversary and the installation of a new pipe organ earlier this year.

The program:

"Obra de Octavo Tono Alto" (organ), — Aguilera de Heredia;

"Capriccio Pastorale" (organ), — Frescobaldi;

"Ricercar Arioso" (organ), — Gabrieli;

Variations on "Est-ce Mars" (organ) — Sweelinck;

"Magnificat Noni Toni" (organ, vocal ensemble) — Scheidt;

"Give God, the Father, Praise" (tenor, organ) — Schutz;

"Psalm 18" (alto, violin, organ) — Schutz; and

"The Seven Last Words" (vocal ensemble, organ) — Schutz.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Too Much Tax Being Held Out? Work It Out With Employer

If there is too much tax being withheld from your wages because you are entitled to a lot of itemized deductions like taxes on your home, interest on your home, heavy medical expenses, etc., you can file a new Form W-4, Schedule A, based on your 1972 tax return and your withholding for 1973 will be reduced by the amounts that you claim.

If you think this applies to you, be sure to get a Schedule A, W-4, and read the instructions carefully and complete it exactly according to the instructions and chances are your take-home pay will be increased.

If you incurred no income tax liability for 1972 and don't believe you will incur any tax liability for 1973, then you should get Form W-4 E Withholding Exemption Certificat, read the instructions carefully and if they apply to you complete this form exactly as per the instructions and give it to your employer.

You will not have to file an income tax return for 1973 unless your income will be at least:

Single individual $2,050; Single individual 65 or over 2,800; Married couple filing jointly 2,800; Married couple, one spouse 65 or over 3,550; Married couple, both 65 or over 4,300; Married person filing separately 750.

Your employer then has no option, he must discontinue withholding from your wages.

This will save you, your employer and the government the trouble and inconvenience of having tax withheld from your wages and paid into the government and then your having to file an income tax return in 1974 to get the withholding tax back.

Do you have a big federal tax bill to pay this year in addition to what your employer has already withheld from your 1972 paychecks?

Withholding, at the regular rates, only covers the tax on your salary or wages and is inadequate if you have a large salary or earnings from sources not subject to withholding.

The law provides that you can agree with your employer to have him take more than the regular rate of withholding out of your paychecks so that you will have your taxes fully paid at the end of the year.

The W-4 slip you sign for your employer has a special place provided for this. Your employer handles this the same way as other withholding and you report this extra withholding on your tax return the same as any other withholding. This will let you pay your 1973 income tax in 1973 as you receive your income.

If this applies to you, then make such an agreement with your employer now so that you can spread the payment over as long a period as possible.

If you are receiving a pension, you can now have the tax withheld by filing Form W-4 P with the payor of the pension, stating the amount you want withheld and other information required.

Four Are Named To Claremont List

Four Marin County men have been named to the fall list for academic honors at Claremont Men's College, Claremont.

Michael F. Davlin Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael F. Davlin of 68 Scenic Road, Fairfax, was named to the dean's list for posting a grade average of 3.0 or better. Named distinguished scholars for grade point averages of 3.5 or better were Joel Jutovsky, a senior, son of Hanna L. Jutovsky of 3714 Kerner Boulevard, San Rafael; Thomas Kramer, a senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. of 84 Oak Ridge Road, San Rafael, and Timothy Nissan, a senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donn E. Nissen of 607 Tamarack Drive, San Rafael.

Law Day Essay Contest Open

All Marin County high school students are eligible to compete in an essay contest coordinated for the annual Law Day observance of the Marin County Bar Association, attorney Ronald K. Clausen announced yesterday.

Clausen is chairman of the essay contest for the bar association. He said a total of $150 will be awarded to the top three essayists, and they will be guests at the bar association's Law Day luncheon, May 1.

Judges will consider the competitors' age and grade in school, Clausen said. The essays on "Youth and the Law" should run 300 to 500 words, he said, and may be sent on or before April 25 to Clausen at 960 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, 94901.

Profile Of A Marinite

"I just enjoy meeting people and being close to them," says San Rafael's Al Quilici, painting contractor, Rotarian and friend of the little guy and the underdog.

ALFRED D. QUILICI has advanced from grocery store errand boy to head of the Bay Area's second largest painting contracting firm, all the time retaining his interest in civic service and his fellow man, as reflected by such activities as his current tenure as a Rotary International district governor.

(Independent-Journal photo)

By WAT TAKESHITA

Alfred D. Quilici, 57, of San Rafael heads Giampolini & Company, the second largest painting contracting firm in the Bay Area.

In the battle for economic survival and eventual success in the business world, Quilici never lost his interest in people and a genuine concern for the small and the downtrodden.

His first contact with the stern world of making a living was in his father's little grocery store in the ghetto-like neighborhood of Powell and Broadway in San Francisco, where he swept the floor and did errands before and after school hours. It was a long and tough climb from grocery store errand boy to the head of a major contracting firm, but the experience undoubtedly had a strong bearing on Quilici's philanthropic pursuits today.

QUILICI IS District 513 (Redwood Empire) governor of Rotary International. He is putting into practice what Rotary International has been preaching for 68 years — service above self, and the promotion of international understanding.

"Being district governor has been one of the greatest thrills of my life," says Quilici. "I've been able to extend myself all over the world, making friends in Italy, England, Australia, South Africa and throughout the United States."

Fellowship, especially for the underdog and the little guy, has always been one of his main concerns. Back in 1960-61, while he was president of the Painting and Decorating Contractors of America, Quilici initiated the observance of National Painting and Decorating Week, during which he urged every local chapter to undertake a charitable project to aid the poor and the unfortunate.

THAT TRADITION is carried on to this day, with each chapter competing for a national trophy. Last year, the San Francisco chapter, of which Quilici is a member and former president, won the top award.

The project which brought San Francisco that recognition was the cleaning and painting of the men's dormitory of St. Anthony's Dining Room in San Francisco. St. Anthony's Dining Room, operated by St. Boniface Church, feeds the poor the year-round and is a mecca for thousands of hungry and homeless, especially the aged, on Thanksgiving.

This month, Quilici is involved in another major project to promote fellowship. Rotary District 513's annual conference, which will bring together 43 clubs from Menlo Park to Crescent City, will be held for the first time in San Rafael, April 16 through 18.

Housing headquarters will be at the Holiday Inn in Terra Linda, and the plenary sessions and meals will be at the Veterans Memorial Building at the Marin Civic Center.

THE FEATURED speakers include Charles Gould, publisher of the San Francisco Examiner, and Jo Foxworth, advertising executive from New York City.

Marin Rotarians who will have key roles at the conference include Quilici as district governor; Mel L. Morse of San Rafael, conference chairman; Col. Robert S. Nourse of Greenbrae, district secretary, and William P. Murray Jr. of San Rafael, district treasurer.

Marin Rotary clubs that will host the conference are San Rafael, headed by Herbert K. Walton Jr.; Terra Linda, Edward C. Brendel; Novato, Wayne Womack; San Anselmo, Abe Froman; Mill Valley, James E. Egger, and Sausalito, Robert D. Bauerle.

QUILICI WAS BORN in San Francisco on Aug. 26, 1915, in a house which literally stood on what is now Broadway. The house was torn down for construction of the Broadway Tunnel.

A 1933 graduate of Galileo High, Quilici went to work as apprentice for Giampolini & Co., founded in North Beach in 1912 by his grandfather, Severino Giampolini. While working, he attended night school at University of San Francisco for a couple of years.

In 1941, Quilici married Clista Gerhard of Mill Valley and he has been a Marin County resident ever since. His work with Giampolini Co. was interrupted in 1943, when he entered the U.S. Army and served in the South Pacific.

HIS UNIT WAS one of the first to enter Tokyo after the Japanese surrender. His reaction on first encountering the defeated enemy is typical of his interest in people as individuals.

"Everything was wrecked by bombs, but the people were neat and clean," he recalls. "They treated us wonderfully — they'd salute anyone in uniform."

He came out of the service in 1945 as a first sergeant. When Albert Giampolini died in 1947, Quilici became a partner in the firm with his aunt, Genevieve Giampolini, and a cousin, Leo Fregosi.

Quilici became an active leader in the Painting and Decorating Contractors of America, serving as president of the San Francisco chapter in 1951-52, as state president in 1958, and as national president in 1960 and 1961.

IN THE ROTARY movement since 1958, he became president of San Rafael Rotary in 1968 and district governor last year. He was on the board of directors of the Meadow Club and served as its president for two years — 1964 and 1965.

In 1961, he was Marin chairman in the building fund drive for the Junipero. Serra Center for Girls at Mission San Jose. He is on the Citizens Advisory Committee of Dominican College, on the board of directors of the Nazareth House for the aged in Terra Linda, and is a member of St. Raphael's Church.

He and his wife make their home on Twain Harte Lane in San Rafael. They have three grown sons.

QUILICI SPREADS himself thin, dividing his time between the main office at 1445 Bush Street in San Francisco and the branch office at 34 DeLuca Place in San Rafael. In between preparing for the Rotary convention and working for other charitable causes, Quilici still finds time for his personal hobbies — golf, skiing, and swimming.

But his chief hobby continues to be people — sharing their joys, sympathizing with and helping the unfortunate.

"I just enjoy meeting people and being close to them," Quilici explains. "As a youngster, I can remember working in that grocery store with broom in hand. I have met a lot of people from all walks of life, and I've become close to them."

A Nail-Keg Drum And A Washtub Bass

By DON KEOWN

There's no attendance problem when the members of the Novato Rural Band gather at noon-time on Tuesdays for their regular weekly rehearsal at the Marin Valley Mobile Clubhouse near Hamilton Air Force Base.

"We're a dedicated group," says Myrle Dahl, the leader of the band. "We all turn out for practice."

And the big attraction? Fun. For fun, says Mrs. Dahl, is what the Novato Rural Band is all about.

Fun on such "kitchen" instruments as the washboard, a nail keg drum, a mop handle guitar, a washtub bass, a bicycle horn and what have you — plus the less unusual instruments of the accordion (which Mrs. Dahl plays), the piano, the guitar, the ukelele and the mandolin.

THERE ARE currently seven members, all grandparents or old enough to be grandparents.

But it all began with only two in 1967. Mrs. Dahl and Val Hunt formed an entertainment duo of accordion and gutbucket to entertain at convalescent hospitals as a service project of their circle of the Bethel Church in Novato.

They made their first appearance at the Novato Manor Convalescent Hospital, Mrs. Dahl recalls, with a repertoire that led off with "Goofus" and "Yotta."

"It was a community sing sort of thing," she says, "and we would also sing a little, just to get them started."

OUT OF THAT interest in the elderly and hospitalized has grown a career for Mrs. Hunt. She's now activities director with a convalescent home.

Sponsorship of the entertainment unit shifted from church circle to the Newcomers' Club in Novato, and membership grew from two women to 15 members in 1969, all Novato area residents. Added were such instruments as the pretzel can, the scrub board, maracas and a set of horseshoes.

Since then, the group has gone "independent" uner the name Novato Rural Band, and has settled down to the membership figure of seven.

PLAYING WITH the band now in addition to Mrs. Dahl, who has taught accordion since 1944 but still regards herself as "strictly an amateur," are:

Vertie Fisher, who plays the washtub bass that her husband makes for her. He has produced several, using different size tubs with different strings, different lengths of poles, intent upon improving the musical quality of his performer-wife's unusual musical instrument.

Pauline Laino who alternates between her washboard played with thimbles on her fingers, and her nail-keg drum covered with an inner-tube and with an array of bells, horns, wooden blocks and metal accessories. She plays the maracas as well. And sometimes the vivacious grandmother lays aside her drumsticks to dance a can can, a shimmy or a hula, to the delight of audiences.

Evelyn Hogue adds melody with her banjo-uke, a four-string instrument with a short neck, a banjo-type head, and a larger wooden casing around the sides and back of the body. This instrument is no longer being made, although Mrs. Dahl knows of at least three still being played in Marin County. Mrs. Hogue also plays the Melodica, and for Latin pieces shifts to the claves or castanets, to become a part of the rhythm section.

Rose Doane plays melody and also chords on her mandolin, a kind of lute with 12 paired metal strings that are played with a pick or plectrum that is moved rapidly back and forth for a tremolo effect. "Her biggest complaint," smiles Mrs. Dahl, "is that her D-string is always breaking. The D string isn't weak. It's just that Rose plays so enthusiastically."

Jane Welch uses a 40-year-old guitar with a round brass plate attached to its front, that both amplifies and improves the quality of the sound. "She plays chords in the first, fifth and seventh positions, as well as some melody runs in the chord progressions," says Mrs. Dahl, "and she uses a good Latin strum for the rhythm."

LONE MALE member of the band is ragtime pianist Beverly Fisher who improvises at the keyboard with a flair to provide "a nice accompaniment as long as the piano is tuned to the same orchestra pitch as the other instruments." Fisher's bane: Pianos in need of repair that hinder his style.

He is a relatively recent addition to the group, and succeeded a woman ragtime piano player on the recommendation of a member of Marin Valley Mobile Club where the band practices.

"We are," Mrs. Dahl describes her group, "residents of

"I ENJOY working with them as they all are so dedicated. In the past, there have been other members just as talented and just as fascinating, but who could not always find two hours each Tuesday to donate to practice. We do not call those meetings jam sessions, for each time we are learning and expanding our repertoire."

That repertoire is a varied one, ranging from "Irish Washerwoman" to "76 Trombones," and including the likes of "In a Shanty in Old Shanty Town," "Heart of My Heart," "She'll Be Coming 'Round the Mountain," "California Here I Come," "Blue Hawaii," "Cowboy Jack," "Yellow Bird," "When You Wore a Tulip," "Vaya Con Dios" and "The Whole World in His Hands."

"It is the kind of music that appeals most to older listeners," Mrs. Dahl says. "But lately we have been adding some newer tunes."

AS PART OF this continuing effort to expand the band's horizons, Mrs. Dahl spends a good deal of her time experimenting with potential new instruments.

"I think most of my ideas come from my dim, distant memories of the community programs I used to attend as a small child back in Minnesota," she says. "Those were the days of the musical saw and the tire pump."

She has put together a one-string high E guitar on a mop handle, played by running the cigar box up and down the string while it is plucked.

SHE IS WORKING now on playing the tire pump. And she has found pamphlets with instructions on how to play the musical saw and how to build the gutbucket.

"I once made a tuba from a garden hose, a French horn mouthpiece and a trumpet mute," she recalls, then adds: "But that wasn't very successful. I don't know whether it was the construction, or my playing."

Mrs. Dahl adds: "One thing I have found as a result of working with the rural band: When it comes to musical instruments, some people are blowers, some pluckers, some pounders or sawers by natural inclination. And it is hard to get one of them to do the other. A blower just won't pluck."

MRS. DAHL would like to add a harmonica player to her company, but she has been unable to find one. She would like to find, too, someone who has mastered the musical saw.

Of the rural band's rehearsals and performances, Mrs. Dahl says: "There was a time when I was striving for perfection. But I discovered that no matter what I did or said, the members just continued doing what they wanted to do. So I decided to relax, and let them enjoy themselves.

"So we really enjoy ourselves, whether at practice or a performance. I have learned that whenever I clamp down, not only does the fun go out of the thing, but we also don't play as well."

MRS. DAHL and band members are delighted as the audience when over-60 Pauline Laino lays aside her drumsticks and, appropriately costumed, goes into a spirited, high-kicking can can. At one time the entire band was costumed — in 1920-era swimsuits.

In the past year the Novato Rural Band has appeared at such diverse places and events as the Nazareth Retirement Home in San Rafael, the Whistle-Stop Senior Center in San Rafael, Hill Road Convalescent Home in Novato, Lynwood School in Novato, the Presbyterian Church in San Rafael, Novato's Old Town Festival, the Corte Madera-Larkspur Fourth of July celebration, Mill Valley Senior Citizen Center, the Grape Festival, the 4-H parade in Novato, before Novato Kiwanis and San Rafael Masons and Eastern Star, the San Marin Halloween parade, the Marin Valley Mobile Club, at Mission San Rafael Arcangel and at Hamilton Air Force Base.

One special thrill for the amateurs who make up the Novato Rural Band came when they saw themselves on television — briefly — in 1971 in Channel 5's coverage of the San Marin Halloween Parade in Novato.

WHILE THEIR music has a special appeal to the elderly, the rural band has found it is able to entertain other generations.

"And we enjoy the change," says Mrs. Dahl.

Servicemen at Hamilton Base have been an especially responsive audience, she adds. "But wherever we go, they seem to enjoy us."

For their appearances, the band members accept donations that go toward such expense as instruments and their repair, gasoline, etc.

MRS. DAHL is the wife of Allen Dahl, a transit mechanic employed in San Francisco. He is no musician. Neither is any of their three daughters.

"I guess I'm the family freak," she smiles.

Sometimes she and her accordion make solo appearances at receptions, open houses and similar events.

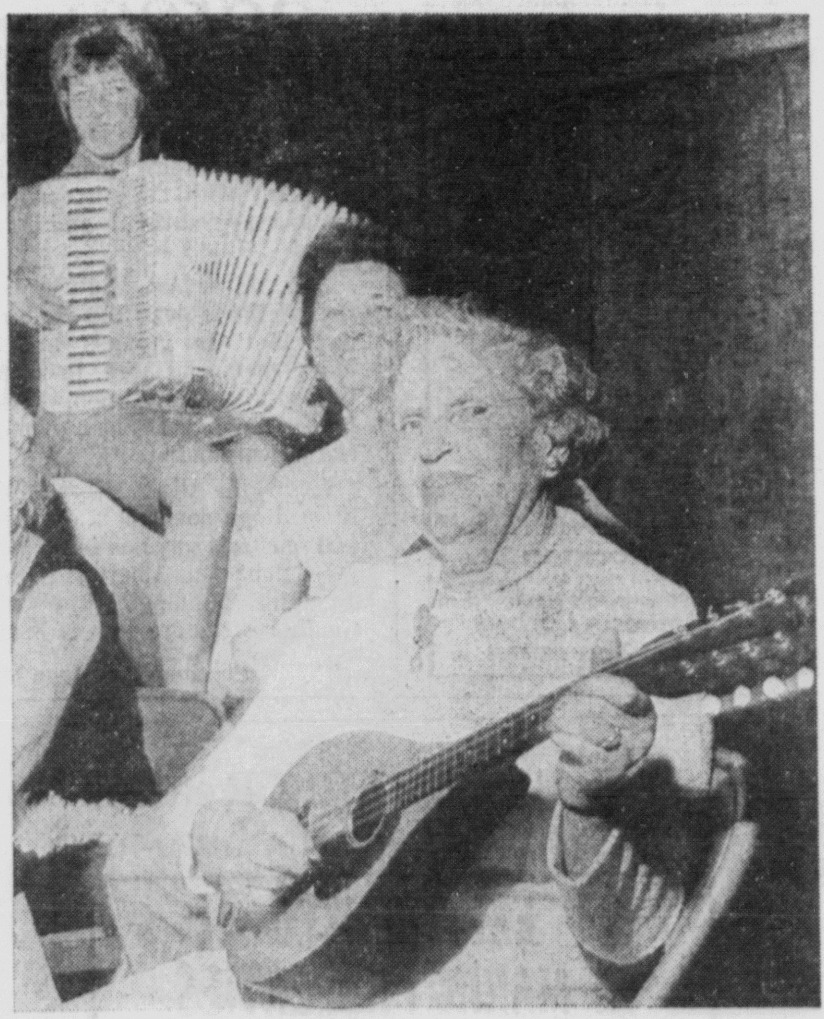
"ONE THING that used to bother us is that until recently most of the requests for our appearances came from out of town," she says. "But that has been changing gradually. Novato seems to have discovered us, and we are getting more and more local calls."

There is, Mrs. Dahl has found, a demand and need for "a knd of music that falls somewhere in-between the Orchestra Piccola, and the Hard Rock with its 12-bar progressions and amplifiers (which we do not use)."

Western tunes, blues, Latin and Irish pieces, waltzes, polkas, hillbilly songs, sing-a-long music from an accordion, banjo-uke, mandolin, guitar piano and an assortment of rhythm instruments can still make Americans tap their feet and nod their heads in time. And to smile and relax, forgetting cares and problems, just as did our ancestors in country schools, around campfires, in sod houses and rancho haciendas, in town halls and other community buildings generations ago.



ON HER MANDOLIN, Rose Doane both chords and plays the melody, and her biggest problem is a D-string that frequently gives way under her enthusiastic playing. Behind her are accordionist Myrle Dahl and banjo-uke player Evelyn Hogue.

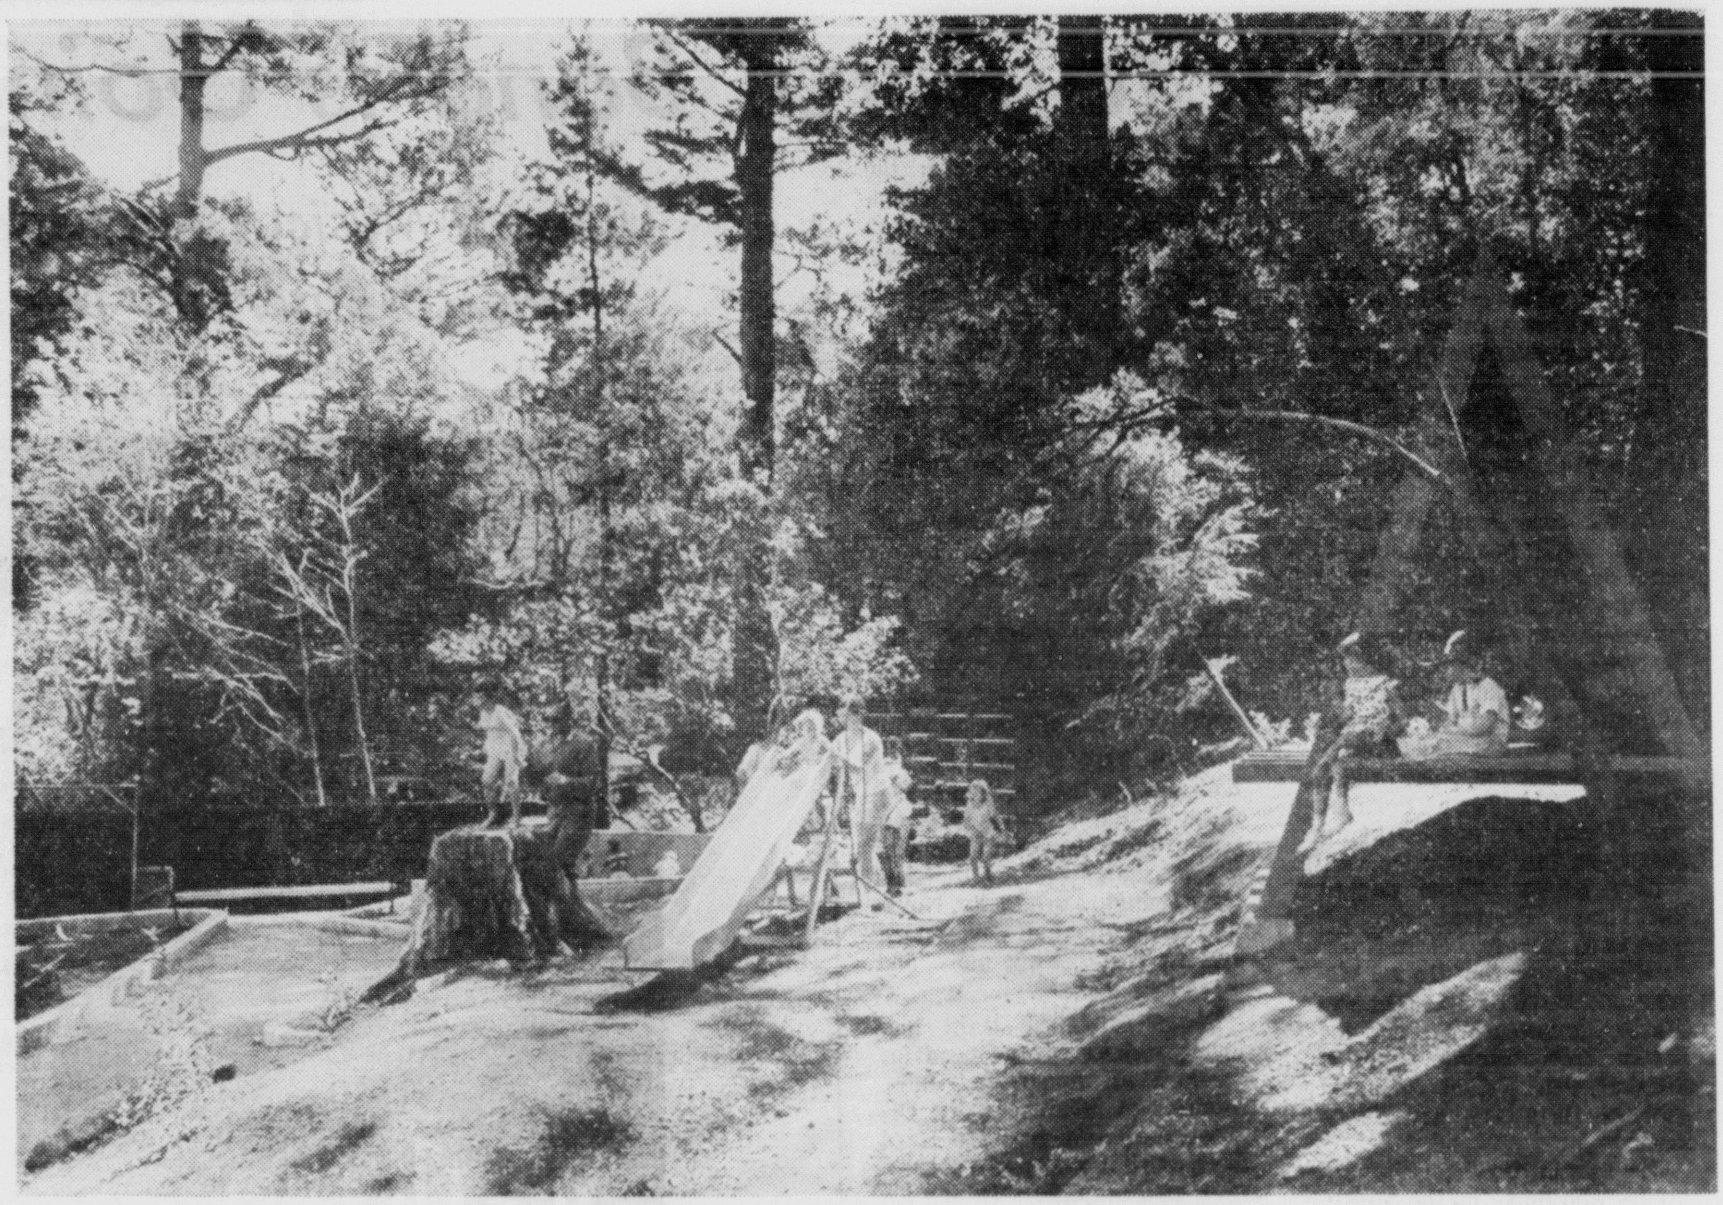
A Place For Play And For Laughter

Happy Tykes At The Center



IN ITS EARLY YEARS, in 1960 when this photograph was taken, just eight years after its founding and two years after the incorporation of Pixie Parents Inc., the Pixie Place playground at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross looked like this. Since then, it has undergone extensive renovation. And yet another badly needed "remodeling" is under way.

By MELANIE MANSUR

Put a dozen or so children into a world of sand and sunshine, provide them with a stimulating play area and imaginative equipment, and what do you wind up with?

Happy children, enjoying a truly creative experience.

And for a playground unsurpassed in sheer personal exhilaration or in cooperative play effort anywhere in the Bay Area, Marin County residents need look no further than their own Ross Valley.

PIXIE PLACE is that rare establishment: The only private, non-profit playground expressly intended for the use of pre-school children in the Bay Area. Located on the grounds of the wooded Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, its individuality is enhanced by surroundings of refreshing natural beauty, all set to a musical background of the laughter of small tykes at play.

The story of Pixie Place and how it grew is another redoubtable chapter in the continuing story of the American — and Marin — tradition of volunteer effort.

Pixie Place originated in 1952 as a small area in the Marin Art and Garden Center developed by the Child Study Group of the Marin Branch, American Assn. of University Women.

In 1956 the parents of the children who used the playground began to take over its management, and in 1958 they incorporated as Pixie Parents Inc. and assumed full responsibility for Pixie Place.

This newly-established group had a membership of some 30 families.

AS PIXIE Parents began to expand and become a stable organization, it became evident that if the playground were to become permanent, it would require a major physical upgrading. Accordingly, the organization began contacting architects expert in the planning of children's playgrounds.

Robert Royston of Mill Valley, well known for his effective design of playgrounds in Palo Alto, Alameda and Oakland, volunteered his services in the designing of a new Pixie Place.

The first requirement was the acquisition of more land. The Marin Art and Garden Center granted the use of an additional 1.2 acres adjacent to the original site.

ROYSTON'S DESIGNS were completed in 1958. Then the Pixie Parents were confronted by the considerable problem of raising the funds to finance the construction and the new equipment that would be required. The estimated cost: $20,000. The sum in the organization's treasury: just $80.

To raise the needed money the entire membership of Pixie Parents was marshalled for a supreme fundraising effort.

A succession of benefit events followed — and eventually the needed thousands were in the bank.

Along with accumulating the finances, the Pixie Parents also volunteered hundreds of work hours toward the renovating and construction of the playground.

ELDON BECK of Royston, Hanamoto, Beck and Abey, landscape architect, recalls that at the time the work began "there wasn't anything there really except a fence and pavilion — and lots of underbrush."

In the end, they had an attractive playground replete with child-safe paths and with individual play areas geared to the special needs of the ages of the children involved, all in harmony with the surrounding landscape, natural and nurtured.

The Marin Art and Garden Center holds dear the philosophy that its grounds are a living memorial area. In keeping with that tradition, Pixie Place is intended to be a memorial playground.

In 1953 the Albert Evers family of Ross donated a covered and enclosed pavilion in memory of their son, Albert J. Evers Jr. This building is an all-weather structure that is heated and contains kitchen and bathroom facilities.

ONE ENTIRE play area and the equipment therein is a memorial to Dr. William J. Kerr Jr. It consists of a large free-form area of sand into which slides, mounted low on a hill, deposit their young travelers. Concrete climbing and hiding places complete the memorial area.

Another such memorial is the fragrant and shady wisteria arbor erected in memory of Camille Laurent Diesmen, a Pixie Parent member whose special interest was in the garden areas of Pixie Place.

Several other memorial areas grace the grounds of Pixie Place.

Since the construction of Pixie Place in 1958 a continuing effort to keep up with maintenance and add new play and safety equipment has been carried out. In 1971, however, Pixie Parents agreed that a major renovation job was necessary.

At this time, Pixie Parents contacted Michael Painter of Michael Painter and Associates, Landscape Architects, of Mill Valley and he volunteered his services to master plan for the necessary renovation work. Frank Peccorini, landscape contractor of San Rafael, contracted to do the work.

But again, many volunteer hours were necessary on the part of Pixie Parents.

THOUSANDS OF cubic feet of sand and tanbark, Pixie's play area groundcovers, were replaced, additional play equipment was added, and much play equipment was rearranged to allow for separation of older from younger children. Much landscaping and path rearranging was done to correct ecological damage incurred by wear and tear and by time since 1958 when the last major work had been done.

Painter has on the drawing of wood boards a new functional play structure which will be acquired by Pixie Place in the near future. It is a climbing and swinging structure complete with rope and tire swings, nets to catch adventuresome souls, and angles and dangles designed to stimulate the imaginations of Pixie's older children.

All these maintenance efforts, renovations and new play equipment cost money far in excess of the annual dues to Pixie Parents Inc. Indeed, the dues cover only annual operating expenses.

The annual dues are $7 — $3.50 of which goes towards membership in the Marin Art and Garden Center, netting Pixie Parents only $3.50 a year from each member family. This annual fee has not changed since the early 1960s.

PIXIE PARENTS cooperate in many of the fundraising events of the various organizations of the Marin Art and Garden Center during the year. But all funds realized by these events are donated to the Center.

The only annual fundraising event which Pixie Parents hold solely for the benefit of Pixie Place is its Easter Egg Hunt and Fair. Proceeds from this event are what Pixie Parents use to renovate and add to the charm and facilities of Pixie Place.

This year, marking the 18th annual Easter Fair, the event will be held on the grounds of the Marin Art and Garden Center next Wednesday and Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. daily.

Each year the fair has grown from its early days of only an egg hunt. This year the thousands of pre-school age children who attend may choose from the traditional egg hunt, pony and pony cart rides, meeting Big Bunny, popping through the Rabbit Hole, viewing a puppet show and several new events such as an "amazing maze" or the "Creative Play Experience" sponsored by the Louise A. Boyd Memorial Museum and directed by Stephen Siege.

A special "Bunny Lunch" will be available for picnicking on the center's beautiful grounds.

There is no admission charge for entrance to the fair, and tickets for all events may be purchased at the gate.

PIXIE PLACE today is the end result of thousands of dollars raised and hours donated, simply for the love of children. The joy brought to the children who year around revel in the safety and stimulation of Pixie Place is returned a thousand fold to all the children of the Bay Area through the annual Easter Fair.

Membership in Pixie Parents Inc. is open to all parents of pre-school age children in the Bay Area. Inquiries may be addressed to Mrs. Robert Tocchini, president. Or simply directed to one of the many busy Pixie Parents who will be on hand next week to make certain of the success of their traditional Easter holiday event.

IF PHYSICAL FACILITIES at Pixie Place have changed considerably through the years, the happy laughter of playing children has not. Eric Kaiser, 2, of Larkspur, enjoys a swing, with his mother, Pat, watching. Next Wednesday and Thursday the Marin Art and Garden Center will be the scene of the annual Easter Fair for children.

THE NOVATO LIBRARY, a branch of the Marin County library system, is one of the interior design assignments Phyllis Martin-Vegue has enjoyed as head of the interior design department and associate with Marquis & Stoller, Architects and Planners. In the layout, decoration and furnishing of the attractively light and airy Novato library, Mrs. Martin-Vegue worked with Maurice Sands, consulting designer.

Those Are Among The Responsibilities Of Phyllis Martin-Vegue, Designer

COVER PHOTO

IN THE executive dining room of the Commerce Clearing House regional headquarters on San Rafael's Quail Hill, this rich tapestry by Mark Adams provides the color and warmth needed, interior designer Phyllis Martin-Vegue felt, to offset the concrete that makes up the mass of the building. It represents the colors of a French hillside vineyard, and measures six feet square.

There is nothing unusual today in an architectural firm including in its staff one or more interior designers.

Still, Phyllis Martin-Vegue of Lucas Valley feels her position with the award-winning firm of Marquis & Stoller, Architects and Planners, is unusual in that she has been elevated to the position of full-fledged associate within the corporation.

As such, she heads the Marquis & Stoller interior design department.

Her department is not a large one from the personnel standpoint.

"IT CONSISTS of myself, and a part-time secretary," she says frankly. But she has access to the drafting staff and the other highly specialized personnel in the offices at 717 Beach St., San Francisco.

And her responsibilities are considerable: She is charged with space planning, color coordination, furniture selection, design and specification, budgeting, and the graphics for Marquis & Stoller jobs.

Says Robert Marquis: "By offering these services within our own firm, rather than relying solely on outside consultants, we are able to improve our program in three imortant areas — in communication with the client, in coordination between the architecture and interior design, and in cost control."

Mrs. Martin-Vegue has now been with the firm two years.

SHE RECEIVED her education in interior design at the College of Architecture and Design, University of Michigan. After graduation she worked for several years with the interior design firm of Emily C. Novak Inc. in San Francisco. After a year as senior designer with the architectural firm of Smith, Hinchman & Grylls Associates Inc. in Detroit, she returned to San Francisco to form a partnership with Miss Novak.

AT HER DESK at the Marquis & Stoller architectural offices at 737 Beach St., San Francisco, Phyllis Martin-Vegue takes a telephone call in connection with her responsibilities as head of the firm's interior design department and as an associate in the corporation. She is in charge of space planning, color coordination, furniture selection, design and specification, budgeting and graphics for the buildings designed by the award-winning architectural firm. Her prime project in February, when this photo was taken, was the remodeled University of California Faculty Club in Berkeley, a building originally designed by the famous Bernard Maybeck.

With Marquis & Stoller, she has designed interiors for such diverse institutions as libraries, banks, private clubs, office buildings, educational facilities and prvate clubs.

She considers commercial buildings "my field," and whenever she works in private residences, her responsibilities are generally limited to space planning and color advice.

THE MARQUIS & Stoller assignment that she regards as "perhaps my most exciting" dealt with the decorating and furnishing of the modern new Commerce Clearing House regional headquarters building on San Rafael's Quail Hill.

"Because people there work together a lot, and work frequently in different, fast-changing combinations, we strove for an open plan —we call it office landscaping," she says. "What we were after was a plan that permitted the people to move about and to communicate with greater ease. There was to be no separation into small, individual offices.

"And, also of prime importance, was planning to make certain that the entire personnel could share in the enjoyment of the magnificent view from Quail Hill."

A POINT OF special pride with Mrs. Martin-Vegue was the choice of a tapestry, custom-designed by Mark Adams and woven in France, and representing the brilliant colors of a hillside French vineyard, for the jception area.

Done all in wool, six feet square, it provides what Mrs. Martin-Vegue considered to be a necessary texture and warmth called for "because so much of the building is concrete."

A painting as that large focal point would not have provided that same dimensional texture and warmth achieved by the tapestry, she feels.

Another inclusion was a 15-foot-tall stainless steel, fluted garden sculpture by Tony DeLap, in the garden court.

IT REFLECTS the keen interest of Richard K. Duncan, Commerce Clearing House vice president, in the fine arts.

Duncan, says Mrs. Martin-Vegue, "was a fantastic client — a delightful person with whom to work." And Bob Marquis described Duncan as "a modern DeMedici" because of his interest in and knowledge of the arts.

A current assignment from which Mrs. Martin-Vegue is deriving much enjoyment and satisfaction is the restoration of a beautiful old Bernard Maybeck building in conjunction with a new Marquis — Stoller-designed dining pavilion for the University of California Faculty Club in Berkeley.

"IT IS particularly challenging because one has to deal with the beautiful feeling that Maybeck had for architecture, and let it set the mood —almost one of nostalgia," she says, "and yet work largely with things that are produced today as its furnishings."

Thus modern copies of the old Windsor chairs, newly manufactured but completely in keeping with that Maybeck feeling, were included in the decor.

An exception to the contemporary origins, if not feeling, of the furnishings were some old Morris chairs found on the premises and being refurbished for use again.

THE PLANNING of the faculty club restoration is ow in its final stages.

In contrast to the more leisure and considered approach taken to the Berkeley assignment was a "hurry-up" call from Xerox which wanted a quick job done on its research center in Palo Alto.

"I had just two weeks," Mrs. Martin-Vegue says, "and my main concern was with personnel who had been newly assigned to work in the sement area. The idea was to make them feel that their surroundings were as nice as those enjoyed by workers on the upper floor."

One device used by Mrs. Martin-Vegue was the use of impressionistic murals of windows with garden scenes beyond — "very contemporary, and yet very warm."

PLANS HAVE been finished and accepted for the interior of a proposed new library at California Polytechnic in San Luis Obispo, but funds for the building have not yet been forthcoming.

Other recent jobs have included offices and showrooms for Arnelle of California, a San Francisco dress manufacturer, and the offices of Love Cosmetics in New Yorkity.

Mrs. Martin-Vegue's husband Frank works as an executive with Tiburon Vintners. She has decorated their own home in Lucas Valley, but adds: "We have been there only a year, so it really hasn't jelled as yet."

Besides, she adds, her primary interest lies in the commercial building field.

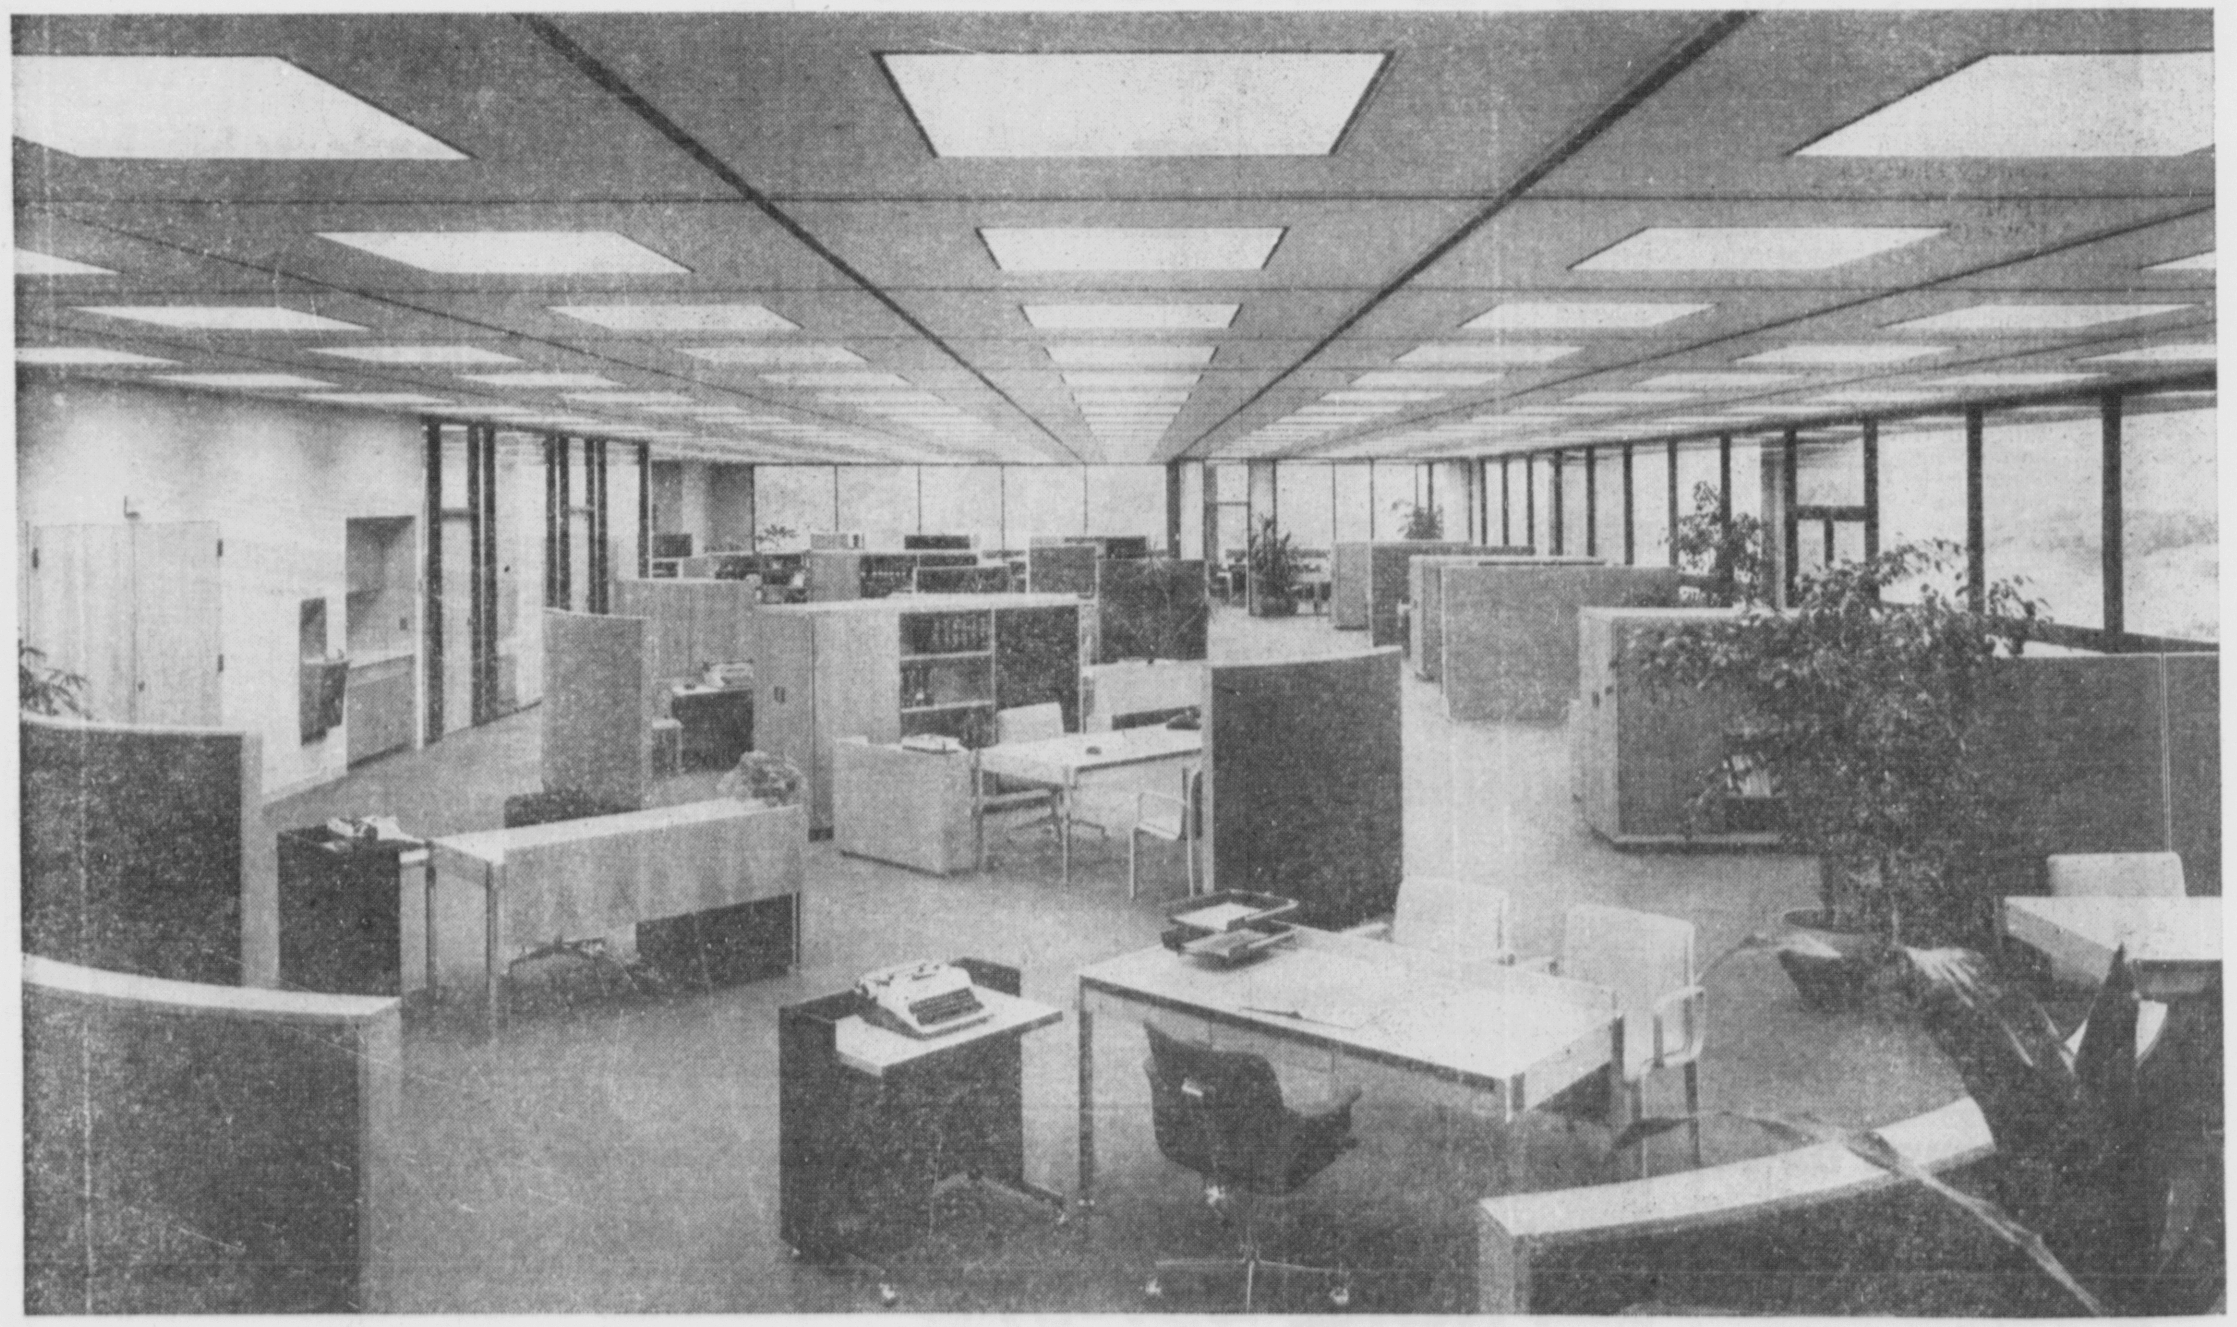
At age 30, Mrs. Martin-Vegue feels that her association with the comparatively small firm is an ideal arrangement for her professionally "because it gives me the option f immense variety of design, instead of being pigeon-oled into one type or time."

She feels, too, that all architects should either hire interior design consultants or, preferably, have interior designers within their firm "so that clients can enjoy the benefits of coordination of design talents from start to finish on a job."

And she attributes the success she has already enjoyed to "the simple fact that I enjy my work."



REGIONAL HEADQUARTERS of Commerce Clearing House on San Rafael's Quail Hill is regarded by interior designer Phyllis Martin-Vegue as one of her most challenging and satisfying interior design assignments, since she joined Marquis & Stoller, Architects and Planners, two years ago. A prime objective in the "interior landscaping" she planned for the new building was an ease of communication among personnel working closely with one another, but frequently changing working partners and combinations. Thus there are no office walls or separate cubicles to hinder freedom of movement and communication. Another principal goal was to permit all Commerce Clearing House staff members and employees to share in the enjoyment of the magnificent view from the hilltop site.

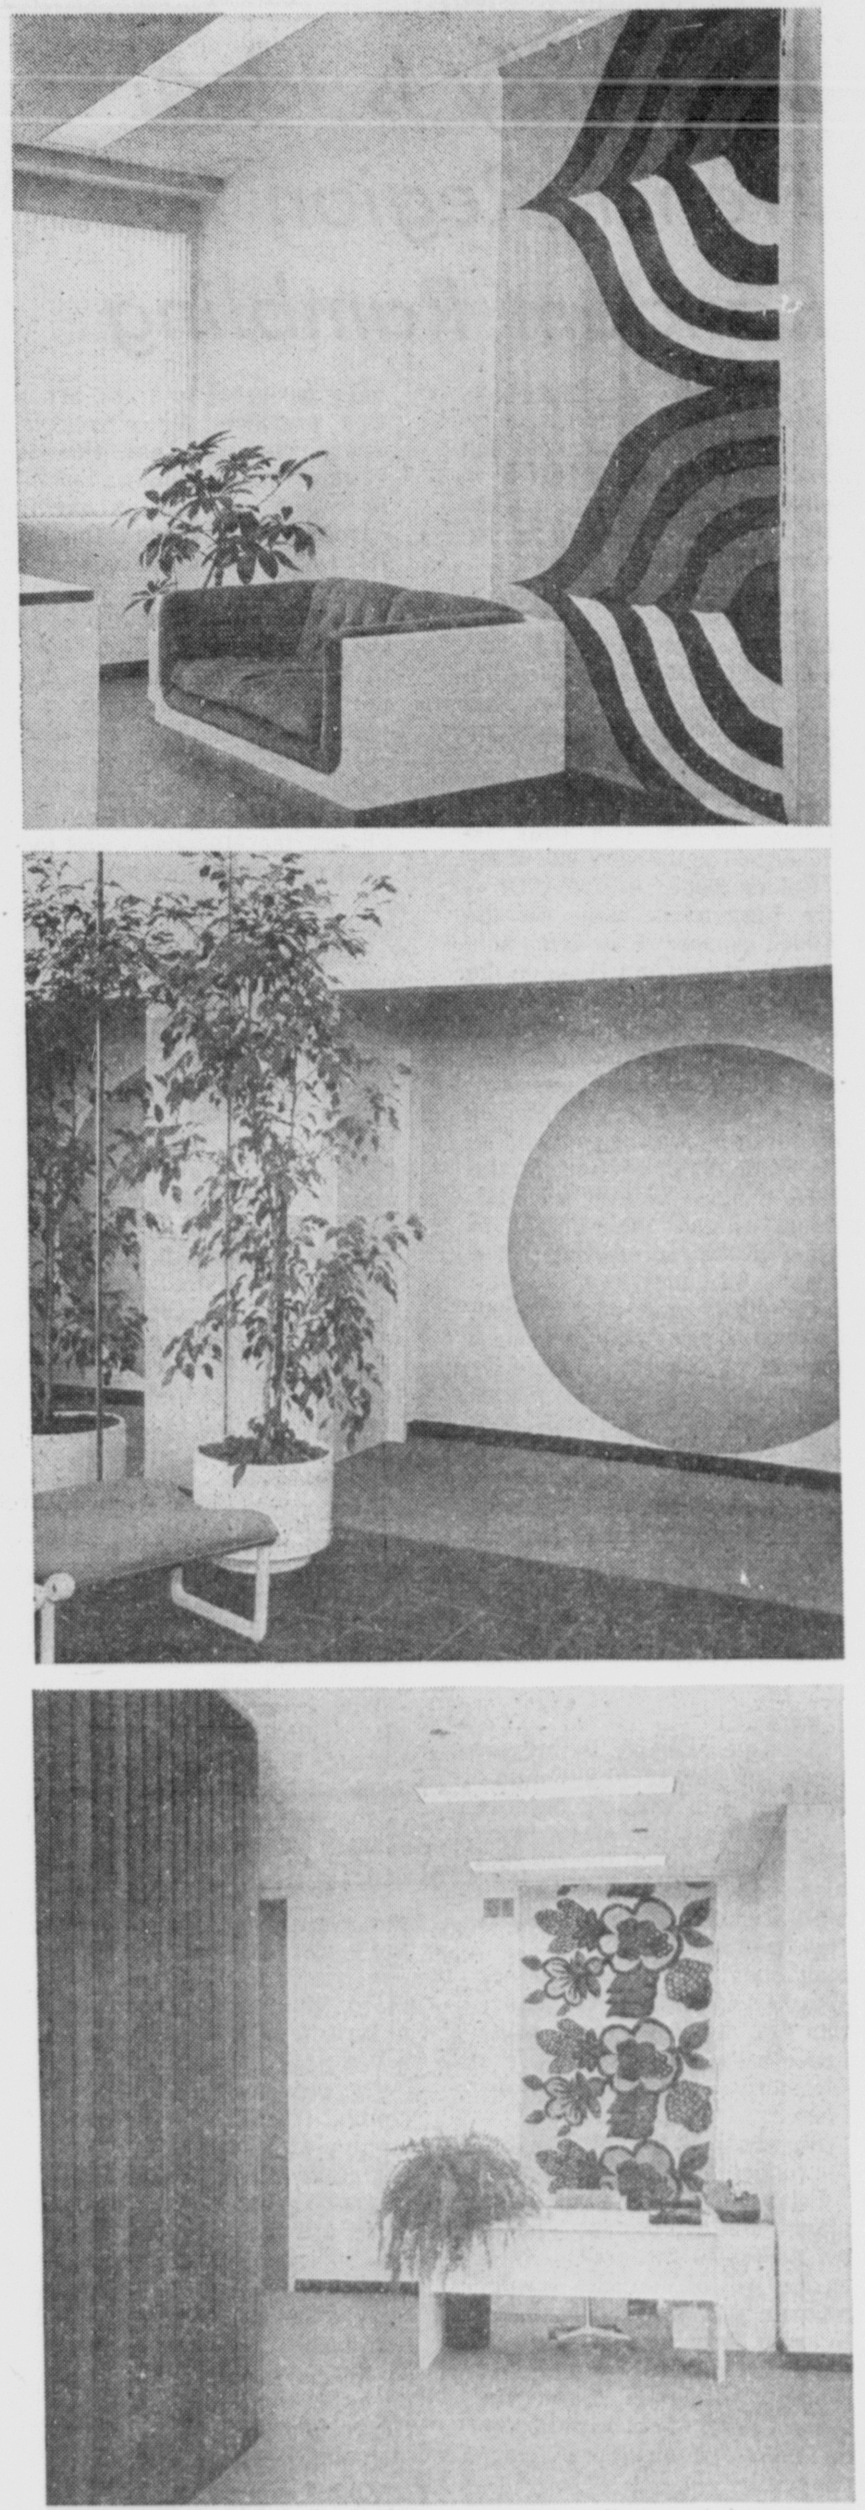
HER IDEAS FOR the interior design of a building have reached the point where Phyllis Martin-Vegue is ready to make a presentation to the representatives of a Marquis & Stoller client. The scene is the conference room in the San Francisco Beach Street offices of the architectural firm. (Photo by Lamberto Moris)



THE THREE PHOTOS above show areas of the offices and showrooms of Arnelle of California at 1500 16th St., San Francisco, as designed by Phyllis Martin-Vegue. The building was formerly a chemical warehouse, and remodeled according to the design of Marquis & Stoller. In planning the decor, Mrs. Martin-Vegue says, she stressed "lots of bright color and bold wall interest," and also the use of plants for their fresh appeal and delicate contrast. Although Mrs. Martin-Vegue considers herself a specialist in commercial and public buildings, she was also called upon to do the interior design for the new San Francisco home of Edward Stearns, the president of Arnelle of Calinornia. Several Marin homes also bear the stamp of her creative ideas in interior design.

Burgundy Is Ideal French Region For Random Rambling

La Province de Bourgogne, with its rolling countryside replete with vineyard castles and ancient churches reflected in silver-stream serenity, is, like its food and wines, to be savored leisurely.

What is Burgundy?

Put most simply, it is a color, an area, a wine, a feeling! This cultural tapestry stretches from the Crusaders' Vezelay and dukedom of Dijon to merchant Macon.

AT BURGUNDY'S crossroads, Beaune can truly be described as the very hub of the "Golden Slope" — Cote d'Or — the Burgundian name for the gilded expanse of low-lying hills which extend from Dijon on the north to Santenay in the south. Here, ocher fields are crested with a sea of sun-splashed vines and golden stone steeples.

The robust French province of Burgundy was as powerful as La Belle France itself in the Middle Ages hen the splendid dukes spread their might to other European nations. As a result, Burgundy is also home for Romanesque and Flemish art and edifices, with a French accent.

Even the Greek influence is evidenced by the Sixth Century B.C. bronze mixing bowl discovered in Vix and now in Chatillon-sur-Seine in a museum, the delightful Maison Philandier Renaissance manor housing fine archeological collections.

AT BEAUNE, the wine capital, one savors the essence of Burgundy.

A prime example is the perfectly preserved 15th Century Hospice — a working hospital — and a Gothic masterpiece with multi-colored tile roof that also shelters treasures of Flemish-Burgundian art. Notable is the polyptych of the Last Judgement by Roger van der Weyden. Close by is the Musee du Vin de Bourgogne, while beneath the town ramparts are fascinating cellars that may be visited.

Burgundy is the ideal region for random rambling.

From Paris, one may speed along main autoroutes — quickest access to the area — then easily get off on the scenic, secondary roads and wander, by auto, bike or foot, through the pastoral pleasures and gastonomic offerings. Even "in season," there is little difficulty in finding comfortable lodging, especially in out-of-the-way places.

GOOD LIVING has been casually perfected to a fine art in this province. Many connoisseurs contend that this is France's outstanding gastonomic region as well as having earned it an accolade rating for its world-renowned red and white wines.

Ah, the wines! From Sens in the northwest district of Yonne to Macon in the southwest district of Saone and Loire, are vintages to both please and excite the palate. The Chablis region, the Cote de Nuits, the Cote de Beaune, the Cote de Chalon, the Maconnais and the Nivernais constitute the six major wine-growing regions of Burgundy.

Sens serves as the gateway into Burgundy.

AT CITY CENTER stands one of the oldest Gothic cathedrals in France and its treasury contains the robes of Thomas Becket among other important reliquaries. From Sens, one may wish to meander through to Pontigny, Chablis and stop over in Auxerre to visit the historic Cathedral of Saint-Etienne and the abbey church of Saint-Germain, whose crypts contain very rare Carolingian frescoes. Then continue through the valley of the Cure into the green and peaceful landscape of the Morvan.

Burgundy, in eastern France, has just about every scenic splendor one can imagine — plains, plateaus, lakes, rivers, canals, magnificent forests and mountains as well as rich valleys and hillsides.

Wine is one of the key materials of Burgundian cuisine. It not only accompanies a dish in Burgundy, it is an integral part in the making — it marinates, seasons, colors and flavors.

AND BURGUNDY'S most prized jewels are its sunny sloping vineyards, with such evocative names as Romanee, Pommard, Montrachet, Chambertin (a favorite of Napoleon), Moulin a Vent, and Morgon.

The province's flavorful beef comes from the celebrated creamy-white herds of Charolais cattle which feed on fertile pastures in the Nivernais. Then there are the succulent chickens from the Bresse district, or game, cooked to a delicious turn, from its superb forests. Add to this the unique specialty of Burgundy, the escargot or perhaps the spicy, fragrant golden mustard which carries the name Dijon.

Truly a gastronomic paradise which raises a sigh even in other regions of France.

CONTINUING BY auto from Burgundy's northwest portal, a deligtful "must" u a visit to Vezelay and the town's abbey of the Madeleine, with its incomprable facade, the whole, a masterpiece of Romanesque art. It is here that the Second Crusade began, preached by Saint Bernard, and with King Louis its leader.

Close by is the old fortified town of Avallon, shielded behind its ancient ramparts. Spending a day or two there will prove a gastronomic highlight, for the Hostelerie de la Poste and the Moulin de Ruats are considered among the best in the country. Avallon is an excellent setting-off spot for excursions to the north of the Massif du Morvan.

A SOUTHWESTERLY trek brings the motorist to the former Roman town of Autun, with its remains of the largest theater in Roman Gaul, and its sanctuary, the "Temple of Janus." Autun's cathedral has the delightful, vivid sculpture of Giselbertus, and a climb to the belfry offers a view of the serene countryside. Afterwards, one should see the Musee Rolin at its base, where the bas-relief of the "Temptation Eve" is on exhibit.

As an alternative, you may take the auto route from northern Tonnere to Fontenay, where the abbey is considered the purest, most perfect model of Cistercian art, and to Dijon, capital of the Dukes of Burgundy.

Dijon is filled with history. Home of the "Grand Dukes of the West," Dijon was the 14th Century hub of a province as powerful as France itself, stretching to the North Sea, including among its possessions a good part of Belgium, half the Netherlands, and the Duchy of Luxembourg. The legendary feasts given in the palace at Dijon established early the reputation of Burgundians as hearty eaters and drinkers.

A BIT TO the south and west of Dijon is ougeot, a tiny Burgundian village which s the center of probably the greatest wine region of France. The Chateu du Clos de Vougeot was built by Cistercian monks in 1551 Its vines date to the 12th Century. On certain nights of the year it is a mecca for the wine-lovers of the world when the Chevaliers du Tastevin gather to do honor to wines of Burgundy.

Within the vicinity of Dijon are the intriguing little towns of Tournus, whose Romanesque abbey church is unique and inspiring, and Cluny, one of the great names in the history of western civilization. Founded in 910, this Benedictine order once boasted an abbey church which was the largest in Christendom. The southern arm of its great transept and two towers still stand.

Further south, Macon, the birthplace of Lamartine, is an important commercial center. The Saone, here nearly 1,000 feet wide, offers a straight, two-mile stretch of water, an exceptional course for competitive rowing.

Glacier Park Is America's Answer To Swiss Alps

Glacier Park is to the USA what the Swiss Alps are to Europe.

The "Crown of the North American Continent" on the Montana-Canadian border, sprawling over one million acres, is a constant delight and lure for the escapist — be he comfort-conscious or camper.

The park's thousands of miles of trout streams, 250 lakes and 60 living glaciers are easily accessible from major air terminals and by superb highways and even by rail —the Am Track Railroad system services East and West Glacier Park.

YOU DON'T NEED a car to enjoy all the park's wonders.

Glacier Park Inc.'s quaint open-topped, sky-view buses, reminiscent of Europe's charabancs, take you leisurely through the park's pine and cedar-scented forests and breathtakingpasses over towering mountains which are forever snow-capped.

There's something for everyonenin Glacier Park.

There are thousands of miles of trails for hikers and horseback riders, tranquil lakes for launch ides, and there are gracious hotel verandas from which the visitor can absorb the peace and tranquility of this western Eden.

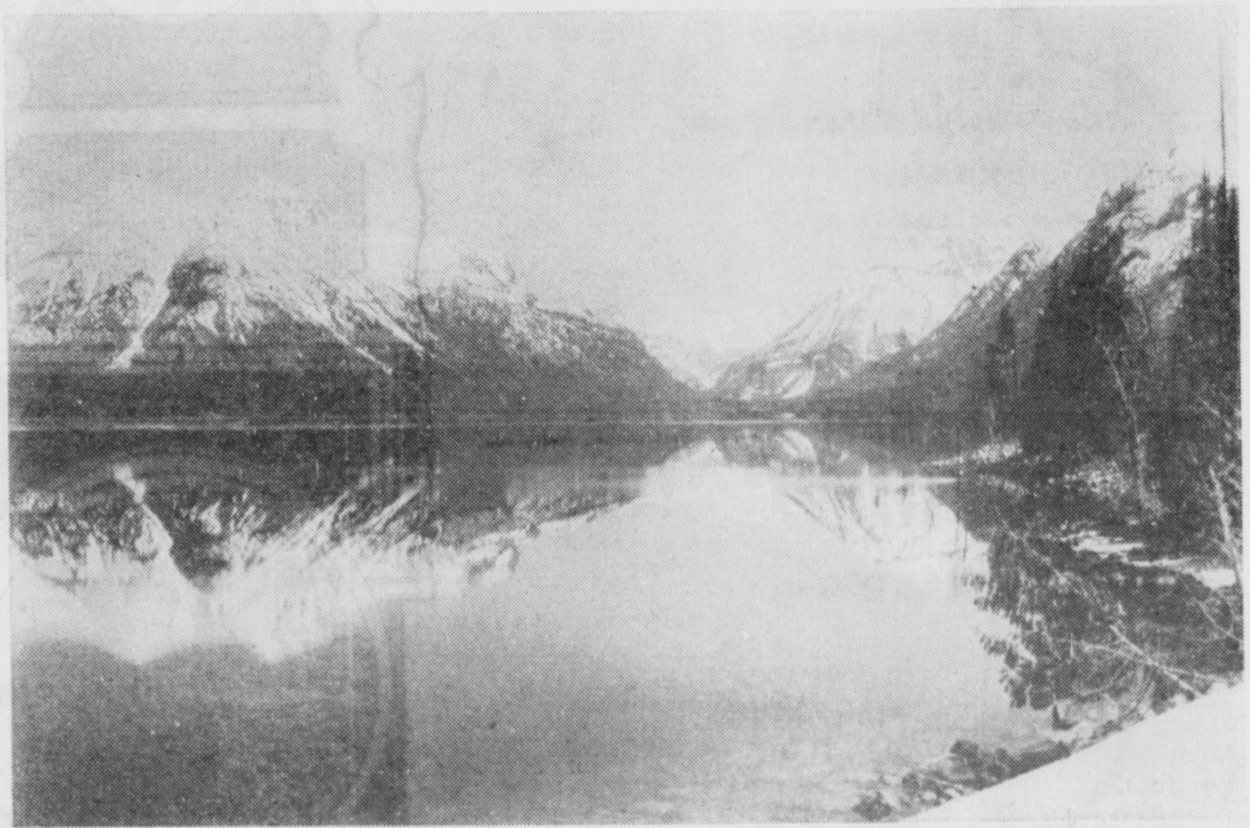
BESIDES THE comfortable hotels, there are meticulously maintained and unobtrustive campsites. Even the man-made structures like East Glacier's unusual challenging nine-hole golf course, blend easily into the park's natural beauty.

The photographer enjoys unlimited opportunities to "capture" the park's wildlife — bear, moose, deer, elk, mountain goats, bighorn sheep, birds of every hue (including the bald eagle) and innumerable denizens of the forest. Or he can focus on Grinnell Lake and Glacier which appear turquoise because of the sun's reflection off the glacial silt.

Near the center of the park is 6664-foot Logan Pass, a cleft in the mighty Continental Divide, bounded on one side by massive stone walls encrusted in ice and snow, and on the other by a dazzling yellow carpet of glacial lillies.

THEN THERE are Grick Falls with waters roaring over the mountainside to disappear into an eerie underground cavern before plunging out again to form an icy clear pool below.

Glacier Park may be known as the Switzerland of America, but you are aware that this is Indian territory. Names of mountains like Rising Wolf and Thunderbird, and lakes named Swiftcurrent and Two Medicine recall the American Indians' heritage. Even the magnificently engineered Going-To-The-Sun highway is named for the Indian god, Napi, whom the Blackfeet believed lived in the sun and took this route back to his celestial home after visiting his children.



A SHORT BOAT RIDE and an overland hike from Many Glacier Hotel treats Glacier National Park guests to this breathtaking spectacle of remote and beautiful Josephine Lake, nestled among snow-crowned mountains.

The park's four splendid hotels, famous for expert service and fine food, and three modern motels, are staffed by thoroughly trained professional and carefully selected college students from all across the United States.

BESIDES providing cheerful, considerate service, the talented and accomplished students double as entertainers for the hotel guests. Staying at any one of the park's accommodations — Many Glacier, Glacier Park Lodge, Lake McDonald Lodge, Prince of Wales (on the Canadian side), Village Inn, Rising Sun Motor Inn or Swiftcurrent Motor Inn —offers Americans and tourists from abroad a wonderful opportunity to meet a fine cross-section of American college youth.

Most hotel facilities, tours and other activities are open June 15 through Sept. 9, but some cater for the pre-season and post-season visitors seeking the gentle greens and blossoms of spring, or the fall's brilliant colors. Roads are open as soon as they can be cleared, usually mid-May and remain open until snow makes them impassable in October.

The park's winter delights are fast being discovered by the cross-country skier and snowmobile enthusiast.

GLACIER PARK Inc. offers two to five-day tours which include first-class hotel accommodations with either American or European plan. The tours allow time to stop over at any point for an overnight pack trip, an afternoon hike, launch or horseback ride, or a morning of golf.

Athletes And Ethics

By DON KEOWN

DON'T BLAME THE GAME by Bill Glass and William M. Pinson Jr.; Word, 168 pages, $4.95.

The past few years have seen a splattering of expose-type books by athletes who have bared the problems of the games they play — and often a great deal of their personal lives as well.

These were far different books from the older, ghost-written genre that recited the heroics of the superstars for a hero worship cult, and gave superficial or no attention to activities off the playing field or arena.

While the older books enjoyed only a limited readership, and this largely among juveniles, both under and over 21, the new expose-type books with their sensational revelations often hit the best-seller lists. And stir heated controversy.

"Don't Blame the Game" by former Cleveland Brown defensive end Bill Glass, assisted by William M. Pinson Jr., a professor of Christian ethics at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Tex., represents yet a third kind of sports book.

It offers a rebuttal to the criticisms by Jim Bouton, Dave Meggyesy, Bernie Parish and others of sports, and it suggests as well that disclosures by Joe Namath, Marty Domres and others of the freewheeling aspects of their personal lives were unnecessary, unwise and in poor taste, presenting the public with an untrue and unfair picture of the professional athlete.

Glass and Pinson root their stands in a staunch belief in the Christian faith and ethics. And they contend that there is far greater support among fellow athletes for their concept of what constitutes proper behavior for a sports figure than for the do-your-own-thing philosophy of Namath, et al.

The format used by Glass and Pinson is to lead off each chapter with a quote from the opposition, touching upon one particular facet of sports and social ethics. The two authors then rebut that quote, using a dialogue format in which they alternate in commentary. At first, the technique is mildly disconcerting. But one adjusts, and on the whole the approach is effective and persuasive.

At the outset, Pinson generally takes the role of devil's advocate, setting up straw men for partner Glass to bowl over. But as the book progresses, the professor joins the ex-footballer more genuinely as a participant in the argument.

Some of the topics tackled head-on include the charges of brutality, the claim that professonal athletes under contract for their services are degraded to slave status, racial prejudice, the use of drugs, drinking, the emphasis upon money, the playboy morality, "bump-and-run" sex, gambling and even swearing.

To Dave Meggyesy's report of "incredible racism. . .in the (St. Louis) Cardinals' organization and throughout the league," Glass admits that "racial prejudice at one time was a serious problem in sports." But he adds:"Things are getting better." And summarizes: "In some ways pro sports reflect the prejudice of American life, but they don't contribute to it. Athletes can't take credit for all the improvements in race relations over the last few years. But they deserve some credit. Keep in mind that any racism in pro sports is the product of a sickness in our society and in mankind in general. Don't blame the game."

Where Joe Namath says, "Most of the time, there's got to be some fun mixed with the business, or I just won't bother with it," Pinson retorts: "The person who spends his life seeking pleasure seldom, perhaps never, finds what he seeks. Making happiness the chief goal of life is a sure way not to find it. The best way to find happiness is to forget about it."

And Glass comments: "The pleasure approach to life says: Get wealth. Enjoy sensual activity. Life for yourself. But if you make your goal serving others, you discover real happiness."

Glass counters the claim that athletics breed militarism, and interjects his own belief: "Too much militarism exists in this country and throughout the world. The amount of money spent on armaments is a disgrace. Why waste our resources fighting one another? We need to combat our real enemies — hunger, poverty, racism, ignorance, pride, selfishness. . .We have so many real problems, (but) it's ridiculous to attack sports which are predominantly helpful."

Drugs, drinking, gambling, profanity, casual sex are all less prevalent in sports than the expose books have suggested, Glass and Pinson maintain, and Namath, "something of a high priest for playboyism —fun morality," is not the typical athlete.

Their nominee would seem to be another quarterback, Roger Staubach, who wrote the preface for the book — "Many people call me a square. My reaction is simply this —if loving my family and being a Christian are the traits, then I'm proud of being a square." — and who is quoted frequently in the pages that follow.

Quite probably, neither Namath nor Staubach is truly representative of the average professional sports star, whose personality and ethical standards probably lie somewhere in the wide gap between the two.

And in assessing the moral climate of professional sports, once again the truth is probably to be found somewhere in the middle —less swinging than a reading of Bouton or Namath would indicate, less straight-laced than Glass and Pinson might lead one to believe.

One thing is certain: A Bouton book with its humor is more fun to read than the Glass-Pinson book. For Glass and Pinson are utterly serious and unquestionably sincere. In their defense of sports and their upholding of Christian moral standards, they have no time for witticisms.

Still, they have written an interesting book, and their presentation is impressive. They seem weakest in their arguments that money doesn't overshadow competition in sports (in the face of sports page headlines to the contrary), and in defending the emphasis that is placed on winning (while rejecting the win-at-any-price syndrome, they nonetheless appear to underestimate the impact the glorification of victory must have upon younger imitators).

And while they reject the "God is in my corner" school of thought in athletics and suggest that the prayer-maker ask only that he perform to his fullest potential, there are times when they seem to suggest that the Deity might, indeed, align himself with one man —and against another — in the boxing ring, or with one team —and against another —on the football field.

Still, if the picture Glass and Pinson present of sports ethics doesn't quite jibe with reality, they make the point that athletics and athletes generally are no worse and no better than the society in which they function. They set some goals and standards to which athletes, and all of us, could well aspire. And they remind us that old-fashioned, socially-concerned Christianity has not disappeared from the scene —and that there are men still willing to stand up and speak out for those beliefs.

Book Pages

TWO YOUNG Mill Valley men, Len Richmond and Gary Hoguera, are the co-editors of "The Gay Liberation Book," published by Ramparts Press, $3.95 softcover, $7.95 hardbound, and available in most Marin bookstores.

Contributors include the likes of Allen Ginsberg, William Burroughs, Gore Vidal, Alan Watts, Paul Goodman, Don Jackson and editor Richmond, with subjects ranging from "Sexism in the New Army" and "Games Male Chauvinists Play" to "Testament of a Gay Militant' and reports on the Gay Movement in Italy, France and elsewhere.

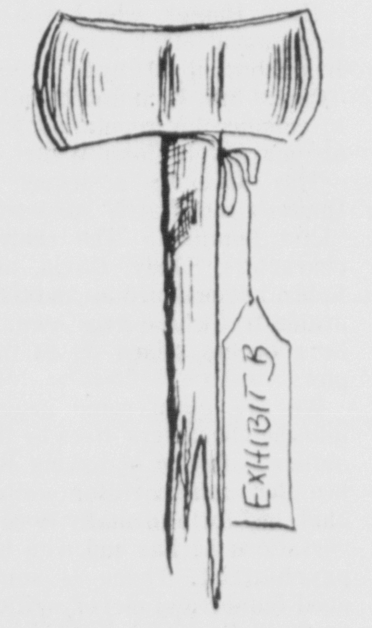
The editors in their introduction term their book "a celebration — a tribute to all gay brothers who have discovered that they are beautiful." And declare: "We have a commitment not just to homosexual liberation but to total human liberation."

"THE HOME Health Handbook" seems to be a blend of Hippie ingenuity, New England commonsense and experience, and professional expertise, offering guidelines for self-help for emergencies ranging from poisoning and burns to childbirth, and offering directions for rural sanitation, pediatric care and a host of other subjects.

The Stephen Greene Press of Brattleboro, Vt., is the publisher of the new third edition of this interesting, illustrated $3.95 softcover, $7.95 hardcover manual. Dr. Stuart Copans and David Osgood of the Yale Medical School are the editors. And the contributors range from "registered herbalist" Elizabeth Baer to microbiology professor Charles Phillips of the University of Vermont, College of Medicine, from commune members Arie and Owen Lindsay to pediatrician Dr. John Starr. Dr. M.J. Halberstam, reviewing an earlier edition for the New England Journal of Medicine, praised it as "a good piece of work" embodying "the American virtue of do-it-yourself . . ."

Sleuths & Suspense

AN UNSUITABLE JOB FOR A WOMAN by P.D. James; Scribner's, 216 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.



Quite simply, this is the best crime novel we have read in a good long time.

The death of her male partner leaves Cordelia Gray the sole proprietress of a faltering London detective agency. And her first solo case is a difficult and delicate one — a famous scientist wants her to determine why his son committed suicide (if, indeed, he did so).

The scene of her investigations is Cambridge, where Cordelia deports herself credibly and creditably. The university community is involved. So are the tangled strands of the dead youth's family ties.

P.D. James, Cambridge-educated, a senior civil servant now working with police, writes with fine British style, plots beautifully, and uses the Cambridge setting most effectively. Although both author and heroine are women, there is nothing exclusively feminine about the story. Recommended, without reservation.

THE DEBUT OF A YOUNG AND GIFTED WRITER

JUDAH THE PIOUS by Francine Prose; Atheneum, 279 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Jacob Gaines.

There is about this brand-new book, the first novel by a 24-year young woman, a feeling of antiquity, a biblical, poetic wisdom that is ancient and precious. In the tradition of Sufi and Chasidic tales and the Talmud, Francine Prose tells a story within a story that is more an enfolding than a telling.

The outer petal of her lotus-like "Judah the ious" is set in the Polish court once upon a time — perhaps a century ago.

Two Polish aristocrats, who in the tradition of people over the ages have insisted that rituals different from their own are evil, have witnessed the throwing of a handful of dirt upon the grave during a Jewish burial ceremony. They conclude that the Jews are "teasing their dead with a last sweet taste of soil that would tantalize their ghosts into coming back from the other world and stalking innocent people."

In the ensuing reaction to this "barbarism," there is no one willing to plead the case of the Jews since their lawyers had become strangers to their faith, the rabbis and scholars were unaccustomed to convincing unsympathetic listeners, and the prominent citizens were unwilling to risk their high positions. So when an unknown 89-year-old tuteler, Rabbi Eliezer of Rimanov, volunteered to represent his people before the ruler of Poland, the Jews, in desperation, allowed him to do so.

The young king is astounded by the old man's knowledge of intimate court matters and expresses his suspicion that the rabbi had spent several weeks researching court affairs.

"Nonsense," the rabbi replied. "My secret is an empty head, purposely kept blank, so that the slightest tremor of the eyelid which passes before it can inscribe a story there, more accurate and complicated than anything I could have read."

Finally alone with the king, the old man explained the dirt-throwing custom by saying that his people believed that the spirit of a dead man accompanied his body to the cemetery where it lingered like "an uncomfortable party guest, seeking the proper moment to make an exit and a seemly manner of saying goodbye"; and that it was not until the soul of the departed saw his loved one turn his back and cast dirt on his grave that he felt assured that life would go on without him and he could begin to take his rest.

The young king scoffed at the rabbi's reference to spirits and such which he had never seen. Sensing the unhappiness of the lonely king who had been unable to discuss his feelings of estrangement from the warm protective arms of the mother church, the old man asked that his people be permitted to retain their custom if he was able to convince the king of the fallacy of a system which did not allow for the unseen and improbable. The king agreed.

The tale the old spellbinding rabbi tells is like the clear crystal water of a stream coursing its way over polished gem-like stones. The words here do not describe the action but are the action; there is no searation between the flowing liquidity of the story and the story. There is only the action — pure and perfect.

This reviewer has long ago overcome his sweet-tooth addiction for the occasional excellence of the late-late shows by having given away his television set. He was helpless, however, before the sweet charm of Francine Prose' poetic prose. Carried along by her magic, he was licking his eyes until 4 a.m. savoring the rare delicacy of her verbal honey.

Francine Prose is indeed deserving of her publisher's accolades that "this is an extraordinary work by a young and gifted writer."

The Virtue Of Man's Compassion

PEG LEG PETE by Mel Ellis; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 169 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Jean Rauzy.

"Peg Leg Pete" is not the typical animal personality story.

The duck in the title role comes into the Mel Ellis family when he is injured in a muskrat trap and brought in to the house by Dianne, one of the Ellis daughters. Mel splints the injured leg. When Pete is finally released to make it on his own, his progress in the duck world is followed by the family for the next six or seven years. During this time a picture emerges of all the Ellises and their changing attitudes toward the animals they love and toward each other, particularly what wife Gwen calls Mel's "getting softer every year."

MEL ELLIS
"Softer every year"

The result is not so much a story as a "thought" piece, with the incidents in the Wisconsin woods home used to illustrate the contrasts between the human and the animal handling of life situations.

Gwen says, in one of their discussions about this subject, "To me the capacity for concern most distinguishes man from animals, the virtue of compassion." All of the Ellises are full of compassion and the love of what they see about them and papa Ellis is a good reporter of the scene.

The Circles Of Human Existence

IN THE LAND OF MORNING by Harry Mark Petrakis; McKay, 290 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Francis M. Dozier Jr.

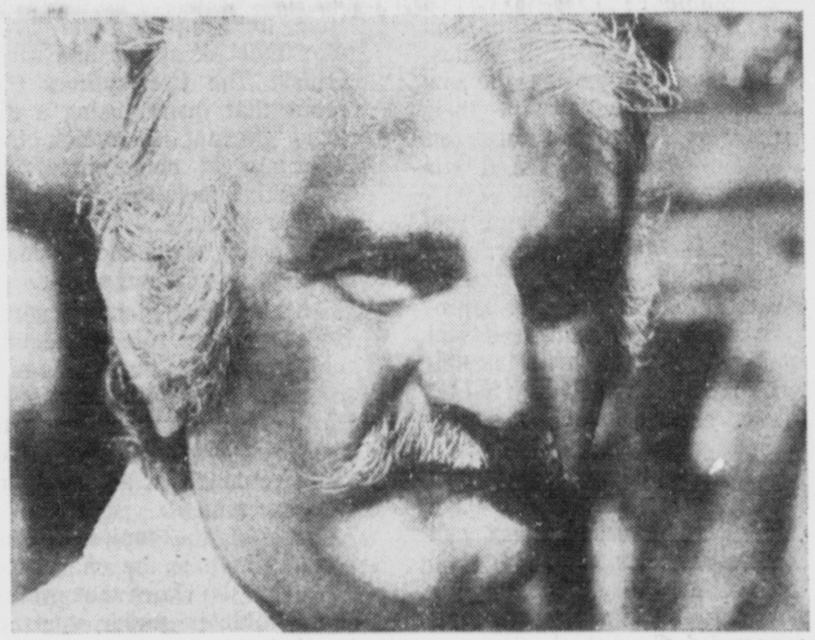
This is a somber tale of circles — concentric circles of human existence which border, control and influence lives.

Ethnocentricity emerges as the widest one.

A Greek colony lies in the bowels of urban Chicago, all but escaping involvement with the larger community. It is a closed whirlpool of homogenous interaction that touches and affects all its members. The smallest spheres are, of course, those of families and their intermingling.

A young man returns from Vietnam, embraces one kind of love, yet is disturbed by another. Although sick to the marrow of death and killing, he is inevitably reinvolved with them. This is the plot at its basic level.

"In the Land of Morning" is curiously remindful of a 1950s television drama in its claustrophobic compression of action and mood of character entrapment. But, like many of those shows, despite its high quality, a sense of ennui is nonetheless also transmitted. Somehow, the story does not quite fill the pages.



HARRY MARK PETRAKIS in his newest novel, "In the Land of Morning," writes of the trials of a young man newly returned from the fighting in Vietnam.

After Last Summer, Comes The Winter

COME WINTER by Evan Hunter; Doubleday, 229 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by James Meldrum.

Evan Hunter, who has written, among other works, "The Blackboard Jungle" and "Fuzz," has, I am afraid, failed to enhance his reputation with his new novel "Come Winter."

This novel is a sequel to Hunter's moderately successful "Last Summer." The central characters, Sandy, David, and Peter, are retained as an inseparable trio whose lives seem to be about as mixed up as this plot.

We are given some insight into the characters' lives by the authorial device of having Peter, the main narrator, switch back and forth mentally to conversations he has had with his psychiatrist. There is some good humor and clever writing in these flashbacks, but more significant is the fact that this shrink, Dr. Krakauer, needs to be shrunk himself. Also, if Krakauer were doing his job, Peter would not be roaming around the mountains with two other unstables and telling us about their bizarre deeds.

Ski buffs might enjoy clipping along the mountain trails with these terrible three, for there are indeed some exhilarating descriptions of death-defying plunges into valleys and some hair-raising cliff-edge adventures.

Had the plot been better developed. "Come Winter" might well have succeeded. I have the sneaking suspicion, however, that Hunter was looking ahead and eyeing a contract for the far more lucrative motion picture rights. Perhaps it would have been better for all concerned had he just written the screenplay and forgotten about the book until later.

U Thant's Memoirs

U Thant, the former secretary general of the United Nations, has promised candid memoirs that will "tell everything, short of causing World War III." Holt, Rinehart and Winston hopes to publish the book in 1974.

A GRAIN OF SAND

Lowly, inanimate, almost invisible in
 Its solitary state —
 A grain of sand.
An entity, twisted and turned and laid
 To rest by capricious winds.
Rough, hard, cruel cousin of gentle dust;
 Akin to the speck —
 The spot, little things.
Transitory, emotionless!
Infinitely more durable than man.

CONSIDERING A plant as an appropriate Easter season gift for a loved one? Any one of the three 1973 All-American Roses selections, in a container and ready to plant, would make a most welcome present. Left to right, they are the Electron, with large, full blooms in a bright rose-pink; the Gypsy, with intense orange-red blooms; and the Medallion with unusually large apricot-pink blooms in great profusion.

For That Easter Gift, Why Not A Flowering Or Foliage Plant?

Easter shopping is simplified this year.

The "return to nature" trend, and use of natural materials, manifests itself in the increased popularity of living, green plants. What Easter Bunny wouldn't hop for joy, to be remembered with a gift plant on April 22.

PARLOR PALMS and ferns are in great demand. An elegant Easter gift would be an arching, airy Boston Fern — presented in an ornate fern stand, to serve as an indoor accessory to compliment the furnishings. On a smaller scale, a handsomely textured Emerald Ripple Peperomia in an earthenware pot is a delightful remembrance.

Nurseries have a wide range of indoor foliage selections; shopping will also turn-up plants suitable for use in hanging baskets — for indoor use or for display on the porch or patio. A cascading Grape Ivy in an extraordinary container will add a distinctive dimension to indoor-outdoor surroundings.

GROWING YOUR own citrus certainly is in keeping with contemporary interests; and if space is limited, use Dwarf Citrus. Nurseries have the best varieties for local conditions. Don't hesitate to grow them in containers, where their year-round beauty can be enjoyed close-up. You'll also find blooming Camellias and Azaleas in nurseries; these seasonal favorites can be featured in tubs, as well, the California Association of Nurserymen points out.

Container-grown roses are excellent Easter choices. Many will be in bloom and, if the family has been talking about getting the 1973 All-American Roses, Easter is a fine time to take action.

History Of The Dahlia

One of the delightful aspects of Spain's conquest of Mexico was the appearance of some roots in the botanic gardens in Madrid in 1789.

The plants that sprung forth were hardly spectacular, but they interested the Swedish professor, Andreas Dahl, an ardent follower of the great botanist Linnaeus; Dahl devoted so much time to this Mexican native it was named in his honor. Hence Dahlias.

Actually, it was many years and several thousand plants later that the ancestors of the present garden Dahlias appeared, and the vast array of different flower forms were developed.

Ideal growing conditions for Dahlias include a soil that is loose and well-drained; plenty of organic matter in the soil so that enough moisture is retained to keep the plants growing well; and plenty of moisture and ample plant food during the growing season — so that growth does not slow down at any time once the shoots start coming-up.

Nurseries have Dahlia tubers available for planting now.

How Much Water?

Water requirements of houseplants vary. During active growth they need more. In fall and inter they are often dormant and the soil should be kept drier. Water house plants until the entir soil base is wet, then let top of soil dry before watering again.

Growing Salad Makings

There are two big reasons for the sudden surge of interest in vegetable gardening.

First, there is the new awareness of ecology. Growing fresh produce in your own backyard seems very much in keeping with that movement, as well as affording you some healthful exercise.

Second, high prices, including foodstuffs, have caused many households to become increasingly concerned with their food budgets. Homegrown vegetables are as economical as they are wholesome.

A GREAT MANY Californians are planting home vegetable gardens this month. And, in a state where the emphasis is on outdoor living during the summer, a special salad plot is a sensible addition to the garden.

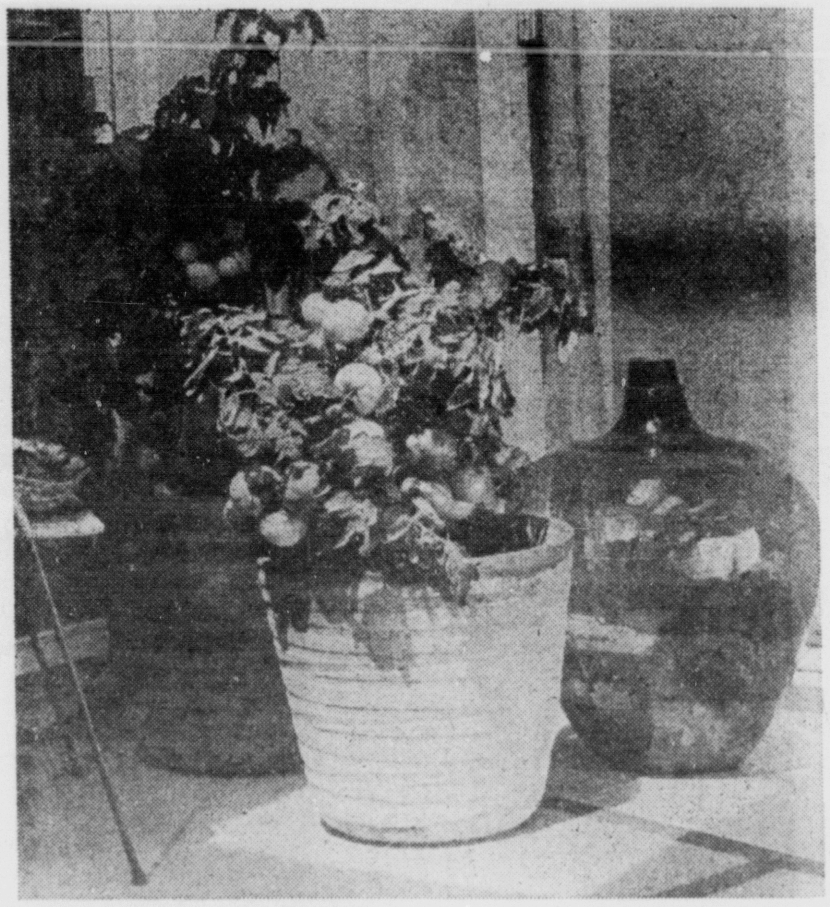
Salad vegetables include tomatoes, radishes, cucumbers, green onions, endive, parsley, and lettuce. Head lettuce will do well, planted now, in cooler areas of the state. Inland, in warmer spots, leaf lettuce — in tempting variety — is a better choice now. If in doubt, check with your nurseryman.

It isn't necessry to have unlimited garden space to grow goodies for the salad bowl. Apartment dwellers can grow certain items in pots or window boxes on a sunny balcony.

CHERRY TOMATOES, or such salad treats as Pixie or Patio tomatoes — which are small oval morsels of flavor — can be grownin pots, or containers, in limited space. A fun gardening experience is to grow tomatoes in a tub. They can be trained on a trellis to support the growth and heavy yield of tomatoes, advises the California Assn. of Nurserymen.

If your garden lacks space for a salad plot, a little ingenuity solves the problem: Certain cucumbers can be trained to grow on a support in a easy-to-handle size container; parsley is a pretty plant for edgings in the garden, and leaf lettuce can be planted again and again, and featured as crispy green or red accent in garden borders.

Gourmet salad-makers may add their own special ingredients, including perhaps, zucchini squash and peppers.



THE PATIO TOMATO grown in a pot in a sunny place requires almost no space at all.

NOW IS THE time to plant warm season vegetables, and your nurseryman is a good source of informatin on how to achieve the maximum enjoyment — and yields from home-harvested fixings for salads.

While you are at it, include a couple of herbs in your planting. They will add zest to your salads, as well as other dishes.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

✓Fill out your garden color scheme with free-flowering geraniums. Shop now for them and get the colors you want.

✓On established roses, a monthly feeding will increase the quantity and quality of bloom. Special, ready-to-use Rose Food is available at nurseries.

✓Keep after snails and slugs with pellets, bait or liquid controls.

✓Try one or several dwarf citrus as tubbed or patio plants. These smaller-sized editions bear heavily in containers and are ornamental all year.

✓Prune your spring-blooming shrubs by cutting sprays of blossoms to brighten and freshen your indoor decor.

About CARPETS

By Doug Emerson

CARPET INFLATION? Surprisingly enough, it just hasn't happened. While everything else (or so it seems) costs a lot more than it did a decade ago, the fact is that today's fine carpet manufacturers offer you a better carpet, longer wearing, in a wider range of colors and textures. than a decade ago.

In the immediate period after World War II, a full generation ago, quality carpets ranged in price from $10 to $15 per square yard. Some cottons cost less, and some of the finest wools cost more at that time.

The price story is similar for the fifties and sixties . . . and today you can still buy a quality carpet in that price range. You can find a wider selection than ever for less than you paid ten years ago, And, of course, you can still pay a premium price for the lushest, thickest, finest quality broadlooms.

There is a much bigger choice of fibers today, also available in a wide range of prices. Perhaps one big difference, from a budget point of view, is that there are more good carpets today in the low range than were ever offered before.

Whatever your budget, whatever your decor, you'll find the right quality carpet in our selection, each bearing a trusted name in carpet manufacture. Come in and talk it over with our carpet specialists.

A POOL TABLE THAT COSTS YOU LITTLE

NO NEED to tell you that the game of pool enjoyed a renaissance a few years back, and at the same time began to move out of the dingy pool halls of low repute into swanky recreation parlors and into homes where all members of the family could enjoy the sport. Most of those converts have remained faithful to the game. But still, one obstacle to yet more pool-playing in the home remains the relatively high cost of a good pool table. A ping pong table, for instance, comes a good deal cheaper. Steve Ellingson suggests that you can beat the high cost of pool tables by building your own — and a good one. Send $2 to Steve Ellingson, Independent-Journal pattern department, Post Office Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif., 91409, and ask for Pool Table Pattern 417. A materials list is included, and directions and pictures guide you clearly through every step of the construction. As you no doubt know, the heavier the table, the better the play. This holds true especially for cushion and rails. A lightweight table gives slightly under impact and cuts down on the vital rebound of the balls. But the table shown here has extra heavy rails to support solidly the rubber cushions for maximum efficiency. And the ball return system is similar to that found on tables costing a thousand dollars or more. A center tunnel permits a shallow apron design and avoids the bulky look found on tables with a side tunnel layout. Some other Ellingson patterns to help bring fun into your home: No. 319, ping pong table, $1; No. 155, shuffleboard court, 50 cents.

Don't Let Your Bedroom Nap In Daytime

Handyman's Pages

When you rise and shine each morning, do the bedrooms in your house go to sleep for the rest of the day?

Bedrooms form a quiet zone of their own, which may be overlooked until too many projects threaten to crowd the family out of customary activity reas.

Take the "do-not-disturb" sign off the door and wake up idle space for quiet pasttimes such as reading, sewing and letter writing, thereby easing the squeeze in the kitchen and family room.

AN ASSORTMENT of furniture may be wasting cubits that built-ins could use twice as profitably. Just 24 inches of space is deep enough to line a wall with drawer and counter space below, shelves for books and treasures on top.

Or a window may be attractively framed by floor-to-ceiling shelves and a low chest with a colorful padded seat beheath the sill, forming a cozy reading nook.

Stop arranging furniture for symmetry, if it means forfeiting useful space. Push parallel twin beds out along adjoining walls to open a play area in a child's room, or a conversation corner for a teen-ager.

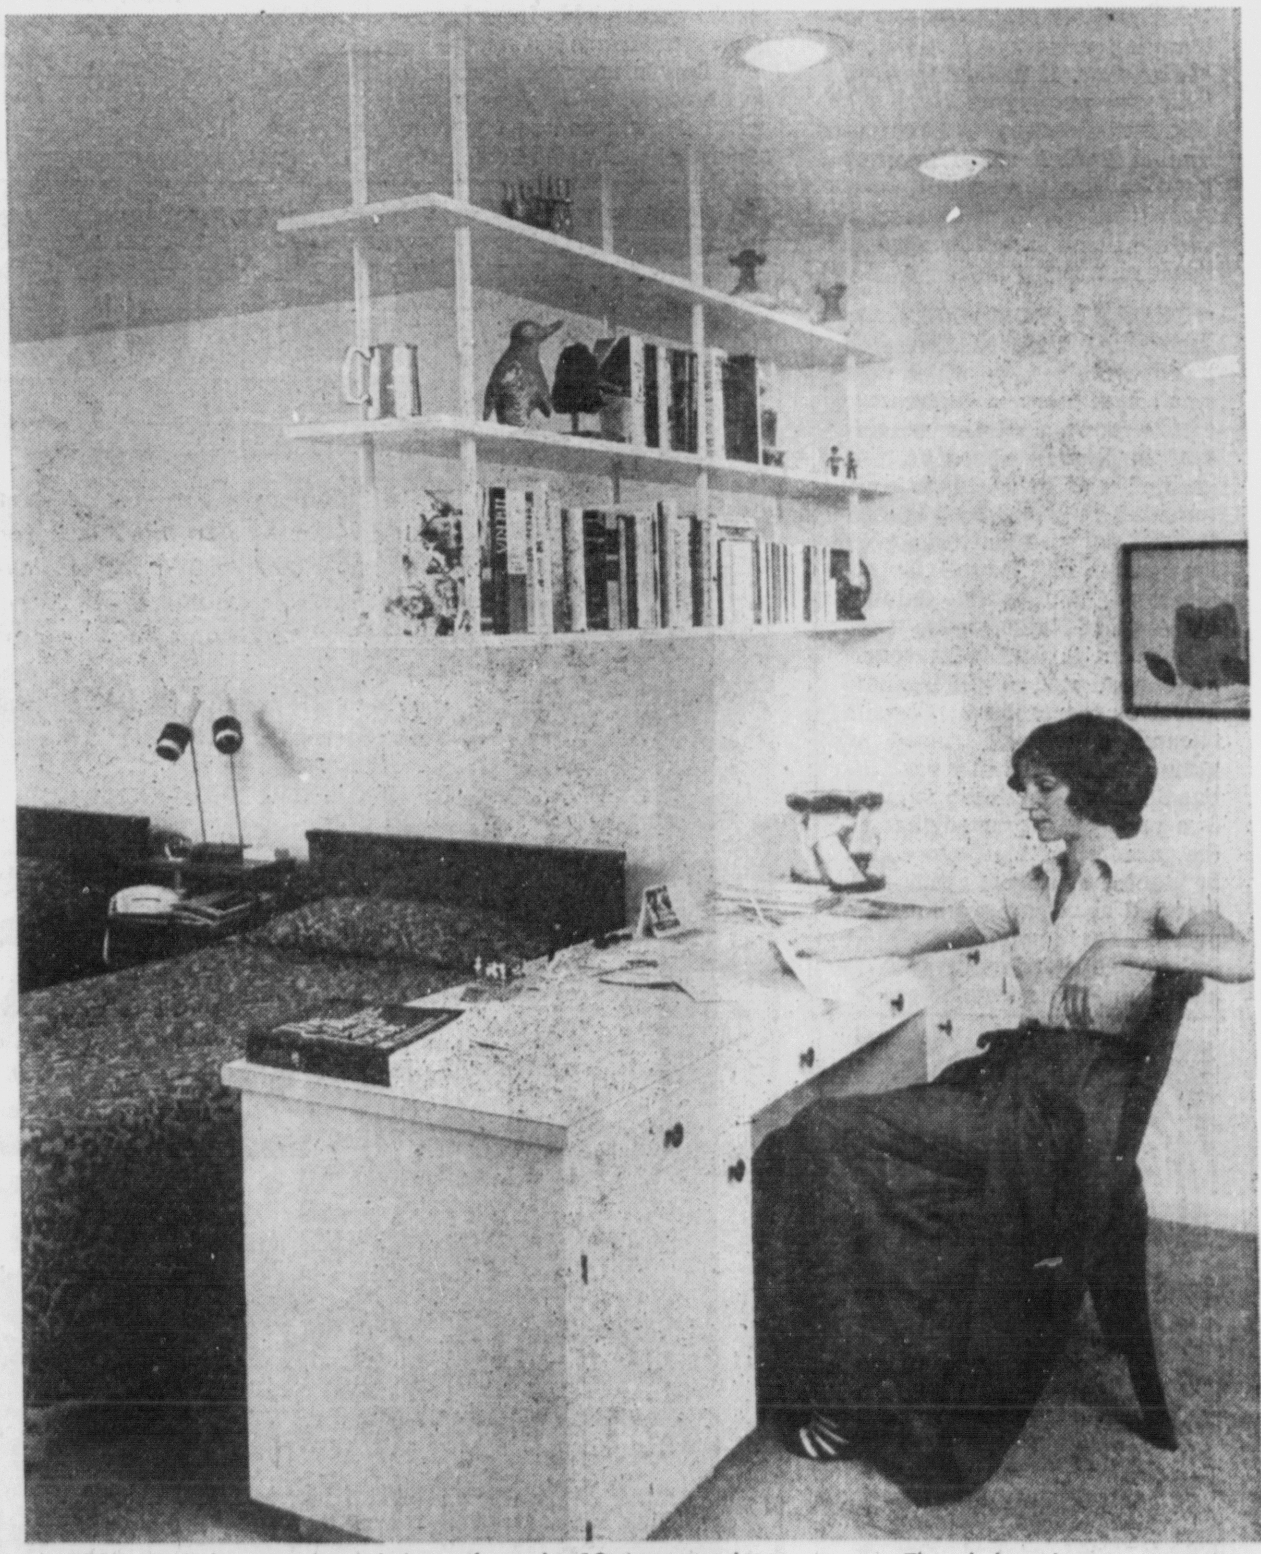
A LONG NARROW bedroom behaves like a suite when beds are arranged at one end and the other end functions as a small personal office-sitting area.

One design approach marks the ivision of room duties with a desk built to parallel beds, matching their length. The extra wide drawers and cabinets store stacks of hobby supplies.

Hanging bookshelves of one-by-12-inch western pine are an ingenious accompaniment to the desk, suspended from the ceiling by one-inch metal pipe or wood dowels bolted directly to overhead rafters.

DESPITE THEIR see-through lightness, they hold a sizeable library.

Restful, uncrowded decor enhances the sleeping chamber, so remember this trick: built-ins and furniture painted to match walls recede into them — and the room retains a comfortable, open feeling.



A DESK AND hanging bookshelves of one-by-12-inch western pine divide the space in a long narrow bedroom, separating sleeping area from a correspondence corner. The shelves hang securely on one-inch pipe or wooden dowels bolted directly to overhead joists.

On Working With Pre-Mixed Cement

It Is Not Quite Ready To Use From The Bag

By ANDY LANG

Premixed cement is just that. The ingredients have been factory-measured, mixed and bagged.

Only the addition of water is required to make a workable product for instant use in patching concrete and repairing brickwork.

But it is a mistake to use the mix exactly as it comes from the bag if you want optimal results. That's because the ingredients have been separated a bit during transportation and storage.

THUS, IF YOU scoop out only the portion which you intend to use — as, for instance, in the case of a concrete mix — it will not have the same proportion of ingredients as when originally bagged. The heavier pieces of gravel may have sunk to the bottom of the sack, so that the first part that is used will not have enough gravel, whereas that used last will have too much of it.

To be sure that you get the mixture intended, dump out the entire bag — whether it be a 10-pounder or a 90-pounder — on a piece of plywood or something similar. Mix it thoroughly, then take as much as you think you will need.

Only when you are ready to begin immediately to make a patch should the water.

ADD THE WATER slowly until you get a workable mixture, one that is neither too dry nor too wet. If it's too dry, you won't be able to spread it easily. If it's too wet, it will develop puddles as you spread it. A mixture with too much water in it will not be as strong as one with the proper amount.

Return the unused portion of the original contents (that to which no water has been added) to the bag in which it came. It will have an indefinite life if no moisture gets into the bag, so be sure to seal the bag tightly.

There are quite a few different kinds of mixtures available, but those most commonly used are sand, gravel and mortar mixes.

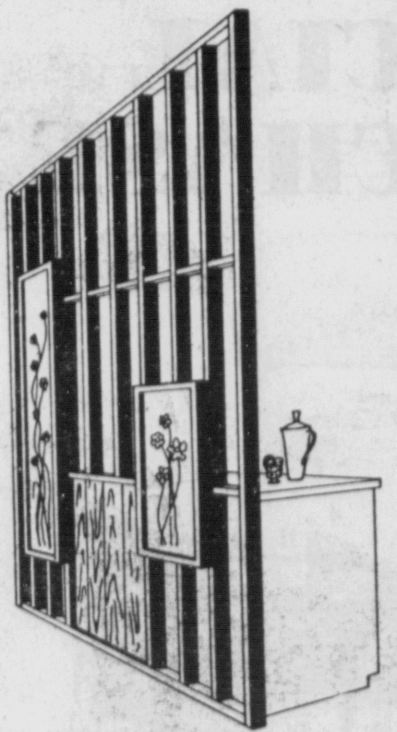
THE SAND MIXTURE is used to make patches in a sidewalk or walls where the thickness is only an inch or so. Where extra strength is required on thicker surfaces, use a gravel or concrete mix. To patch the joints between bricks, concrete blocks and the like, use a mortar mix.

The sand mix is made of cement and sand; the gravel mix of cement, sand and gravel; the mortar mix of sand, cement and lime.

Among other types of patching compounds are those to which a liquid latex rather than water is added and those which use water but have vinyl in them. These are especially good when only a thin patching layer must be added to existing concrete.

BECAUSE THEY differ somewhat from the regular premixes and from each other, these compounds should not be used until the directions on the container are read carefully and followed just as carefully.

VEILED VIEW



A DIVIDER of two-by-four-inch western fir or spruce divides the busy kitchen from the family room, yet doesn't isolate the cook. But it also provides an opportunity for cabinets and a work or serving counter, on one or both sides. Here the cabinets are on the kitchen side. The same idea can be used effectively to separate the entry (and provide guest coat storage at the door) from the living room, or a home entertainment corner from the rest of the living room.

Homeowner's
Notebook

TERMITES INVADING MARIN HOMES NOW.

Every homeowner in Marin County should be on the alert this month for a cloud of winged ant-like insects anywhere around his home. Don't assume that they are ants. It may be a swarm of termites!

In the early spring and fall, all three types of termites found in Marin send out swarms of flying "kings" and "queens" to start new nests. Swarming is heavy and noticeable on a sunny day following rain, but continues to some degree from late February through late October.

Termite colonies send out swarms only after they've been established for three years or more. The flying reproductives can go only a short distance, seldom more than 100 feet unless helped by winds. So if you see a cloud of swarmers or their discarded wings, there's a termite nest nearby.

The swarmers can act as an early-warning system for you. The nest is still fairly small when the first swarms are sent out. If you detect an early swarm, therefore, you've avoided the worst damage. Later, the nests grow to 250,000 termites or more.

The three types of termites in Marin have somewhat different habits for nesting and swarming. But all three types have infested homes in every part of Marin. And contrary to popular belief, they can infest both new and old homes. So every Marin homeowner should be alert this month.

If you see a swarm or discarded wings, call Hinkley & Gordon for a complete Structural Pest Control Inspection. The cost of a Hinkley & Gordon inspection, the most thorough in Marin County, costs just $50 for the average home.

This inspection isn't just a gimmick to sell you a "termite job." It's the best way to avoid one.

7 Reasoner Report (C)

JUDY GARLAND as Dorothy, Bert Lahr as the cowardly lion, Jack Haley as the tin woodman and Ray Bolger as the brainless scarecrow will embark once again on their long journey to the magical land of Oz, as MGM's film classic, "The Wizard of Oz," is shown once again in color Sunday at 6:30 p.m. on Channels 3 and 4. It is one of Hollywood's most enduring productions.

NO LATE, LATE SHOWS

There are no late or late-late shows to entertain sleepless Danes on Copenhagen television.

The one-channel, non-commercial station closes down on most nights between 10:30 and 11 p.m.

The radio, state-run like the television, is allowed to keep one channel open until 2:30 a.m. Listeners searching for more music can turn to the all-night Swedish programs.

THE DWINDLING BREED of man who lives in the saddle or with any of the other legendary traditions of the Old Wsst is the subject of a National Geographic Society special study, "The Haunted West," to be telecast Thursday at 8 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10. It's a look at a land of arid sagebrush and sometimes empty towns that still echo with the memories of a rowdy frontier life — the area between Utah and the California desert.

TELEVISION NOTES

By JACK GAVER

Universal Television is in the process of filming for NBC broadcast next season a four-hour version of that notable 1818 horror tale, "Dr Frankenstein," by Mary Shelley. I imagine that a lot of people think the late Boris Karloff wrote it, as well as playing the role of the Creature. This is promised to be a faithful interpretation of the original novel. Some of the players: James Mason, David McCallum, Agnes Moorehead, Michael Sarrazin and Nicola Pagett. NBC will present it either in two two-hour segments or in four one-hour portions.

Maury Wills, noted for his base-stealing when a major league ballplayer, will be a commentator for NBC's coverage of 1973 games.

The first annual Emmy News and Documentary Award ceremonies of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences will be aired on CBS in a 90-minute program May 22.

Bert Convy and Jo Ann Pflug, both familiar to television viewers through appearances on many programs, star in a half-hour situation comedy "Shakespeare Loves Rembrandt," that NBC hopes will find a place in its 1973-74 schedule. They play a man and wife who create greeting cards.

NBC has signed actress Marilyn Hassett to an exclusive long-term contract. No indication as to what use will be made of her. She has done numerous commercials, had a role in the movie, "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?," and has appeared in two segments of NBC's "Emergency!" series.

DINAH SHORE is best known in the sports world as a tennis enthusiast. But she shows here that she can also swing a wicked golf club. And next weekend she will be the hostess for her second annual Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle Championship, with the top women golfers of the world. At $154,000, it offers the biggest purse of prize money of any event in women's pro golfing history. Channels 7 and 11 will carry the event next Saturday at 1 p.m. and again the following day at 1:30 p.m., for a total of 150 minutes of the action.

'Today' Show Wins Award

NBC's "Today" program has been awarded the National Kidney Foundation's 1972 Public Service Award for "bringing into public focus the plight of kidney patients." The network program twice in 1972 highlighted artificial kidney treatment and the need for donated kidneys for transplantation.

On The Stereo Scene

From The Jazz Greats And Cat Stevens To The Music Of Scrîabin And Ives

By JOHN SUNIER

This cassette of seven high-energy jazz standards such as "Love for Sale," and "Caravan," boasts Dizzy Gillespie, Bobby Hackett and Mary Lou Williams. It seems to have been taped some years back, but the sound is fine stereo, though un-Dolby-ized.

ANOTHER double-play cassette is devoted to the early recorded works of Cat Stevens, the British singer-composer who has received so much praise for his series of fine LPs on A & M recently. It combines two albums, "Matthew and Son," and "New Masters" (Deram-Ampex J77600). The backing is not as lavish in these tracks as on later ones, and the lyrics are brought to the fore.

Some critics feel Stevens to be a modern version of the ancient troubadour, or say that if he lived in Schubert's time he would have written glorious lieder. He does have a way with words and music that is unique though occasionally I cringe at somewhat brainless lyrics ("I Love My Dog and My Dog Loves Me.")

OUR FINAL cassette for this week grows out of the programming of a KSAN disc jockey and record producer who goes by the name of Voco.

"Lights Out: San Francisco" (Blue Thumb-Ampex L56004) is a strange but very listenable collection of tunes ranging from rock and jazz through belly-dancing music and ending with a country song. None of the performers are identified but all are excellent. This is a double-play cassette too, and should provide some groovy listening experiences to all those with catholic tastes in music.

THE REST OF the tapes we'll consider are reel-to-reel type, and the first four are also Dolby-ized.

The first I won't say much about musically, since I reviewed the non-Dolby version only a couple of months ago. It is Smetana's "Ma Vlast" (My Fatherland) with Rafael Kubelik conducting The Boston Symphony Orchestra on Deutsche Grammophon-Ampex K47054.

The Dolby version of this double-play album provides in comparison with the non-Dolby version much more high end, greater clarity, and freedom from hiss. And this is without using the Dolby circuit for playback, which would improve the sound even more. All I needed to do was slightly turn down the treble tone vntrol.

Alexander Scriabin's "Prometheus, Poem of Fire" is an exotic psychedelic piece of orchestral music which was played by the San Francisco Symphony last year complete with its original light show. It now has a smashing recording on London-Ampex Tape L480251, coupled with the Russian composer's "Piano Concerto in F Sharp Minor" in its first stereo recording. (Lorin Maazel conducting The London Philharmonic with pianist Vladimir Ashkenazy).

Since I had simultaneously received the LP version from London, I had another fascinating A-B comparison opportunity here, the upshot of which is I couldn't tell any difference between the tape and the disc; both will make your hair stand on end when heard on proper equipment at a good ear-shattering volume.

Charles Ives singular "Piano Sonata No. 2" has so much going on at one time in it that a single pianist really can't bring it off. Therefore other instruments are often used to add support.

IN A NEW Dolby-ized DGG-Ampex stereotape (L43215), pianist Roberto Szidon is joined by violaist Walter Stangl in the first movement and flutist Dieter Sonntag in the fourth movement. The Piano Sonata is subtitled "Concord, Mass., 1840-1860" and is inspired by the transcendental movement taking place there at that time. Four personalities of this movement are reflected in the movements, titled "Emerson," "Hawthorne," "The Alcotts," and "Thoreau," with its added flute conjuring up a vision of the calmness of Walden Pond.

Pianist Szidon, who has received acclaim for his complete Scriabin Piano Sonatas on DGG discs, makes this complex music clearer to the listener than I have ever heard, and DGG's superb sound aids in the success of this tape.

SOME TIME AGO I reviewed in this column some of the Mahler Symphonies conducted by Georg Solti with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra on tape. Now some of these are being issued in Dolby sound, and my personal favorite among Mahler's Symphonies — The Seventh — is an example of the amazing improvement in sonic impact due to the signal-stretching process. The non-Dolby predecessors sound extremely dull in comparison. The two "Nachtmusik" sections of the Seventh Symphony are ideal material to demonstrate the freedom from hiss and noise — delicate bowed strings and mandolin sounds come over with amazing clarity and separation. With the length of Mahler's symphonic creations, this is of course a Double-Play tape, and keeping in mind the cost of two London discs — imported and therefore more expensive — the stereotape comes out at about the same price.

Even on the simplest stereo tape deck, it would probably sound better than the disc.
